Men Are Firm For a Strike

Toronto May be Without Proper Police Protection Friday Morning.

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, Dec. 4.—The outlook is for a strike of the Toronto Police Force. To-day's indications are that the city will be without proper police protection on Friday morning unless the Police Commissioners and the union get together on the question of recognition of the Policemen's Union.

Here is what Chief Constable Grassett says: "The Board will not allow the union to affiliate with any outside body." This statement was in reply to a question as to the objection of the Commissioners to the union. The men state that the Commissioners have made the first step to prepare for the strike, and a member of the men's executive committee informs The Examiner that the military policemen have been asked if they have had any previous police experience, and if so to report to Police Headquarters to get ready to go on duty in the event of a strike. High police officials deny that any attempt has been made to secure military policemen to fill the gap if a strike is called.

FRANK JENNE SAYS—

"If I only knew what he'd like for Christmas!" How often the girls say this, referring to one or another of their men relatives or friends. Now, girls, don't you like "things" to wear? Well, so does he. You can't choose incorrectly if you select some real nice hose, a few beautiful ties, a silver-mounted umbrella, or—but come into my shop, and let me show you some lovely gifts for "him."

PROTECTION.

Many a person whose eyes are attended to in time, do not have to wear glasses for more than a year or two and then can do without them later in life. If the eyes are neglected it means glasses always. Protect your eyes now. See Dr. Lacey, Optometrist, 410 George street. Open Wednesday and Saturday evenings.

An Attempt to Stampede Allies

THE POTATO CROP

(By Raymond Clapper, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D.C., Dec. 4. — Germany's attempt to create a "sham famine," and stir leniency in Allied countries is exposed in semi-official diplomatic advices here to-day revealing adequate, though limited food in Germany.

Cereals are plentiful enough to permit increasing of the daily bread ration to 500 grammes, which is more than the average consumption, these advices state. Sugar on hand exceeds the needs of peace time by 400,000 tons.

Potatoes, the basis of the German diet, were plentiful October 1, and officials were considering raising the weekly ration to nine pounds. Some towns have enough to last them until next spring.

Ridiculed Attempt.

Diplomats and food administration officials ridiculed Germany's attempt to stampede the Allies into sending abundant supplies of food into Germany. It is viewed as a clumsy German attempt to win sympathy as President Wilson leaves for France to help frame the Allies' terms for peace.

Germany got through 1917 on a crop below normal, and reports show the 1918 crop was far above the previous one. The Germans themselves boasted ability to feed themselves another year. German officials and the press generally described the food situation as satisfactory.

British Pictures Hard to Obtain

One Reason Why American Motion Pictures Flooded the Canadian Market.

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, Dec. 4.—While agreeing with the Provincial Treasurer, Hon. T. W. McGarry, that more pictures glorifying the Canadian and British armies in contrast to the American armies might be shown, managers of film exchanges and owners of moving picture theatres explain that British war pictures are difficult to obtain, while American pictures can be had easily.

It is stated that the censors in England have been extremely strict about the films which have been allowed out of the country, and it is only now that the war is over that real war pictures may be expected to be allowed to come through.

Peterboro Boy's Willing Sacrifice

Mrs. J. Newman, Selwyn, P. O., has received the following letter from the chaplain of the battalion to which her son Pte. William John Newman was attached when killed a short time before the war closed:

B.E.F., France,

My Dear Madame:—

The Colonel of the 21st Canadian Battalion has asked me to express to you on behalf of the officers and men our deep regret in the death of your gallant son who gave his life in the action of the 11th of this month. He was one of those willing sacrifices which made possible the subsequent German retreat.

He was buried with all our comrades in the Canadian cemetery with a Christian burial.

His personal effects will in due time be forwarded by the proper authorities.

Your grief in his loss, we, his comrades share and I hope the vision of a better and happier world which is growing clearer may help you and comfort you.

Yours Ever Faithfully,
R. J. RAMSON, Captain,
Chaplain, 21st. Batt.

Publishers Are Meeting in Toronto

Canadian Press:

TORONTO, Dec. 4.—Proprietors and managers of daily papers in the smaller cities of Ontario are to-day meeting at the King Edward Hotel here, to discuss measures to be taken, to meet the increasing cost of production of newspapers. Measures to meet this possibly by increasing price of newspapers and increasing advertising rates, will be put forward at the meeting to-day.

John Danford's Death Due to Shock and Hemmorhage

SHOP EARLY

Christmas is only twenty days away. Take three Sundays out of this and you have seventeen days left in which to do your Christmas shopping. You help yourself when you do your Christmas shopping early, and incidentally help the merchants and the army of clerks that has been mobilized to serve you. In addition days left in which to do your tion of goods, and that alone is sufficient reason why you should shop early and avoid the rush.

Had Smoked Horse Meat

Meal in Germany Cost United Press Correspondent $1.20 at a Second Class Hotel.

(By Webb Miller, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY OF OCCUPATION IN RHENISH PRUSSIA, Dec. 4—Despite the harrowing stories flowing out of Germany regarding a shortage of food during the past few months, those portions of Rhenish Prussia which have been occupied by the Americans do not seem to be suffering very severely.

Unquestionably there is a shortage and some of the poor are probably suffering, but the masses of the people are not starving. Although they are undergoing rather serious privations, judging from investigations conducted at Treves.

Pea Soup.

At an ordinary hotel I was able to obtain vegetable soup, two slices of roast beef, a goodly helping of boiled potatoes, some meat gravy, and a really palatable coffee substitute, although I got no bread. This meal cost five marks, about $1.20. At a second class hotel I ate pea soup, smoked horse meat, sauer kraut and mashed potatoes, and got a glass of passable beer for four marks. Charges for meals at the first-rate hotels run from three to five times above those at the ordinary hosteleries, but there is a greater variety of food which is of a better quality and better served.

Little Butter.

There is little butter, although sugar can be obtained, but it is very expensive. The bread is mostly unpalatable. It is dark and of a sawdust consistency. The general effect of the undernourishment is clearly seen in the villages. I did not see a single corpulent person and most of the people appear sallow. The streets of the villages are filled with children between the ages of two and four years, born during the war. Nearly all have an unhealthy appearance. The most noticeable feature of the appearance of the people is their apathy and lack of interest, which is probably due to discouragement and lack of nourishment. The American soldiers have shown no lack of "pep and ginger" in their movements about the village, in striking contrast to the actions of the townsfolks.

Two Automobiles.

In Treves and Saarburg, the streets are almost wholly without traffic. In two days there I saw only two automobiles. One was owned by a burgomaster, the other had iron tires and was driven by a German officer. There are few horse-drawn vehicles, most of the carting being done by hand-drawn carts. Nearly all the children I saw wore home-made clothing of a makeshift character. The shop windows are scantily stocked; very little food and clothing being on display. The windows of some of the clothing shops contained only three or four suits of shoddy material, the prices of which are equivalent to from $50 to $60. As a rule the people are very poorly clad, although the wealthy rich men going about in overcoats rich men goin gabout in overcoats with fur collars and wearing fine shoes.

G.T.R. Conductor Was Lying Dead in Caboose When the Doctor Arrived.

INQUEST CONCLUDED

The jury which was empanelled to inquire into the death of Jonathan Danford met again last evening in the Police Court Chamber and deliberated for three-quarters of an hour, after which the following verdict was submitted to the Coroner:

"We find that the deceased came to his death from shock and hemmorhage on November 28, between the hours of 3 and 4. We believe that had more help been in attendance the deceased would not have been attending to such duties."

Dr. H. A. Turner, of Millbrook, who was called to attend the late Jack Danford, stated that he saw the man dead in the caboose at Fraserville. The immediate cause of death was shock and hemmorhage.

The Stop Signal.

The second witness, Mr. T. Blair, one of the engineers on the "moonlight," received the signal to stop the train. The brakeman told him that Jack was hurt. He saw the body lying on the rails. Cutting off his engine from the rest of the train, he made a quick trip to Millbrook for a doctor.

The brakes had been tested at Peterborough and were in perfect working order at the time of the accident. The brakeman told him that he heard J. Danford's lantern fall. He looked around and he was gone. Both the brakeman and the deceased were on the top of the cars at the time.

Danford Was Conscious.

Mr. Ernest Rainbow, the assistant engineer, was in the second engine, and assisted in putting the body in the caboose after the accident. Danford was conscious an hour after the accident. He asked Rainbow how it happened, but he was unable to tell him. The brakes were in good condition, and when the signal was given to stop directly after the accident, the whole train of 26 cars went less than four car lengths.

A Youthful Brakeman.

Mr. M. A. Switzer, the brakeman, a boy of only 17 years, was the principal witness. He stated that both he and Danford were on top of the cars to transmit signals to the engineers. A front end brakeman should have been part of the crew, but the man occupying this position had returned home. He missed Danford on top of the cars, and was just coming down the side of the car when he saw Danford's body lying directly in front of the caboose front wheel. The train by this time had come to a full stop.

Legs Were Off.

Danford, after the accident, asked the crew if one of his legs were off. They answered in the negative, but he raised the stump of one of his legs and saw that it was cut off. When he became aware that both of his legs were amputated, he exclaimed, "Oh, I'm done."

He asked for more air, and wish to turn on his side, and died before the doctor from Millbrook reached him.

Coroner Dr. T. N. Greer presided, while Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton examined the witness. An official of the G.T.R. was present in the interests of the company.

THE FASTEST BOAT CAME OVER WITH NO MAILS ABOARD

HALIFAX, N.S., Dec. 4.—The Morning Chronicle, discussing the transatlantic service, editorially says:

"Now that we are to have more frequent communication with the Old Country, it is to be hoped that attention will be given to the important matter of transatlantic mails. Last week the British mails for Canada were carried to St. John by the Tunisian, a ten or eleven day boat, while the Aquitania, a five-day boat, came to Halifax without a single package of mail. This should not be allowed to occur again. The fast boats should be utilized for the mails in order to ensure the quickest possible delivery of letters of many anxious friends of the boys overseas, as well as for business reasons."

RYERSON RITCHIE AT BOARD OF TRADE LUNCHEON TOMORROW

The Board of Trade luncheon at the Empress to-morrow at noon, will be addressed by Mr. Ryerson Ritchie, who is a visitor in the city for a few days. Mr. Ritchie is a specialist in municipal organization and management and has had a very extensive experience with Chambers of Commerce and similar associations in some of the largest cities in the United States. Mr. Ritchie knows Peterboro and its needs, and his address should be unusually interesting and directive. Mayor Duncan will speak on municipal affairs, and it is more than likely that the Street Railway question will come up for discussion. Business men and other citzens are invited to attend this luncheon, which is scheduled to begin at 12 o'clock. Mr. J. J. Turner will be chairman, and it may be that some definite action will be commenced with a view to bringing the Board of Trade and the City Council into agreement on the question of street railway plans and extensions. This promises a good opportunity to get together on one of the city's problems, and to hear others dealt with by Mr. Ritchie.

WEDNESDAY, DEC. 4TH, 1918.

RESTRICTIONS REMOVED.

For the benefit of the luckless individual who is forced through circumstances to eat his meals in a public restaurant, the attention of the proprietors of eating houses is called to the statement just issued by the Canada Food Board, which removes some of the restrictions which were during the war placed on restaurants. There is from now on no limit to the quantity of bread that may be served and the customer is no longer forced to be satisfied with the meagre allowances of war days. It is no longer against the law to serve sandwiches during the noon meal hour at restaurants—for which many patrons will be duly grateful. Unfortunately, however, it is not yet deemed advisable to interfere with the regulations in regard to the consumption of beef, and for the present those who patronize the restaurants will have to put up with the limited supply of beef that the war regulations permit.

UNWISE TO SPECULATE

The warning from the Government to the people who have invested in Canada's Victory Loan that it is unwise to speculate in Victory Bonds and that these should be held by the subscriber and should only change hands when it is absolutely necessary for the owner to secure their value in cash, is one that should be carefully noted. It has been found that the greater earning capacity of their money has made many people more than usually susceptible to the blandishments of dubious promoters and agents who by offering to take Victory Bonds in payment for their fake investments are beginning to prey upon those who have invested their savings in Canada's loan. The same condition of affairs exists in the United States where many holders of Libery Bonds have lost their savings by exchanging their bonds for worthless securities grabbing at the bait that these latter would carry a much higher rate of interest. The advice that the Government offers to Victory Loan subscribers is to hold them as long as possible and don't speculate with them.

THE CABINET'S PREDICAMENT

That the demands made by the Canadian Council of Agriculture, representing the farmers of the west will result in a shake up of the Union Cabinet and in the resignation of Hon. T. A. Crerar, Minister of Agriculture and other western members of the Cabinet seems to be certain. It is not believed that the Union Government is prepared to adopt the programme laid down by the Council of Agriculture and their rejection of the proposals will, it is expected, result in the withdrawal of the ministers who hail from the west. Even the papers which are throwing up distress signals on behalf of the Government and pleading that the Union administration be continued during the period of reconstruction are admitting that the conditions as outlined above endanger the existence of the cabinet as it exists at present. With Hon. Bob Rogers and the ginger group eagerly advocating a "Back to the Cream" policy with the Government entirely out of sympathy with the farmers of the west, with the people generally dissatisfied with orders-in-council administration, with the returned soldiers practically a unit in condemning the Government's pension scheme it is hard to see how the Union Government is to carry on.

THE OUTLOOK.

The announcement of the Imperial Munitions Board that the American shell orders placed in Canada are to be cancelled practically on the same basis as those of Great Britain, brings us face to face with the Industrial crisis so far as the post-war industrial readjustment is concerned. Thousands of workers and many big plants will be idle until the men find new employment and until the factories receive new orders.

But now that the worst is known, and even though it is realized that the end of the munitions business came sooner than expected, owing to the suddenness and completeness of the German collapse, the future is by no means dark. Canada with her resources in raw materials and her agricultural potentialities will be an important factor in European reconstruction, and there is no doubt that both foodstuffs and materials for rebuilding will be sold on a profitable basis which will permit of a gradual readjustment of commodity prices and labor values. In the meantime the prosperity of the country generally should prove an effective bumper in the present shock.

The most unsettled period of the whole period of readjustment—and it may extend over a considerable time—will undoubtedly be the next three months. It is only the unforeseen developments that business fails to discount, and it cannot be denied that the end of the war came suddenly at last. However, there appears to be little need of apprehension. The chief difficulty will be the labour readjustment, and this will not be due to the fact that there is not plenty of work to be carried on, but to the fact that at this season of the year the construction programme must wait. With the spring, public and private buildings, railroad construction, etc., with their attendant demands upon the normal production of our industries, should have the effect of absorbing any surplus, while foreign orders for supplies of all kinds should then be forthcoming.

The fact that a continued high market for wheat is assured should be the great stablizing factor in Canada. Agriculture is the country's dominating industry A price of better than $2.20 is guaranteed for wheat until August 31st, 1919. The United States has extended guarantees until April, 1920. This practically means the two-dollar standard for the crop now being marketed and for the crop of 1919. Wheat sets the standard of price for other agricultural products to a large extent.

With such prices prevailing for farm products a large income is assured to Canada. At the same time the cost of living will also remain high. And if the cost of living does not come down every effort must be made to keep wages up.

Looking at the situation from this standpoint it does not look as though there would be any sudden collapse in prices. A readjustment there must be, but it will probably be worked out to co-ordinate with the programmes of reconstruction. Canada will be able to get good prices for her products while the need is great and while she can give credits, and in this connection the proceeds of the Victory Loan will stand her in good stead.

What is needed on the part of the people is a willingness to "carry on." The labour market will see a surplus for the next three months or so, we believe, but not to the extent that should mean hard times. Workers must be prepared to face some readjustments not only as to wages but as to class of employment. The openings for mechanics will naturally be greatly reduced and the wages will come down from their abnormal levels. The most efficient men will have first consideration and the others will have to adjust themselves down the line until there is available at the other extreme a section of workers to take up railroad construction, or go on the farms or to the lumbre camps. After the first shock industrial conditions should get better as foreign orders are distributed and normal requirements at home receive attention and this should permit of the absorption of the men coming back from the front as well as those who may be thrown out on account of cessation of shell orders.

Nor should there be any collapse in business. Shortage of raw materials as in the case of foodstuffs, will tend to make the readjustment of prices very gradual. The success of the Victory Loan should defer any necessity for reducing commercial credits by the banks, while the prosperous years should have put the average merchant in a position to face some readjustment in stock values. It is a time, too, when speculation is not advisable. In some lines of goods where there is an acute shortage, higher prices may be experienced but the safest course will be for the merchant to consider himself merely as a merchandise turning over goods as his trade requires without taking the risk of carrying excess stock even where there are prospects of larger profits. —Financial Post of Canada.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

One out of every eight of Canada's population subscribed for the last Victory Loan. It is a record of which the Canadian people may be thoroughly proud.

"Ottawa in regard to its treatment of the returned soldier problem has proved itself sans head, sans heart, sans common-sense, sans everything," says the Toronto Telegram. Well, we'll let it go at that.

"Ottawa must wake up and be doing. The gravity of the situation demands that every officer of the Department of Militia who cannot pronounce the shibboleth of efficiency should be immediately removed from office," remarks the Toronto Telegram, in regard to the mismanagement in connection with the transportation of returned soldiers.

AN ALL-ROUND GENIUS.

Some Facts About Major "Rab" Tait McKenzie.

The name of Major "Rab" Tait McKenzie is widely known to Canadians. He was physician at Government House in Lord Aberdeen's time. He personally fulfills, more perfectly than any other man I can think of, the Greek ideal of all-round cultivation of physical and mental faculties. He was Professor of Anatomy and Physical Director in McGill University, Montreal, for years. He has long served Pennsylvania University in the same capacities. He originated and spread the system, now so general in the United States and Canada, by which entire student and pupil bodies, not merely the few eminent athletes, are required to train their bodies in enjoyable ways, and allowed credit marks for physical as well as scholastic accomplishment. He is a noted expert in cure of deformities, or injurious abnormalities, and has extensively imparted his knowledge thereof to the profession, besides writing several noted books on hygiene, etc. As a bagpiper few skilful skirlers on the Pibroch stand in his class, as I heard an eminent Highland performer testify years ago. The doctor was a great all-round athlete (who can still do fine stunts) and so redoubtable a boxer that John L. Sullivan, when in his prime, told him—"Bedad, I'm glad you are a lightweight." As a lecturer he has no fault save, perhaps, that aspect of unjustifiable modesty. He used to paint so well in water colors that much money could not buy from me some of the pictures he presented to my unworthiness. In sculpture he has long been renowned, more particularly by his statute of Benjamin Franklin in youth, which holds a place of high honor on the Campus of the University of Pennsylvania.; by his "Sprinter"; his football group "The Onslaught," comprising many battling figures, a Bronze that pretty much all wealthy college men, and, perhaps all athletic clubs, proudly own; his "Competitor," "the Relay," "The Joy of Effort," which latter medallion was set in the wall of the great Olympic Stadium at Stockholm by order of the Swedish King; and beautiful portrait statuettes and plaques too numerous to specify here. Judicious men of many cities know how well he can tell a story, especially if it be tinctured with Scotch.

As a dancer of the highland fling few amateurs can throw a leg to him. Finally—but truly there is no saying "finally" to the major's accomplishments, because he is continually adding to them, though performing prodigious labors in the way of duty.

Recently he toured Canada on behalf of our Government, establishing at military hospitals classes for masseurs, physical instructors, and medical officers. To them he is imparting from stores of new war-knowledge he accumulated while in command of the great Convalescent Camp at Heaton Park, near Manchester, England, over which he presided for more than a year, during which time he developed for the British Government the whole system of Medical Command Camps. For them he invented numerous novel mechanical appliances, and methods suited especially to war-bound cases. From his own particular Heaton Park Camp he sent back to the front more than one thousand men who had been given up as hopeless cases by ordinary hospitals. He repaired for work in civil life as many more.

As a sculptor he has a special genius for securing beauty in expression of sculptured countenances and of a touching melancholy in lines of figure. Consider, for instance, the statue of Lieut. Guy Drummond, only son of the late millionaire, Sir George Drummond, of Montreal, and of Lady Drummond, who commissioned this haunting work from the major. The young, much loved hero was killed in Flanders early in the war. How nobly, how tenderly, how chivalrously he stands and looks! An exemplar of so many thousands of beautiful young warriors taken, not lost, living here for the Ages of Ages in human recollection and gratitude, pictured relies of them forever reminding that "whom the gods love die young." He stands as gazing even kindly on death, which had for him no victory, on the grave which had no sting for his sweet spirit.

Saving Old Straw.

It is illegal in Saskatchewan to destroy straw stacks in accordance with a general farm custom in the Canadian as well as in the United States west. In the past, farmers, after setting aside sufficient straw for their own use, burned the apparently useless remainder. The war is dispelling the belief, in country as well as in town, that there are such things as useless remainders. Straw has become a necessary raw material, and the order prohibiting its destruction may be followed by another forbidding the wholesale burning of autumn leaves, instead of using them for fertilizing purposes.

Relics of Other Days.

An interesting and valuable collection of bones, copper implements and utensils unearthed by excavations for the Canada Car Co.'s new slip on Kaministiqua river has been presented to the anthropological division at Ottawa, and Dr. Sapir, divisional chief, has been detailed to report upon the treasure trove.

Corkwood.

A consular report from Port Limon, Costa Rica, gives interesting details concerning the trade of that region in balsa or corkwood (Ochroma), said to be the lightest of all known woods. It has long been used in tropical America for making canoes and a special type of raft, also known as a balsa. It is very porous and a good insulator against heat and cold, and the report above mentioned states that it would be available for airplane construction. The young trees are soft and very sensitive to injury from vines. The trees are dioecious, the male tree being known as burillo and the female as balsa real. The shipment of balsa wood has apparently not assumed large proportions, owing to the difficulty of transporting it from the native forests to the railway.

Historical Flag at Woodstock.

E. Holden, of the Sterling Textile Co., of Woodstock, is the proud possessor and is now exhibiting a flag of much historical interest, it being "the first American flag to go over the top in the Great War," afterwards secured and sent back to Woodstock by Corpl. John Clarkson, formerly in Mr. Holden's employ.

Dr. G. S. Cameron Is In Toronto

Was Present at a Meeting of the Medical Association.

(Special to Examiner.)

TORONTO, December 4. — Practically all the Medical Associations and Health Agencies in the province were represented in the deputation which waited upon the Cabinet of the Ontario government at the Parliament Buildings to-day and discussed the recommendations made by Mr. Justice Hodgins in his report of the Medical practice in the province.

The members of the Cabinet who were present were Sir William Hearst, Hon. I. B. Lucas, Hon. Dr. Cody and Hon. G. H. Ferguson.

Sir William Hearst said that it was not intended that the government should again hear all the evidence that had been presented before Mr. Justice Hodgins, but it was desired that they should express their views regarding the report that he had presented.

Hon. I. B. Lucas asked the meeting if it was willing to adopt the definition of "medicine" that had been laid down by the commissioners?

QUITE SATISFIED.

Dr. R. Ferguson, president of the Ontario Medical Council, said that the Medical Council was quite satisfied with the definition made by the Commissioners, but he proposed an alternative definition, which he thought was more simple.

He proposed the following definition: "The practice of medicine shall mean and include diagnozing, healing, alleviating or attempting to diagnoze, heal or alleviate any ailment, defect or mental condition directly or indirectly by advice, assistance or any action whatever, with or without the use of drugs or any other means."

Mr. G. S. Cameron, Peterboro, the president of the Ontario Medical Association, said that he agreed with the definition of the commission but he recommended that the word "habitually" should be omitted.

"All we ask the government to do is to place a definition of medicine on the statute books which the courts will be unable to upset," stated Dr. E. E. King, chairman, of the Legislative Committee of the College of Physicians and Surgeons. The definition of Mr. Justice Hodgins is one of negations.

Allies Secure Ten Battleships

SEBASTAPOOL, Dec. 4. —The Allied fleet of the British, French, Italian and Greek war vessels has taken from the Germans, ten warships, including smaller craft in the harbour here. The Russian dreadnought Volia is now under the British flag. The five destroyers were apportioned among the Allies, the British taking two, the French two and the Italians one. Four submarines, all German, were divided between the French and the British. All remaining warships and merchant vessels of the German Black Sea fleet will be held here. There are about 11,000 German troops in the Crimea. They have requested permission to proceed to Germany by way of Trieste so as to avoid a repetition of an incident three weeks ago at Odessa, when many German soldiers were killed by the Russians.

NIGHT WITH DICKENS AT GEORGE STREET

Interesting Talk by Prof. Bell-Smith.

Under the auspices of the Ladies Aid of George street Methodist church, Professor Bell-Smith gave a very interesting illustrated talk on the life and works of Dickens last evening in George street church. A large audience attended.

The views shown were to a great extent from paintings by the speaker, and covered the life of Dickens, the place he lived and the places he worked. He also showed scenes in London, described in Dickens' Works, and many views of the modern buildings which occupy the sites described by the author.

In conclusion he recited a poem by Drummond and gave a clever little selection, a take-off of the Merchant of Venice.

GOVERNMENT WILL SOON RETURN

(Special to The Examiner.)

PARIS, Dec. 4.—The Roumanian government will soon return to Bucharest.

When the Germans overran Roumania shortly after that country entered the war on the side of the Allies, the Roumanian seat of government was moved from Bucharest, the capital, to Jassy. It has remained there ever since.

IN MEMORIAM

WHITE—In loving memory of my dear mother, Elizabeth Ann White, who departed this life Dec. 4, 1917.

You are not forgotten mother dear
Nor ever shall you be
As long as life and memory lasts
We will remember thee
The happy hours we once enjoyed
How sweet their memory still
But death has left the vacant chair
This world can never fill
—Son, Robert J. White and wife,
35 William street,
Hamilton.

IN MEMORIAM.

Official news has been received that Private Ernest Jackson, who enlisted here with the 57th Battalion, and was afterwards transferred to the 126th Forestry Corps, died Nov. 23rd at King's Red Cross Hospital, Middlesex, Eng., from heart trouble following influenza. Deceased was employed at the Auburn Woollen Mills, prior to enlisting.

We never knew what pains he bore,
We never saw him die,
We only know he passed away,
And never said good-bye.
But his name is written in letters of love,
Inserted by Miss F. Smith.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of Gilbert James Martin, who died Sept. 1st, 1918, and brother, Sidney Arthur, who died Oct. 21st, 1918:

Now father dry you weeping eyes,
Your sons are now at rest,
They are safely housed in Paradise
To dwell among the blest;
Sister, grieve not as others grieve,
But in submission bow,
For if you do God's word believe
You know they are happy now.

Your living ones should have your prayers
To fit and qualify,
And then commend to tender care
When God calls them to die.
Brothers, may you be ready to go
And say, "to die is gain,"
To bid farewell to all below
And then with Jesus reign.

Dear brothers and sister grieve no more
Though death's a solemn thing;
But Jesus going on before
Extracted every sting.
And from death's cold embrace he rose
Triumphant o'er the grave,
And everything that might oppose
His chosen ones to save.

Dear friends meet them on that bright shore
Where they are now at rest,
Prepare to part with them no more,
But be forever blest;
For soon like them you'll have to go
That change to realize,
Free from all trials here below
You will above them rise.

Dear loved ones, go to Jesus now
Before him plead your case,
In supplication you must bow
And plead for saving grace;
Then strive to meet your loved again
When you will part no more,
Where there's no sorrow, pain or death
On that immortal shore.

Beloved ones be of good cheer,
Weep not that they are dead;
They are free from every pain and fear,
Then raise your drooping head.
Now strive to feel God's will be done,
His will is for the best,
And when the sands of life are run
You'll meet among the blest.

Around that dazzling throne you'll be
And bask forever there,
Redeeming love your constant cry,
And all the blessing share.
May we all when the summons comes
Like Paul rejoice to hear
The call that takes our spirit home,
And nothing more to fear.

ALLIES AGREE.

Germany Will Pay to the Limit — Huns to be Brought to Account.

(Special to The Examiner.)

LONDON, Dec. 4.—All nations represented at the Inter-Allied Conference here to-day may be regarded as in agreement with the policy of Lloyd George as to compelling Germany to pay to the limit of her capacity. Allied representatives were also agreed on a proposition of bringing to trial those responsible for outrages on humanity during the war.

Heart Palpitated

Could Count Every Beat

When the heart begins to palpitate, it will beat fast for several seconds, then slow, then start to flutter, and a feeling of utter depression will come over your whole system, accompanied by weak, fainting and dizzy spells.

When the heart gets into this condition, you become weak, worn and miserable, and are unable to attend to either social, business or household duties.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills will give prompt and permanent relief to all sufferers from any heart weakness or nerve derangements.

Mrs. Walter Greives, Apsley, Ont., writes:—"I had been run down, and doctors told me I was anaemic, but did not help me with their medicines. I could not sleep nights, my heart palpitated so, and I could count every beat.

I used to have such dizzy spells I would have to go to bed. I was not able to do any work for eight months. A cousin of mine had taken Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and told me what they had done for her. I took eight boxes of them, and now I am able to help every day with the work. I am so thankful to tell others what they have done for me, so that they may try this great and wonderful remedy. I hope this may prove good to some one who is suffering the way I did."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Publicity or Bankruptcy?

Bradstreets statement that 84 per cent of all failures are among non-advertisers is significant.

Intelligent advertising has become absolutely essential to every modern industry—

But what shall the advertiser do in the face of war conditions, when he finds it difficult to get goods to fill his orders?

First of all, remember that the fundamental purpose of advertising is to fix indelibly the trade mark or the trade name in the public mind.

A let-up in that campaign must be fatal to any product.

The American Rolling Mill Company declares its purpose to continue its advertising, although for two and a half years it has been unable to supply the demand for its product.

"We are building," they say, "a permanent business edifice, and some day we would have to spend millions of dollars buying back the business and goodwill of our clients if they are forsaken in this emergency."

Here is a warning to the advertizer who neglects the dull season in summer—

When advertisements are fewest is the very time when a message to the public may get the most attention, providing, of course, that the character of the advertising deserves it.

WHAT KING GEORGE THINKS OF WILHELM

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

That is a question that has been often asked, but has never received anything approaching an authoritative answer.

According to a writer in the Daily News which is usually very careful as to the trustworthiness of what it prints, King George regards him as "the greatest criminal in the world to-day, and that he has not only permitted atrocities to proceed but was in many cases personally assenter to and director of them, and that for such a man no retributive penalty, however severe, would be undeserved."

MAYOR DUNCAN ASKS FOR ADVANCE NOTICE OF RETURNING MEN

Because Peterborough soldiers have been arriving home unannounced Mayor Duncan telegraphed General Hemming at Kingston this morning requesting that the city officials be notified in advance of the homecoming of men as soon as they leave Kingston. Last night three men, Armourer Sergeant Hart, Westcott street; Sapper Hughes, of Bolivar street, and Private Montgomery, who boarded at the American Hotel, Hunter street, when he enlisted, arrived on the evening train from Port Hope. Although Mayor Duncan had not received any word of their return he went to the station to make sure that there would be some reception for any men who happened to be on that train. His Worship wired to Kingston that by lack of information by Peterborough relatives of soldiers who are expected at any time now have suffered unnecessary disappointment. He requested that some effort be made to notify the city of returning men, if possible. The men of the third district are demobilized at Kingston, and it is felt that the military authorities should be able to provide this detail of information for the relatives of every man leaving the depot.

Children Make Faces at the Allied Troops

(By Webb Miller.)

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

WITH AMERICAN ARMY OF OCCUPATION IN RHENISH PRUSSIA, Dec. 4.—(Night.)— The second lap of the American occupation of Rhenish Prussia has ended with the Doughboys ten miles nearer to the Rhine. They have entered scores of villages and now occupy a thousand square miles of German territory.

The inhabitants of occupied territory have displayed merely sullen indifference so far. Although the crowds which watched Americans march through Treves and other towns included many discharged German soldiers, there have been no signs of hostility except minor manifestations on the part of children. These consist mainly in "making faces" at the men in khaki. At one place bits of coal were thrown at soldiers. At other points, however, hundreds of children insisted on following the Doughboys, clinging to autos and shouting remarks at the men. The Workmen's and Soldiers' Council of Treves has issued a proclamation warning people not to overcharge the American soldiers making purchases. The Treves newspapers briefly described the American entry, offering no editorial comment of it.

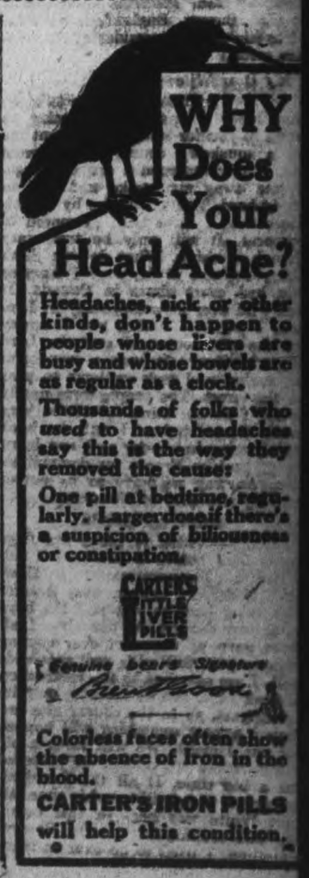
SARNIA, Dec. 2—Local barbers at a meeting raised the price of shaves from 15 cents to 20 cents. The price of haircuts remain at 35 cents.



WHY Does Your Head Ache?

Headaches, sick or other kinds, don't happen to people whose livers are busy and whose bowels are as regular as a clock.

Thousands of folks who used to have headaches say this is the way they removed the cause:

One pill at bedtime, regularly. Larger dose if there's a suspicion of biliousness or constipation.

School Teachers' Request for Increase in Salaries Was Laid Over Until June Next

The Roses Will Have to Bloom Again Before the Board of Education Will Give Further Consideration to This Item—Regular Monthly Meeting Held Last Evening—Won Scholarships.

The school teachers' request for an increase in salaries was given a six months' hoist by the Board of Education last night and will be left till June 1919. The schedule asked was (a) Principals : Minimum $1600.00 maximum $2,000.00 Increase of $100 per annum.

(b) Vice Principals: Minimum $1,200.00, maximum $1,600.00. Annual increase $100.

(c) The revised schedule to date from January, 1919.

(c) Principals and Vice Principals who are on the maximum of the present schedule to be placed at the maximum of the revised schedule. Each of the others to receive the minumum plus $100 for each year he has taught in Peterboro

PAID TRIBUTE

Mr. Eastwood opened the meeting by reminding the members that the meeting was the first since the signing of the armistice and paid a tribute to the boys who had done so well in upholding Anglo-Saxon ideals and returned also to the memory of those who will not come back. "The boys from the local schools did their part in the war," he said.

DISCUSSED PLANS

A long discussion on ways and means of providing increased accomodation for the ever increasing numbers of school children in the South Central district was entered into. Mr. Mowat, who had a plan in the districts of the schools in hand, showed where the crowding is most serious.

In view of Dr. Cody's promised visit to the city on December 12th, the matter was left over to obtain his views and avice, an a special meeting called for December 16th, when the question will be gone into thoroughly.

TO MEET DR. CODY

A committee of Mr. V. E. Eastwood and Dr. F .C. Neal was appointed to meet Dr. Cody with Mr. Duncan Walker on Thursday, Dec 12th. The Board will meet him at the Collegiate Institute, later in the afternoon when Mr. Kenner will assemble the pupils for a speech by Dr. Cody.

A communication from Mr. Hughson Johnston inviting two members of the Board to attend an organization meeting of a local branch of the Social Service Committee on December 5th was received.

Miss Pearl Lapp's request for leave of absence until January was granted.

WON SCHOLARSHIPS

Mr. H. R. H. Kenner, principal of the Collegiate Institute reported the scholarships won by the students in the Collegiate as follows:—

Honor Matricuation—Gretchen Gladman, $20.

Peterboro Soldier Saw the Lord Mayor's Show

Corporal H. Shaw Will Welcome the Opportunity to Return to Canada.

The following letter from Corp. H. Shaw of Can. Machine Gun Depot, Seaford, Sussex, England, is addressed to his wife who resides at 165 Adelaide street:

My Dear Wife:—

At last I am able to write that letter I have been wanting to write to you for weeks. They sent me on a musketry course to Aldershot and I only returned a few days ago. I was away six weeks and had to study hard. You will notice by my address that I have been promoted to Corporal. It will only be temporary though, I think. What do you think about the end of the war? I suppose you had great times in Canada. It was wild over here especially in London. I was in London last Saturday for the afternoon and saw the Lord Mayor's Show. It was a wonderful procession and took an hour to pass in the street. The people were nearly crazy. I do not think it will be very much longer before I will be back with you again. As far as I can learn we go back to France for demobilization. Anyway we have to be out of here by the 21st of November.

GAVE UP HOPE

I was expecting to get a few days leave here before I left, but I am afraid that I cannot manage it. However it doesn't matter. The thought of coming back to you and the boys is enough for me. At one time I almost gave up hopes of ever coming back to you. Still all's well that ends well. I am attached to the Instruction Staff here, but we have no recruits to instruct, so in the course of a few days I expect something will happen for our benefit. We will have a big jubilee when we return. Be prepared for a big time. If all the Peterboro boys meet there will be a big time. Albert White was here in this camp. He was cooking in the 6th Reserve Battalion. I used to go over at night and get a feed with him and talk about old times. Leo Trombley was here and he was on draft for France, but I don't think they needed him "over there." There are very few Peterboro boys in the Machine Gun Section. I think that I have only seen three. It is now time for parade and I must close my letter. I am at present feeling A1. Best love to yourself and the boys, from

Your Loving Husband,

HIRAM.

Rally Call For Red Cross Workers

Refugee Work Undertaken by the Society.

Requests for specific information regarding the future work of the Red Cross continue to pour in. The local society has secured the following information from headquarters. The Canadian Red Cross Society at the beginning of November decided to take up a limited length of time relief work in the form of clothing for the destitute repatriated civilian population of the different devastated allied countries of Europe No more opportune moment could have been selected for launching such an effort where the present need of assistance is considered. Peace has inucreased destitution. In the lands evacuated by the Germans, old men, women and children are left with nothing but life. They must have the mercy which has been meted out to Canada.

REFUGEE WORK

The refugee work includes the making of undergarments to be used generally for all the allied countries and overgarments suitable for the different nationalities. Samples of all these garments have been received at the Central Workrooms and work will be begun on them on Wednesday afternoon. The Peterboro Branch therefore earnestly requests that the workroom may be filled to capacity for the next few weeks. It is not likely that we shall be asked to do the new work for more than three months so let everyone have a part in helping those who have suffered so much more than we, and let us show our thankfulness by the amount of work we can accomplish each afternoon at the Public Library. Rally, women, and let us have every table filled to capacity with work and workers!

Mr. H. C. Treneer Held a Recital in Norwood

Mr. Herbert C. Treneer, organist of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, held a recital in the Methodist Church Norwood, on the occasion of the installation of the new organ. The pastor of the church, Rev. A. Mansell Irwin, B.A., B.D. presided.

During an interval in the program, Mr. Treneer, with the approval of the committee, took occasion to bring before the audience brief reference to his own work as an instructor in the art of music, which he did very nicely, answering very aptly a few questions which naturally occur to the minds of prospective pupils as to how he being blind could impart instruction to others

At the close of the recital a vote of thanks to Mr. Treneer and the soloists and accompanists was moved by the chairman and secretary of the organ committee, Messrs. W. T. Buck and John Marks, and heartily endorsed by the audience.

Mrs. Cruickshanks of this city also took part in the program.

LAPLAND ARRIVES IN NEW YORK

American Aviators Comprise Most of the Crew.

Special to The Examiner:

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—The transport "Lapland," with its 2,030 American soldiers from England, arrived in New York harbour early to-day. This is the second home-coming transport to arrive here since hostilities ceased. Most of the troops on the "Lapland" are attached to the aviation branch, and have been in training in England.

Britain's Factories Turn to Peace Work

Problem Not Nearly So Serious as at Outbreak of War.

LONDON, Dec. 3.—F. G. Kellaway, Parliamentary Secretary to the Ministry of Munitions, in a statement regarding the turning over of munition factories to the production of peace materials, says the problem facing the British manufacturers is not nearly as serious as that which confronted them when they were asked to turn from peace to war production.

Three munition firms at Leicester, Folkestone and Nottingham, and three at Loughborough, are taking up the manufacture of hosiery needles, imported from Germany before the war. Another Leicester munition plant will produce hose suspender fittings, also formerly imported from Germany. There are several cases where manufacturers who were producing airplane motors will make engines for motor cars, while one concern which made shells is turning to the manufacture of shoe machinery.

At Newcastle-on-Tyne an airplane firm will take up the manufacture of house furniture and will give work to 5,000 persons, while another factory in the same town will change from the making of guns to the building of locomotives —a new industry which will give employment to 5,000. A firm at Burnley, which was manufacturing guns, will make electric fittings; a Sheffield plant from the manufacture of shells will turn to the making of files and springs, employing 1,000 workmen. A plant which has ceased the manufacture of copper bands for shells will turn out dairy utensils, while another which was engaged in assembling airplanes will devote its activities to the making of iron valves.

A Birmingham firm is changing from the production of fuses and airplane parts of the manufacture of motor accessories; at Matlock another firm, is arranging to make cream separators, now largely imported.

Iced Cakes for Christmas

Cakes iced with sugar will be here for Christmas. Puffed pastry will also make its appearance again.

Cake-makers in the province have received from Ottawa the following notice lifting the ban on iced cakes:

"Notwithstanding anything contained in any order of the Canada Food Board, this letter will be your authority to use what part of your allotment of sugar that you desire for the icing or filling of biscuits, cakes, etc. You will understand that the permission to ice and fill biscuits, cakes, etc., does not entitle you to any further allotment of sugar for this purpose, but merely permits the use of your present allotment in this manner if you so desire.

"Notwithstanding anything contained in any order of the Canada Food Board you are permitted to manufacture products known as French or puffed pastry, doughnuts or crullers, biscuits or cakes known as Scotch short bread or cake, provided such is manufactured only with vegetable fats. The shortage of animal fats makes it necessary that the restriction on the use of animal fats be continued.

Food Board Flashes

Have you seen the new potato booklet recently published by the Canada Food Board It can be obtained by dropping a post card to the provincial secretary of the Canada Food Board, or writing to the Food Board Office at Ottawa. Canada has a comparatively plentiful supply of potatoes this season, and full advantage should be taken of this fact. Bread stuffs are needed badly in Europe, and though potatoes would be welcome over there too, they are bulky to ship and shipping space will be at a premium for some time to come. A more liberal use of potatoes in the variety of ways described in this booklet will be the means of saving bread stuffs, and there are millions of people in the world to-day who lack sufficient bread.

Epidemic Still Serious in Parts of the Country

Several severe colds closely resembling Spanish influenza have broken out in the city, especially in the West end. Dr. C. H. Amys, M. O. H. has instituted the school nurse to keep close watch upon school children in order to prevent any possibility of a second epidemic. Dr. Amys does not anticipate any need of reopening the emergency hospital. In the country the epidemic of Spanish influenza has become serious in some parts Apsley has closed its schools and churches for some time, while Norwood is also fighting the disease.

SUPERINTENDENT RETURNS

Miss Hattie Reid who was in charge of the emergency hospital and later developed a severe case of Spanish influenza has recovered sufficiently to return to her home to convalesce.

Murphy Goes to Jail for Month

Found an Easy Way to Get a New Pair of Boots.

One month with hard labour was the sentence meted out to Francis Joseph Murphy at this morning's session of the police court. Last Monday at midnight Murphy let himself through a trap hole at the rear of the Oriental Hotel and entered Hickey's shoe store and took away with him two pair of boots and one pair of rubbers. Last evening he was seen sauntering in front of the White House with part of the stolen property on his feet. He was taken in custody by the police and spent the night in the cells. Before the Magistrate this morning not being prepared for trial he was remanded to Castle Nesbitt until next Friday, but finding that he would have to spend the interval in gaol he elected summary trial before the Magistrate. He pleaded guilty with the above result.

Voice of The People

THE PENSION SYSTEM.

I think it is about time something was done to improve the pension system. I am in receipt of a pension (not large enough to live retired) on but have not yet received any for October and November. I have written "umteen" times about it, but whoever it concerned the person did not have manners enough to answer. Of course I know these kind of people are busy, but, at the same time if the thing was run on a system these things would not happen and if there is anyone in the offices who do not know their work, or is not interested in those who have practically, and in lots of cases ruined, their lives, then I say let them get out. It makes one feel pretty cheap when one keeps writing and gets no answer. Surely Canada is not going to allow this kind of thing to continue. I hope to see an improvement in the immediate future, not only for my own sake, but for all soldiers in receipt of pensions.

Yours, etc.,
C. ROBINSON.

P.S.—I believe, by the papers, the scale of pensions are to be raised.

Editor of the Examiner,
Sir:—

I see by your report of the County Council meeting of Friday that the Council have taken action that if carried out would deprive the resources of the Patriotic Fund for city and county of $5,000 of this year's appropriations

In addressing the Council I said that in view of the arrangement whereby the Patriotic Fund in the Dominion has made with the Government that the Fund would be carried on up to the end of March, from resources on hand and to be collected that the Government had agreed to supplement the funds on hand as a reserve, with sufficient to carry on the work for the balance of the year, if found necessary. And that consequently, as we in this district saw our way clear to carry on the distribution under such arrangement that the County would not have to place on its tax rates any sum for next year.

I was not asked if any action such as reported as taken by the Council was in order. But I did say that we should need all the money subscribed and granted this year to carry us on to the end of next March.

The County Council agreed to give $30,000 for 1918, and we shall need it all. The city agreed to give $60,000 and it will be paid.

Respectfully,
F. H. DOBBIN
Secretary.

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

Dear Sir,—I see by the local press that our city rulers are in a dilemma over the Street Radial Railway and undecided where to place extensions. East City is not mentioned. If a line were run over the Auburn dam and down Concession street it would at least show an effort made to remedy a long-felt grievance, I have myself taken around two petitions in Ashburnham this past twenty-five years and all parties would sign for a line and transfer at Hunter Street bridge. The former manager of the street railway said it would be too slow and that it would be both quicker and better to take an hours' walk to work as so many men and girls work at factories down in the south end of the city. At times our aldermen express great concern for the convenience of citizens but surely not for the 3000 east of the river.

Yours,
ED. COURTNEY.

Dear Sir,—Let me have this one word and I am through as I have such a large family to support, I cannot spare the time writing letters to the press. I want to say more power to your columns and Mr. Guise-Bagley for the publicity given to a great social evil known as "Malthusian Practice" or race suicide.

With reference to the Metaphorical cap Mr. Guise-Bagley wishes you to infer fits me—"and our empty school seats prove it" he says—This is indeed too funny to be treated seriously. you know Josh Bilings said he "liked a rooster for two things—one was his crow—the other was his spurs to back up that crow. I have the spurs or to be exact five of my children occupy seats in school, the rest are too young to attend and I am yet a young man—surely then you will do me the honor to agree "that cap" is a misfit in my case. What I took exception to was his insinuation that those "who dare to meet and talk about moraliy were the perpetrators of these astrocious and abominable practices" Now Mr. Editor if Mr. Guise-Bagley will not admit his error in my case (and I only speak for myself) I am satisfied to let the public judge his standard of justice and assure you that as far as I am concerned the matter ends here. Thanking you for this space, I am

Sincerely yours,
HUGHSON JOHNSTON

So far as the Examiner is concerned the above letter terminates the controversy that has arisen in connection with this matter.Ed.

Board of Trade Secretary Replies to Alderman Edgar

To the Editor of the Examiner,

I regret very much that Alderman Edgar has drawn me into the controversy with reference to Street Railway extension He must expect that I will support his version of the matter or he surely would not have done so. It therefore becomes necessary for me to give the whole facts of the so called "interview" so that the public may not be deceived as to what took place. Being one of the executive committee of the Hydro Radial Railway Association I, on being notified to do so, attended the meeting of the association in Toronto on Thursday last. A number of resolutions were submitted to the meeting such resolutions having on the previous day been passed by the Ontario Municipal Electric Association and among the resolutions was one expressing the satisfaction of the meeting that the Government auditors Messrs. Clarkson and Dillworth on investigation of the books of the Hydro Electric Power Commission had found the affairs of the Commission satisfactory. Mayor Buchanan of Ingersoll before the resolution was put to the meeting despite the evident antagonism of the chairman Mr. Lyon, Mayor Church, Controller McBride and others moved in amendment that an audit independent of the government be made of the Power Commission's books in order to absolutely refute the suggestion made by the Financial Post that there was something wrong. Mr. Buchanan was quite candid in stating that he had presented his amendment in committee but could get no seconder. Neither motion nor amendment as you will observe ventured to attach the Hydro Electric Commission in any way and it will readily be understood that when Alderman Edgar got up in the storm that was raised by Mayor Buchanan and obtained possession of the floor by stating that he proposed to second Mayor Buchanan's motion and flailed Sir Adam Beck who was present and his colleagues on the Hydro Electric Power Commission, who were not, for being very remiss in their duty to the City of Peterborough because they had not yet furnished the new line past Mr. Bradburn's six acres, the Chamberlen vacant lots and those belonging to Mr. Baker to say nothing of the home of our alderman who I understand lives somewhere near the Monaghan Road on Sherbrooke street, wouldn't I have looked more or less ridiculous to get up and say to the meeting, after apologizing as I would feel constrained to do for wasting their time, that we are not yet agreed down in Peterborough as to whether our street cars should run out into the open country or down through our industrial district,— that the Board of Trade which must depend on public opinion for its power has considered the matter and reported against Alderman Edgar's proposed extension and in favor of one that everyone admits will pay infinitely better, but that our recommendations have been consistently ignored and apparently not even considered.

It may be of interest to the public that I had a conversation with Alderman Edgar and Langford just before the meeting in Toronto when I repeated to them that it appeared impossible to get together on this matter as the two public bodies considering it have quite diverse views and that the Board of Trade is endeavouring to serve the largest possible number with the minimum of expense, so that Alderman Edgar cannot plead ignorance of the attitude of the Board of Trade. My opinion is that if we accept the extension down Monaghan Road we can whistle for any real improvemen in our Street Railway service for I don't think the members of the Commission likely to forget Alderman Edgar's outburst last Thursday. I am sending a copy of this letter to the Hydro Electric Power Commission.

Yours truly,
B. S. HALL.

Public Invited to Attend Meeting

Social Service Council Meets Here Tomorrow.

As there seems to be a difference of opinion with regard to who is eligible to attend the organization meeting of the Social Service Council to-morrow (Thursday) evening in the Public Library Assembly Hall, it is hoped all who are in any way interested with the movement will be present. You are invited whether an official delegate or not. Mr. R. F. Downey will occupy the chair and it is expected matters of deep interest will be discussed by Rev. Gilbert Agar, B.A., general secretary for Ontario. It is desirable to have as many men as possible at this meeting. Men who have Peterborough's interest at heart. 8 p.m Thursday in the Public Library Assembly Hall.

Lieut. Hatrick Still in France

Expects to Remain There Several Months.

Lieut. William J. Hatrick, of the Royal Air Force, in a letter to his mother, written on November 13th, says that he is still on duty and expects to remain in France for some months yet, though very anxious to get home. In his description of the joy of the people over the end of the war, he says there was much rejoicing. The people crowded the churches to give thanks to God for bringing peace with victory.

He said the people of France were very kind to the Canadian boys.

Lieut. Hatrick is a graduate of St. Michael's College and Toronto University, graduating in Arts in May, 1916.

He gave up his law studies at Osgoode Hall to enlist in the Air Force.

He had a good taste of actual fighting from October 1st.

ECZEMA ON BABY'S EAR

Mrs. F. Clarke, Belmont, Man., writes: "My baby had eczema on her ear. The sore was very bad and nothing seemed to do her very much good. Hearing of the remarkable cure Dr. Chase's Ointment was making, we sent for some, and after the third application the sore began to heal. I am glad to say that it is quite well now. Ointment. We cannot recommend this and we give the credit to Dr. Chase's preparation too highly."

Mass Meeting in Public Library Thursday Evening

The committee in charge of arrangements for organizing the local Social Service Council have about completed the details for the mass meeting in the Public Library Assembly Hall on evening of Dec. 5 at 8 p. m. (next Thursday.)

All churches, clubs, organizations and societies in the city who are interested in social reform work are asked to have two delegates at this meeting. The acting secretary has written to most of the organizations but in case some have been missed, it is desirable that they take the matter up at once and see that they are represented as it is important that no one should be left out.

IMPORTANT WORK

Rev. Gilbert Agar, B.A., the official organizer will be here for this meeting with, perhaps, another able man from Toronto. The Social Service work is perhaps the most important question in the minds of the people today. It takes precedence over almost everything because it embodies everything for the betterment of Peterboro. It is not a new organization but rather the unifying or amalgamating of all organizations under one head to exchange ideas and discuss matters of interest to all who should return to their respective bodies with a report and united action should be taken to that end.

Letter From Lieut. Henry

FRANCE, Nov. 3.

Dear brother,—Well, I suppose you will be wondering what I will be doing at the present time I am billeted in a French house and, in the same room where a German officer was billeted for 4 years. We are in a very nice town. The Huns have not shelled this far and you would not know that there is a war on except for the cross roads being torn up and the mining of buildings and railways. When you read the papers about where the Canadians are fighting you can bet that I am there too. Three nights while going up with ammunition I was slightly gassed by the Hun.

You should see the prisoners coming down the line by the thousands for the last few days. When they are passing through the towns and villages where they once ruled the people run out and throw mud and anything that they can get their hands on. In some cases the Frenchmen will walk out and give Heine a severe poke in the jaw. The guards have a great deal of trouble to keep the people from killing the Hun. I was down to the station this morning and saw a trainload of them going away. The French people certainly gave them all that was coming to them.

If our good luck keeps we will be in Germany in about a month's time. We drove the Hun back a considerable distance yesterday and to-day he is still falling back but not fast enough so we are pushing him for all we are worth. Everything looks good and we all expect that the war will be over by Xmas, but that will not mean that we will get home right away. I hear that you had a rumour the other day that the war was over but the next time you hear anything about it I hope that it will be true. I remain as ever Clarence.

Are You a Milk Bottle Hoarder?

Do you realize that every milk bottle you keep, when empty, helps boost the price of milk?

Glass, and particularly bottle glass, has increased in price by bounds, and is still rising.

Every breakage, every bottle you use for convenience around the house—in fact, every bottle you do not return promptly—means added expense to the dairy.

Get the milk bottles you have carelessly put aside and help keep down the price of milk.

It doesn't matter which dairy they belong to—they will be returned to the proper owner. But put them out to-morrow morning.

N.Y. POLICEWOMEN FORCING GIRLS TO WASH PAINT OFF

NEWARK, N.J.—Girls with camouflaged complexions steered away from the Park Place Station, the Pennsylvania Station, and the Public Service terminal here, because they did not want police women to supervise a face washing operation.

They had taken warning from the experience of four girls who fell into the meshes. One of the girls came from the Women's Rest Room at one of the stations about 11 p.m. glowing like a sunset.

"Now go right back and wash your face," demanded Mrs. Margaret T. Dugan, one of the policewomen. The girl, about sixteen years of age, was inclined to refuse, but when she was shown the policewoman's badge of authority she went back and scrubbed off every vestige of powder and paint, being aided by a flow of angry tears.

Other girls did likewise, most of them terror-stricken. About a dozen have been made examples so far, it is said, all being caught at the railway stations. Those who do not wash their own faces will have them washed by the policewomen.

TEXAS DOCTOR SAYS TANLAC IS WONDERFUL

Prominent Texas Physician Says He Has Treated About Fourteen Hundred Cases of Influenza During the Past Month and Has Found Tanlac to Be Best Tonic to Be Had to Build Up His Patients.

THE following letter from Dr. J. W. Sandlin, one of the most prominent physicians of Southern Texas, has just been received at the Tanlac office, and gives indisputable evidence as to the value of Tanlac as a reconstructive tonic for persons who are recuperating from the after effects of Spanish influenza. His letter follows:

"Humble, Tex., Nov. 5, 1918.

"Dear Sir:

"Just a few lines in reference to Tanlac. I have found your preparation to be a wonderful reconstructive tonic and in my opinion it has no equal in its line. I have found it to be the best tonic to be had to build up my patients who have had Spanish Influenza. I have treated within the past month about fourteen hundred cases, and have never been able to get sufficient Tanlac to supply our people.

Yours very truly,
(Signed) "DR. J. W. SANDLIN."

Dr. Sandlin not only enjoys a very large practice as a physician, but he is also a man of wide influence and ranks as a leading citizen of the enterprising little city of Humble, Tex.

As a practicing physician of sixteen years' experience, Dr. Sandlin was quick to recognize the superior tonic properties of Tanlac over other remedies and unhesitatingly and voluntarily gave Tanlac his unqualified indorsement.

Although the Influenza epidemic has greatly subsided, it is still prevalent and is breaking out anew in many sections of the country and continues to claim its victims by the thousands.

Persons who have had Influenza are oftentimes left in a very weakened, run-down condition, and unless the greatest care is taken, both as to habits and diet, serious complications are apt to follow. Persons who have had it are more apt than ever to have it the second time. If you are in this condition, nothing on earth will build you up and strengthen you like Tanlac, which contains the most powerful tonic properties known to science.

As a reconstructive tonic and body builder, it is without an equal and contains the very elements needed by the system to restore you to your normal strength and weight.

First of all, Tanlac begins its action by creating a good healthy appetite for wholesome, nourishing food and assists the vital organs which have been weakened by the disease to perform their natural functions, thus helping to build up health and strength in the natural way.

This statement is easily proven by the fact that Tanlac is now having the greatest sale of any system tonic in the history of medicine. In less than four years' time over ten million bottles have been sold and the demand is constantly increasing.

In connection with the Tanlac treatment, it is necessary to keep the bowels open by taking Tanlac Laxative Tablets, samples of which are included with every bottle of Tanlac.

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd., in Havelock by A. C. Denike, in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd., in Fowlers Corners by W. A. Hunter, in Gelert by A. J. Scott, in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

Business Changed Hands

Mr. A. M. Laidlaw Retires From "Fashion Craft" Store

The undersigned takes pleasure in announcing that he has purchased the stock of "Fashion Craft" Clothing and Furnishings, and will continue the business in the same premises, 140 Hunter Street. A continuance of the liberal patronage hitherto enjoyed by Mr. Laidlaw, is respectfully solicited.

Mr. Laidlaw will continue his connection with the store for a short time.

Through good business foresight, the stock, in most lines, was bought before the marked advance in wholesale prices, and could not be replaced at the prices marked for this month.

Gentlemen who are able to exercise personal taste in the matter of dress will enjoy more than ordinary pleasure from a Christmas gift purchased here. We suggest Neck Ties; Gloves, Silk Scarfs, Dressing Gowns, Smoking Jackets.

Guns and Howitzers

THE words "gun," "howitzer" and "mortar" have become common in the newspapers and are now used in everyday speech. It is difficult to define the line separating these classes of weapons. Even an expert in ordnance would not find it easy to make clear to a layman just at what point the properties of a gun disappear and those of the howitzer begin, or at what point the characteristics of the howitzer end and those of the mortar begin. Considered in a broad and general way, the special purpose of the gun was, and is, to destroy other guns, to destroy troops in the open and to batter down objects behind which troops find shelter.

The projectile of the gun, by high-powder pressure, was given a high velocity and relatively flat trajectory, which means that the shot passing from gun to target does not rise high above a line joining gun and target. To withstand the powder pressure required for this work the gun was heavy in relation to the weight of the projectile. From the fact that the shot traveled in a path relatively of slight curve, its slope of fall was not steep. When it reached the highest point in its path it continued to travel forward as it came down. It would go through a stone wall or would go deep in a dirt embankment or would reach the farther slope behind a crest, but it was hard to put a shot in a trench — to break through the earth and timber with which the trench might be roofed, and it was difficult to put a shot so close behind an embankment as to kill the men sheltered there.

To accomplish these things the gun was modified. The powder pressure was decreased, the elevation of the gun was increased and the angle of departure of the shot was so increased that when it reached the summit of its path it fell so steeply that if the practice were good the shot might plunge through a trench shelter or fall close behind an embankment or parapet. In making this sort of gun the makers found that after decreasing the powder pressure per square inch of powder chamber they could also lighten the gun and improve its mobility. They lightened the gun by making the barrel shorter. Then they concluded that they would not make the gun lighter, but would enlarge the bore and increase the size of the projectile, thus increasing its efficiency. This type of gun was given the specific name of "howitzer." It is not named after the man who developed the idea of high-angle gunfire. It is said to be an old German word for "catapult," which was an ancient engine of war.

The catapult was not what many men think it. The catapult and the ballista were ancient artillery of the crossbow type. The ancient engine which threw big stones on the leverage principle, and, necessarily, gave a very high trajectory, was called an onager.

The principle of high-angle fire and steep slope of fall was carried further in the development of the mortar. It was a very short piece of ordnance, generally fired from a platform and held down by ropes. A plunging fire was obtained from these, so that shell could be landed inside a fort or on the deck of a ship. The range used to be obtained altogether by varying the powder charge. To-day mortars weighing at least four tons, fitted with an elevating device and range scale and with recoil and recuperator devices, are hauled around on wheels and then set down on a platform, which has also been hauled around on wheels.

The field gun, for the purpose of firing across ridges, getting at troops on the farther slope of ridges, giving shrapnel the proper slope of fall for effective distribution and keeping the load light on the horses, has veered away from the gun as developed in ship and fort guns and in the direction of the howitzer. It has also been given a high degree of elevation, not only that they may be laid on higher targets, but that the shell may fall more nearly perpendicular.—Washington Star.

VERSAILLES IS A VERY HISTORIC SPOT

(By United Press)

Versailles, Nov. 16. (By Mail.)—This is a great town for a peace conference although it isn't quite half as big as Toledo, Ohio, in point of population, and has not nearly the hotel accommodation available in Salt Lake City, and has no convention hall in the class of the Auditorium at St. Paul, Minn., it has one qualification which absolutely puts those American cities out of the race for the world's greatest peace conference.

It has background.

Background is as essential to a successful peace conference as is chile con carne to a Mexican carnival. It is expensive, and the right kind cannot be bought in any market any more, the late war having used up the entire current output.

The historical background of Versailles cost France a century of starvation, an ocean of blood, a cycle of scandel, a few billion francs, and a heartache that throbbed so powerfully that it jarred dynasties and empires off the earth.

Louis XIII, who was a goodly king, went hunting in the woods where now stands Versailles, one day about 1624. He had fine luck hunting, but at night he had to sleep in a hotel, where there were some common folk sleeping and sitting about talking politics Sleeping in the same building with wagoners and farmers was shocking to Louix, for Louix was a regular king. He decided to build a little chateau near his hunting grounds, where he could sleep in peace once or twice a year, for he had no automobile to take him back to Paris at the end of a perfect hunting day.

That chateau of Louis XIII, a very unbeautiful but highly expensive house, still stands, with the magnificent Palace of Versailles built around it.

The palace itself could house 10,000 persons very easily, but it doesn't and never did.

It is used as a museum, and as a monument to the stupendous extravagance, effrontery, and futility of monarchy. It is used also for peace conferences now and then. Usually when two or more nations have struggled so long on the battlefield that all the common folks' money has been spent and the fortunes of the counts and dukes have been threatened, delegates of the belligerent nations have gathered at Versailles and signed a peace treaty. Now it is proposed that representatives of practically all nations of any importance and representatives of al classes of human beings, meet here to proclaim the end of war and autocracy.

Louis XV made some changes and pretty much got lost in the big corridors.

Louis XVI did some more building and tearing down and improving.

Napoleon neglected the great palace, and afterwards remarked that he was sorry he hadn't torn it down while he had a chance.

Louis Philippe spent a few millions repairing and restoring the palace and grounds and carrying out some projects of his own in connection with it.

And here it stands, ready to furnish shelter and background for a real peace conference.

Nobody ever will know how much the great palace cost France under the reign of its builder, Louis XIV. Louis became badly scared when he received the bills, because he had heard a good deal about some disturbers who were whispering that even a king had no right to spend so much money for a palace for to house his lady friends when the nation over which he ruled was starving. So Louis did what many a purchaser of expensive hats has done since—tore up the bills and burned them before anybody could look them over.

The palace was not built with an eye to peace conferences, or assemblies of democracies. Louis XIV didn't know about such things. But Louis had a lady friend, a Miss La Valliere, with whom he was trying to make a great hit. She was the same lady who wore the little decoration suspended about her neck, from which lavallieres (variously spelled and designed in these days) take their name. A certain Fouquet, Louis' minister of finance, also courted Miss La Valliere, and one night gave a big party to win her heart. He spent 18,000,000 francs on the party, but then he was minister of finance. He invited the king, and the king became wroth that a mere minister of finance should be able to give such a party and steal his girl at the same time. So Louis had Fouquet thrown in jail as a suspicious character, and decided to build a house that would knock Miss La Valliere's eye out, so to speak Louis was a married man, of course but then he was king, and in those days a king could do no wrong.

Both Louis XIV and his successors found that the palace was entirely too big for one lady friend, so they brought in several at a time, and yet managed to keep them so far apart that the royal hair-pullings were few indeed. Among the successors of La Valliere were the notorious Mmes. Montespan, Maintenon, Dubarry, and Pompadour.

Descriptions of the various rooms of the palace occupy many volumes and descriptions of the gardens about the palace occupy whole libraries. But the room of chief interest at this time is the Gallery of Mirrors. It was here that King William of Prussia, ancestor of William Hohenzollern, was proclaimed emperor of Germany on Jan. 18, 1871. And it is here that we may expect to see William Hohenzollern proclaimed nobody, 48 years later. In fact, many Frenchmen are so poetic as to hope that by Jan. 18, 1919, either the peace conference or some auxiliary court may sentence the last German emperor for his crimes. It was here that a humiliating surrender was dictated to France by Bismarck, and it was here that the supreme war council of the civilized nations dictated its grim armistice terms that toppled over the throne of the Hohenzollerns in Prussia and the German Empire. In this most extravagant room of this palace that is recognized as the supreme expression of irresponsible autocracy it is likely that the democracy of the world will be written into a permanent covenant and proclaimed to humanity.

This room is 237 feet long by 33 feet wide, and 43 feet from floor to ceiling. On one side 17 large windows look out upon the gardens. On the other side 17 large mirrors, the same size as the windows, reflect the glory of Versailles and the scenes of statecraft that periodically are enacted there.

Versailles may not have enough hotel facilities for the conference, but it certainly has the atmosphere, the background. And Paris is but ten miles away.

REORGANIZE CIVIC LEAGUE.

Brantford Body Aims at Better Municipal Candidates.

BRANTFORD, Dec. 3.—The Brantford Municipal League, which was very active some years ago under the name of The Citizens' League, will be re-organized and will endavour to bring out a better class of candidates for the civic elections in January next. The programme of the League will be adopted at a public meeting to be held next Monday, and it is expected that there will be a League candidate for every vacant position on local boards. The attitude is taken that the support of such a League is needed if the business leaders of the city are to be brought into the civic arena.

BRITISH ARMY HEALTHY.

Cases of Enteric Fever Far Fewer Than in South African War.

LONDON. — The British Armies have had only 4,000 cases of enteric fever in over four years, despite the fact that the troops have frequently been billeted in areas infested with the disease. Medical officers say that illness in the army has been reduced to a minimum. Sanitation and inoculation have been primarily responsible for this state of affairs.

To understand the strides that have been made, it must be remembered that during the two and a half years of the South African war there were more than 50,000 cases of enteric fever among a force of 200,000 men, and this in a country practically immune from the disease up to the outbreak of hostilities.

Throughout the British Army in France infectious diseases have been practically eliminated. Every officer has had a course in sanitation. Successful toxins and vaccines have been invented for gas and gangrene, and huge strides have been made in surgery.

Influenza Severe Around Kinmount

Barn Struck by Lightning—Kinmount News of Interest.

KINMOUNT, Dec. 4. — The 'Flu' has been very severe around here for some time, but at present there are no new cases.

Messrs. E. and W. Coben are visiting friends in this vicinity, after spending the summer in the west.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Simpson are recovering from a severe attack of influenza.

Miss Cora Simpson, who has been under the doctor's care for some months, is very much improved.

Barn Destroyed.

During the thunder storm of Friday last the lightning struck a barn owned by Mr. Ed. Greaves of the Galway road. All the stock was saved, but the barn and all the winter's feed was destroyed.

Social Evening.

The ladies of the Women's Institute held a social evening at the home of the president, Mrs. Williams. Quite a crowd gathered and music and games were followed until late in the evening, when refreshments were served.

Miss Doily Moore who was laid up for a few days, is able to resume her studies.

Service Cancelled.

On the last Sunday of the month the service in the Presbyterian church was cancelled owing to the illness of the pastor, Rev. Mr. Williams.

Death of Pioneer.

A pioneer of this country passed away at the home of her son, in the person of Mrs. Walker, relict of the late Mr. E. Walker, at the advanced age of 89 years. The deceased had been ailing for some time. She leaves to mourn her loss one daughter, Mrs. Chynouth, in the west, and one son, Joe, at home.

President Wilson Started On Etc.

It was a misty morning with a slightly overcast sky, and rain predicted. The breeze was light and it looked as if the President would have a smooth sea for the start of his momentous voyage.

Guns Salute.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—An unprecedented demonstration was accorded the transport George Washington as she steamed out of New York harbour to-day, bearing President Woodrow Wilson and his party to Europe to attend the peace conference. Salutes of many guns thundered out from the land batteries and warships, thousands of people on the piers and excursion steamers cheered themselves haorse and hundreds of whistles added their roar of respect to the Chief Executive of the United States.

Secretary of State Lansing and many other distinguished members were aboard the transport. Mrs. Wilson accompanied the President. Scores of secret service men are aboard the George Washington and a fleet of warships escort the vessel on its way to Europe via the Azores, which route is taken to avoid cold weather. The party is not expected to reach Brest, France, till a week from Saturday.

Opposed to Militarism.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—Prior to President Wilson's departure to-day for Europe to attend the peace conference, it became known that he goes determined against militarism in any form. The crushing of Prussian militarism was part of his plan for the future peace of the whole world.

WEDDING BELLS

WHEELER—MCKINLAY

A pretty wedding was solemnized at St. James Methodist church when Miss Mary McKinlay became the bride of Mr. Walter H. Wheeler. The bride was prettily dressed in a white Georgette crepe dress and veil with a wreath of orange blossoms. The bride was supported by Miss Lottie Fair and the groom by Mr. Tom Pacey. Miss Florence Warren, the niece of the groom and Miss Winifred Bohn made pretty little flower girls.

The groom's gift to the bride was a diamond and garnet ring and necklace, to the bridesmaid a pearl brooch and a set of military brushes to the best man. The dainty little flower girls were very much pleased with their pretty little locket and chain which was a gift from the groom.

The young couple returned to the bride's home where a dainty wedding breakfast was served to thirty-six guests.

RICHARDSON—MATHER

Mrs. George Mather, 347 Charlotte street, announces the marriage in London, of her eldest daughter Nursing Sister Louise Mather and Captain Angus A. Richardson of the Canadian Engineers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. K. Richardson, East City.

Nursing Sister Mather went overseas with the Queen Alexandria Imperial Nursing Corps. Captain Richardson went over with the 93rd Battalion.

BIDGOOD—TULLY.

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the Presbyterian manse, Springville, on December 4th, at 1 o'clock, by Rev. G. I. Craw, of Olive, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Tully, North Monaghan, and Mr. Henkle Bidgood, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. George Bidgood, of North Monaghan. The bride was attired in grey georgette crepe and grey hat to match, and Hudson seal coat, the gift of the bride's father. She was attended by her cousin, Hazel Rutherford, and Arnold Bidgood, brother of the groom, acted as best man.

OBITUARY

GUNSOLUS.

The funeral of the infant twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs Harry Gunsolus, 187 London street, was held this afternoon from family residence at 4:30 to Little Lake cemetery. Rev. A. J. Thomas conducted a short service.

MRS. MABEL EDNA McPHEE.

The death occurred yesterday of Mrs. Mabel Edna McPhee, 577 Bethune street, after a short illness. The late Mrs. McPhee was born in Elgin, Manitoba. She leaves a sorrowing husband, a mother, a father, and a baby daughter, 12 days old.

The funeral will take place on Friday, service at 1 p.m., from the family residence, to Lakefield cemetery. Rev. R. G. Pogue will officiate.

CHARLES GRAY.

The remains of the late Charles Gray, who died last week in New York, arrived in the city last night, and were laid at rest in the Little Lake cemetery to-day.

The late Mr. Gray, who was the son of Mr. Harry Gray, of Ottawa, was born in Peterboro 33 years ago. Before leaving for Buffalo ten years ago, he was a member of the Dominion Express staff in the city. Lately he moved from Buffalo to New York.

The immediate cause of his death was Spanish influenza, but he had not been well for two years.

From the Vancouver Province, Nov. 19th:

The funeral was held last Saturday of Mrs. A. E. Thompson, wife of Mr. A. E. Thompson, relieving agent for the Canadian Northern Railway, in this city. Members of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers, with which Mr. Thompson has been connected for many years, were present at the ceremony, —an expression of sympathy greatly appreciated by him.

Mrs. Thompson died on Wednesday evening of pneumonia following an attack of influenza. Her death occurred a short time after the death of Mr. Thompson's mother, Mrs. J. E. Harrison of Winnipeg, who succumbed in this city to an attack of Spanish influenza on Tuesday morning, and was buried on Wednesday afternoon, Mr. Thompson having the sad experience of arriving home from the funeral of his mother only to witness the death of his wife.

Mr. J. E. Harrison, the bereaved husband, who is connected with the Union Casualty Company, in Winnipeg, and who is at present in the city, was unable to attend the funeral of his wife owing to the fact that he himself was suffering from the disease. He is now recovering, however. The news of Mrs. Thompson's death will come as a great shock to her many friends in Claresholm, Alberta, where Mr. and Mrs. Thompson resided for a number of years.

Mr. Thompson will leave for Peterboro, Ont., to fulfill the last request of his wife, that their daughter be placed in the care of her sister, Mrs. C. F. Brown of that city.

Mr. A. E. Thompson and daughter, Isabell, arrived in Peterboro on Saturday afternoon, and are staying with Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Brown, Water street.

Mr. Thompson will remain in the city until he has fully recovered from the effects of a severe attack of influenza, from which he had not fully recovered when he got up to nurse his wife and mother.

(Special to The Examiner.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Premier Malinoff has resigned and is succeeded by M. Mouchanoff, official cables to the Bulgarian Legation to-day stated. Both are of the Democratic party and are inclined toward the Entente, it is said.

Situation in City Is Not Serious

There have been a number of cases of influenza in the west ward reported to me by the doctors of the city, but I do not consider the situation sufficiently grave to cause alarm.

Four U. S. Soldiers Disperse Mob of Thousands Wrecking German Shops in Luxemburg

Overcharging of Americans Angers Crowd at Esch and It Smashes Up Twenty-eight Stores With Loss of More Than 4,000,000 Francs.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY OF OCCUPATION, Dec. 5.—(by the Associated Press).—Four American soldiers dispersed a mob of thousands at Esch after the mob had wrecked twenty-eight shops in revenge for the overcharging of Americans. Most of these establishments were conducted by Germans. The loss is estimated at between 4,000,000f. and 7,000,000f.

The trouble began when a soldier was charged two francs for a cake of chocolate and the same amount for an apple The Luxemburgers, who long have protested against high prices, resented the overcharging of their "deliverers" They entered the shop, destroying its contents.

Some one raised the cry to wipe out all German establishments, and the mob soon grew to thousands, who began sysematic destruction.

A department store owned by a Hollander was wrecked, and the reported his loss to his government, He was the only foreigner, other than Germans, whose property was attacked.

The anti-German spirit was superseded by ordinary mob enthusiasm, and the destruction finally was extended to the shops of Luxemburgers themselves.

Two American lieutenants who arrived while the campaign of destruction was at its height called upon four enlisted men to arm themselves with broken boards and disperse the crowd The soldiers shouted to the excited men and women to go to their homes and they dispersed quickly, accepting the command without question.

PRESIDENT WILSON IS NOT WELCOME TO ALL

Some Writers in Paris Fear His Humanitarian Ideas About Germany.

CHICAGO, Dec. 2 — A Paris despatch to The Chicago Tribune, under date of Nov. 21, says there is a great deal of enthusiasm over the announcement that President Wilson is coming and also a great deal of speculation. A concrete reason for the speculation is Wilson's humanitarian ideas toward Germany.

Alfred Capus of the Academic Francaise says in Figaro: "We know we owe the illustrious President of the United States eternal gratitude, but we do not think this applies to blind submission or that it obliges us to abandon our conception of French interests."

Cri de Paris argues even further, and puts the whole impulse on the ground of political aspirations, under the heading, "Idealism." The author says: "It is well understood that Wilson is the most religious and most idealistic of diplomats, and also by the eternal decree of Divine Providence, his interests always accord with the interests of his country and even his party. Therefore, Wilson is ready to aid unfortunate Germany, which is dying of hunger, and nothing could be so sublime as this rapid pardon of old offenses. But by a marvellous coincidence, this immediate feeding of the vanquished is also the desire of twelve to fifteen million German-Americans, who, enchanted, have thrown off the Kaiser and all responsibility for past crimes to take up relations with their compatriots, whom they have aided to deliver from the imperial yoke.

Idealistic Wilson.

"These German-Americans will be grateful to the idealistic Wilson, and they won't forget to vote in two years for Democratic party and to check the Republicans, who just triumphed in the recent election."

The food situation here in France is, if anything, worse than a month ago. Many necessities are almost completely lacking. Butter, coffee, milk, matches, olive oil, margarines, and rice are very difficult to find. A quarter pound of coffee or butter is all you are allowed to buy at a time, even when you are lucky enough to find some one to sell it to you. People arriving every day from Germany say the situation, although bad there, is no worse than it has been during all the past months, and that this cry of "Hurry, hurry, or we starve!" is all a part of the scheme to soften the armistice and peace conditions.

A Frenchman of one of the older classes said to me: "I am a short, undersized man with years of weakness and sickness behind me, simply because I was born just after the war of 1870. My mother lived on roots and on all the miserable nothing which those who submitted to the siege of Paris had to suffer. Do you think when I see those great husks of Germans, with their fat years of plenty behind them, that I feel any particular desire to make yet more restrictions and to see my six-year-old boy growing thin that they may keep fat?"

Dining Car Was Stocked With Booze.

HAMILTON, Dec. 3.—Last Friday afternoon Canadian immigration officials suspecting that illicit liquor trafficking was being carried out in one of the dining cars, upon arrival of the C.P.R. train reaching Bridgeburg en route for Hamilton and Toronto, delayed the train and unearthed twelve bottles of whiskey. The dining car conductor and several waiters were immediately removed from the train and handed over to the Bridgeburg police authorities. Next morning the delinquents, Buffaloians, were each fined $200.

Look, Mother! If tongue is coated clean little liver and bowels.
If your little one's tongue is coated, it is a sure sign the stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once. When your child is cross, peevish, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, eat or act naturally; if breath is bad, stomach sour, system full of cold, throat sore, or if feverish, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the clogged-up, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again.
Sick children needn't be coaxed to take this harmless "fruit laxative." Millions of mothers keep it handy because they know its action on the stomach, liver and bowels is prompt and sure. They also know a little given to-day saves a sick child to-morrow.
Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which contains directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine made by "California Fig Syrup Company."

HANDLING THE PENSIONS.

Much Heavy Work Yet to be Done by Board.

OTTAWA, Dec. 3. — There is no prospect of any diminution in the work of the Board of Pensions Commissioners for some months to come. There are in Canada at the present time apprximately seven thousand soldiers under treatment or receiving vocational training who are in receipt of pensions. The evacuation of the numerous hospitals and convalescent homes all over Great Britain will result in a large influx of Canadian invalided soldiers, whose cases for pensions will have to be considered. A rough estimate places the number of Canadian soldiers at present in British hospitals alone at 45,000. It is possible, of course, that many of these may be eventually discharged as fit.

With the cessation of hostilities it is expected that a large number of Canadian pensioners who have remained in the Old Country and whose pensions have been paid through the British branch of the Board of Pension Commissioners, will probably evince a desire to return to their native soil. During the war many partially disabled soldiers have been transferred to the non-combatant units, such as forestry, pay corps, etc., and the claims of these men to pensions will have to be considered by the Board

A SLUGGISH LIVER CAUSED SEVERE HEADACHES
The duty of the liver is to prepare and secrete bile and serve as a filter to the blood, cleansing it of all impurities and poisons.
Healthy bile in sufficient quantity is Nature's provision to secure regular action of the bowels, and when the liver is sluggish it is not working properly, and does not manufacture enough bile to thoroughly act on the bowels and carry off the waste products from the system, hence the bowels become clogged up, the bile gets into the blood, constipation sets in, followed by sick and bilious headaches, coated tongue, bad breath, heartburn, water brash, bad taste in the mouth in the morning, jaundice, floating specks before the eyes, etc.
Miss Dian Clark, Myer's Cave, Ont., writes:—"I take pleasure in writing you concerning the good I have received by using Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills for a sluggish liver. When my liver got bad I would have severe headaches, but I got better after I had used a couple of vials of your pills."
Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills gently unlock the secretion, clear away all waste and effete matter by acting directly on the liver, and make the bile pass through the bowels instead of allowing it to get into the blood.
Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c. a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

CATTLE MARKET

Union Stock Yards—Receipts yesterday, 95 cars, with 1,024 head of cattle, 91 calves, 2,038 hogs, and 1,630 sheep and lambs.

The loudest and most insistent complaint at the Union Stock Yards today was not the price of cattle, but the terribly dirty state of the market and the long time it took to get a load of cattle over the scales. The latter part of the complaint was very general, and it was urged that this difficulty in getting stock weighed interfered seriously with business. As to prices, the market was practically steady with the early week's quotations. A fair demand for good to choice butcher cattle, for good feeders, but no demand for lightweight stockers. A good market for canners and cutters, but slower on the medium butchers' cattle.

Sheep and lambs steady, the bulk of the lambs going at $14 to $14.50, with one or two decks extra choice at $14.65.

Hogs steady at $18.50, fed and watered.

Indian Marriage Binding.

Cornelius Henry, a Six Nation Indian, claimed through his counsel, J. W. Bowlby, in Brantford recently that a pageant form of marriage which he went through with Sarah Henry, who charged him with non-support, was not binding. Magistrate Livingston thought otherwise, and in view of the fact that the couple had eight children and the defendant had not provided for his wife for two years, he imposed a fine of $100 or six months, the fine, if paid, to go to the wife.

Marvels of War Surgery.

Flight Lieut. C. Jones, of Kelowna, who was recently home on leave, was, last winter, the victim of a 1,500 feet fall from cloudland. His face and jaws were horribly shattered and he lay unconscious and unfound for three days. He has now but a slight scar on the chin to mark his mishap — thanks to the marvelous surgery of the army.

Dandruff Surely Destroys the Hair

Girls—if you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.

Red Baron Killed by Canadian

CAPT. A. ROY BROWN, a Canadian flyer, brought down the greatest air fighter Germany has produced, Cavalry Captain Baron von Richthofen.

The death of the famous German was laconically announced as follows in an official despatch from British Headquarters on April 22: "The pilot of one of the hostile machines, which was brought down in combat, and fell in our lines, was the well-known German airman and fighter, Rittmeister Freiherr M. von Richthofen, who claimed to have brought down eighty machines. His body has to-day been buried with full military honors."

Our readers may recall that by far the most effective work done by the German airmen has been by means of their two enormous squadrons nicknamed by Allied aviators the "Tango Escadrille" and the "Travelling Circus." These sometimes number as many as sixty planes each, all flying in formation, the aces with their three stripes painted on their planes, and the lesser fry without distinguishing mark. Following the deaths of Capt. Boelcke and Capt. Immelman, for a long time the late Baron von Richthofen was the chief German ace and was in command of the "Travelling Circus."

At first there was some mystery as to how von Richthofen came by his death. For instance, Mr. Philip Gibbs, the famous war correspondent, in describing the occurrence said: "How it happened is not yet quite clear, and there are various theories as to the way in which he was brought down; because there was a general fight over our lines, with many machines engaged on both sides, and in such cases it is difficult to get exact evidence."

Later, more exact details of the fight were published. Boyd Cable published a despatch in the British papers which said: "The Red Baron, with his famous 'Circus,' discovered two of our artillery observing machines, and with a few followers attacked, the greater part of the 'Circus' drawing off to allow the baron to go in and down the two. They put up a fight, and, while the baron manoeuvred for position, a number of our fighting scout planes appeared and attacked the 'Circus.' The baron joined the melee, which, scattering into groups, developed into what our men call a 'dog fight.' In the course of this the baron dropped on the tail of a fighting scout, which dived, with the baron in close pursuit. Another of our scouts seeing this dived after the German, opening fire on him. All three machines came near enough to the ground to be engaged with infantry machine-gun fire, and the baron was seen to swerve, continue his dive headlong, and crash into our lines. His body and the famous blood-red Fokker triplane were brought in by the infantry, and the baron was buried with full military honors. He was hit by one bullet, and the position of the wound showed clearly that he had been killed by the pilot who dived down after him."

The pilot who dived down after von Richthofen was none other than a Canadian, Capt. A. Roy Brown, D.S.C., a son of Mr. J. M. Brown, of J. Brown & Sons, millers and grain dealers, of Carleton Place, Ont.

Capt. Brown is a graduate of the High School in Carleton Place, the Collegiate Institute in Edmonton, and the Willis Business College in Ottawa. In August, 1915, he signed up with the Royal Naval Air Service, and took a pilot's course in Dayton, Ohio, with the Wright Flying School.

He went overseas in December, 1915, and was badly injured in the spring of 1916 in England in a flying accident just when he had completed his training. He was five months in hospital from the injuries then sustained, but he came round and remained with the service. Some time in the fall of 1916 he went over to France, and he and Capt. Stearne T. Edwards won the D.S.C. about a year later for bringing down a number of German planes.

His brother, Lieut. J. H. Brown, went overseas with the first Canadian contingent with the rank of corporal. He was wounded in June, 1915, and was discharged. Later, however, he re-enlisted with the 240th Battalion and obtained a commission. He transferred to the Royal Naval Air Service and proceeded overseas once more last October.

It is interesting to read a description by another famous Allied aviator, who met Richthofen: "Upon one occasion I met the late Baron von Richthofen at a height of more than 20,000 feet. The encounter surprised both of us, for he seldom flew detached from his group, and as a rule none of his men flew at such a great altitude. He was surprised to see me, I know. In all probability the rest of his boys were down below, only a short distance, beneath some voluminous clouds. Possibly he had gone up there in pursuit of one of our men who had teased him into it and had outclimbed him, and in the meantime the baron had lost his troupe. Anyway, the day I ran into von Richthofen I went right for him, though much was in his favor. He was a far more experienced pilot than I, but my machine, with its 220-horse power Hispano-Suiza motor, was much faster than his that I could simply ride rings round him. For at least twenty minutes we went at it, and I really believe that I exasperated him. He did all sorts of marvellous acrobatics to fool me. There was not much he did not know about trick stuff. Finally he came at me with a mad rush, and when he missed me, he kept on going. Sometimes I am of opinion that I am glad he kept on going, for my ammunition was almost exhausted from shooting at him."

His Accent.

Before the war, he was a specialist in the study of English at one of England's leading universities, and after being wounded in France last year while leading his men "over the top," he came to America on a special lecturing mission, relates Judge. One night he spoke in an out of the way village of Wyoming, a hundred miles from the railway to a delighted audience. He noticed a little girl about fourteen years old, sitting open-mouthed on the front row during the whole of his two-hour speech. Later, she came with the others to shake hands. "Lieutenant," she said with a sly smile, "I could listen to you all night. I do love to hear you speak your broken English."

WILL CONTEST THE ELECTION

(Special to The Examiner.)

AMSTERDAM, Dec. 4—The former Emperor and the Grand Dukes of Austria, plan the formation of a constitutional monarchial party which they expect to lead in contesting the elections next March of a new national assembly for Austria.

COUGHED, COUGHED ALL NIGHT LONG

Terribly wearing on the system is the cough that comes at night and prevents sleep. Sometimes it is a constant cough, cough that will not be quieted.

Sometimes it is a choked-up, stuffed-up feeling that makes breathing difficult, and sleep impossible.

Whatever kind of a cold or cough you have, Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is the remedy you need to cure it, for the simple reason that this valuable preparation combines all the lung healing virtues of the Norway pine tree with which is combined wild cherry bark, and the soothing, healing and expectorant properties of other excellent herbs and barks.

Miss Margaret Landly, Bristol, P.E.I., writes: "I am writing to tell you the benefit I have received from Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

Last fall I took a severe cough and cold in my head. I was unable to do anything. At night I could not sleep, but cough, cough, all night long. A friend advised me to use Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and before the second bottle was used, I was entirely cured, and I have found this the best cough medicine I can buy."

Do not accept any other "pine" preparations when you ask for "Dr. Wood's." This remedy has been on the market for a quarter of a century. It is put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark; price 25c. and 50c. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

Against Traditions

By JANE OSBORNE

(Copyright, 1918, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

When Justine Flanders consented to open the Red Cross drive in Bishopstown, little did she realize that on the Sunday afternoon set aside for that purpose so many hindrances, both trivial and important, should conspire to make difficult her getting off. Her chauffeur's wife was ill and at the last minute she had to send to the station for a taxi; her maid forgot to press the dress she intended to wear; she mislaid her purse, and a lift came off from her favorite pair of shoes—just the sort of things that sometimes come to mar the serenity of great actresses as well as the rest of us. So Justine Flanders was in no cheerful mood when she started out and she wondered as she slammed her apartment door just why she had consented to go out to a little town like Bishopstown and make an appeal for Red Cross aid before a lot of narrow-minded college professors and ministers and country folk. Still she had been asked especially by Dr. Taylor Holmes, the president of Bishopstown college, who told her that the college men had voted her the most popular actress on the stage, and he felt she could make a better appeal than anyone else.

The men at Bishopstown were just at an age when the emotional, but never sentimental, acting of the famous red-haired actress left nothing to be desired. As for Dr. Taylor Holmes he had never seen the lady either on the stage or off. He admired her as he admired anyone who had as definitely succeeded in the achievement of a worth-while ambition as she had. He had set his heart on becoming a college president, and she on becoming a leading actress; and at a little less than forty they had both accomplished their ambition. In so far, mused Taylor Holmes, they were kindred spirits. In spite of this conviction, the schoolman felt some misgivings. While he didn't disapprove of actresses, he still retained enough of the old Puritanic traditions of the family to make him feel that members of the acting profession moved in a different sphere. His stern old father had thought "play-actors" were emissaries of the devil; for his own part he merely avoided them. No wonder, then, that as the time came for the Red Cross rally with Justine Flanders as the chief speaker and himself to introduce her, he had some actual palpitations of the heart. His maiden sister, who presided over his household for him, had more than palpitations. She frankly didn't approve, though she made an especially elaborate toilet preparatory to the meeting and consented to sit with other celebrities on one of the chairs on the platform behind the speaker.

"Of course," said the sister decorously drawing on her black gloves as she waited for her brother to crank his cheap but entirely adequate motorcar on their departure for the hall where the meeting was to be held, "of course, we won't have to have anything to do with her socially. I hope she won't look indecent," this with emphasis on the "look" as if there was no doubt whatever as to the actress' actually being so.

The college president paid little attention to his sister. He was divided between steering a straight course between the ruts in the bad road that led from his house to the hall, and rehearsing to himself the words of his introductory speech.

When the famous actress sat, smiling and beautiful, on the platform, no one would have guessed that her departure from the city had been fraught with interruptions and distractions. She did not have to rehearse her speech, for it was the identical speech that had been given on all previous occasions of the sort and she knew it by heart.

"Well, at least she is decently dressed," conceded the president' sister to the professor's wife beside her, and then there was a hush as the president stepped forth to introduce the great actress.

Fully three minutes' cheering followed before Justine began her talk. There was not the slightest doubt of the fact of the students' entire approval of their idol. With such ovation it was perhaps no wonder that her talk was inspiring and that she used such powers of persuasion that within ten or fifteen minutes $2,000 had been subscribed to the drive fund. President Holmes could not have entered more effectively into it had his own effort been studied and not the result of a burst of actual enthusiasm caused by the magnetism of the Titian-haired actress. He pulled his check book from his pocket and signed a check with a flourish, which he gave to Justine.

"How much was it for?" snapped his sister, tugging at his coat tails. "I wouldn't give her the satisfaction of getting all my contribution." And that good spinster almost fainted when, with a little shriek of joy, the speaker flourished the check and called out, in notes that might have been an Amazon's cry: "A thousand dollars from President Taylor Holmes. Here's God's blessing on the president," and then she had the president by both arms and was beaming up into his face and smiling first at him and then at the audience as though it was the happiest moment of her life. That did the business. The same tactics had done the business at other Red Cross drives before, but no one guessed that, as far as Justine went, it was something that had been rehearsed carefully. Fifteen minutes later and the sum equaled $5,000, much of which had come in from individual contributions from the students who gave to the utmost from their limited bank accounts for the sake of their idol. Then the actress looked at her watch, a little platinum disk on her wrist, and said—it was of course, part of the speech, but no one knew about it:

"I'd stay and get another thousand, but my train goes in five minutes and if I don't get that train I won't get home for supper. So good-by everybody, and God bless you."

There was a murmur running along the seats behind the speaker. She knew someone would take the cue. Someone always did. The president rose to go forward; and his sister rose and tugged at his coat tails this time with great definiteness of purpose.

"Don't for heaven's sake ask her to supper. It would ruin your reputation. Mark my word, it would be against traditions."

But the president didn't mark his sister's words of wisdom, and after whispering to the speaker, she turned and called exultantly to her audience:

"Doctor Holmes has asked me to go home and have dinner at his house, so I don't have to get that train at all. Bully for Doctor Holmes. I'll have a chance to get a thousand more."

She did get the thousand more, and then she and the president and the president's sister started home. The president drove his car and the two women sat in the seat behind. The sister said nothing, and as a matter of fact, the young woman who had been so energetic and animated, now seemed exhausted and drooped in her seat. The president turned to look at her. She seemed paler than she had appeared and, though she looked younger there was less of purposefulness in her expression.

However, once in the president's cozy, homelike study, with the prospect of dinner at hand, her spirits were revived, and while the sister busied herself about the dining room—for since that actress-person insisted on staying it was her duty to get the best possible dinner—the professor stood over the guest's chair and looked anxiously into her face. He felt as if he had known her longer than any other woman in the world, and he felt, too, as if during the few minutes of his sister's absence he ought to take her tired body in his arms and tell her that she was wonderful. Instead, he told her very tenderly that she seemed fatigued, and then pressing her hand in his, thanked her for coming to start the drive.

The president and the actress started out alone at nine for the train, and it was at the actress' suggestion that they missed the train and took a little country digression. And before they had gone half a mile the dignified professor told the woman at his side that he had fallen very much in love with her. He told her he was telling her because he should probably never see her again. It would be necessary in their different spheres of life that their ways should part, he said, but he would always remember her as the one woman in the world. "Frankly," he said, "I could no more marry an actress that you would want to marry and settle down here as a college president's wife."

"I'm not an actress," came very weakly, and then the hat was slipped back, and with it the red wig and a girl with light brown disheveled curls sat beside him. "At the last minute Miss Flanders couldn't come. I am one of the volunteer Red Cross speakers in a small way, and I know her speech by heart. And when she couldn't come headquarters they sent me on as her understudy. I just borrowed one of her red wigs. She hasn't real red hair, either, but no one knows that, and so I imitated her and said her speech and—"

The college president forgot that his car had stopped half way up a slight embankment, whither it had wandered of its own accord. He was too much preoccupied in clasping the girl at his side to his heart.

The funny part of it was that Bishopstown long remembered the visit of Justine Flanders, but they never did find out where President Holmes met the sweet, quiet little woman who became his wife.

Our faults are soon forgotten—if known only to ourselves.

Few People Know This

The big dose purges its way through the system fast, but does not cleanse thoroughly.

The small dose (if right) acts gently on the liver, and gives it just the slight help it needs to do its own work, and do it well.

Take one pill regularly, until you know you are all right.

"Have You Tested My Blood, Doctor?"

"YES, I have."

"And what is the result?"

"Not very satisfactory."

"What seems to be the trouble?"

"Well, your blood is thin. It is lacking in what we call the red corpuscles. It does not contain enough of the nutritive qualities to properly supply nourishment to the nervous system."

"But I am not nervous."

"No, you are not, in one sense. Your hands do not tremble. You are not easily startled or excited. But nevertheless your nerves are not in good condition. There is not enough nervous energy in your system to work the machinery of the body.

"Perhaps you never thought of the vital organs of your body as requiring any motive power—any propelling energy—but they do, and this force comes through the nervous system.

"Because you are not conscious of every heart beat and of every breath you breathe is no indication that this action is not the result of nervous energy.

"You really have two brains—one with which you think and act voluntarily, another one which, without any conscious effort on your part, controls the action of the various organs and members of the body. It is the failure of this sympathetic nervous system, as it is called, which most frequently causes trouble.

"Because nervous energy is lacking there is weak functioning of the vital organs. The digestive fluid does not flow properly in the stomach, and you have nervous indigestion—the action of the liver and bowels is slow and weak, and you suffer from constipation. And so it may be with other organs. While they are not really diseased, their action is weak for lack of nervous energy. What you need is a good restorative."

"There is nothing better. You know we doctors prefer to prescribe our own favorite treatments, but I have seen such splendid results from the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food by my patients that I no longer hesitate to recommend it."

The active and concentrated ingredients of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food are approved by the best medical authorities as a means of building up the exhausted nervous system. Says Bonar Law in a Speech in England.

Special to The Examiner:

LONDON, Dec. 4.—"We shall do all we can to get the Allies to agree to demand the surrender of the former Kaiser in order that he may stand trial," Chancellor of the Exchequer Bonar Law declared in a speech here to-day.

"We also propose that an Inter-Allied committee shall determine scientifically what Germany will be able to pay in the way of damages."

OPERATION FOR APPENDICITIS.

Mrs. J. A. Ballantyne, Sturgeon Falls, Ont., writes: "My husband was treated for appendicitis and the doctors ordered an operation. But he would not consent to an operation and began the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Since doing so he has had no need of an operation or even of a doctor as the trouble has completely left him. I cannot find words to speak our gratitude for his cure."

A BRAVE FRENCH BOY.

He Refused to Do Work for the Germans.

Roger Girard was 14 years old and a French orphan in August, 1914, but he was helping his country by working in a munition factory at Valenciennes, making shells for the French army, when the Germans entered this important industrial town. Roger, with his fellow-workers, was obliged to keep at his task for some time, but the shells were kept going to the German army.

He was later sent to Germany, where, together with 75 other Frenchmen, he was interned in a camp at Hamburg. In the camp were two huts where the Frenchmen slept, but there were no beds, the captives having to sleep on boards or straw.

After six months of comparative calm Roger was one day called out with many of his compatriots and asked if he would work in a German munition factory.

"No, I won't work for the Germans," was his reply. Together with five other captives he was placed against a wall and a firing squad was called out. With powerful alertness and presence of mind the lad ducked as the volley rang out. Shots penetrated his arm. Four of the other Frenchmen fell to the Germans' bullets, while the other received many wounds in his leg, which had to be amputated later. Roger was taken to the camp infirmary, where, he says, he received all the care and attention from the German nurses, but there his left arm had to be amputated.

His food in the infirmary left much to be desired. A few months after his return to the camp Rogers was again asked to work for the Germans. Again he refused. He tried to run away, when a sentry shot at him, wounding him in the right knee and right elbow. He returned to the infirmary, and was later placed in the camp, where he remained until his repatriation.

His food in the camp consisted of roasted acorns, macaroni water and black bread, except for the prisoners who worked on the neighboring farms, who received slightly better nourishment. No one was even allowed outside the camp.

The boy never once saw city life in Germany during war-time. He says Gen. von Hindenburg often visited the camp, and in a haughty way told the Frenchmen to have patience that the time was near at hand when Germany would win the war.

The Kaiser also visited the camp many times when he, with von Hindenburg, passed the captives in review.

The boy reached Paris recently after spending eight days in Switzerland, where he says the treatment of the Swiss people was excellent. He has now got a job as messenger in the American Red Cross in Paris, while this organization has promised to look after the lad, who now is nearly 18.

Republic of Ararat.

The announcement of the formation of "the Independent Republic of Ararat" will brush away the fallacy which regards Ararat as just a mountain instead of a country, albeit the very mountain on which the ark rested when the waters of the Deluge began to abate. Genesis is explicit enough to have prevented the mistake, it might be thought; it says quite distinctly: "The ark rested upon the mountains of Ararat." In its day, Ararat was a great power, holding sway far to the east and to the west. But to Western Europe Ararat has long been known as the place where the dove first plucked the olive leaf and returned with her message of hope to the ark.

The Independent Republic of Ararat is not by any means the smallest republic in the world. Both the little Republic of Andorra, in the Pyrenees, and San Marino are much smaller, the latter state being actually debarred from artillery practice from lack of space, or so it is said.

The Passing of Puck

PUCK is dead. The familiar little figure with the kewpie costume, modified by a swallow-tail coat and demi-top hat, set jauntily in a bunch of curls, whose motto was "What fools these mortals be," will no longer be seen on the title cover of the famous comic weekly of New York that so long bore his name. Puck died a natural death, of a complaint from which many of his kindred have suffered—lack of circulation.

The announcement of his passing arouses scarcely a ripple of interest in these days. But 10, 20, 30 years ago it would have been an event that would have caused a wave of regret to sweep over the country from the halls of the capital to the humblest barber shop in the land. And mingled with the regret there would have been likewise sonorous sighs of relief welling up from the haunts of New York statesmen and politicians. For in the generations that knew Kelly and Croker and Dave Hill, bosses of the ancient time, and Butler, Hayes, Garfield, Blaine, Harrison, Conkling, statesmen of the vituperative era of politics, Puck was a power in United States politics, whose chromolithographic warfare was more dreaded than the most trenchant editorial pen.

Puck's cartoons wrought havoc with political reputations and at least one great aspirant for the presidency—James G. Blaine—went down to defeat before its pictorial onslaughts. It was in Puck's famous cartoon, "The Unveiling of Phryne Before the Chicago Tribunal" that Blaine first appeared as the "Tattooed Man," which became a political sobriquet that helped ring the death knell to his presidential hopes.

Puck was the real pioneer in American comic journalism and in the development of the American colored cartoon as well. There had been many ventures in the line of humorous periodicals before its time, but they all died of nonsupport and lack of serious purpose. They were, for the most part, mere imitations of French and English periodicals and did not appeal to American taste.

Down to the launching of the first publication of Puck in English in New York, March, 1877, the purely comic paper as an American institution was unknown. Its entrance into the field of journalism marked the foundation of the modern school of political caricature, which has cut so potent a figure in American politics. The founder and chief developer of that school, as it was first exploited in Puck and later in Judge, by the many-colored cartoons now so familiar to the American public, was a young artist and actor from Vienna, Joseph Keppler, who achieved fame and fortune from his venture. His career was rather a remarkable one in its earlier stages, full of the romance of struggling genius and enveloped in the atmosphere of the real Bohemia.

As success came, Puck gradually drew to itself the best artistic talent in the country as well as some importations from Keppler's native city, Vienna. Most of the famous cartoonists of early days, whose names became household words in America, were developed on the Puck staff—Graetz, Opper, Gillam, Zimmerman, Dalrymple, Wales, Ehrhardt, Syd Griffin and Charles J. Taylor, and in recent years Joseph Keppler, the younger, Glackens, Hassman, Levering, Arthur Young, Grant Hamilton, Gordon H. Grant, Will Crawford, Frank Nankivill, Ralph Barton and Ray Van Buren, the last two of whom were at one time connected with the art department of the Kansas City Star. In Puck's last days, Raemaker, the Dutch cartoonist, was added to the staff in the hope of reviving its drooping popularity.

The attacks on Cleveland were bitter. Free trade, a 19 collar, hypocrisy and self-love were some of the sins with which he was pictorially charged. Conkling as a turkey-cock, McKinley as Napoleon, Harrison, now smothered in the mantle of Blaine and now peeping out from under Grandfather's Hat," were familiar cartoons of the old campaigns. Ben Butler, with his drooping eye and panoply of silverspoons; Evarts, as the "lean and hungry Cassius," Conkling and his curl, Tom Reed as a bulldog guarding the senatorial chair, David B. Hill as an octopus, Tom Platt as the heathen Chinee.

In later days Bryan came in for his share of attacks. Among the many cartoons directed against him was one by Hamilton, representing the "Angel of Darkness," showing the American voter the promised land from a mountain top.

Prophetic Letters.

It was not likely that the tale of the fish caught off Zanzibar with marvelous characters on its side should remain unduplicated. One now hears that in England folk say that the wheat this year bears on its blade the letter B. The same rather mystifying occurrence is said to have taken place in the year which saw the close of the Crimean War. The inference need not be insisted upon. One is also reminded that a foreign cone shell has earned for itself the name of "lettered cone" because of its rows of markings supposed to be Hebrew or Arabic characters. But so far the Zanzibar story, it must be allowed, remains quite unbeaten in its fantastic strangeness. It is taken to mean that the war must end during the present year.

OUR NATIVE NUTS.

Canada Has Generous Supply of Nut-bearing Trees.

Throughout Canada there is a generous supply of nut-bearing trees which yield an abundance of edible nuts rich in food value, as the butternut, black walnut, the hickories, hazelnuts and beech nuts. Nuts are more nutritious than milk, eggs, bread and meat, one ounce of nut kernels being equal in food value to a pint of milk. Nuts are ready to eat without the labor and cost of cooking. They may be served in the form of delicious sandwiches, in salads, in fruit jellies and cakes, or a handful may be kneaded into a loaf of bread before it goes into the oven. A few kernels put through the nut chopper and scattered over the breakfast cereal adequately supply the place of bacon.

This important food crop is waiting in the woods to be gathered in. A few afternoons spent in nutting in the woods during the bright autumn days will supply the home with nuts for the winter and will save the meat supply for our country's defence. After gathering, the nuts should be spread on the attic floor or on shelves in a dry place to allow the surface moisture to escape. They may be cracked at leisure by the boys and girls in dull weather and stored in air-tight glass jars.

A few of the finest nuts should be saved for planting nearer home. Nothing will give the children greater pleasure than to choose and plant their own nut trees. If space allows, a future nut-orchard might be planted or young trees transplated as shade trees. The beech is a very beautiful tree, both in winter and summer and the butternut, walnut and hickory make good garden shade trees and their wood is very valuable.

The butternut occurs from New Brunswick to Ontario, while the black walnut is found in the southern part of Ontario. The shagbark hickory ranges from Quebec to the north shore of Lake Huron, the mockernut hickory occuring in Ontario only. The hazel nut extends from the Maritime Provinces to Saskatchewan; the beaked hazel nut has an even greater range, extending into British Columbia. The beech ranges from Nova Scotia to Ontario. — Experimental Farm Note.

The Centrist Horizon.

At the recent convention of the German Catholic or Centrist party the following program was drawn up, which is said to represent the views of all the Centrists, the party which has the largest number of representatives in the Reichstag:

1. Loyalty to the empire and loyalty to the Fatherland. Preservation of the federal character of the empire.
2. Maintenance of a powerful monarchy and strong representation of the people.
3. Popular and free development of the constitution.
4. Guarantee of the development of Germany's world position in the political, cultural and economic sense.
5. Creation of a colonial empire sufficient for Germany's economic needs. Furthering all possible means for Christenizing all the natives.
6. Education of the people for a better understanding of our foreign policy.
7. Creation and execution of international laws corresponding to Christian principles. Complete independence of the Holy See.
8. Maintenance and strengthening of Christian Kultur and German ideals of education.
9. Furtherance of the harmony between state and church; struggle against the separation of the two from each other. Freedom of the church and church organizations, especially of Catholic orders and congregations.
10. Toleration for all religious confessions.
11. Maintenance of parochial people's schools. Guarantee of religious instruction in all public schools.
12. Protection of marriage and the family; condemnation of divorces.
13. The annulment of all laws in regard to compulsory duels.
14. Protection of national trades.
15. Guarantee of economic reconstruction after the war.
16. Reconstruction of all industries and trades affected by the war.

Germany Has Chance to Create Great Democracy Says Alexander Kerensky

A COMPARISON

(Copyright 1918 by the United Press, by Edwin Hullinger.)

LONDON, Dec. 5.— If Russia had Germany's present opportunity, she would now be a great democracy like America," Alexander Kerensky, former Russian Premier, declared in an interview with the United Press today, in which he drew a comparison between the Russian and German revolutionists.

"I believe the German revolution, although started under similar conditions, and with similar aims to the Russian revolution, will be able to avert Bolshevism.

Three Features.

"There are three striking features in which the two differ:

"First, owing to peace having been attained, Germany can divert her entire fleet to internal reconstruction instead of being compelled, like Russia, to defend herself simultaneously from the foe.

"Third, if starvation actually threatens, Germany can get the Allies to help. Russia had nobody to aid her.

The Difference.

"These spell the difference between success and failure, and tell the story of Russia's tragedy. If Russia had Germany's present opportunity, she would now be a great democracy like America.

"When the old regime was overthrown Russia had to fight an outside foe with one hand and do the best she could to build up herself with the other. As a result, she was unable to perfect a new economic and political structure sufficiently strong to withstand the strain.

"The Russian army was worm eaten with German propagandists. As an example of this, every time I issued an order while preparing for the July offensive, Rupprecht appealed to the Russians not to obey. These appeals were widely circulated. At the same time the Germans were active internally and their cumulative impact against the Russian morale was tremendous."

Faced Starvation.

"Russia faced starvation singlehanded and fell down because it was physically impossible for her to meet the situation unaided. If a similar food crisis arises in Germany, the latter has the right under the armistice, to appeal to the Allies, in which event the Allies should respond for their own protection against Bolshevism. Therefore Germany is not obstructed by any of the great obstacles which caused Russia's failure."

The former Premier, sitting in the parlour of a friend's house in the Sectitude Cambridge Stars Terrace, and speaking in French, paused for a moment. He had greatly aged in appearance since I last saw him, in June. When he resumed speaking his voice was tense with earnestness.

May Split Up.

"Germany probably has turbulent days ahead and may split up, but I do not believe she will be subjected to the supreme tragedy, like Russia.

"I believe the German revolution is sincere. Furthermore it must be remembered that the personnel of the German army has been completely altered since 1914, when eighty per cent. of the officers were aristocrats. Now there are only 20 per cent.

Again he paused. Then smiling quaintly, he said: "Of course it is difficult for me to speak dispassionately of Germany, which wronged the entire world, and supremely wronged Russia by robbing her of a chance to become a new nation.

"Now I do not desire to return to Russia as the head of the government. Perhaps later I will go back as a private citizen. I hope so. My wife and two boys, aged eight and eleven, are now held in Moscow as hostages. I do not think the Bolsheviks will permit them to leave, so I aim to go to them."

Children's Moccasins 39c

A mistake found its way into the half page advertisement of the Peterborough Bargain House, which caused some trouble. In some way the bargain item read: "Children's Nightgowns to clear at 39c." A lot of wise mothers presented themselves at the store for the "nities," but when they were told that it was a printer's mistake, and should have read "moccasins," instead of "nightgowns," they were naturally disappointed.

Threatened Police Strike

Secretary of United Farmers of Ontario Sees Danger in Police Strike.

(By the Examiner's Toronto Correspondent.)

TORONTO, December 5. — "I believe in the principle of a police strike," said Mr. J. J. Morrison, the secretary-treasurer of the United Farmers of Ontario, to the Examiner to-day. "And it is the only means they have of relieving their difficulties, but there is always the possibility of things being overdone. I don't know whether those in authority see the danger of a police strike or not. To my mind the great danger will lie in the development of a feeling of sympathy on the part of the police toward other people who strike. They might decline to interfere in time of need."

The theratened strike is looked upon by Mr. Morrison as only another sign of the general unrest in Canada. "Throughout the whole country, except in the millionaire class, there is a feeling of rebellion against existing conditions," he continued. "That feeling, whether well founded or not, has brought the farmers of Canada to-gether into the most solid union they have ever known. Rebellion arises out of suppression of fancied oppression. The city view point, as expressed in the daily press, has not suited the farmers. They have felt that they had no medium of expression, consequently they have rushed together for mutual protection."

"Will there ever be a farmers' strike?" asked the Examiner.

"Impracticable," said Mr. Morrison. "There are other means."

Mr. Morrison feels that the old time party men everywhere have their ears to the ground and will not hesitate to sacrifice party loyalty to catch the new independent vote.

A Resolution of Condolence

At a general meeting of Woolen Manufacturers, held in Toronto on Wednesday, Nov. 27th, the following resolution was passed by a standing vote:

"Moved by James Munro, seconded by Thos. Caldwell, and resolved, that this meeting of the Canadian Woollen Manufacturers' Association wish to place on record their sense of the deep loss sustained by the woollen industry in the death of Mr. James Kendrey, President of the Auburn Woollen Mills, Peterborough. The late Mr. Kendrey was known to every woollen manufacturer in Canada and to a very large number in the United States and by all of them was admired for his business ability, respected for his integrity and beloved for the kindliness of his nature and goodness of his heart; the latter characteristic was most conspicuous and was evidenced by the fact that no one hesitated to go to Mr. Kendrey for advice or assistance on business or technical matters and they never failed to obtain both and a kind word in addition.

His death is a distinct loss to the community in general and his memory will long be cherished by all his friends and business associates."

FIGHTING IN GERMANY

Revolutionists Were Defeated by Army Officers and Forced to Haul Down Red Flag.

CHEERED WILHELM

(Special to Examiner.)

AMSTERDAM, December 5. - Serious fighting has occurred in Kreuznach in which the revolutionists were defeated by the army officers, it was reported here to-day.

The officers forced the revolutionists at the point of the pistol to haul down the red flag following the removal of their wounded. The officers cheered the former Kaiser.

Kreuznach is on the Nahe River, 8 miles south of the bend in the Rhine at Bingen. It is in the territory to be occupied by the French under the terms of the armistice, and is only 18 miles from Kaub, which is expected to be the southern point of the American bridgehead. Kreuznach is an important manufacturing centre. It has a population of about 25,000.

ARRIVED AT HAGUE.

COPENHAGEN, December 5. — A Berlin despatch says that German soldiers and workers delegations have arrived at the Hague in connection with the negotiations regarding former Emperor William.

A Berlin despatch on December 2 announced that a number of soldiers and workers councils in Germany had requested the government to have the ex-Emperor tried by German tribunals. It was added, however, that the government would submit the question to the National Assembly, which body is not yet in being.

A REVOLUTION.

PARIS, December 5. — A terrorist revolution under the leadership of Dr. Liebknecht, Radical Socialist, will break out in Berlin on Friday evening, according to the advices received here, from the Zurich correspondent of the Journal.

Liebknecht, reports say, has fifty thousand men well armed. The population of Berlin, according to reports, is at the mercy of gangs of marauders, and there appears to be no authority there.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5. — The Navy Department was in constant wireless communication to-day with the Presidential Ship George Washington and her convoy. Just before 10 a.m. the Department stated that all was well with the Peace Fleet No definite report of the position had been made at that hour.

GERMAN VOTES.

(Special to The Examiner.)

BERLIN, Dec. 5.—By the end of the month there will be between 39,000,000 and 40,000,000 Germans on the voting list, according to Berlin newspapers. Of these 18,000,000 are men. More than 21,000,000 are women. To this list can be added 500,000 war prisoners, now abroad, who most likely will vote in the next election.

STAND BY KAISER.

(Special to The Examiner.)

AMSTERDAM, Dec. 5.—Prince Henry of Prussia, brother of the former Kaiser, has issued a proclamation claiming that the "eldest Hohenzollern" has left Prussia, and that it is therefore incumbent upon him to do everything possible to assist the lawfully elected government. "At the same time," the proclamation concluded, "it is my duty to stand by the Kaiser and protect him from harm."

A RAILWAY SUBSTITUTE.—The German dream of the Berlin to Bagdad railway having been shattered by the Allied victory, it is now proposed to build a Bordeaux to Belgrade railway, to provide a land route to Constantinople through Southern Europe. The road is complete from Bordeaux to Belgrade; all that is needed is the construction of a line between Belgrade and Turnu Severin in Roumania, along the Danube about 130 miles, and of direct line between Bucharest and Reni in Bessarabia, about 150 miles.

Incident in Connection With the American Occupation of Germany—Peasants Are Plowing.

DECREES ISSUED

(By Webb Miller, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

WITH THE AMERICANS IN PRUSSIA, Dec. 5.—Several hundred thousand Germans are now under American authority. They are accepting the situation with remarkable quietness and complacency, and are not finding this authority onerous.

Normal life is going on in the occupied towns and peasants are plowing the fields as the troops march past. Factories are humming with activity. Hundreds of discharged German soldiers are passing through the American lines. I recently saw some of these men, still in their uniforms, working in the fields. The Americans are gradually taking over the supervision of the telegraphs, telephone and postal system, American trains carrying supplies are arriving at Treves, which is now generally referred to under its French name of Trier.

This traffic does not interfere with the regular passenger trains.

Will Pay Expenses.

Under the terms of the armistice Germany will pay the expenses of the third army. The Americans, therefore, are giving receipts for all requisitions and billets, which will be collected from the German Government. The burgomasters of the villages are co-operating in assigning billets.

Decrees have been issued, ordering the surrender of all firearms and ammunition. The people in some towns have already turned over their guns and receipts have been given them.

Corps and division headquarters are generally established in schoolhouses or other public buildings.

The only untoward incident recently reported occurred to-day, when home school children in the village of Scheich threw decayed vegetables at American officers. The latter ignored the affair.

The most advanced elements of the third army have occupied the towns of Wittlich, Berncastel and Zeetlinger.

AUSTRIA MAY NOT JOIN CONFEDERATION

Special to The Examiner:

LONDON, Dec. 5.—There is a disposition to agree with the suggestion of Austrian Foreign Minister Bauer, that German Austria necessarily must join the Confederation of German States inasmuch as the re-oragnization of the Austrian Empire is impossible. Unless German Austria does make a move she will be left in an extremely difficult geographical and economic position.

The Truly German portion of Austria is that surrounding Vienna and bordering the Alps. The colonies have less than 6,000,000 inhabitants. Only these would join with Germany. It is regarded as likely to store up future trouble if these people should make a proposal for such a union at the peace conference, and it should be rejected.

Germany's Debt to Allied Nations

Indemnity Commission Will be Appointed to Determine the Indemnity Germany Will Have to Pay.

HUGE WAR DEBTS

Special to The Examiner:

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—By agreeing to impose a scientific indemnity on Germany the Allies have undertaken to leave to efficiency experts the exact amount of money and the quantity of goods the German people must pay for having caused the war.

The principle under which the Indemnity Commission will operate will be to take every penny the Germans can pay, while at the same time not impoverizing Germany in a manner to reduce the people's productive capacity. Thus justice both to the Allies and to Germany will be managed. It will never be possible for the Germany to remunerate democratic nations for a larger part of the losses caused by the war. But whatever the German can do toward lightening the burden on the rest of the world is now certain to be exacted. In many respects the German people are in a better financial position to carry huge war debts than are other European nations. They have not contracted financial obligations abroad during the war and their own tax rate in peace time was low. Thus a large part of the taxes in Prussia were met by the earnings of the Prussian State railways.

Curb Financial Power.

If the principle of no indemnities were to be accepted by the Allies, Germany would be in a stronger financial position after signing peace than most of the Allies themselves. This might mean a quicker recovery by Germany in many ways than by her victorious enemies who have saved the world from mediaeval domination.

Such a result would unquestionably be a serious menace to future peac. The German spirit of revenge would be encouraged by Germany's comparative financial power. It would, therefore, be necessary to curb Germany financially as a matter of self protection, quite apart from the demand of the Allies.

SHOP EARLY

Christmas is only nineteen days away. Take three Sundays out of this and you have sixteen days left in which to do your Christmas shopping. You help yourself when you do your Christmas shopping early, and incidentally help the merchants and the army of clerks that has been mobilized to serve you. In addidays left in which to do your tion of goods, and that alone is sufficient reason why you should shop early and avoid the rush.

Will Maintain Supremacy

A Stirring Address by Winston Spencer Churchill.

Canadian Press:

LONDON, Dec. 5.—British naval authorities have decided that it will be unnecessary to demand the return of Heligoland to Great Britain from Germany, Winston Spencer Churchill, Minister of Munitions, announced in a speech at Dundee. Churchill also said the goverment had decided upon nationalization of railways.

"We enter the peace conference," said Mr. Churchill during the course of his address, "with absolute determination that no limitation shall be imposed on our right to maintain our naval defence. We do not intend, no matter what arguments and appeals are addressed to us, to lend ourselves in any way to any fettering restrictions which will prevent the British navy maintaining its well-tried and well-deserved supremacy."

The original kind of Ivory goods that will not change in colour is called Oriental Ivory. This brand is used on all high-grade Ivory Toilet Pieces, and originally comes from Great Britain. Ivory goods stamped Oriental Ivory will not only keep their proper shape, but will last for a great number of years.

THE WEATHER

The lowest temperature last night was 7 degrees. The first real cold snap of the season has just passed from the west to east over the northern section. Cobalt, Cochrane and North Bay report from 10 to 15 degrees below zero yesterday. Tomorrow will be the anniversary of the Halifax explosion. It will be remembered that immediately after that catastrophe a blizzard set in, which was followed by severe weather, which continued, with little abatement during the remainder of the month. On the 11th and 12th we had it 12 below, on the 15th 11 below, on the 16th, 25 below; on the 28th, 19 below; on the 29th, 27 below; on the 30th, 27 below, and on the 31st 22 below zero. Let us expect better things this month.—W. P.

Food Board Flashes

During the four years of war, and most especially during the last year Canadians have learned to appreciate fish as an every day diet. Before the war only 20 pounds per head of population was consumed in this country Now the Canada Food Board estimates that we are consuming fish at about double this rate. In view of the meat shortage the world over, and the unlimited possibilities of the Canadian fisheries, it will be only the part of wisdom for Canadian housewives to maintain this rate. Fish has proved not only to be a cheap substitute for meat, but a palatable and nourishing one as well. The more fish Canada produces from the sea and the great fresh water areas of this country, the stronger will the fishing industry of his counry grow. And Canadian prosperity will depend upon the energy with which we develop our natural resources of every kind, during the next few years.

PROTECTION FOR RUSSIA

Lenine Forgets the Ideals of His Soap Box Days—Imports Restricted.

PROTECTIONIST POLICY

(By Raymond Clapper.)
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5th. — Lenine, casting overboard the ideals of his soap box days, has come out for extreme protection to make Russia a strong industrial nation, semi-official diplomatic advices stated here today.

Attempts to flood Russia with agricultural machinery, railway equipment ,textiles, leather and clothing, will be fought by the Soviet government, it is stated. Russia's infant industries must be protected, the Bolsheviki leaders have decided.

Lenine and his advisors have determined upon a protectionist policy as thorough as that of the former Czar.

POLICY SUMMARIZED.

I. Import of articles in general use including boots and shoes, must be restricted.

II. Importation of luxuries must be forbidden. Import of food stuffs to be permitted temporarily.

III. Agricultural machinery must be manufactured; railway traffic must be safeguarded as most industries connected with agriculture, textiles, leather and timber.

IV. Exports in raw materials and exports of manufactured goods increased.

This latest policy of Lenine's is the same as that attempted by the late Finance Minister of the Czar, Count Witte, who attempted at all costs to create a national industry.

A TACTICAL ERROR.

The city council made a bad tactical error the other night by refusing to change the hour of nomination for Aldermen from the usual time, at noon, to the evening, in order to allow the working men of the city a chance to attend the proceedings. The request might easily have been granted, and the council's refusal has led to the impression that the city fathers, or at least a majority of them, are not anxious to afford the labour men an opportunity to take part in municipal politics.

By adhering to the old time for the nominations, the council will not be able to prevent labour candidates from entering the field, and have on the other hand dropped still lower in the estimation of representatives of labour. The chief objection to the change was that with a host of candidates in the field there might be too many speeches if the nominations were held at night. The only people who might be expected to be affected by a carnival of oratory are the reporters of the local papers and they haev become hardened to long and frequent speech-making through regular attendance at meetings of the city council.

A NEW SYSTEM NEEDED.

One of the most exasperating annoyances that returned soldiers have to complain of is that referred to by Mr. Chas. Robinson, in his letter to The Examiner yesterday—namely the difficulty experienced in getting the officials in the different government departments to answer letters. His Robinson states that his pension for October and November had failed to arrive and although he has written several times he has not even had the satisfaction of receiving a reply. His case is only one of hundreds. For some reason or other, probably as The Examiner's correspondent suggests, because of the lack of system in the departments, the individual soldier who writes in regard to his pension, or similar matters, has difficulty in getting the officials to answer. It is noticeable that when an influential body, like the Great War Veterans' Association, whose growing power is not unnoticed by the Goevrnment, makes inquiries about or on behalf of a soldier, there is usually a prompt reply. There is no reason why the individual returned man should not be treated with the same courtesy. The departments are surely sufficiently manned to make it possible to answer correspondence especially when the matters involved are of vital importance to men who have fought for Canada overseas. No wonder the Toronto Telegram remarks that in the handling of the returned soldier problem, Ottawa has proved itself without head, heart or common sense.

REMEMBER THE KIDDIES.

With the date set for the Christmas treat under the auspices of the Great War Veterans' Association rapidly drawing near, The Examiner is sorry to have to report that the subscription fund is far from reaching the total that is absolutely necessary to ensure a successful entertainment for the children of Peterboro's soldiers. In this, of all years, the first peace Christmas after four years of terrible war, the gratitude of the citizens to the men who have aided in bringing victory to the allied cause, might well have been expected to manifest itself in an outpouring of funds to make Christmas, 1918, a red letter event for every Peterboro child whose father went forth to fight for Canada and the Empire. So far this expectation has not been realized, but The Examiner feels confident that many citizens intend to assist in this splendid movement. They perhaps have not appreciated the necessity of getting their subscriptions in early so that the committee of Veterans who have the arrangements in hand will know approximately what funds they have to work with, and will be able to plan the details accordingly.

In Toronto this year 40,000 soldiers' children are being entertained, the arrangements including seven entertainments in Massey Hall, with special artists brought from New York to amuse the little folks. There will be gifts for every child and the Christmas celebration promises to be the biggest event of the kind that the Queen City has staged.

Peterboro's Christmas entertainment for her soldiers' families should be on a proportionate scale. Nothing should be too good this year for the children of the men who have helped to make victory possible, and therefore a quickened interest and a more ready response to the appeal for funds are looked for.

Donations of cash will be gladly received by The Examiner on behalf of the Veterans, who would also appreciate gifts of toys, candies, fruit, etc. Any good friends of the soldiers who wish to make donations of supplies are asked to telephone the G.W.V.A. headquarters. Phone 141.

The cause is a splendid one, and The Examiner hopes that the citizens will lend their support and send in their subscriptions as soon as possible.

WAR WITH RUSSIA.

The Canadian Government announces, and Mr. Rowell repeats, that after careful consideration and a full interchange of views with the British Government, the expedition to Siberia will be despatched, notwithstanding the collapse of the war with the Central Powers. Service is to be for a year and the object of the effort is to stabilize the situation in Siberia, support the newly formed Czech government and pave the way for economic development. The decision announced is based on the desire to carry out in good faith an engagement made with the British Government and on an appreciation of the benefits likely to accrue to the British Empire as a whole and to Canada in particular. It is claimed that Canada's national prestige will be increased and her economic interests promoted.

These fine phrases will not allay the public anxiety. We are apparently entering on a war with Russia for a cause which has not been explained and without authority or mandate of the Canadian Parliament or people. The War Measures Act cannot be stretched to that extent. If the Government has authority to engage 5,000 men and 10 millions of money in a war with Russia, what are the grounds of war? The validity of the Government in Petrograd may be disputed and it may be said that Russia is in anarchy, but according to the principles of justice, it is our duty to leave the Russian people to work out their own salvation. What interest of the British Empire as a whole or of Canada in particular can prevail over this duty?—Weekly Sun.

CANADA FIRST.

The only objection that can be found to the action of Hon. T. W. McGarry, provincial treasurer, in notifying the moving picture film exchanges that unless more films showing the part taken by Great Britain and Canada in the war are displayed on the screen, he will instruct the Ontario censors to cut out much of the material that is now being used, is that this step should have been taken many months ago. For a long time it has been impossible to go into a moving picture theatre without having the stars and stripes flaunted before one at every opportunity on the screen, while picture after picture depicting the United States army and navy have been served up for the approval of Canadian audiences. To those people whose sons or husbands had been over in Europe for many months before the United States saw fit to enter the war, this constant glorifying of the American soldiers and sailors and the ignoring of Canadian and British fighting men has been most galling. Canadians are quick to realize the service that the United States has rendered the allies since the entrance of our neighbours in the conflict, but they cannot forget that years before any American soldier set foot in France our own boys from this Dominion were dying in the muddy trenches of Flanders. The constant repetition of pictures depicting the gallantry of the soldiers of another country has become increasingly distasteful.

"Certainly our Canadian citizens will not much longer stand for the exaltation of an army of another nation and forgetfulness of our own," declared the Provincial Treasurer in his letter to the film exchanges, and there is no doubt of the accuracy of his statement.

It is explained by those interested in the moving pictufe business that it has been impossible to secure British or Canadian films, and for that reason it has been necessary to use American films exclusively. That explanation is undoubtedly correct, but does not excuse the constant showing of pictures of American soldiers and sailors. If films showing the deeds of the British and Canadian troops are not available, there can surely be found pictures of a general nature to take their place. There is no need as far as the public can see of inflicting American films of the flag-waving variety upon every audience that attends a Canadian moving picture theatre.

PUBLIC NOTICE is hereby given that all persons, firms and companies in Canada of British nationality having claims

(a) to property situate in territory which, on the 1st August, 1914, formed part of the Russian Empire (including Finland), or
(b) against the Russian Government (including any Government exercising de facto authority in any part of that territory), or
(c) against any person, firm or company, or against any municipal or other local authority in that territory, should file their claims with the undersigned. Instructions for filing such claims may be obtained on application.

The filing of a claim does not imply any undertaking on the part of the Canadian Government to put it forward, or any assurance that if put forward, it will be satisfied. Claims should be made so as to enable the Government to put the same forward if opportunity arises.

THOMAS MULVEY,
Under-Secretary of State.
2d-2-5

BY Order in Council dated the 11th of November, 1918, and to be published in the Canada Gazette of the 30th of November, 1918, a Committee has been appointed to consider the subject of debts due by persons residing or carrying on business in Canada to enemies, claims of such persons against enemies or enemy Governments, and enemy property in Canada. To facilitate the work of this Committee, and pursuant to the Consolidated Orders respecting Trading with the Enemy, 1916, and to the Proclamation of the 12th of February, 1917, concerning British property in enemy territory and claims by British subjects against enemy persons and enemy Governments, NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN by the Minister of Finance and Receiver General of Canada, as the Custodian appointed by the said Consolidated Orders, and by the said Committee, that:—

1. Every person who holds or manages for or on behalf of any enemy any property real or personal (including any rights, whether legal or equitable, in or arising out of property, real or personal), shall forthwith by notice in writing communicate the fact to the Custodian, and shall furnish the Custodian with such particulars thereof as the Custodian may require;

2. Every person indebted in an amount of $100 or upwards, which is due, or which, had a state of war not existed, would have been due to an enemy, shall forthwith by notice in writing communicate the fact to the Custodian, and shall furnish the Custodian with such particulars thereof as the Custodian may require;

3. Every person by whom, had a state of war not existed, any sum would have been payable and paid to or for the benefit of an enemy, by way of dividends, interest or share of profits in any business, incorporated or unincorporated, or by way of payment off of the whole or any part of the capital or principal of any share, debenture, debenture stock or other obligation of any company shall forthwith, if the sum, had a state of war not existed, would have been paid before the date of this Notice, and in any other case within 14 days after the sum would have been paid, pay such sum to the Custodian, and the payment shall be accompanied by particulars in the prescribed form;

4. If before the date of this Notice any such sum as is mentioned in paragraph 3 hereof has been paid onto any account with a bank, or has been paid to any other person in trust for an enemy, the person by whom the payment was made shall forthwith, by notice in writing, require the bank or person to pay the sum over to the Custodian, and shall furnish the Custodian with such particulars as aforesaid. The bank or other person shall, within one week after the receipt of the notice, comply with the requirement, and shall be exempt from all liability for having done so;

5. Every incorporated Canadian company, Dominion or Provincial, and every other incorporated company which has a share transfer or share registration office in Canada, shall forthwith, by notice in writing, communicate to the Custodian full particulars of shares, stock, debentures and debenture stock and other obligations of the company, which are held by or for the benefit of an enemy;

6. Every person having any claim against an enemy or an enemy Government (except claims arising out of illegal warfare, which have been dealt with by a Public Notice of the 18th of November, 1918), or having or claiming any property of any description whatsoever (including documents of title to property) in enemy territory or held by an enemy, or any interest in such property, is requested to furnish written particulars of such claim or property or interest to the Custodian;

7. Every person, including especially every solicitor, notary, curator, administrator, executor, assessor, tax gatherer, broker and real estate or other agent, who knows or has reason to suspect that any property of any description whatsoever (including documents of title to property) in Canada is owned by, or held or managed for or on behalf of, or is subject to any interest therein or claim thereto of an enemy or an enemy Government, is requested forthwith to communicate all the facts within his knowledge and all the grounds of such suspicion to the Custodian;

8. Any person who fails to comply with paragraphs 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5 of this Notice is guilty of an offence against the said Consolidated Orders and liable to the penalties prescribed thereby;

9. In this Notice:—

"Person" includes both individual persons and also trustees, executors, administrators and bodies of persons incorporated and unincorporated, such as companies, municipal authorities, firms and clubs;

"Enemy territory" means the territory of a State of Sovereign at war with His Majesty (including the Colonies and Dependencies thereof) as such territory stood on the 1st of August, 1914;

"Enemy" means a person (as defined in this Notice) of whatever nationality, who resides or carries on business within enemy territory; and also, in paragraphs 2, 3 and 4 hereof, a person resident or carrying on business elsewhere (except in territory occupied by an enemy State or Sovereign), with whom dealing has at any time since the 1st of August, 1914, been prohibited by any Statute or Proclamation in force in Canada;

10. A large number of persons have already furnished to the Custodian the information called for by this Notice, but such persons may, if they so desire, furnish an amended statement.

The forms prescribed for furnishing the information called for by this Notice may be obtained upon application to James R. Forsyth, Department of Finance, Ottawa. The person applying should state under which paragraph of this Notice the information to be furnished by him falls.

Labour Men Open Election Fund for Their Candidates

Public Meeting on Tuesday Night to Open the Drive for Seats in the City Council -Protest Against Refusal to Hold Aldermanic Nominations at Night.

MR. J. J. HARTLEY ENDORSED

There was nothing indeterminate about the Trades and Labour Council's plans last night for their campaign to secure representatives in next year's City Council. First of all they endorsed President, Mr. J. J. Hartley for Utilities Commissioner, then approved the following list of alder manic contestants: Messrs. Robert Morrison, Joseph Begley, James Palmer, Harry Gainey and Alex. Murray with James Runnett as an alternative should any of the five retire before the contest warms up. Next they made a grant of $20 to an election fund, a war chest, to cover the expenses of the campaign, with the confident expectation that the ten or twelve local unions would fatten the fund to about $150. Finally it was decided to hold a public meeting in the Labour Hall on Tuesday night next which all union and other working men are urged to attend. The Labour candidates will hold a preliminary conference on Monday night, and at the public meeting there will be a general discussion of policy; there may be a re-selection of candidates, and an effort will be made to outline the details of organization for the campaign. In short, the Trades and Labour Council has taken the initiative in the strongest and most united effort Labour has ever put forward in Peterborough to secure direct representation in the City Council. It was suggested that outside leaders might be brought here for the week preceding the election in order that nothing may be left undon to make this campaign a thorough success.

May Control the Council.

The possibility of gaining a controlling voice in the Council was pointed out last night when it was stated that if the Labour candidates were elected they would have the support of Ald. A. A. McIntyre, who stands high in the graces of Labour, and also of one or two Veterans. The special committee that met the Great War Veterans' Association reported that the returned soldiers had not yet reached a definite decision as to their plans, but they were said to have under consideration one or two members who might be nominated for the Council. Hence the mists are dissolving about the Labour men's programme, presenting a clear cut plan of action which will be rounded out at next Tuesday's meeting.

The Council decided not to enter the mayoralty field, but to confine their objective to the aldermanic seats. If the units among workingmen that was bespoken last night materializes, and the election fund is brought up to the required sum, Labour will enter the lists, modernizing the figure with men, munitions and morale.

Criticized the Council.

Mr. Alex. Murray criticised the City Council's futile attempt to appoint a City Trust Commissioner last Monday night. "It was something ridiculous the way the City Council carried on," he said, "in trying to elect a commissioner to succeed the late Mr. Kendry. They wasted fully twenty-five minutes and got nowhere."

And Also Protest.

Furthermore the Trades and Labour Council protested against the City Council's rejection of Ald. A. A. McIntyre's resolution to hold the nominations for aldermen in the evening instead of at noon.

The reasons of those who opposed it were declared to be only a bluff to keep the workingmen away from the nominations. Ald. Saunders was singled out for failing to support this amendment, but Ald. Langford and the McIntyre brothers were commended for their attempt to change the hours for noination. Ald. Dobbin's reported remark that the night meeting would be spent in speeches elicited even stronger resentment than Ald. Saunders' oversight of Labour's interests. It was remarked that the speeches of the city's efficient fuel executive were not remarkable for their brevity.

Another protest was directed against the street railway extension on the Monaghan road, although it was realized that the work was already under way.

DEATH OF FORMER PETERBORO RESIDENT

The community about Red Pheasant Sask., was shocked to hear of the death of one of its most respected and beloved residents in the person of Thomas James Edwards, formerly of Peterborough, Ont. His death was caused by an attack of Spanish influenza.

The late T. J. Edwards was born in Lakefield, Ont., on March 16, 1888. From there with the family he moved to Peterboro in 1894 where he attended the Central School and the Peterboro Collegiate Institute. After spending twenty years in that City, he and the family moved to Red Pheasant, Sask., where he opened up a store and Post Office and became a very successful merchant.

Being situated very near to two Indian Reserves, Cree and Assiniboine, a great deal of his trading was done with them. By example and precept he taught them many lessons in honesty and thrift and they mourn for him sincerely. He successfully mastered both of their languages and won the love and respect of them all. In fact he was a general favorite on account of his cheery disposition, and the people feel his loss deeply.

Deceased was a Justice of the Peace and there never was a greater peacemaker. People who came bent on law left his presence good friends.

The late Mr. Edwards was elected Councillor for his Division in January 1918 and served faithfully and successfully in this capacity until his death on Nov. 8th. Anyone who has lived in a new county will understand the difficulties in that office.

When the new school district was formed in the Spring of 1917, deceased was elected Secretary-Treasurer, and he put forth his best efforts to have the school as nearly perfect as possible. Inspector Magee pronounced it the last touch in school architecture.

Besides his sorrowing father and mother, he leaves to mourn his loss, two sisters, Mrs. James E. Bailey of Marmora, Ont., and Mrs. T. J. Brennan of Irricana, Alta, and two brothers, Donald of Red Pheasant, and Matthew of Storthoaks, Sask.

His remains were laid to rest in the Battleford Cemetery.

TURKS HAVE DONE THEIR BEST TO RUIN COUNTRY

Ordinary Policemen Have Accumulated Vast Stores of Wealth—Shops Are Well Stocked.

(Special to The Examiner.)

LONDON, Dec. 5.—(British Admiralty Wireless) — The Morning Post correspondent at Constantinople, describing the corruption and misery of Turkey, says that throughout the last five years the Turks, acting under orders of the "Committee of Union and Progress," have done their best to ruin the country—and have succeeded extremely well.

Three million Persians have been massacred and another million is on the verge of starvation this winter. A great portion of the Empire has been conquered and parcelled out among the different races and what remains is totally ruined.

Rich Policemen.

It is probably true that never before have the Turks in the Empire been so rich. Ordinary policemen are estimated to be worth anything between ten and fifteen thousand Turkish pounds.

This accumulation of wealth has been a portion of the programme of the committee to enrich Turks at the expense of the Christians, and was especially carried out in Symrna and Constantinople. It must not be supposed that Constantinople lacks anything. Shops are well stocked. Probably if requisitions were made throughout the city enough stores would be found to feed the people for at least eight months. But all the trade, by pillage and robbery, has been concentrated in the hands of the Mohammedans. German officers had their share in this plunder. They robbed both Christians and Turks.

In the first days after the armistice Germans and Austrians still crowded the capital. It was estimated that there were at least 27,000 German soldiers there. These have now been mostly deported to Haidar, Passa and Scutarii.

It is well worth noting that Count Von Bernstorff, who succeeded Von Kuehlmann, left Constantinople the day after the armistice was signed. His satellites remain, however, still plotting. Inferior German consulates are still at work.

Political Situation is Obscure

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

LONDON, Dec. 5.—(British Wireless Service)—The political situation in Germany continues to be extraordinarily obscure, says the Amsterdam correspondent of the Daily Express. Everybody seems to be quarrelling with everybody else, and every member of the Socialist party is trying to outdo his comrades in the fervour of his republicanism. Two grave dangers, the correspondent declares, appear to be confronting the new German republic. One is the Separatist movement headed by Kurteisuey, the Bavarian leader.

The other danger is the Bolshevik quarrel with the Berlin government. "The whole situation, indeed, is chaotic," the correspondent continues, and of this chaos the Extremists are naturally making capital.

BOY SHOT BY STRAY BULLET IN SOUTH END THIS MORNING

While walking on the Canadian Pacific railway in the west end of city this morning about nine o'clock, Stephen Giguere, 309 Townsent street, a youth of sixteen years, was shot in the left hand by a stray bullet. The details of the accident are obscured by the rather mysterious circumstances that the boy could offer no explanation beyond his statement that he heard he explosion of a gun and a moment later a bullet stung him in the palm of his hand through the fleshy base of the thumb. His mother said he had told her that he had no idea where the bullet had been discharged.

Giguere was taken to the Nicholls hospital where Dr. Scott removed the piece of lead, which had penetrated the hand on one side and fetched up under the outer skin. The boy had left home to set rabbit traps in the country west of the city. It is understood that the wound is not very serious, but the accident assumes an ulterior interest from the fact that the source of the bullet is unknown.

Towns Destroyed By An Earthquake

One Hundred Persons Believed to Have Been Killed.

Special to The Examiner.

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 5.—One hundred persons are believed to have been killed in the earthquake which yesterday destroyed the town of Valtenar and partially destroyed Copiapo, in Chile. Reports from devastated districts to-day said that the bodies of men, women and children were still buried under the ruins. The shocks, which lasted four minutes, were unusually severe and were plainly registered in Buenos Aires.

Copiapo is the capital of the Province of Atacama, and is located on a high mountain 30 miles from the sea. It is an important mining centre and has a population of 10,000.

His satanic majesty must have a lot of branch offices.

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

What to Know About Hot Water Heating Apparatus

The general directions for the operation of hot water heating apparatus are alike Particular directions for each will be supplied by the manufacturer.

EXAMINATION OF BOILERS

Examine boilers and pipes; see that they are in good repair and clean; that fire, ash-pit, and clean-out doors are tight when closed; that no other openings are in flue; that smoke pipe fits tight to boiler and is not inserted too far into the chimney. Before starting fire, see that boiler pipes and radiators are full of water. Water should show three or four inches in guage glass of expansion tank. (Find tank located at some point above highest radiator, usually in attic.)

COVERING

All exposed pipes should be covered with asbestos or hair felt, also boiler covered with asbestos to a thickness of not less than 1¼ inches.

FILLING SYSTEM

Open air valves on each radiator beginning on ground floor until air is expelled, and water shows at that point, then close and repeat on each radiator until all radiators are free of air and full of water; and finally see that amount of water in expansion tank guage glass is as directed above.

AIR IN THE RADIATORS

With hot water heating the water should circulate freely through the pipes. If any radiator does not get hot it is evident that there is an obstruction somewhere, or that the pipes are improperly laid. Air will gather in radiators, especially in those at the highest point of circulation. and it should periodically be allowed to escape through the vents provided for that purpose.

CLEAN FLUES FREQUENTLY

Remember the clean-out doors and why they are there Brush off the soot once a week, or oftener.

DRAFTS

Operate drafts according to instructions.

ASHES

Keep ash-pit clean.

FIRING

Follow general directions regarding the use of fuel.

"THE HOUSE OF QUALITY"

A Report on Farm Conditions

Considerable Grain is Being Marketed—Live Stock.

The following is a summary of reports made by Agricultural Representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:

Fall wheat, even that sown comparatively late, has made plenty of top for entering the winter, and is also of good colour. Welland reports that the area sown in that county is hardly equal to the average.

Oxford states that the better apples are almost all shipped, but that some of lower grades are still going to the evaporators and cider mills. Prices in Halton are quoted at $5.00 a barrel for Spies, and $4.00 to $4.25 for Greenings, Wageners, Russets, etc. Some of the larger growers in that county have shipments in Montreal waiting for ocean space.

Considerable grain is being marketed, but those owning hay are inclined to hold ont to it, with prices ranging from $18.00 to $28.00 a ton. At an auction sale in the Port Arthur district $27.000 a ton was paid for mixed clover and timothy in the mow.

Farmers generally will be well-stocked up with the coarse grains and the rougher fodders. Some Farmers' Clubs in Halton are getting in a supply of corn and corn-bran.

Live stock have gone into winter quarters in fair condition. Twenty-three carloads of cattle were shipped from one station in Frontenac in one day recently, chiefly stockers and canners, with a few good butchers', at prices ranging from 5½c to 9c per lb. Sudbury reports several carloads of steers being shipped to Toronto during the last two weeks, some of them feeders but mostly canners. Halton states that a few carloads of feeders, but not the usual number, have been brought into that county.

The milk flow is hardly up to its average. Dairy cows are in strong demand, prices in Oxford ranging from $60 to $245 for grades newly freshened. Milk is now selling in Peel at $3.00 an 8-gallon can, delivered. Butter fat commands 50c a lb. in Peterborough, and 56c a lb. in York creameries.

The marketing of hogs has slowed up during the past week or two.

The open weather of the greater part of November permitted most of the needed fall plowing to be done.

FAREWELL PARTY FOR MISS DORIS SPENCE

Daughter of Rev. C. A. Spence is Leaving Peterboro.

A very enjoyable evening was spent on Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Iredale when a farewell party was held in honor of Miss Doris I. Spence, by the teachers and orchestra of Mark Street Sunday School.

After a pleasant time was spent with games and music, Miss Spence was presented with a solid ebony toilet set by Mr. Henry, superintendent of the Sunday School, who read an address appreciative of Miss Spence's faithful work while a member of the orchestra.

Rev. Mr. Whattam, Mr. Kent Throop and Mr. Iredale made brief speeches regretting Miss Spence's imminent departure and wishing her every success in her new surroundings at Apsley.

Miss Spence was taken completely by surprise and was unable to say more than a few words.

A dainty supper was served and the party closed with the singing of Auld Lang Syne.

Was Killed by a Machine Gun Bullet

The sad news was received last week of the death in action of Pte. Burrit Bell, of Smith. The deceased soldier was the son of Thos. Bell, of Emily, and was twenty-four years of age. The greater part of his life was spent with his brothers at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Paul, of Smith. He learned cheese and buttermaking at Central Smith and was afterwards employed for several years with Mr. A. H. Campbell, of Harwood creamery. He had also been employed with G. A. Gillespie, of Peterborough.

Pte. Bell was a great favourite among his companions. His genial disposition and quiet humour won him a very warm place in the hearts of his friends, and his former employers speak most highly of his cheerful, willing and faithful service. He was a member of Gilmour Memorial church and was in constant attendance at the services when at his home. Great sympathy is felt for the bereaved family by the friends and neighbours who have watched him grow up amongst them.

The Letter.

In the Field, 7/11/18.

Dear Mr. Bell,—It is my very painful duty to inform you that your brother, 4020587 Pte. B. Bell, was killed in action on the 4/11/18.

At a time like this one almost feels that words are useless, but I must assure you of my heartfelt sympathy for you in your bereavement, and it is always nice to know that some one other than oneself has known and appreciated him who has gone.

I would like to tell you that although your brother had only been in this battalion a short time, he had proved himself to be a man of sterling qualities and high courage.

It will doubtless be of some slight consolation to you to know that he did not have to suffer any pain, as he was instantly killed by a machine gun bullet.

If there should be any further information I can give you, please do not hesitate to let me know.

Assuring you of my sincere sympathy, I am,

Yours very truly,
A. C. SEDDES, Capt.,
D. Co., 38th Batt.
Canadian Infantry.

Establishment of Employment Bureau Suggested for Peterboro

Mr. J. H. Burnham Addresses Letter to the Ottawa Authorities on the Subject—The Reply.

This morning Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., commented upon the number of returned soldiers out of employment and in this connection he addressed a communication to Ottawa on the subject, receiving the following reply:

The Reply.

Ottawa, Ont., Dec. 4, 1918.

Dear Mr. Burnham,—I beg to thank you for your letter of the 3rd instant, calling attention to the need of the establishment of an Employment Bureau in Peterborough.

These Employment Bureaus are being directly administered by the Provincial Governments and the Federal Government is assisting in a financial way, as well as in any other way possible.

Your communication is being forwarded to Dr. Riddell, Superintendent of Employment Agencies for Ontario, and I will endeavour to see that your suggestion receives early attention.

Yours very truly,
G. D. ROBERTSON.

Far Reaching Benefit.

Mr. Burnham says that he finds that returned soldiers are wandering about looking for employment with no central employment agency to consult. He thinks that if Mr. G. A. Gillespie, M.P.P., would take the matter up it would be of far-reaching benefit.

An Army Cook Says of Klim

"I never bother to use any other kind of milk in my classes of instruction." This strong endorsement of Klim is reiterated daily by thousands of women who use Klim daily in their homes. They find that Klim, pasteurized separated milk, in powder form, is more convenient, more economical and satisfactory for home use than any other form of milk. Get it from your Grocer in one and ten pound tins.

The Scrap Metal Market Does Not Exist at Present Time

Munitions business in the Dominion is nearing the end, says the Canadian Machinery and Manufacturing News. Nearly everything has been cancelled with the exception of one or two American contracts and there seems a bit of a chance that these may stand. One is the 240-m.-m. contract, a new shell with a tapered body, guns for which are being built at American plants. This contract has not been cancelled. The making of fuses and adapters is still proceeding. In many cases shells are simply being stored near the point of production, and their ultimate disposal seems open to question.

DODGING THE ISSUE.

There seems to be a disposition on the part of the trade in machine tools to dodge the day when price adjustment must come. Machine tools at the moment are about 75 per cent. in advance of normal times. It is hard to imagine that pre-war prices will prevail for some time at least, but even so, there is too much margin at present between present and old prices to encourage buying. "Let George do it," seems to size up the situation very concisely. There is also a disposition on the part of manufacturers with standard lines to hold back yet, waiting for raw material and labor to come to a lower level, knowing that the chances are that goods made now will have to be sold into a lower market by the time they have gone through the various channels of distribution.

SCRAP METAL.

For all practical purposes the scrap metal market does not exist at the present time. Toronto dealers admit that prices quoted are simply nominal, and only represent the comparative value when placed against the metal in ingots. They will not pay the prices quoted. Neither will they name other prices because there are no deals going through on which to base the new figures. Montreal goes one better and places the figures much lower this week. The situation is not likely to improve for some time to come.

STEEL PLATE.

Prices of steel plate and sheets came down again during the week. There are large shipments of boiler tubes coming now, and the new lists will show a downward revision of from five to ten per cent.

There is nothing to indicate that there is going to be any sharp decline in the price of steel. In fact, everything is against it. The American situation at present, on account of fully 80 per cent. of our steel being imported, finds a quick response in the Canadian situation. At U.S. points war prices for labour are still in vogue and indications do not point to any considerable dropping in the prices of finished goods.

PTE. HAROLD WHITE'S EXPERIENCE IN MONS

The following letter has been received by Mrs. Peter Simons, 311 Rubidge Street, from her grandson, Pte. Harold White, who has been overseas for four years. It will be noticed that the letter was written in Mons, Belgium, where the last action of the war took place:

My dear Grandma and Family, — Well, I can write you a good letter at present, and you can let them all know the news. I am well and in the pink of condition. I am now in Mons. You remember the Retreat of Mons at the beginning of the war in 1914. Well, the 7th Canadian Infantry Brigade, the brigade of which I am to-day proud to be in, the P.P.C.L.I., the Royal Canadian Regiment (which I belong to), the 42nd Royal Highlanders of Montreal and the 49th Edmonton Regiment entered Mons on Nov. 11, and amid the rejoicing of the whole world, the great war ended at 11 o'clock, Nov. 11th. It lasted 1,561 days, and the armistice was signed at 5 a.m. The armistice terms are Cologne, Coblenz and Mainz to be occupier, with all Germany west of the Rhine; 2,500 heavy guns, 2,000 field guns, 30,000 machine guns, 2,000 aeroplanes to be surrendered; 5,000 locomotives, 150,000 wagons and 5,000 motors to be delivered. Evacuation of Belgium, France, Alsace-Lorraine and Lancenburg; 6 battle cruisers, 10 battleships and light cruisers, 50 destroyers to be interned, all submarines to be handed over; Allied right to occupy Heligoland reserved. Well, those are the terms.

Well, Grandma, there sure was some rejoicing when we entered the city of Mons. The streets were thronged with the inhabitants. They were so tickled that they ran out when we were marching in the Grand Place (which is the Square). The women kissed and cried over us, and decorated us with flowers and Belgian flags. They couldn't do enough for us. And where the Crown Prince of Bavaria had his headquarters, we have taken it over for our headquarters, and it sure is a swell place. Well in the afternoon of Nov. 11th I was taking a walk around the city taking in the sights, and the people were only too glad to show us around. When I got back to the Big Square, two young men came up to me. One of them could speak pretty good English. They shook hands with me and my soldier pal, and asked us to come and visit their home. So we went along with them to their house. He said to his people, "I have brought two of the victorious Canadian boys with me," and they all had to kiss us and shake hands, and told us to sit down. One of the priests of the Mons Cathedral came in, and I was introduced to him, and then we had a big treat. After two hours with them, I was going to go back to my billet, and the lady of the house said, "Oh no, my soldier boys, you sleep here to-night, and every night while you are in Mons; my home is your home." Say Grandma, they showed us to our bedroom. Gee! it was a change. I said to my chum, "Gee! if I get into that bed, I don't get out to-morrow." A swell feather bed, nice clean sheets. It sure was a change from sleeping on floors, in fields, in trenches, with a stone for a pillow, and in barns. I said to my chum, "Here is where I get a good sleep," and he said, "Me too." And soon we fell asleep. The people here call us their liberators. This is a swell city—lovely promenades, boulevards and streets, beautiful cathedrals, houses, convents and schools. The Huns did not do much damage to this city. They did not have time to, for we are keeping them on the move. When he was retiring he blew up bridges, railroads and everything in sight. He done all the damage he could. I'll tell you all when I get back to Canada. But we have to go into Germain soil. So I will write again, if I can, from the "Rhineland." We march for there in a few days. It is a wonderful experience for me. I will also see so much of the world. I received boxes to-day. This time next year I hope I'll be in dear old Peterborough. Give my love to all. Lots of love to you Grandma. From your "Soldier Boy in Mons,"

Harold.

Discrepancy in Allowance to the Canadian Soldiers

In England Service in France is Recognized—Returned Men Object.

Special to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, Dec. 4.—The discrepancy between the allowance granted to members of the Canadian Expeditionary Force at the expiry of their terms of service and those granted to officers and men of the British Army is a subject of comment by returning men. Canada provides for an allowance of three months' pay after discharge. The officer or man who has been at the front since the commencement gets just the same and no more than the man who joined up just before the armistice ceased.

In England service in France is recognized. The man who has seen one year's service in France receives 120 days' pay after discharge, with 62 days' extra pay for every year or portion thereof thereafter.

In Canada no distinction is made between the man who has been in France and the man who has not.

Canadian returned men object not only to this fact but to the fact that the three months' allowance after discharge will scarcely serve to put them into civilian clothes at present high costs.

WOOL DROPS IN PRICE SINCE THE ARMISTICE

Reduction of 25 Per Cent. Due to Cancellation of Many Big War Orders.

The price of wool has, since the signing of the armistice, dropped from 25 to 30 per cent. A representative of the Dominion Wool Stock Mills says that the remainder of the Government orders for blankets and army uniforms has been cancelled which is the direct cause of the decrease in price. "At present the wool business is very quiet," he said. "We now have to change our whole system and get out samples and orders for domestic lines, which will likely take about a month to re-adjust."

When asked if he thought the domestic lines would equalize the Government orders which have been filled for the last four years, he said that he was sure that it wouldn't, but that the domestic orders would be greater now than before the war. "Of course the demand of patriotic organizations for wool to be made into socks and other garments for the men overseas will also affect the wool business to a great extent," he said. A resolution asking that no more woollen goods be sent overseas for the soldiers was passed by the War Contingent Association, in answer to a letter from the C. W. C. A. in England that no more woollen goods were needed. The decrease in the price of the wool from the wholesale houses and in turn the retail prices, so that women in future will be able to buy wool at a much lower price.

Labour Council Protests Sending Men to Russia

Mr. E. J. Quinn Recommended for Fuel Commissioner—Cigar-makers Appeal for Co-operation.

"The Russian trouble is a family quarrel, and it is always dangerous to interfere in a quarrel of that kind," said a member of the Trades and Labour Council last night in moving a resolution of protest against the sending of Canadian troops to Siberia. The resolution was passed and a copy of it will be sent to Gen. Mewburn, the Minister of Militia. It was stated that the Canadian soldiers had served long enough, and there was no reason for sending them to north-eastern Russia.

"I just had a letter from my boy in France," said another member. "He writes that he was twenty-seven months at the front without any leave of absence. Our men have got enough dirty work without shipping them to Russia."

"The next thing we'll be governed from Downing street," said a member who has noticed the veiled propaganda for centralization, the new imperialism.

Proposed For Fuel Board.

Mr. E. J. Quinn of the carpenters' local, was named as the Council's choice for Mr. Alex. Murray's position on the Fuel Commission, and will be recommended to the City Council for the vacancy.

A suggestion that was laid over until January contemplated some action whereby the Building Trades League might be assisted in any effort that should be undertaken to secure a share of the Government's appropriation of $25,000,000 for the building of workingmen's homes and similar enterprises of reconstruction. It was contended that Peterborough should make a bid for some of this money not only for the object of providing work for the building trades, but also for the purpose of securing homes under the new scheme outlined by Ottawa. The discussion of this matter was deferred until the municipal elections are over.

Buy Union Made Cigars.

D. W. Kennedy, of Hamilton, secretary-treasurer of the Cigar Makers, requested the Council to place blue label hangers in cigar stores and pool rooms that are friendly to organized labour. He stated that the cigar makers' strike was not yet settled.

Labour men, it was pointed out, should co-operate by refusing to buy cigars unless the blue label was on the box.

Peterboro Can Be Made City of 50,000 In Next Ten Years

If Action is Substituted for Talk and Citizens Tackle the Problem in a Business-like Way—Mr. Ryerson Ritchie Tells Board of Trade at "Get-together Luncheon"—Mayor Duncan Deals With Civic Matters.

"If we want to build a big city we have got to be big men. Big cities cannot be built on small ideals" was one of the striking remarks in the eloquent and forcible plea for the substitution of action for talk in planning for the development of Peterboro by Mr. Ryerson Ritchie which was the feature of to-day's "Get Together" luncheon under the auspices of the Board of Trade at the Empress Hotel. Mr. Ritchie, one of Peterboro's own citizens who has made a name for himself in the United States, through his splendid work in connection with chambers of commerce and other similar bodies awakened the enthusiasm of the very large and representative attendance of citizens who gathered to hear him and also listen to Mayor Duncan deal with some of the problems that are present before the city council or that will have to be dealt with during the coming year. It was a splendid meeting and if the advice of Mr. Ritchie can be followed by the action he so eloquently pleaded for the results will soon be apparent in Peterboro.

Mr. J. J. Turner, president of the Board of Trade, capably carried out the duties of chairman.

His Worship Mayor Duncan briefly dealt with some of the questions that will have to be dealt with. The first he mentioned was the two platoon system for the fire brigade. The men, he said are not satisfied with the present hours an their desire for a change was a natural and reasonable one. Under the new system four or five additional men would be needed and the appropriation for the department would have to be increased by about $5,000, requiring altogether some $31,000 to take care of the brigade next year.

The disposal plant for the out fall sewer, His Worship stated would have to be met during the next year. The matter could be no longer postponed and would have to be disposed of as soon as possible.

The Huner street bridge was also mentioned by Mayor Duncan. The cost, he said would be in the neighborhood of $800,000 although they would not know definitely until the tenders were opened on December 20th.

The question of how best to welcome the returning soldiers was also before the council. A public meeting would be held, Mayor Duncan announced during the coming week and it was desired to have all the different bodies in the city including the Board of Trade co-operate in planning how best to receive the heroes from overseas.

THE STREET RAILWAY QUESTION

The Street Railway problem was the last question touched upon by Mayor Duncan. He reviewed the negotiations that had taken place between the Hydro Electric Commission and the city council, pointing out that the latter had developed to secure better street car service for the far south section of the city but had been unsuccessful in inducing the commission to act this year. The extension along the boundary from Charlotte street to Patterson street, the commission had said would improve the service in the west and northwest sections of the city and had therefore been decided upon. Speaking of the Board of Trade's efforts in regard to the Street Railway problem, His Worship said, that the Board had gone ahead independently. He believed it would have been better of the two bodies had got together and discussed the details of the problem in order to decide upon join action. A similar getting together on all municipal problems, Mayor Duncan thought would be in the best interests of Peterboro.

Mr. J. J. Turner remarked that it seemed a selfish policy to refuse to give a car service to a section of the city that had no service at all in order to build an extension that would improve the service in another part of Peterboro

Mayor Duncan in reply remarked that he had no doubt that it was the intention of the Hydro Commission ulimately to extend the boundry line south from Patterson street to the Henry Hope factory and then east on Lansdowne street to Lock street.

MR. RITCHIE'S ADDRESS.

In introducing Mr. Ryerson Ritchie, Mr. Turner referred to him as a Peterborough boy whom he thought was not sufficiently appreciated in his own city. He had done most valuable work in the large cities across the border and his advice was being continually sought.

Mr. Ritchie, who was given an enthusiastic reception remarked that the subject upon which he had been asked to speak, the general development of Peterborough, was not a new one for him. He distinctly remembered being asked to give a similar address years ago and had gone into the subject with enthusiasm only to find an audience of some half a dozen people to hear the address. He told of how Capt. Harry Rogers who would soon, he was thankful to say, be returning from overseas, had prepared a big map of Peterborough, and how the changes that would make a new city here, had been planned. "Gentlemen," remarked the speaker in reference to Capt. Rogers. "You should try to keep men like him in Peterborough."

Mr. Ritchie said that he was a Peterborough boy as much interested in Peterborough as any one present. He wanted to see the people of Peterborough get together and work together for a greater Peterborough. "All these problems should be taken and analyzed just as Mr. Patterson here, or Mr. Denham, or Mr. Breyfogle, would analyse a problem in their own business."

The trouble was that cities and people got into a kind of a rut. There was plenty of talk about a bigger Peterborough, many Associations had been formed here as in other cities. "What has become of them?" was Mr. Ritchie's significant question.

There was too much talk and not enough action. People's enthusiasm aroused at the beginning of efforts of this kind did not carry them into action, and the effect of the enthusiasm was lost. It was necessary to substitute for this talk the willingness to carry things through to success just as our boys overseas had fought their way ahead.

"Find out what is wrong with the city and then correct it," was Mr. Ritchie's advice, "but remember that if you are going to build a big city you have got to be big men. You cannot build a big city on small ideals. With the proper action and enthusiasm Peterborough could be made a city of 50,000 people in ten years.

"You can do it," said the speaker, amid applause.

Mr. Ritchie spoke of Peterborough's natural advantages. Nature had provided nothing better anywhere than this city had been given in the way of natural beauty.

"There isn't a better town of this size anywhere," said the speaker, "and we have got better men and women too." There was no reason why a bigger and better Peterborough could not be built if the citizens got together and worked properly toward this end.

The speaker paid a tribute to the newspapers of Peterborough. "The newspapers of the city have, if anything, done more than their share in trying to arouse Peterborough to action and in their services to the public," remarked Mr. Ritchie

The best monument that could be provided to honour those who had died for Canada would not be an amusement hall, a club, for dancing and amusement, but something educative and practicable, something that would make better men and women out of the children of these men, was Mr. Ritchie's concluding remarks.

At the conclusion of his address the speaker answered several questions that were asked of him by members of the audience. In regard to the City Council he thought that people were sometimes inclined to be too critical and not helpful enough, while on the other hand some men who elected to civic position immediately were seized with the obsession that they knew everything. It was necessary that—that men who could help the city authorities should do so, but unfortunately this had not been the case.

Intermediate Team May be Organized

Hockey Meeting at the Empress Hotel To-night.

All players and fans interested in the formation of an intermediate O.H.A. team are invited to attend the meeting to-night at the Empress Hotel. Whether or not Peterborough is to have an intermediate team this season depends upon the result of this meeting, so that it is important that there should be a big attendance at this meeting.

DATE FOR OPENING OF PARLIAMENT

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

OTTAWA, Dec. 5.—The Cabinet has not yet given serious consideration to fixing the date for the opening of Parliament, it is authoritatively stated to-day. The impression appears to be growing that the House may not meet till the end of January and perhaps not until the early part of February.

Business Changed Hands

Mr. A. M. Laidlaw Retires From "Fashion Craft" Store

The undersigned takes pleasure in announcing that he has purchased the stock of "Fashion Craft" Clothing and Furnishings, and will continue the business in the same premises, 140 Hunter Street. A continuance of the liberal patronage hitherto enjoyed by Mr. Laidlaw, is respectfully solicited.

Mr. Laidlaw will continue his connection with the store for a short time.

Through good business foresight, the stock, in most lines, was bought before the marked advance in wholesale prices, and could not be replaced at the prices marked for this month.

Gentlemen who are able to exercise personal taste in the matter of dress will enjoy more than ordinary pleasure from a Christmas gift purchased here. We suggest Neck Ties, Gloves, Silk Scarfs, Dressing Gowns, Smoking Jackets.

Fuel Commission Met Last Night

One Dealer Will be Permitted to Retail 700 Tons of Small Coal.

The regular meeting of the Fuel Commission was held last evening, in the City Clerk's Office.

Mr. Robert Hicks of the Hicks Coal Company, asked permission to sell 700 tons of small coal, pea and buckwheat; also 700 tons of mine sizes, both quantities of which are substitutes for the regular sizes of anthracite coal. He stated that if he did not sell it he would have to divert cars already billed for Peterboro.

The Fuel Commission accordingly removed all restrictions on buckwheat coal, but the Fuel Controller's ruling that nobody may have more than 70 per cent. of their ordinary supply, still prevails.

COAL CONSERVATION.

In answer to a letter regarding their plans for the conservation of coal, the Rev. C. J. Phelan, rector of St. Peter's Cathedral, stated in a letter that Advent and Lenten devotions on Wednesday and Friday have been eliminated; Sunday school has been suspended during the winter, and no devotions will be held on Sunday afternoons. For morning masses the vestry is used daily, instead of the Cathedral, and as far as possible soft coal is being used. The Bishop has asked every priest in the diocese to eliminate all special services and devotions and confine themselves to essential services.

Rev. Father McColl of Immaculate Conception Church, replied in like spirit as did the pastors of Murray street Baptist, St. Paul's Presbyterian church and several others.

Peterboro Girl Injured in Toronto

Was Passenger on a Street Car Which Was Partially Destroyed by Fire.

Miss Corinne Lapointe, daughter of Mr. Thomas Lapointe, of this city, sustained a severe nervous shock and injuries to her back on Saturday in Toronto as the result of a panic caused by the burning of a street car in which she was a passenger.

Miss Lapointe had taken the car, which was going south on Yonge street a few minutes previous to the accident, when a fuse burned out and ignited the woodwork. The fire spread to the vestibule and the trailer behind, jammed into the front car. Immediately a panic was caused, and as the exit was blocked, a number of people, amongst them Miss Lapointe, were smothered. She was carried into a millinery store near at hand, and later taken to Grace hospital. At present she is making satisfactory progress towards recovery.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

The many friends of Mr. Leigh Bartley, Rubidge street, will be pleased to know that he is resting as easily as can be expected after an operation in Nicholls Hospital yesterday.

Miss Burns has been called to Peterborough from Toronto on account of her sister's illness, Mrs. A. Foley.

Mrs. Fuller Greenleese, who has been visiting her father, Sheriff Hall, left recently to join Mr. Greenleese in Montreal.

The many friends of Mrs. John Mowry, Sherbrooke street, will regret to learn that she fell this morning breaking her hip. Due to Mrs. Mowry's advanced years the accident is of a serious nature.

Work Progressing With the Street Railway Extension

On Monday work comenced on the extension of the Radial Railway from the western extremity of Charlotte street, down the Monaghan Road to Patterson street. The digging and levelling of the road is occupying the attention of a gang 26 men, and they had almost reached Bolivar street. Twelve inches of frost has to be contended with and for this purpose steel plows and wedges are being used. Between Charlotte and King streets the roadbed has been levelled off and is about ready for the laying of the ties, which are lying nine tiers high on the west side of the road.

Needless to say the frost is proving a big hindrance in the construction of the road bed, and it will be some time before the four block of rails are laid.

Redpath Lyceum Course

A distinct musical treat will be the coming of Antonio Sala, former court cellist to King Alfonso of Spain, with his three assisting artists, to appear on the Lyceum course Monday evening, Dec. 9th, at Conservatory Hall.

Sala has achieved an international reputation as a master of the cello. In Spain King Alfonso and Queen Victoria united in conferring upon him a decoration for artistic merit and he was chosen as soloist for the great coronation ball of 1911.

In Paris he was given a most enthusiastic reception. Le Monde Musical, of the French capital, said: "For M. Antonio Sala we cannot find words to express the exquisite delight which he left with his audience. The whole house was conquered with his marvellous playing."

Musical critics state that Sala combines technique and temperament so marvelously that his work with the cello is a revelation.

Senor Sala is splendidly supported by a group of assisting artists of highest attainments. These artists are as follows: Gertrude Hale, soprano; Edith Henry, pianist, and Florence Hrdeman, violinist. Miss Hardeman has appeared as soloist with Sousa and Madame Bernhardt.

There are still a few season tickets available. Telephone 355.

Bazaar Opened This Afternoon

Difficulties of the Christmas Shoppers Simplified

The 57th Chapter, I.O.D.E. bazaar opened this afternoon in the Y.M.C.A. with a splendid attendance. The ladies in charge have simplified the Christmas shoppers' difficulties by having dainty hand-made gifts, suited to every need, ready for the eager shopper.

In the sitting room, wheer the tables are arranged, everything has been made most attractive and enticing for the visitors.

Those in Charge.

At the apron table, Mrs. Harry Rush is in charge, and every known shape of apron from the big overall to dainty embroidered apron is on sale. Mrs. (Dr.) Eastwood is in charge of a charming display of white goods, most of which are hand-made. At the fancy goods and household accessories table, Mr. Duncan Walker, Mrs. W. H. Hill and Miss A. Halliday are in charge; Mrs. H. S. MacDonald of the handkerchief table; Mrs. Strickland and the Misses Hill of the dolls; Mrs. Gillespie and Mrs. McIntyre of a really splendid assortment of fancy bags, and Mrs. H. O. Fiske of the baby clothes.

A Feature.

Under the supervision of Mrs. A. Turner and Mrs. J. Sharpe, a hot supper will be served this evening at the Y.M.C.A. A feature of this will be the fact that the waiters are all returned soldiers.

Jack in the Box.

SAVE YOUR HEALTH---SAVE YOUR COAL

USE

The Radiator Humidifying Pan

FITS BETWEEN THE RADIATOR AND THE WALL.

The country's leading health authorities say that breathing superheated, dried indoor air produces more Headaches, Colds, La Grippe, and Pneumonia than all other causes combined.

Artificial heat, coming from Steam and Hot Water Radiators, dries out most of the moisture of indoor air, precenting the natural inflow and out-flow of moisture that the human body should have.

A person under fairly normal conditions breathes in one pint of water and perspires one and one-half pints every twenty-four hours.

Dry, indoor air is the most destructive agent there is at this time, and the most important thing to do is to correct this serious trouble.

When dry, indoor air will warp and crack a piano sounding-board and shrink and check the stoutest piece of wooden furniture, conceive what it does to the more delicate human organism.

The Radiator Humidifying Pan offers a natural relief from the injuries of impure, indoor air. When filled with water and placed on the back of any Steam or Hot Water Radiator, between the Radiator and Wall, out of sight, it evaporates the water, rapidly converting the Dry, Vitiated Indoor Air into a Moist, Wholesome, Healthful Atmosphere that Natured requires and good health demands. RELATE HOW BERLIN WAS TO BE ATTACKED

Forty Flyers Had Been Preparing for Weeks When the Armistice Intervened.

New York, Dec. 6.—Berlin was to have been bombed by a squadron of eight to twelve Super-Handley-Page and de Haviland-10 airplanes on the night of November 11, the date of the signing of the armistice, according to a number of aviators who returned on the transport Lapland.

Forty fliers of the new and powerful aircraft had been preparing for weeks at Ford Junction, Sussex on the English Channel to attack the German capital by means of the machines, which had never been used at the front, but which had been put to the severest tests. Eighteen of the aviators came home and the remainder are still in England. All of them have been trained in this country for the particular purpose of attacking inner German cities, before going abroad. Each man had received, it is said, 300 hours' experience as night flyers at Ellington Field in Texas.

According to their story, all planes had been made for dropping tons of TNT on Berlin. The distance from Ford Junction to the German capital is about 500 miles. Each super-Handley-Page machine had 176 feet of wing spread and carried, besides five machine guns and a ton of explosive, a crew of five men, two pilots, an aviating officer and two mechanicians, who were also machine gunners

OLD ENGLAND'S NAVY HELD WORLD FLEETS IN A CRUSHING GRIP

Assured Freedom of World by its Efforts, Says Sir Eric Geddes, Enabled Sending of Food and Men.

LONDON, Dec. 6.—The work of the British Navy during the war was lauded by Sir Eric Geddes, First Lord of the Admiralty, in his address opening the "Sea Power" exhibition of pictures and relics in London yesterday.

The sea power of the British Navy, from the very outbreak of the war, he declared, held all the fleets of the world in a silent grip, crushed the life out of the enemy countries and assured the freedom of the world by its efforts.

Sir Eric pointed out that it was the assistance of the navy which had enabled coal, food and munitions to be sent to Italy and France, while Great Britain's own munitions for the Western front had been carried on the back of the navy. It was the navy which had enabled the British Expeditionary Force to be conveyed to France, in which operations more than 16,000,000 men, all told, had been conveyed with a total loss from all causes of less than 5,000 men. It was the navy, he continued, which enabled the operations to be carried out in Mesopotamia, Macedonia and Palestine, and which had brought about a condition of things which resulted in the break down of Bulgaria, while behind the navy was the blockade which crushed the life out of the Central Powers and made them sue for peace.

From 1914 to 1917, Sir Eric stated, the tenth cruiser squadron had kept under guard a stretch of sea 800 miles long, from the Orkneys to Ireland, and had intercepted 15,000 ships taking supplies to enemy countries. Although this work had been accomplished for the most part in the dead of night or in bad light, amid tempests and blizzards, less than four per cent. of vessels succeeded in passing the lines of the blockade.

The British sea power, Sir Eric concluded, had been the pivot on which the fate, not only of the war, but of the world, had turned.

Pte. David Casey Has Been Released

Otonabee Township Man Was a Prisoner of War.

Mr. David Casey, of Otonabee Township, has received word that his son, Pte. Thomas Casey, had been relieved from a German prison camp at Fredericsfield, and arrived in England, November 29th.

Pte. Casey enlisted with the 8th C.M.R. in June, 1915, and was taken prisoner by the Germans at the second battle of Ypres.

Interview With Former German Crown Prince

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

"LONDON, Dec 5.—'You English clamor to get father and me away from Holland. We are down and out and my father is broken man. Isn't that enough punishment, former German Crown Prince said in an interview on Island of Wieringen, where he is interned, with a correspondent of the Datly Mirror.

Frederick William added that he aways favored an agreement between Germany and Great Britain nd wished them to work togther. A number of his best friends were in England and he only wished he could live there as private citizen. "I quarrelled with my father in regard to Great Britain," he continued. "I told him the British would be against us. He never believe this and would not take into account that possibility."

CONDITIONS AT THE PRISON CAMPS

ALLIED GOVERNMENTS WILL ACT ENERGETICALLY

Paris, Dec. 6. (C.P.)—Incidents of serious gravity occurred within the last few days in the prison camps in Saxony, where Allied prisoners are confined, the Echo de Paris declares. The Allied Governments, it adds, are reported to have decided to act energetically in that connection.

GRAIN MARKET

There appears to be far more of the coarse grains offering than there is any present demand for. Oats, barley, and rye are very dull and weak. Ontario oats quoting 1c. lower, and Manitobas 3-8c. lower. Corn is altogether too high at the present quotations for there to be any market here for it. Dealers find no enquiry. The option markets were generally easier. The recent relaxation of the restrictions as regards the holding of flour in stock has brought a few of the millers into the market, but the demand for wheat is still comparatively quiet.

Manitoba wheat—In store, Fort William (not including 1 1-2c. tax), No. 1 northern, $2.24 1-2; No. 2 northern $2.21 1-2; No. 3 northern, —$2.17; No. 4 wheat, $2.11 1-2.

Ontario wheat—No. 1 winter, $2.14 to $2.22; No. 2 winter, $2.11 to $2.19; No. 3 winter, $2.07 to $2.15; No. 1 spring, $2.09 to $2.17; No. 2 spring, $2.08 to $2.14; No. 3 spring, $2.02 to $2.10, f.o.b., shipping points, according to freight.

Ontario oats—No. 2 white, new crop, 74c. to 77c.; No. 3, 73c. to 76c., according to freight outside.

Barley— Malting, new crop, $1 to $1.05.

Peas— No. 2, $2.00, according to freights outside.

Buckwheat—$1.40.

Ontario flour—War quality, $10.25; Toronto-Montreal, $10.25, new bags.

Manitoba flour—War quality, $11.35, Toronto.

Hay—Baled track, Toronto, car lots, No. 2, $22 to $24; No. 2, mixed, $20 to $21 per ton; straw, car lots, $10.00 to $10.50.

CATTLE MARKET

Union Stock Yards —Receipts, 101 cars, with 916 head of cattle, 165 calves, 2,370 hogs, and 1,718 sheep and lambs.

The holding of the annual Fat Stock Show yesterday at the Union Stock Yards overshadowed the usual market, the desperations of which were on a small scale. Such transactions as were effected were on the basis of prices prevailing this week, the market remaining practically steady. A few special transactions involving the sale of several small lots of fancy quality show cattle, but finally left out of the usual classes, indicated that good prices will be realized at the annual auction sale of prize cattle to be offered to-day. A couple of fancy calf heifers sold at $15.

The show itself was not quite so large as in former years, owing to the elimination of several special classes.

There were some very fine quality showing. Judging is taking place to-day.

CURED OF DYSPEPSIA
BY USING
BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS
The symptoms of dyspepsia are so numerous and diversified in different individuals that probably no description could exactly represent them as they occur in any given case, but a few of the most prominent are a rising and souring of food, pain, flatulence and distention of the abdomen, a sensation of discomfort after every meal, which is sometimes followed by sickness and vomiting.
To get rid of dyspepsia a careful arrangement of the diet is necessary and due time must be given for the digestion of the meal.
You will find that Burdock Blood Bitters will help with this digestion. It does this by toning up the stomach in such a way that the dyspepsia soon disappears.
Mr. Robt. Baldwin, Winnifred, Alta., writes:—"I cannot speak too highly of Burdock Blood Bitters for curing dyspepsia, of which I have been a sufferer for years. I have tried a good many doctors and proprietary medicines, so one day I thought I would try something different. I got a bottle of B. B. B. from our local store, as it was about the only remedy he kept, and I can certainly say that I was more than pleased with the results, as I got better right away. I will always recommend it to other sufferers."

KILLED CUSTOMS MEN, STOLE $125,000 IN GOLD

BISBEE, Ariz., Dec. 4.—Five masked bandits killed Customs Collector Carlos Caturegli, of Agua Prieta, Sonora, Mexico, and two of his guards, wounded a third and then escaped with $125,000 in gold last night. They are believed by officers of Sonora and Arizona to have crossed to the American side of the border, and are being sought to-day in the vicinity of Douglas. The robbery occurred 12 miles west of Agua Prieta.

THREE GERMAN SUBS PASS UP THE THAMES

LONDON, Dec. 5. — The first surrendered German U-boat to arrive in the Thames, the U-64, passed up the river at noon yesterday. On her mast the German commercial flag was flying below a white ensign. The submersible was taken up the river to her mooring place by two tugs, while crowds watched her progress and cheered.

A second submarine, and later a third, a large boat of the Deutschland class, each also flying the German flag beneath a white ensign, also made their way up the river, and were moored alongside wharves. The tugs which accompanied the boats were gaily decorated with flags.

Treasures In Palestine.

All modern notions of habitation and sanitation are against piling more on the top of the ruins of Jerusalem. The only clean course would be to extend a new suburb, either one to three miles down the Valley of Ephraim to the southwest, where the railway now is, or to a better site two miles northwest in the fine valley running down from Ramah. Electric trams would place either site within a few minutes' access of the city. The present city had bad access and bad water. Its only claim is its historical and religious value to mankind. The best way to respect that value is reverently to place modern affairs on one side, in ground suited to present life.

We may hope that with careful research discoveries of supreme importance may be made. The documents of early Palestine were clay tablets, which can only be destroyed by crushing and which it pays no one to steal.

There seems no reason why hundreds of documents of the greatest historic interest should not be found. What was the history of the Amarna correspondence (on brick tablets of B. C. 1400)? Found by accident, some of it was bought by a dealer; he could not sell the tablets; they were sneered at as forgeries; at last the group was tumbled into a sack and jolted on donkey-back up to Thebes with great loss. It was two or three years before they reached the hands of those who could appreciate what survived.

It is not too much to expect that documents of David's or Solomon's reign or of the date of Joshua and the Judges may yet be found.

In Galilee there are the great synagogues of Capernaum and Chorazin, built of marbly limestone, finely carved with figures of animals and fruits. Are these—the very buildings, probably, in which Christ taught—to be left to the mercy of the next needy settler?

A Prussian Porter.

A negro soldier now on the western front captured a German major. On his way back to headquarters to report his charge the soldier made his captive carry his trappings and baggage, prodding him along gently with his gun. "Why were you so anxious to put him to work?" his officer asked him. "Well, you see," explained the negro, "it made me feel good to see him toting that equipment. Befo' the war Ah was a po'tah."

"When a Child Droops"

Hurry, mother! Relieve the little stomach, liver and bowels of souring food, bile and poisons. Look at the tongue! Children love to take harmless "Cascarets" because Cascarets taste like candy—only 10 cents too!

Children droop and wither like tender flowers if you permit bile, sour fermentations and constipation poison to be absorbed into the system.

When a child's tongue is white, breath feverish, stomach sour, you can always depend upon good, safe "Cascarets" to gently but thoroughly clean the clogged-up places. Children love to take Cascarets, the candy cathartic which never gripes, never injures, never disappoints. Each 10 cent box contains directions and dose for children aged one year old and upwards.

HOW GERMANY LOST FRIENDS

Unreliability of Her Promises Admitted.

COUNT ANDRASSY SPEAKS

Even Before the Austrians Deserted the Prussians, Prominent Statesman In That Country Wrote an Article In Which He Admitted That Teutonic Promises Could Not Be Accepted as World Did Not Trust Them.

IF the new International law to be established at the final settlement of the world war makes provision for the punishment of such nations as may violate its regulations, the fact that the word of the German Government is not to be trusted would constitute no valid reason for the Allied countries refusing to negotiate with it, in the opinion of Count Julius Andrassy, the Hungarian statesman who was recently appointed Austro-Hungarian Foreign Minister to succeed Baron Burian.

Writing in the Neue Freie Presse of Vienna of Sept. 22 relative to the sending of the Austro-Hungarian peace overture to the Governments associated against the then Quadruple Alliance, Count Andrassy, after filling nearly two columns with an attempt to justify Germany's invasion of Belgium by asserting that the history of the world showed that no nation had ever taken the old international law seriously when it stood in the way of vital interests, said:

"But however that may be, it is certain that the coming peace can only be made secure if this conception of things is changed, and if this altered conception leads to the creation of an institution better able to maintain international law than has been the case up to now. The new international law will only be of value if a method is found to compel any recalcitrant state to observe and acknowledge international law. If the new agreements even come near to solving this problem, then the supposed mala fides of Germany can be no ground for hindering the arrival at an understanding. But if this is not brought about and if the whole reform, devoid of any kind of sanction, must limit itself to the setting up of some moral obligations, then it would be a sin to continue the present murderous war for the purpose of ensuring such an international reform. Such a reform can be of value and signify progress, but not of such a degree as to justify the demanding of the present frightful sacrifice from humanity.

"I know that one may unconditionally trust the word of Germany, just as much as that of any other state at any time. But I should use this confidence in vain as an argument to influence the Entente; it would have no effect at all. The peaceable elements among the Entente must be calmed by the fact that it is only worth while to continue the war for the sake of such a new reform as will make the new international law practically enforceable. If this may be attained, however, then there is no occasion to be frightened away through the possibility of mala fides by Germany at a later date."

The count concluded his lengthy article by warning his readers of the fact that the "war parties" in the Entente countries were constantly insisting that the new international law would only be of value if preceded by such a re-arrangement of the map of Europe as would follow an Entente victory, and that President Wilson's insistence upon the right of self-determination for small peoples might cause still greater anarchy in national life, and promote the interests of the Entente "war parties."

COUNT ANDRASSY.

A Renegade Canuck.

A letter from Quinn Butterfield, an Orillia soldier now in France, relates how when a party of German prisoners were being marched past the 40th Battery he was surprised to hear one of them call out "Hello, Butter—how's hockey?" and to recognize the speaker as an ex-member of the Berlin, Ont., hockey team.

After Due Warning.

Roland Winn, who is in a base hospital at Mars-sur-Allier with a wounded knee, which he got in the fighting around Chateau-Thierry, has sent to relatives a translation from a French paper of an incident wherein an Alabama negro attempted to fraternize with an Algerian trooper whom he mistook for an "uppity" member of his race, says the Birmingham Age-Herald. It reads:

"Boy, whah you com' frum?" asked the smoked Yankee, pleasantly.

"Blarjrhsy andhausj whatjdugsy," the Algerian answered—or words to that effect.

The American negro frowned. "Niggah, you listen to me, I'se from Bummingham, Al'bama. Just 'cause y'all got heah fust an' done learn this heah monkey talk, don't you go pretendin' to me that you done forget how to talk y'own langwidge. Y'all keep on actin' uppity wid me an' Ah'm goin' to bust you right on the jaw. When y'all com' frum, niggah?"

"Kahbd ahwujs gsfayaf," the Algerian replied—so far as any one knows.

The American negro sighed in the manner of one confronted with a disagreeable duty, and sadly shook his head. "Boy, ah done warned you," he said mournfully, and put all he had into a right hand swing to the jaw. The Algerian dropped and lay quiet.

"Ah done warned him," the American negro justified himself as he walked on, nursing his knuckles. "Actin' uppity wid his home folks!"

A Long Chase.

The new curate's wife was a very sweet natured and truly kind little soul, and did a great deal of practical good in her husband's parish. During the festive season she decided to give a feast to the aged poor of the district. All went well and the old people were having a fine time, when the curate's wife suddenly noticed that one old fellow did not seem to be getting on very well with his dinner. "What is the matter, Mr. Smith?" she asked. "Isn't it cut to your liking?" "Fine, ma'am—thankee!" mumbled the old chap. "But ye see, ma'am, I've a pickled onion in me mouth, and, having not but one tooth left in me head, it's a bit awkward like to catch it. I'll be all right, thankee, ma'am. Just 'ee wait till I git hold on 'un!"

Palindromes.

The longest single-word palindromes in the English language are said to be "reviver" and "rotator," each containing seven letters. A friend of the Boston Transcript has discovered one of nine letters, viz., "detanated," which may or may not be in the dictionaries. The Germans, however, have a palindrome of no less than thirteen letters, "reliefpfeiler," meaning relief columns.

Everyone Should Drink Hot Water in the Morning

To feel your best day in and day out, to feel clean inside; no sour bile to coat your tongue and sicken your breath or dull your head; no constipation, bilious attacks, sick headache, colds, rheumatism or gassy, acid stomach, you must bathe on the inside like you bathe outside. This is vastly more important, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do, says a well-known physician.

To keep these poisons and toxins well flushed from the stomach, liver kidneys and bowels, drink before breakfast each day, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will cleanse, purify and freshen the entire alimentary tract, before putting more food into the stomach.

Get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from your pharmacist. It is inexpensive and almost tasteless except a sourish twinge which is not unpleasant. Drink phosphated hot water every morning to rid your system of these vile poisons and toxins also to prevent their formation.

To feel like young folks feel; like you felt before your blood, nerves and muscles became saturated with an accumulation of body poisons, begin this treatment and above all, keep it up! As soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and purifying, so limestone phosphate and hot water before breakfast, act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.

DEBRIS OF THE SKIES.

Splinters Falling From the Sky Are Not Dangerous.

All the time while an air raid is going on the barrage is incessant. Thousands of shells are hurled into the air and the splinters fall upon the ground like hail.

Every shell explodes at a certain point in the air and breaks up into an enormous number of fragments which, scattered in all directions, at first possess a speed of their own which renders each of them a real projectile.

But after having run through a certain distance, which varies more or less according to the size, every one of the fragments loses its own speed. Then it falls, obeying only the laws of gravity. Sometimes, however, before it strikes the ground the fragments regain a considerable speed while falling. If the fragment comes in contact with a human being it is certain to have serious results.

But the number of splinters thus rendered dangerous is very limited. Only in rare cases do the anti-aircraft guns fire shrapnel that may come down again intact.

For the most part they employ shells that break easily, because the effect sought is the instantaneous production of a great quantity of gas—that is, the creation of a violent concussion capable of upsetting the aviator. Indeed, the splinters of the projectiles are even less dangerous to the aviators than the shock of the explosion.

The external cover of the (anti-aircraft) shell is literally turned to powder, and the only parts of the shell which retain any considerable size are the fuse, culot and cincture. A recent calculation based on experimental studies shows that in practice the fuse, the culot and the cincture, cover on the ground an area equal to a circle with a diameter of 65 millimetres (25.5 inches).

It is a plain duty to seek shelter when artillery is firing on aviators. Any kind of shelter is sufficient. When it is a question of seeking shelter from an aerial torpedo or bomb, solid structures of considerable thickness are necessary, for the combustion of the charge and the liberation of enormous quantities of gas which accompany it are capable of overcoming strong obstacles.

In brief, a splinter falling from the sky is a hailstone of important volume, but nothing more than a hailstone, and not to be feared as much as one might suppose; it always makes noise, sometimes a hole but never penetrates deeply.

Nemesis.

Nemesis was a goddess of justice and divine retribution. The word comes from a Greek verb meaning to deal out, distribute, dispense. In Greek mythology Nemesis was a goddess personifying allotment, or the divine distribution to every man of his precise share of fortune, good and bad. It was her special function to see that the proper proportion of individual prosperity was preserved, and that any one who became too prosperous or was too much uplifted by his prosperity should be reduced or punished.

Church Union.

This incident happened "Somewhere in France" on last Christmas day, says Interpreter Charles Welter. Some of our soldiers who attended a midnight mass in a little Roman Catholic church persuaded the parish priest to let them sing in English during the service. Accordingly a chorus of five sang in that French church various Christmas hymns and also "Nearer, My God, to Thee." It was a great success, the audience of native peasants showing appreciation of this good intention. But something which nobody "over there" knew or will ever know is that out of the five volunteer choristers two were Jews and three were Presbyterians.

Argentina Wants Fleet.

Argentina appears to be taking measures, in accordance with formulated plans, for the building of a merchant marine. As a preliminary step, President Irigoyen has asked Congress for power to requisition steamers of Argentine register and place them under Government control. Furthermore, he would have the sale of Argentine vessels to other nations prohibited. Some concern with regard to fuel supply for the Argentine fleet, is discernible in President Irigoyen's message to Congress, but why his thoughts should centre upon the future of the fleet, at this time, is one of the inexplicable things about his policy.

HAD WEAK and FAINTING SPELLS

Those feelings of faintness, those weak, "all gone" sinking sensations, which come over most people from time to time, are warnings that must not go unheeded.

They mean an extremely weakened condition of the heart and a disordered nervous system.

When the system is in this condition there is no time for delay. One fainting spell may be recovered from—will the next? One dizzy spell may pass off, but the next may be more serious.

Those who are wise will start taking Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, before their case becomes deep rooted and perhaps hopeless.

They will act directly on the disordered heart and weakened nervous system and restore them to full strength and vigor.

Miss Mary McCoy, Algoma Mills, Ont., writes:—"I was awfully troubled with fainting and weak spells, and I could never get any doctor's medicines to help me. One day a friend of mine was at the house when I took one of those spells, and she got me a box of Milburn's Heart and nerve Pills. That was six years ago, and from that day to this I have never had any of those spells. I would not be without your pills for any money and can highly recommend them to any one."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

MUST RESTORE LOOT.

Even Pro-Germans In Sweden Give This Advice.

The restoration of Danish Schleswig to Denmark is supported by Norway and it now appears plain that even the Germanophile elements in Sweden have made their decision. Although Sweden will not be a direct gainer by this restoration the Swedes prefer to support the interests of a strong and united Scandinavia rather than have Germany retain territory which is preponderatingly populated by Danes. The territory in question stretches down to a line running from west to east, roughly following the course of the little river Lecker across to Flensborg. The racial identity of Flensborg itself and of the people living a few miles north or south of the Lecker is debatable. Germany considers the inhabitants preponderatingly German while Denmark considers them Danish.

Germanophile Swedish newspapers, as exemplified by the reactionary Stockholm Dagblad, seem to be urging the German Government to save its face by offering as a matter of expediency to restore the territory to Denmark. I learn that strong political pressure is being brought to bear in certain unofficial quarters with the same aim in view of persuading Germany to strike a favorable bargain as possible, avoiding possible claims to the peninsula as far south as the Kiel canal. Stockholm's Bolshevist mayor, Herr Lindhagen, writes an editorial in Politiken urging Germany to restore North Schleswig.

Despatches from Germany bring an echo of those urgings of the Norddeutsche Zeitung and the Vossische Zeitung heatedly make retorts which are clearly inspired, telling the persons concerned not to interfere but to mind their own business. To this Hjalmar Brunting replies: "It is our business. The violation of the rights of this section of the Scandinavian people is painfully felt throughout the entire north and not only in Denmark. We have also to lay before the eyes of the world at the peace conference, and not by subsequent negotiations entailing concession and counter concessions between two or three Baltic powers, the unsolved Aaland question in which a little Swedish group appeals for the same rights of self government as are allowed to Finland and demands its complete liberation from any link with Russian sovereignty."

This vigorous reminder by Herr Branting is certain to have an effect upon the discussion concerning the Aaland islands. Sweden is unanimous in claiming the Aalands, the population of which is nearly entirely Swedish. The people themselves want to be attached to Sweden. Sweden's chances of getting the Aalands by discussions with the contrary minded Finland and Germany are scant and are recognized as being so. Thus we are likely to see in the course of a few days a pronounced swing in Swedish opinion to the peace conference, which really means appealing over the heads of Germany and Finland to the entente's sense of international justice.

BE READY FOR EMERGENCIES.

The best way is to always keep a bottle of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine in the house, ready for emergencies. Then when croup or colds come suddenly they can be promptly cured before they have time to reach an acute and dangerous stage. To meet this requirement we have put the syrup up in family size bottles which contain nearly three times as much as the 25-cent bottle and sell at 60 cents.

CAN BE MORE LIBERAL

$25,000,000 LOAN TO PROVINCES WILL HELP ONTARIO'S HOUSING SCHEME.

The twenty-five million dollar loan of the Dominion Government to the Provinces of Canada to assist in providing better housing conditions for the industrial population of the large centres enables the Ontario Government to make more liberal some of the conditions attached to its offer of a similar nature some time ago, stated Premier Hearst today. The offer of the Ontario Government to loan money to municipalities contained in a letter from the Prime Minister to Sir John Willison, chairman of the Ontario Housing Committee, dated 17th July, 1918, limited the amount to $2,000,000.

In the Government's announcement it was stated that the amount of loan to any one Province shall not exceed the proportion of the $25,000,000 which the population of the Province bears to the total population of Canada. This means that the maximum amount Ontario could receive would be about $7,800,000.

Story of a Murdered Padre

(By Charles Vince.)

In the first months of the war the priests of Belgium were singled out to be the special mark of the brutalities of the German invaders. Many were shot in their villages, and many more were shot as they went about their work of caring for the wounded. Neither their holy office nor the sanctity of the Red Cross was any protection to them. But nothing done on the field in Belgium or in the Belgian villages was worse than the murder of a Belgian priest which was committed in the German camp of Osnabruck in Hanover, in the summer of 1915. It was committed in the presence of Belgian officers and is another of those stories of which we shall hear more and more as the prisoners of war return.

This priest was serving as a chaplain in the Belgian army, and was taken prisoner. It is clearly stated in the Geneva Convention that chaplains and all those engaged in the care of the wounded, if they are captured are to be sent back as soon as possible their own army or country and in meantime are not to be treated as prisoners of war, though they may be employed at their own duties

This is a provision that has been repeatedly violated by the German authorities in the case of army doctors. I was violated also in the case of this Belgian chaplain. He was kept as an ordinary prisoner of war, in spite of his protests. Since these were of no avail he made a pretence to escape. He hoped in this way to compel the commandant to send him before the higher authorities, to whom he could repeat his protest in his own name and the name of a number of Red Cross men, also wrongfully held prisoners in the same camp. But the commandant guessed his intention, refused to bring him before the higher authorities and after a month in cells, returned him to his place in the camp.

The Chaplain was determined not to be beaten. He planned another and a more serious attempt to escape. The prisoners were confined in an artillery barracks. The windows of the rooms were covered with grills, fastened with padlocks; the courtyard was surrounded with barbed wire, ten feet high, and on the far side of the wire were the sentries.

Just after midnight, one night in August, the chaplain and with him two Russian officers, broke the padlock on one of the windows and lifted out the grill. The chaplain went through first and crept in the shadow of a row of chestnut trees, towards the wire. One of the officers followed but just before he reached the shelter of the trees a sentry saw him and fired. The bullet struck him and carried off a finger At the sound of the shot all the other sentries started to fire also and the other prisoners rushed to the windows of their rooms. This is what they saw through the grills.

The powerful electric lights of the comp had been turned on. The Russian officer was lying full length, as if dead. The chaplain was crouching in the shadow of the trees. Five or six men of the guard rushed into the courtyard, saw the Russian lying on the ground and began to kick him and beat him wih their rifle butts..

The guard then spread out and advanced across the courtyard. At that the chaplain got up, stepped out from the shadow and stood in the full glare of the lights with his hands above his head. He was forty feet away from the wire and made no attempt to escape As he stood there the prisoners in the rooms heard him call out in German and in French "Don't shoot."

But the guard took not notice; they lined up as if they were on parade, and the N.C.O. gave them the order to fire. The order came clear and unmistakeable to the men watching from the windows. The guard fired, and the chaplain fell dead where he stood. There he was left to lie. When the other prisoners looked out again at six in the morning there he still lay as he had fallen, uncovered, and with a sentry standing beside him.

In this way this Belgian chaplain, wrongfully held prisoner, ill-treated by the Commandant and refused his appeal to the higher authorities was, in the end deliberately shot as he stood with his hands above his head waiting for the guard to arrest him.

Even the Germans made no attempt to suggest that he had been shot while trying to escape. They thought another lie was safer. A few days later there appeared in "La Gazette des Ardennes" the French paper which the Germans published in Belgium, this announcement:—

Catarrh Of The Stomach Is Dangerous

"Thousands Have It and Don't Know It," Says Physician. Frequently Mistaken for Indigestion—How To Recognize and Treat.

"Thousands of people suffer more or less constantly from furred, coated tongue, bad breath, sour burning stomach, frequent vomiting, rumbling in stomach, bitter eructations, gas, wind, and stomach acidity and call it indigestion when in reality their trouble is due to gastric catarrh of the stomach," writes a New York physician.

Catarrh of the stomach is dangerous because the mucous membrane lining of the stomach is thickened and a coating of phlegm covers the surface so that the digestive fluids cannot mix with the food and digest them. This condition soon breeds deadly disease in the fermented unassimilated food The blood is polluted and carries the infection throughout the body. Gastric ulcers are apt to form and frequently an ulcer is the first sign of a deadly cancer.

In catarrh of the stomach a good and safe treatment is to take before meals a teaspoonful of pure Bisurated Magnesia in half a glass of hot water as hot as you can comfortably drink it. The hot water washes the mucus from the stomach walls and draws the blood to the stomach while the bisurated magnesia is an excellent solvent for mucus and increases the efficiency of the hot water treatment. Moreover the Bisurated Magnesia will serve as a powerful but harmless antacid which will neutralize any excess hydrochloric acid that may be in your stomach and sweeten its food contents Easy, natural digestion without distress of any kind should soon follow. Bisurated Magnesia is not a laxative is harmless, pleasant and easy to take and can be obtained from any local druggist. Don't confuse Bisurated Magnesia with other forms of magnesia, milks, citrates, etc. but get it in the pure bisurated form (powder or tablets), especially prepared for this purpose.

SHE SUFFERED FIVE YEARS

Finally Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Key West, Fla.—"For five years I suffered from irregularities, with terrible pains and an awful weakness in my back. The doctor gave me different medicines but they did me no good. A friend asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I found it to be the best medicine I ever tried because it made me well, and I can now do my housework. I am telling my friends about it."—Mrs. J. M. CAMUS, 726 Caroline St., Key West, Florida.

Many women at some period in their life suffer from ailments peculiar to their sex and which in most cases may be readily relieved by this famous root and herb medicine, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, just as Mrs. Camus found it helped her after suffering for years and trying everything else in vain.

If you have any annoying symptoms you fail to understand, write Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The results of their 40 years experience in advising women on this subject is at your service.

WHAT TO KNOW ABOUT YOUR WARM AIR HEATING APPARATUS

The general directions for operating warm air furnaces are alike. Particular directions for each make will be supplied by the manufacturer.

Examiantion of Furnace.

Examine furnace and pipes; see that they are in good repair and clean; that fire, ash-pit, and clean-out doors are tight when closed; that no other openings are in flue; that smoke-pipe fits tight to furnace, and is not inserted too far into the chimney.

Follow general directions for use of drafts and checks. By forcing the fire and keeping drafts open too long you waste fuel.

Humidity.

Keep the water retainer in the air jacket filled with clean water. A shallow jar or evaporation pan should be kept near the registers, particularly those sending out the most heat. Change water frequently, preferably every day.

Clean Flues Frequently.

Remember the clean-out door and why it is there. Brush off the soot once a week or oftener.

Rapid Circulation of Air Essential.

It will be found there is a large cold air duct on the main floor. In many cases this is neglected, covered oler in part or clogged with dust and dirt, thus interfering with that free circulation of air which is absolutely essential to the success of this system of heating. Keep this duct free of all obstruction and open always to a full supply of fresh air.

Covering.

All warm air pipes in the cellar should be thoroughly and completely wrapped with asbestos to prevent loss of heat.

Firing.

CUTTING M. S. STAFF

DIRECTOR OF REPATRIATION OCCUPYING M. S. A. OFFICES

OTTAWA, Dec. 5.—The large staff of the military service branch, Department of Justice, is gradually being released. Sufficient staff will be retained to wind up the work. This will probably take some months.

An indication of the signs of the times is found in the fact that the Director of Repatriation is taking over the offices lately occupied by the staff of the Central Appeal Judge under the Military Service Act.

Regent Tailors' Suits and O'Coats to Measure at $19.00

The man who insists on paying from $30 to $50 for a suit or an overcoat to order could save from $10 to $20 on his purchase if he wanted to by placing his order with us.

The range of suitings and overcoatings you will find on our tables is exactly the same quality as in high-priced tailor shops. If anything, you will probably get a much bigger variety here. Wherein, then, lies the difference in price? It is in the more up-to-date system of tailoring and in the reduced overhead expenses.

The Regent Tailors' organization is such that all unnecessary expenses and profits are entirely eliminated. The head of every department—the buying, the designing, the tailoring, the selling—is a shareholder in the company, drawing only a moderate salary, all working enthusiastically for the benefit of the company, to give the utmost in service to the public. The buying of materials, too, is direct from the makers, so that there are no middlemen's profits.

$19.00 TO MEASURE

In this way the cost of production is kept down to the very lowest point—and every Regent Tailors' customer gets the benefit of this economical policy. That'swhy an ordinary tailoring establishment would have tocharge you from $10 to $20 more for a suit or overcoat similar to ours.

Order Your Xmas Suit or Overcoat NOW

Less than three weeks till Christmas day! The suit or overcoat you will want for the home gathering should be ordered without delay. There is always a rush at the last and you may be disappointed if you wait. Come in Saturday or Monday, select the material and leave your order. We will make delivery at any time you say.

We have a marvellous stock of worsteds, tweeds, serges, cheviots, homespuns, meltons, ulsterings, Oxfords, etc., to choose from at only $19 for suit or overcoat to measure, scores of beautiful new patterns, such as you can find nowhere else in this city.

SOLDIERS
We recognize the great service you have done the empire by giving special attention to your orders.

Satisfaction Absolutely Guaranteed

Every garment we make must be to your entire satisfaction or you do not have to take it. If you doubt our ability to please you, try and see. We take all the risk. It is up to us to please and satisfy you.

WARM SESSION IS PRESAGED WHEN HOUSE CONVENES

TARIFF QUESTION SOON TO CROP UP

OTTAWA, Dec. 6.—The coming session promises early to develop controversy in several directions. Apart entirely from the fact that there is growing a feeling among certain Liberals who joined the Union and were elected on the Union ticket that their allegiance was only for the period of the war and "a reasonable time thereafter." Sharp divisions are bound to occur early in the session.

The tariff question cannot long be kept from cropping up, and that promises to be one of the most important after the war issues.

WANT DUTY KEPT OFF.

On Feb. 7 last an order-in-Council was passed rebating for the period of a year the duty on tractors of a value of $1,400 and under. As a result of that order, nearly 9,000 of that type of tractor were imported into the Dominion during the nine months ending October 31. The total value was nearly $8,000,000, and the duty rebated was upwards of two million dollars. The experiment, farmers contend, has justified their long demand for the abolition of the duty altogether on agricultural implements. Their representatives in the Commons will insist that the duty on tractors remain off, and the manufacturers insist that the order lapse in February next.

Golden Text: He that is faithful in a very little is faithful also in much. —Luke 16:10.

1. Verse 33. What remarkable occurrences had led up to this advice of Joseph to Pharoah?

2. In organizing for a great emergency how much depends upon the man put at the head of the organization?

3. Verse 34. When as a nation we are warned of a coming emergency, what ought the leaders of the people do?

4. Verse 34. When should the government take control of the great national utilities?

5. Why would it or not be in the interest of the people if the national government should always operate such national utilities, as cold storage plants, railroads, telegraph service, telephones, coal mines and express business?

6. Verses 35, 36. If twenty per cent. of the foodstuffs, as here suggested, were stored during the seven years of plenty, what proportion would that bear to the needs of the people during the seven years of famine?

7. Verses 35, 36. It was certainly wise statesmanship to provide in years of plenty for coming years of famine, when the famine was known in advance, but what would be the advantage to the nation of always having two or more years supply on hand?

8. To what extent are heads of families and others under moral obligation to save, and provide for the proverbial "rainy day"?

9. Verses 37, 38. When a statesman is convinced of a great public need, and prefers to pay no attention to it, what is he guilty of?

10. Verses 37, 38. Is it true or not that a seer who points out coming natinoal calamities is generally the best man to be at the head of an organization to prevent or mitigate these calamities?

11. Verse 39. Why should you say or not, that Joseph's advice to Pharoah was divinely inspired or the result of his human reasoning? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

12. Verse 40. If it takes an inspired man to understand an inspired man's word what objection is there in supposing Pharaoh to have also been inspired?

13. Verse 40. Would you say or not from this occurrence that in any nation governed by righteous laws that God always provides the right man at the right time, to meet any great national emergency? Give your reasons.

14. To what extent may any man at the head of a nation depend upon God for direction in grave emergencies as well as at other times?

15. Verse 41. When Joseph suggested that there should be "a man discreet and wise" placed over the land (verse 33) it seemed good in the eyes of Pharaoh's servants, but when Pharaoh appoints Joseph why do you suppose there is no recorded endorsation on the part of Pharaoh's servants?

16. Verses 42-44. Why does Pharaoh so often repeat and confirm Joseph's appointment if it is not to offset the jealousy of some of his distinguished servants?

17. What part has jealousy played in important state affairs in ancient and modern times?

18. What lessons are there for us, as Christians, as to the absolute safety of godliness, and of God's ruling in national affairs?

Presentation to Millbrook Girl

Items of Interest From Millbrook and Surrounding District.

Millbrook, Dec. 5.—Miss Mae Needham entertained the members of the Methodist Choir on Thursday last, the occasion being in honor of Miss Beryl Johnston. A very pleasant evening was spent in games, music and dainty refreshments were served. After wishing Miss Johnston success and thanking Mrs. and Miss Needham for their generous hospitality the guests departed for their respective homes. Miss Johnston has left for Toronto where she will take a nurse's course in the General Hospital. She will be missed in the choir and church services.

SERIOUSLY ILL

The many friends of Mr. T. W. Burnham will regret to learn he is seriously ill at Peterboro with pleuro-pneumonia.

Mr. Martin was a visitor to Peterboro over Sunday.

Rev. W. H. Higgs delivered special and eloquent sermons in the Millbrook Methodist Church last Sunday to large and appreciative congregations. The choir rendered special music at each service.

SCHOOL REPORT

November report of Senior Room, Millbrook Public School, names in order of merit as based on number of marks obtained.

Class IV.—Allen Pitt, Emma Morton, Pearl Armstrong, David Fowler, Luella Shaw, Alice Armstrong, Kathleen Freclove, Edwin Thorndyke, May Donaldson, Celia Pople, Gertie Harkness, Morris Gray, Arthur.

SENIOR III.—Helen Adams, Thelma Spencer, Bonna Robinson, Foster Russell, Alexandra Johnson, Gertie Gray, Ernest Burnham, Dorothy Higgs, Pearl Lamb, Billie Byam, Muriel Lang, Arnold Armstrong, Cecil Mitchell, Charlie Lord, Enest Cullen, Gerald Thurtle, Frank Curtis.
M. M. Van Nest, teacher.

PREACHED TO ODDFELLOWS

Rev. Dr. Lee preached a most eloquent sermon to the Millbrook and Cavan Oddfellows on Sunday morning in Grace church, which was filled by an appreciative congregation. When the Brethern returned to their hall they passed a hearty vote of thanks to Dr. Lee for his able discourse

DEATH FROM PNEUMONIA

Mr. A. A. Birchard of Millbrook received the sad news of the death from pneumonia of his sister-in-law, who is the wife of Major Birchall who arrived at Halifax the day that his wife was buried. He has been on active service overseas for four years. Mrs. Birchall was a trained nurse and answered the call for nurses. She was on duty as nurse at Moosjaw when she contracted the disease.

DANDRUFF MAKES HAIR FALL OUT

A small bottle of "Danderine" keeps hair thick, strong, beautiful.

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you can not find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance.

Get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine for a few cents at any drug store or toilet counter, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any —that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all—you surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Danderine.

THE WIFE

BY JANE PHELPS

Claude Beckly Succeeds in Spoiling Ruth's Evening

CHAPTER LV.

"The d—d fool!" Ruth heard Brian say under his breath, then, as a wave of crimson dyed his face, he said:

"Mollie has some business that I am looking after for her and it saves time if I do it at luncheon instead of when I might be seeing someone else."

He realized that, in view of what Claude Beckly had said, that it was a lame explanation. While it had really been more than an hour since Beckly had seen them—although now Ruth wouldn't believe it—yet he had sat over the luncheon all the afternoon. He recalled that he looked at his watch just as they rose from the table and it had been just five-thirty. It was now only a little after seven. So Beckly wasn't so far off.

Ruth felt stunned. Had things gone so far that Brian neglected his business, remained away from the office the entire afternoon, to be with Mollie King?

"Where did you lunch, Brian?" she asked very quietly. Too quietly, Brian thought. Her voice sounded ominous.

"At the Brevort."

Suddenly Ruth knew what to do. She would not upbraid him. She would not allow him to think she thought him guilty of any wrong—neither was she at all sure in her own mind that he had wronged her in any way.

"I wish you had called me up and asked me down there too. I should have enjoyed it immensely."

Brian was so taken aback he couldn't speak for a minute, then he said gruffly:

"How did I know your boss was going to give you the afternoon?"

"I have to lunch somewhere every day. I can always take an hour—or a little more. When you have time to go to a really nice place, I wish you would call me up and ask me to meet you."

"All right! I will," he breathed more freely. Was she going to be nice about it? He had been afraid of a blame. Yet, knowing Ruth, he should have known she would make no scene in a public place. Perhaps when they got home he'd catch it. How he hated that fool, Beckly, Meddlesome boob.

The waiter came with their order, and while Brian ate what he had ordered the noticed that Ruth scarcely ate a thing. And she had told him she was hungry. She asked for coffee with her dinner and drank two strong cups. Something she never had done before, and consequently Brian looked upon it as an added proof that she was trying to hold back the lecture he was to get when they reached home, she was bracing up on coffee. So he expressed it in his thoughts.

In one way he was right. Ruth trembled so she could scarcely control herself. To appear indifferent when she was so furiously jealous, was hard. She had asked for the coffee to help steady her nerves.

Ruth also could not help but wonder, as she pretended to eat, and occasionally made a remark about someone near them; if that was the reason Brian had no money; that he was 'broke' as he had told her before they left thome. She had given him ten dollars the night before, perhaps he had not found it. He had on the same clothes. She would ask him. It wasn't the money! If he had spent it, every cent, on himself, she would have laughed at him for his boyish foolishness; but to take the money she had earned—how should she approach the subject. She couldn't ask him pointblank if he had done as she suspected.

She tried to chat unconcernedly about some people near them, and Brian was so thankful for her forbearance that he seconded her in such a way that they both breathed more easily.

Their dinner as ordered would take about all of the five dollars, including the tip.

"I believe I could eat a baked alaska," Ruth finally said. She had selected the most expensive dessert she could think of.

Brian flushed again, looked uncomfortable, then blurted out:

"We haven't money enough! I told you we had better not come to such a place as this with only five dollars."

"But we didn't!" she almost held her breath, so anxious was she for the result of her little ruse.

"What do you mean?" more pleasantly. Ruth perhaps had more than she had told him.

"Why I slipped a ten dollar bill in your vest pocket last night! you remember you said you were out of money," the last words dragged. After one look at Brian's face there was no need to tell her, Ruth knew.

"I spent that!" he said. Then "Gad, Ruth! let's go home. I'm sick of this! If I have to give an account of every cent I spend, I'll—

Items of Interest From Hastings

HASTINGS, December 4. — A very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr and Mrs. B. F. Doxsee, on Friday last, when they entertained the choir of the Methodist church. The evening was spent in music and games after which lunch was served.

CUT THIS OUT

OLD ENGLISH RECIPE FOR CATARRH, CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES.

If you know of some one who is troubled with Catarrhal Deafness, head noises or ordinary catarrh cut out this formula and hand it to them and you may have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. In England the scientists for a long time past have recognized that catarrh is a constitutional disease and necessarily requires constitutional treatment.

Sprays, inhalers and nose douches are liable to irritate the delicate air passages and force the disease into the middle ear which frequently means total deafness, or else the disease may be driven down the air passages towards the lungs, which is equally as dangerous. The following formula which is used extensively in the damp English climate is a constitutional treatment and should prove especially efficacious to sufferers here who live under more favorable climate conditions.

Secure from your druggist 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength). Take this home and add to it 1-4 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day. This will often bring quick relief from distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and hearing improve as the inflammation in the eustachian tubes is reduced. Parmint used in this way acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system and has a tonic action that helps to obtain the desired results. The preparation is easy to make, costs little and is pleasant to take. Every person who has catarrah or head noises or is hard of hearing should give this treatment a trial.

The Wellington

THE UNIVERSAL PIPE

The Wellington is more than a good pipe—

it's a WDC Pipe, a genuine French briar; it's a good smoke; it's peace; it's comfort; it's quiet meditation—all done up in one sweet brown package. The well catches all moisture and the top-opening bit sends the clean, dry smoke up away from your tongue. Good dealers have the Wellington in the shape and size you want, at $1. and upward.

Sealed Lips

By VIRGINIA LEE

"We have verified all the securities, Miss Dryden," spoke the old family lawyer, David Jordan, "and our schedules show about two hundred thousand dollars in realty and personal property."

Miss Anita Dryden bowed mutely. One would have judged her a person just informed of some gloomy news, instead of a healthy, handsome young girl apprized of the fact that she was heiress to a fortune.

"Both my professional partner and myself are greatly surprised at the phenomenal shrinkage in values of your father's holdings over a few years since," continued the lawyer.

"The amount now represented exceeds my anticipation," spoke Miss Dryden, as though tired of discussing the subject. "It is more than I can use—ever will use. Have you started a search for the person whose name I gave you?"

"This Percy Vaughan? We have written to points where we have reason to believe he might be located."

"Should a reply come, I wish to deal with him personally as to the business involved," came the set, repelling reply.

Old John Dryden had used it both as a memorandum book and a diary. She sought two different pages, and read them in turn. The first had apparently been written ten years agone. It read: "I sought to find James Vaughan, but I learned he had been dead for five years, his family scattered and no trace. That I made my fortune out of the device he invented is sure, but have I not tried to find him to divide with him?"

The other entry was more recent. It ran: "A vague trace of Percy Vaughan, the son of my old partner. If I do not locate him, surely my conscience is clear. He is entitled and welcome to the share his father should have had."

"I will take nothing from the estate, I will make no plans for the future until this wrong or omission is repaired," decided Anita resolutely, and she closed up the grand old mansion and secluded herself in a distant village under the care of Mary Ward, a widow lady who had formerly been housekeeper for her dead mother.

The decision of reparation towards the family of James Vaughan was a dominant thought in the mind of Anita, but outside of that she seemed called on a mission to do some general good in the world instead of leading the idle life of a fortunate heiress.

It was quite dusk one day, and she and Mrs. Ward had delayed beyond the usual time at Irondale, where they were visiting the sick and poor. A black, brooding night with a driving rain and mist overtook them half the return journey accomplished.

As they neared a little low bridge the pony acted strangely, and the vehicle nearly turned over as the pony lied to one side. Dimly Anita made out a man waving his arms vigorously to halt the pony.

"Middle span of the bridge down," he shouted, "wait till I block the gap, and I'll lead your horse to the lower bridge."

When they had crossed to the other shore in safety, Anita made room for their rescuer in the phaeton. When they reached the cottage Mrs. Ward insisted on this kind guide coming in and getting his soaked outer garments dried.

"I shall catch a train in an hour at the depot," he explained, as he sat beside the stove in the comfortable kitchen, and Mrs. Ward, a grateful and gracious hostess, plied him with hot tea and lunch.

"You have been of great service to Anita—I mean Miss Dryden—and myself," and Mrs. Ward did not notice a sudden start on the part of her guest, who scanned Anita closely.

She was considerably surprised early the next morning to see their rescuer of the night previous saunter down the road as she was gathering some roses in the garden.

"I did not leave town as I anticipated," he said. "The fact is, I was on my way to the city to see you."

"To see me?" repeated Anita vaguely.

"Yes," answered the young man, "if you are Miss Anita Dryden. I was so instructed by a Mr. Jordan, a lawyer, by letter. I am Percy Vaughan."

"Now I understand," said Anita, and her perturbation was manifest. At last the moment had come when she must make a painful explanation to this stranger, whose clear, open face she liked from the start.

At once and right where they were Anita began her story. He noted that the recital was painful to her.

"Miss Dryden," he interrupted at last, "if you are leading up to a fear that I have not had my rights at the hands of your father, you may spare further explanation. Mr. Dryden paid me a very large sum in full of all possible rights or expectation on my part two years ago. He was more than liberal—a just, true man, bless him!"

And that broke the ice, and Anita's direful dread of injustice done and reparation delayed, dissipated like the mists of the morning before the rising sun. And a rising sun of friendship, and later of love it was, indeed, for those two harmonious souls.

Canadian women are right behind the Canadian troops in the trenches. Women nurses are now installed in hospitals 8 miles in the rear of the actual fighting line.

Many of our Canadian women are unable to take up the duties of nursing at the front, but they should know how to take care of their own at home, and for this purpose no better book was ever printed than the Medical Adviser—a book containing 1,008 pages, and bound in cloth, with chapters on First Aid, Bandaging and care of Fractures, Taking care of the Sick, Physiology, Hygiene, Mother and Babe, which can be had at most drug stores, or send 50 cents to Dr. Pierce, Courtwright St., Bridgeburg, Ont.

Woodstock, Ont.—"For womanly ailments I have found Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription to be excellent. It strengthened and built me up several years ago when I was suffering with a chronic trouble and it also proved to be a splendid tonic during expectancy. I take great pleasure in recommending Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription to all sufferers from woman's weakness."

ALASKANS MAKING GOOD.

Show Marked Inclination Toward Good Citizenship and Patriotism.

What the Alaska natives are doing as proof of their fitness is impressed on all who come in contact with the natives and their numerous activities along lines of advanced citizenship and patriotism.

The natives in Juneau through the press advocated the killing of dogs, that there might be more food for human consumption. They advised their native friends to protect the deer from their dogs that might kill deer during their helpless condition following this last winter's deep snows when many starved and all were weakened for lack of food.

Down at Kake the natives have only about one-third to one-quarter the number of dogs that they had last year. One who went through the village last fall and again this spring remarked on the fact that there were almost no dogs in town. "Yes," said a representative citizen, "the natives became convinced that from a sanitary standpoint and an economical standpoint they were keeping entirely too many pets. As a result of this conviction they began reducing on dogs and improving on health and food supply." "We have no real need for dogs in this part of the country, where all the traveling is done by water, except a few that are trained to hunt bear."

Another point that impresses even a casual observer is that the natives all take local newspapers and read carefully — often very slowly — the events that are taking place locally and throughout the world. If a native is not a regular subscriber to a newspaper you may be sure it is because he cannot read one word of English or any other printed language. Even parents who cannot read will subscribe for a paper for their ten and twelve-year-old children who have possibly had the advantages of two or three years in school.

Alaska's Gold Production.

The first gold deposits found in inland Alaska were in the Yukon-Tanana region, which lies between the Yukon and Tanana rivers, west of the international boundary. The earliest of the pioneer prospectors crossed the Chilkoot Pass about 1880 and began mining in the interior of Alaska six years later, after finding gold in the Yukon-Tanana region. Since then this region has produced gold to the value of about $100,000,000. The region, known as the Circle quadrangle, owes its chief present importance to the placer mines, which, though worked in a small way, have produced gold to the value of over $6,500,000.

The town of Circle is one of the oldest white settlements on the Yukon. It was located before the surveyor had determined that the town was not on the Arctic Circle, as supposed, but fifty miles south of it. Despite its nearness to the Arctic Circle, there are neither glaciers nor permanent snow in the Yukon-Tanana region. It is indeed a land of fertile valleys and grassy slopes, and during the short but warm summers vegetation thrives, many grains can be ripened and vegetables grow luxuriantly. The establishment of adequate railroad transportation facilities may be expected to develop this entire region greatly.

Food For the British.

The stupendous total of over $90,000,000 worth of meat and dairy products has been purchased in Canada by the British authorities in the 12 months just ended. All the commodities bought were produced on Canadian farms and the returns go to the farmer. A return has just been supplied by the Canadian section of the British ministry of food to the chairman of the Canada Food Board, covering the period from Oct. 1, 1917, to Saturday last (Sept. 28), giving the following values of purchases throughout the provisions section:

	Value.
Bacon and hams	$40,023,518
Frozen beef	16,587,366
Lard	250,285
Preserved meat (army)	1,239,300
Preserved meat (civilian)	59,800
Total	$58,210,269

The purchases by the Dairy Produce Commission (a separate body) made in the last summer season from May to Sept. 21 were as follows:

	Value.
Butter	$ 912,796
Cheese	28,243,152
Condensed milk	2,778,662
Total	$31,934,609

THIN PEOPLE SHOULD TAKE PHOSPHATE

Nothing Like Plain Bitro-Phosphate to Put on Firm, Healthy Flesh and to Increase Strength, Vigour and Nerve Force.

Judging from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing arms, neck and bust, and replacing ugly hollows and angles by the soft curved lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness.

Thinness and weakness are usually due to starved nerves. Our bodies need more phosphate than is contained in modern foods. Physicians claim there is nothing that will supply this deficiency so well as the organic phosphate known among druggists as bitro-phosphate, which is inexpensive and sold by McDermid and Jury and by most druggists under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphoric food elements, bitro-phosphate quickly produces a welcome transformation in the appearance; the increase in weight frequently being astonishing.

This increase in weight also carries with it a general improvement in the health. Nervousness, sleeplessness and lack of energy, which nearly always accompany excessive thinness, soon disappear, dull eyes become bright, and pale cheeks glow with the bloom of perfect health.

CAUTION:—Although bitro-phosphate is unsurpassed for relieving nervousness, sleeplessness and general weakness, it should not, owing to its remarkable flesh-growing properties, be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.

Waiters Go on Strike as Broadway Gets Ready to Dine

Walkout Finds Restaurants Unprepared and Some Close Their Doors—Cooks Join Them and Meals Get Cold—All Classes of Help Demand Wage Increases, Which Are Not Granted.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—Several thousand diners in many of the Broadway restaurants experienced a unique thrill last night when all of the waiters, cooks and kitchen help laid aside their aprons and announced they were on strike. While the decision was not totally unexpected by the restaurateurs arrangements to overcome the situation had not been completed, and Churchill's, the Pekin and Strand were completed to close their doors.

When the movement extended to Reisenweber's the management had sufficient help to continue serving the diners. In hotels the strike had already been in progress.

Scarcely had the waiters with their associates walked out than three hundred detectives and policemen, commanded by William J. Lahey, Deputy Police Commissioner, appeared, prepared for any emergency. The walkout, it seemed, was accomplished without any disturbance and no trouble was reported to the police.

Demand Wage Increase.

At six o'clock in the evening a committee of waiters and representatives of the kitchen help in Churchill's, Broadway and Forty-ninth street, called on Captain James Churchill and presented demands for an increase of wages for the 240 employes.

The waiters demanded $12.50 the week wages, an increase of $4.50 a week, and the kitchen help demanded increases which ran from $1 to $3. Captain Churchill told the committee he would not meet the demands and the committee immediately called out all the help in the restaurant.

Captain Churchill said later that in the fourteen years he has conducted restaurants in Broadway he has had four strikes. He said he won every one by employing new help, and hadn't any doubt that he would resume business to-day with a new force.

"I had a crew of men ready to take the place of the strikers," he said, "but I decided I'd rather give perfect service than to be bothered with the confusion that would follow in suddenly placing new help at work during the dinner hour.

New Force at Work To-day.

"By to-morrow afternoon my new force will be thoroughly organized, and then I'll resume business as though I never had those other fellows in my employ."

PASTOR SHIELDS BACK

VISITS MOTHER IN HAMILTON ON RETURN FROM OVERSEAS

HAMILTON, Dec. 5.—Rev. T. T. Shields, pastor of Jarvis street Baptist Church, Toronto, is visiting his mother here on his way home, after five months spent overseas as a guest of the British ministry of information. He preached in Spurgeon's Tabernacle in England, visited the grand fleet, and was with the Canadian corps when it entered Mons two hours before the armistice was signed.

CARELESSNESS CAUSE OF $8,000,000 FIRE LOSS IN 10 MONTHS

OTTAWA, Dec. 5.—That from '70 to 90 per cent. of Canada's annual fire loss is due to fires in manufacturing plants and business establishments is a statement made by the commission of conservation dealing with the great increase in fire waste in Canada during the ten months of the present year ending with October 31.

"Through the negligence of 234 owners and occupants of property," asserts the commission, "the loss was eight million dollars in ten months, and Canada stands indicted before the rest of the world as a nation of careless spendthrifts."

AN OLD RECIPE TO DARKEN HAIR

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural colour and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients for about 50 cents. Everybody uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

USED FOR SHAVING.

Many men are troubled, more particularly in the cold weather, with a sort of roughness of the skin or eczema caused by shaving. The application of Dr. Chase's Ointment after the shave soon cures the trouble and by using it after each shave you keep the skin soft and prevent irritation and soreness. Because of its antiseptic qualities this ointment prevents and cures Barber's Itch.

GERMAN PRINCES TO LEAVE MONEY BEHIND BEFORE GOING ABROAD

WILLIAM'S FOURTH SON AND HIS SPOUSE CHOOSE ARGENTINA

LONDON, Dec. 5.—The German Government has consented to permit a number of the Hohenzollern princes to leave Germany on condition that they leave heir fortunes behind them, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Amsterdam. They have accepted the conditions it is stated, and expect to proceed to Swizerland, Denmark and Holland.

Prince August William, the former emperor's fourth son, however, and his wife are going to Denmark as soon as possible, the message adds.

Hearst Employee Was a Confidential Agent of German Government

STARTLING ALLEGATIONS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—That William Bayard Hale, employee of William R. Hearst, was also "confidential agent" of the German Embassy here and was employed as head of the German propaganda service at a salary of $15,000 a year, was the testimoney to-day of A. Bruce Biolaski, head of the Department of Justice Bureau of Investigation, before the Senate Committee investigating alien propaganda.

Biolaski read into the record cablegrams furnished by the State Department from among the records of Von Bernstorff, formerly German Ambassador to this country, to prove what he said about Hale. The first of these were sent to Berlin via Buenos Aires and Stockholm on June 2, 1916. In it, Bernstorff advised Berlin "that the present is a favourable time to get Hearst to send a first-rate journalist to Berlin. The man selected, W. B. Hale, has been a confidential agent of the Embassy under a contract which runs to June 3rd, 1916."

In the second cablegram Bernstorff complained that "Hale says and Hearst confirms that the World (The New York World), on account of Wiegand (Karl Von Wiegand) gets the important interviews. Urge Hale get preference as Hearst has since the beginning placed himself outspokenly on our side."

Letter From William Taft

The following is a copy of a letter received by Mrs. Harstone a few days ago, from Wm. Taft's, secretary:

931 Southern Bldg.
Washington, D. C.
Nov. 29th, 1918.

My Dear Mrs. Harstone:—

I am advised by the Coit-Alber Bureau of Toronto, that they have arranged to have Mr. Taft speak in Peterboro on Thursday evening, Jan. 23rd, 1919.

He will probably leave Detroit Wednesday, Jan. 22nd, at midnight, arriving in Peterboro via C.P.R. at 12.28 noon on Thursday and will leave Peterboro en route to Pembrke at 12.28 noon on Friday.

I shall appreciate it if you will let me know later on where you will arrange to have Mr. Taft stop while in Peterboro and the place and hour of his address.

He will wish to select as the subject of his address, "Clinching the Results of the War."

Sincerely Yours,
Wendell W. Mischler,
(Secretary.)

Government Ownership

Burleson Recommends Permanent Ownership of Telegraph and Telephone System.

Special to The Examiner:

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6. —Permanent government ownership of the telegraph and telephone systems of the country is recommended by Postmaster-General Burleson in his annual report made public to-day.

"The experiences as a result of the war have fully demonstrated that the principle of government ownership of the telegraphs and telephones is not only sound but practical," he stated.

"While such control is temporary, and will exist only until the ratification of the treaty of Peace, yet the best results can be accomplished only when these systems are owned by the government, made a part of the postal establishment and operated solely with a view to serving the public and not of making profit or guaranteeing returns on the investment."

Thrilling Story of Sea Warfare

British Submarine Went Down With 73 Persons on Board.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

LONDON, December 6. — An extraordinary story of the salvage of the British submarine which went down in Gaerloch lock, near Clyde, has now been published.

The submarine had 73 persons on board, including naval contractors. The order was given to submerge, and she had descended just beneath the surface when the water began to pour into her aft, and she descended stern down to a depth of fifteen fathoms. The ventilator shaft had been left open, and 31 persons in the rear of the vessel were immediately drowned. The fore part was shut off and the 41 persons there were saved. How their rescue was accomplished was sensational.

KILLED INSTANTLY.

Captain Goodhart, one of the forty-two, attempted the task which reads like a tale from Jules Verne. High pressure bottles were brought into use, and the captain undertook with their aid, to be projected through the conning tower and shot into the water, with the hope of reaching the surface, and giving information regarding those below. He was shot forward, but his head struck a beam and he was instantly killed. Another officer volunteered and was fortunate enough to reach the surface and give information about the condition of the others below.

Rescuers inserted through a water flap a flexible hose, through which air, food and chocolate were passed. The entombed men asked, by means of Morse signalling, for playing cards "to beguile the tedium of waiting,' as one of them said.

Strong wires were put around the vessel and air bottles utilized to blow out the oil fuel stowed forward which enabled the vessel to drive upward with high speed until the bow was well above the water, in a perpendicular position.

Immediately a big hole was made in her by acetylene burners and the 41 men brought out and conveyed to an infirmary. They had been below for 57 hours before being saved.

LABOUR MEN REFUSE TO CO-OPERATE

(Special to The Examiner.)

KINGSTON, Dec. 6.—A movement was on foot to have the labour men co-operate with the Retail Merchants' Association and the Board of Trade in securing suitable candidates to run for aldermen, but the labour men refused to act. They state they will run their own fight and have already nominated three men for the council.

FRENCH SHIPS LOST IN GALE

76 OFFICERS AND MEN

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., Dec. 5. —There remains no doubt here but that the Cerisoles and the Inkerman, French mine sweepers, were lost in Lake superior during the gale on the night of November 24, together with their crews, which, it is now learned, consisted of 76 officers and men.

The shores of Lake Superior, both north and south, are being searched to-day by Government Coast Guard boats for wreckage, and the steamer Huronic of the Northern Navigation Company is making a trip of exploration among the island.

Captain Leclerc's Account.

Captain M. Leclerc of the French Navy, who was in charge of the three mine sweepers, one of which, the Sebastopol, arrived safely at the Sault after a hard fight with the storm, arrived here to-day to make arrangements for a tug to explore uninhabited portions of the north Canadian shores. Captain Leclerc gave a graphic account of the storm, which his ship weathered, and intimated his belief that the other ships either foundered or were wrecked on some unknown shore.

Both the missing mine sweepers carried wireless equipment, but their operators were young men and said to be students rather than experienced radio experts. Each vessel carried thirty-eight men, including officers and crews.

Captain Leclerc to-day refused to announce the names of any of the officers, pilots or men, but said one ship carried a Canadian pilot from Collingwood and the other an American pilot from Buffalo.

Sebastopol Weathered the Storm.

The three vessels, bound from Fort William, where they were built, to France, were led by the flagship Sebastopol with Captain Leclerc in command. During the night of November 24 a terrific storm hit the ships and forced them to turn into it in order to avoid swamping. They were forced to make a detour to avoid Kaweenaw Point, which is at the extreme end of the upper peninsula, getting ou into Lake Superior. The Sebastopol weathered the storm, but not without opening her seams and rendering constant using of the pumps necessary.

The Cerisoles and the Inkerman were not seen by the flagship from that time, and the general belief is that they either foundered there, or after making the turn sailed northeast toward the Canadian shore.

Crews Members of French Navy.

Every effort has been made by wireless to reach the two ships, but no reply of any kind has been had. All the members of the crews of the two vessels were Frenchmen, members of the French navy, with the exception of the pilots.

The Cerisoles and the Inkerman were each boats of 150 feet length. They were travelling light. Built for ocean travel, they easily could have withstood the long swells of an Atlantic storm, but Capt. Leclerc is fearful that the Lake Superior waves brought them disaster.

The French Government has been officially notified of the loss of the vessels, but until all hope is given up, the names of the crews will not be given out, it is announced.

Allies Will Occupy Berlin

Three Frenchmen Shot by a German Guard.

(Special to The Examiner.)

COPENHAGEN, Dec. 6.—Allied and American forces will temporarily occupy Berlin, and exercise police supervision, according to the "Deutsche Allgmeine Zeitung," of Berlin, which says that an American wireless despatch to this effect has been intercepted by the Germans. The newspaper says that Mannheim will be similarly occupied.

Reason for this action on the part of the Allies is said to be a "regrettable incident during which a supervisor of a prisoners' camp shot three Frenchmen."

CHILE WANTS TWO DREADNOUGHTS FROM BRITAIN

Battleships Were Requistioned at the Beginning of the War—One Was Re-named the "Canada."

PREPARING FOR WAR

Special to the Examiner:

SANTIAGO, Chile, Dec. 6.—The War Ministry suggested to-day that the Government ask Great Britain to return to Chile the two dreadnoughts she requisitioned at the beginning of the war.

The people here are preparing for a great pro-Colombian demonstration.

Chile had two dreadnoughts, the Almirante-Cochrane and the Almirante-Laterre, building in England when the war broke out. They were requisitioned for the British Navy. One was re-named the Canada. Both ships displaced 28,000 tons, and have a speed of 23 knots. Their main battery consists of ten 14-inch guns. The secondary battery includes sixteen 6-inch and four 3-inch.

The pro-Colombian demonstration planned in Santiago was apparently in response to the pro-Colombian demonstration in Bogota, in which 5,000 persons participated. It was also reported that 300 Colombian army officers have offered their services to Chile in the event of war.

Cabinet Resigned.

Special to the Examiner:

LIMA, Peru, Dec. 6.—The Peruvian Cabinet has resigned. Anzimo Barreto has been asked to form a new Ministry.

Believes Slate of Four is Preferable

That a slate of four candidates should be Labour's representation in the municipal elections is an opinion that has been expressed by several members of "locals" who are not on the Trades Council. Instead of endorsing five or six men, they contend, the Council should decide upon a compact group of four in order that there could be a concerted drive for their election. By increasing the slate beyond that limit, the chances of all the Labour candidates are lessened, it is argued, and this year's drive might over-reach itself by submitting too many names to the electors.

"Tuesday night's meeting should decide on four candidates," one man said," and these should be the four who are expected to make the best stand. It will be no disappointment to the men who are dropped, particularly if it is generally felt that their retirement will contribute to the success of Labour's campaign."

BRITAIN'S NEW FLEET

Twenty-one New Additions to the British Battle Squadrons Since Outbreak of War.

HUGE SHIPS

Special to The Examiner:

LONDON, Dec. 6.—(British Admiralty Wireless.)— The Times publishes an article by its naval correspondent on war time construction in the British navy which can now be revealed. He says: "In the descriptive accounts of the surrender of German ships, the names of 21 additions to the British battle squadrons have been mentioned. These vessels have all joined the Grand Fleet since the navy list for August, 1914, was published:

Two are of the Iron Duke class, the "Emperor of India" and the "Benbow." They belonged to the 1911-12 programme, as did also the "Tiger," a battle cruiser. The five vessels of the Queen Elizabeth class, the "Barham," "Valiant," "Warsprit," "Malay" and the "Nameship," all of which were in the programme for 1912-13, are among the additions.

In the battleship programme for 1913-14 there were five vessels, which in armament and armour were to resemble the Queen Elizabeth class, but on a slightly smaller displacement. They are all in the fleet—the "Royal Sovereign," "Roya l Oak," "Ramillies," "Resolution" and "Revenge." Then there are vessels whose purchase was announced by Mr. Churchill in August, 1914. Two of these battleships were owned by Turkey and were known as the "Osman 1" and "Reschadich." They were renamed the "Agincourt" and "Erin." Two other battleships weer building in this country for Chile, the "Almirante Isterre" and the "Almirante Cochrane." The former has been renamed "The Canada." The latter is believed to be the vessel launched by Mrs. Page, wife of the American Ambassador, last June and named "The Eagle."

The Other Five.

The five remaining vessels of the twenty-one are those familiarly known as the "hush" ships, because of the secrecy maintained about their design and construction. They are known as the "Repulse," "Courageous," "Glorious," "Frivolous" and "Namelost," and they are reported to be nearly 800 feet in length, to displace 30,000 tons each, and to be capable of a speed of from 30 to 35 knots. Although so huge they were to have been completed within a year, while the combination of speed with a heavy armament, of a comparatively light draft, would allow them to be used on the shallow water of the North Sea and Baltic to catch and smash a retreating enemy.

Monsieur Rosseau, naval writer of The Temps, states that they are fitted with devices to neutralize explosions as far as possible and to afford them apparently considerable immunity against torpedo attacks. He instances them as proof of the confidence of the British navy in the powerful service vessel capable of heavy hitting, the only one which appears able to answer the mastery of the seas.

A Contrast.

The contrast presented with this output of British ships is more marked when it is recalled that in the battle squadrons of the German High Seas Fleet not more than two or three vessels could be classed as products of war time. Neither in design, construction nor equipment do their ships compare favourably with ours, which are actually the embodiments of battle experience. Nothing can be found in their navy of the same kind, outside the pirate flotillas.

As Captain Persius admitted in the Berliner Tageblatt of November 18. "the longer range of the British guns would soon have put our weak armoured ships to the bottom of the seas."

Sudden Death of John Dunn

The Deceased Had Just Returned From Church.

A few minutes after returning from confession at the Chapel at the House of Providence, John Dunn, an aged inmate, dropped dead yesterday afternoon. He had been in apparently perfect health in the morning, and his death quite unexpected.

The remains were laid at rest this afternoon in St. Peter's cemetery.

SULTAN CLAIMS TURKEY'S PARTICIPATION IN WORLD WAR WAS AN ACCIDENT

It Was Clearly Unwise Because of the Political Situation and Should Never Have Happened.

THE NEW RULER

(Special to The Examiner.)

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 6. — Sultan Mohamed Vasid Eddin, the new Turkish ruler, declared in an interview to-day that the participation of Turkey in the war was "unwise" and an "accident," that the officials guilty of instigating the mistreatment of subject peoples would be severely punished.

"The participation of Turkey in the war was an accident," the Sultan said. "It was clearly unwise, because of the political situation and our geographical position. The government's lack of foresight led us into a calamity. It would never have happened had I been on the throne.

"I have learned with the greatest sorrow of the treatment of Armenians in certain political communities. This is now being reviewed, and I intend to punish all fomenters with the greatest severity. Such misdeeds have broken my heart. The great part of my people have never shared in the misdeeds attributed to Turkey."

The Sultan, who succeeded Mohamed V, is tall, spare of frame and slightly stooped. His air is more that of a college professor than that of a ruler.

FRANK JENNE SAYS

And now for your new Overcoat for Christmas. The man that has found clothing that suits him in every way, is indeed fortunate. Many such men are now wearing Semi-Ready Tailored Overcoats. Let your new Overcoat be one from my carefully selected stock—the utmost in looks, comfort and wear, at a "happy medium" price. One of these overcoats will mean a "Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year" every day that you wear it. "Come to me."

SHOP EARLY

Christmas is only eighteen days away. Take three Sundays out of this and you have fifteen days left in which to do your Christmas shopping. You help yourself when you do your Christmas shopping early, and incidentally help the merchants and the army of clerks that has been mobilized to serve you. In addition days left in which to do your tion of goods, and that alone is sufficient reason why you should shop early and avoid the rush.

Registration Act Repealed

Will Not be Necessary to Carry Registration Cards.

Special to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, Dec. 6.—The provisions of the Canada Registration Act are to be repealed by order-in-Council, and thereafter the penalties imposed for non-registration or for failure to carry cards will no longer be imposed. Persons coming of age will not be compelled to go up to register. The Board will finish its work of registration with the information secured.

Returned Soldiers Offered to Help

Lakefield News of Interest—Sergt. Stenner Home.

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 6.—A deputation of returned soldiers visited the Comfort Club on Thursday afternoon and offered their help in raising money to clear away the present debt. Owing to the influenza outbreak, means of raising money have been limited, so that the kind offer was appreciated. The returned soldiers have always been very much to the fore in patriotic work for their comrades still fighting.

Military News.

Mrs. Marling has received a cable from her husband to say that he has been sent to convalescent home at Buxton, Derby, and hopes to be home in January.

Sergt. Stenner, who has been spending a few days' leave at his home here, has returned to Kingston.

Pte. C. Montgomery, of Buckhorn, who has just returned, is the guest of his sister, Mrs. Junkin. Pte. Montgomery went overseas with the 93rd Battalion, and was badly wounded at the front. His brother, Osborne, of the 2nd Battalion, has been missing since the battle of Langemarcke.

Flight-Lieut. Havelock Graham, of Camp Borden, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. Havelock Chant.

Pte. Morley McDonald, who returned this week from overseas, is at his home in the village. His many friends are glad to welcome him back.

Personals.

Mrs. Dench was a visitor to Peterborough on Tuesday.

Mr. Duncan Knight, of Toronto, was in the village on Thursday.

Mrs. Theodore Crawford and Miss Merle, were in Peterborough on Thursday.

Mrs. (Major) Leigh, of Toronto, has returned to the village, where she hopes to remain for some weeks.

GOVERNMENT IS CAREFUL.

The Ontario Government has evi...tly not missed the significance the results of the by-elections Manitoulin and North Huron This evidenced by the fact that al...ough two other seats are open the ...vernment is playing safe and is ...y announcing a by-election in St. ...tharines to fill the vacancy caused the death of Dr. Jessop. The lat... had a big majority at the last ...ction, and the Queen's Park rulers ...alize that there is a good chance the return of a candidate unoppos... in that riding. It is different in ...rth Ontario, which has been open some time, and the government ...s decided for the present to dodge ...e issue—at least the official an...uncement makes no mention of North Ontario seat. The de...at of government candidates in ...e last two by-elections furnishes a ...od reason.

WHAT IS NEEDED

Yesterday the Board of Trade heard ...most inspiring address by Mr. ...erson Ritchie upon the subject ...Peterboro's future. The principal ...int brought out by the eloquent ...eaker was the necessity of substi...te action for talk and the citizen ...Peterboro will agree that Mr. ...itchie uncovered the defect in all ...e movements that have started in ...is city to make a big end a better ...eterboro. Everybody remembers the ...fferent efforts that were made—how ...e new campaign started out with an ...thusiastic hurrah and in a few ...eeks the initial energy had been ex...austed and the movement came to ...n untimely end. May it be hoped ...at yesterday's luncheon, one of the ...rgest that the Board of Trade has ...ld for some time will prove the be...nning of a new era of Peterboro—...at the men who heard and applaud... and were thrilled and enthused ...y Mr. Ritchie breezy optimism ...ill capitalize the enthusiasm that ...as engendered yesterday? The speak... at yesterday's gathering was abso...tely right. His diagnosis of what ...as been wrong in Peterboro was cor...ct and every man who heard him ...new that it was correct. We in Pe...terboro have talked too much and ...one too little—we have erred not ...n being too conservative in plan...ing but in not being ready enough ...n action.

Will yesterday's "Get together" ...ovement start us on the path that ...eads to civic success?

It will if the men who were there ...ill throw themselves into the move...ent. Why not try it?

A MISTAKE SOMEWHERE

The Toronto News' Ottawa corres...ondent must be congratulated upon ...is ability to discover the things that ...emain hidden from the ordinary ob...erver. There has been a rather gen...al opinion that the tariff question ...as already begun to make trouble for ...e Union Government. Hon. Mr. ...raser's presence at the meetings of ...e Council of Agriculture when a ...olicy was decided upon that it was ...ell known would not meet with the approval of his colleagues in the Cabinet was expected to cause his resignation and, probably end in the connection of other western ministers The staunch Unionist journal the Kingston Standard in fact has already demanded Mr. Crerar's scalp. But all these forebodings are unnecessary Everything is lovely at Ottawa, the News has discovered. The stories of dissension in the Cabinet are absolute nonsense."

Dissensions!

Why "the members of the Union Government have never been working more harmoniously than at the present time."

The tariff question?

As harmless as the German navy!

Of course there has been a "divergence of view" but then the tariff is not an immediate issue, says the News and will remain in abeyance until the reconstruction period is over

In its summary of the situation the News has passed over the "ginger group." The views of the cabinet on the "Back to the Cream" policy of the Rogers-Currie type that caused so much smacking of lips at the love feast in Toronto last week would make interesting reading.

PREFERENCE AND PEACE.

President Wilson's fourteen principles that should govern a peace treaty included a mention of freedom of commerce which has been interpreted in various ways. Some of his opponents in American politics, seeking for useful points in the political campaign, have endeavoured to arouse the hostility of the manufacturing interests by representing that the President has declared for free trade, an interpretation that Mr. Wilson has repudiated. Another question is the effect of Mr. Wilson's principles on British preferential tariffs. In some quarters it has been assumed that the President means no preference should be granted. There is no doubt that he means that all nations should have equal opportunity. He is clearly against the policy of boycotting any nation—even Germany. But it is not at all probable that he has any thought of interfering in the internal trade policy of any nation. Let us take our own Dominion for illustration. Canada led the way in preferential trade in 1897, and still applies the principle of preference in her tariff. That, however, is entirely a matter of trade between Canada and the Mother Country, or between Canada and other parts of the British Empire. The Empire, though composed of many countries—perhaps we might say of many nations—is a unit for all international purposes. It suited the purposes of Germany, at one stage, to treat Canada as a separate nation, and to claim that Germany was entitled to all the privileges which Canada granted to Great Britain. Against that claim Canada very properly protested. As a result of that protest the old treaties, which did grant such rights to Germany, and also to Belgium, were cancelled. Germany penalized Canada for a while, by applying her highest tariff to our products. Canada struck back, most effectively, with the surtax on German goods. Ultimately Germany sued for commercial peace with Canada, acknowledging Canada's right to make such trade arrangements as she pleased within the British Empire without reference to any foreign power. Some American writers at one time argued that Canada should give her preferential tariff to American goods. But this claim was incapable of being sustained by argument. If the American Government ever contemplated putting forward the claim they abandoned it. They were themselves granting preferential terms to their new overseas possessions, Porto Rico and the Philippines. How could they maintain a denial of Canada's right to grant a preference to another part of the British Empire? In both cases the affair was a family matter, in which outsiders could not properly meddle. There is no reason to suppose that President Wilson, in setting forth what he thought was a proper basis for peace, had any intention of meddling in trade relations between the several parts of the British Empire. That question will be one settled among themselves by the representatives of Great Britain and the colonies. If they can arrange matters to their mutual satisfaction, it is not likely that any foreign nation will attempt to intervene.—Journal of Commerce.

PURSUING ENEMY AIRCRAFT

High in the air, their outlines almost melting into the soft blue of the sky, two machines were moving swiftly toward the sinking sun.

The even drone of their engines made the tired earth-encrusted men in the trenches glance upwards, with the swift questioning but never surprised look that trench life bred.

The evening was a clear one, too clear for the comfort of the German pilots, for as they crossed the trenches the Archie shells began to burst around them with deadly accuracy, in clustering puffs of wooly, white smoke. First, the faint, boom of the gun and then the dull crump-crump of the bursting shrapnel high in the air, brought many pilots from many ante-rooms to gaze up into the sky, appraisingly. When one has often been shot at in the air, one can observe this kind of thing understandingly.

* * * *

"Six hearts," murmered Billy, in his drawling way.

"Double," said Peter, emphatically. And at this interesting moment, an orderly appeared.

"Wanted in a hurry, sir," he said; and Billy, springing from his chair seized his coat and flying cap and raced across to the wooden hut served as Orderly room

To the outsider, the few curt words the Major spoke would certainly have seemed inadequate, but to Billy they were quite sufficient. Billy was "standing by" that day for the purpose of P.E.A., whih signifies "Pursuing Enemy Aircraft." Within five minutes of the call, his smart swift scout machine was roaring up into the air and climbing in steep circles

Billy kept his eyes on the trailing bursts of shell smoke and edged towards the trenches as fast as he could. By the time he reached 9,000 feet, the small balls of white began to look like miniature clouds and the sound of the bursting shell was now loud and menacing.

Beneath him, Billy caught sight of another scout climbing swiftly; and he noted with satisfaction the glint of the fading sunlight on its colored rings.

"Good egg!" he muttered.

As he reached 12,000 feet, the two German machines, either because they had satisied their curiosity, or because they had become tired of the British fire, turned and hurried towards the lines.

Billy judged their height, and climbed a little highed. Then with throttle wide open, he dived. His right eye watching steadfastly through the gun sights found the black-crossed machine below him, and then his gun began to crackle.

Simultaneously both German machines turned, and as they twisted Billy caught sight of the big black crosses on their yellow wings.

For a moment all three were twisting round and round amidst a halo of flashing bullets. Something hard struck Billy's left elbow, and he glanced down at it for an instant. Then, as he looked up again, he saw one of the enemy machines streaking down with a pillow of black smoke pouring from its fuselage.

Again the other German machine attempted to dive away, but Billy stuck to is tail, firing burst after burst into its cockpit, until it faltered, side-slipped, and spinning round and round, crashed to the earth on No-Mans'-Land, 10,000 feet below.

Billy landed quite satisfactorily and walked over to the Office to make out his report

"Well, Billy?" queried the Major.

"I stopped their laughing in Church alright, sir," he said. And then, quite suddenly he fainted. That left elbow was out of business for some time, but Billy was "as righ as rain," as he explained to the Major a few minutes later.

Public Works to be Started

Work Will Be Commenced Now War is Over.

Special to the Examiner:

OTTAWA, Dec. 6.—In accordance with the policy announced by several members of the Cabinet, the Public Works Department is proceeding with certain deferred public works now that the war has ceased. The important works on which operations are to be centred include Courtenay Bay Harbour at St. John, the ocean terminals at Halifax, the Welland Canal work, the Ashbridge Bay Harbour work at Toronto and other works. The erection of public buildings has been pretty well deferred since the war commenced. In certain places where necessity exists, work will be started on the construction of such buildings. No decisions have yet been reached as to the resumption of work on the Hudson Bay railway and terminals. At present the completed portion of the line is being operated by the Canadian Northern.

Principa l Problems Ahead of Canada Dealt With at Annual Meeting of Bank of Montreal

Sir Vincent Meredith, President, Discussed the Difficult Problems of Increased Taxation---Bank Will Open Branch in Paris, France.

Sir Frederick Williams-Taylor, General Manager, Pointed Out That There Never Was a Time When Country Was in More Need of a Sane Financial Policy.

MONTREAL, Dec. 6.—(Special.) — The Annual Meeting of the Bank of Montreal was featured by most important references to the problems that Canada had to work out during the post-bellum period.

The announcements came at a most opportune moment as every manufacturer and business man of Canada is trying to figure out how the Dominion is going to pass through the inevitable period of readjustment.

Sir Vincent Meredith, the President, dealt particularly with the problems immediately ahead of the country. The most important, Sir Vincent pointed out, was how the country was to meet the interest on the vast debt of possibly $1,800,000,000 which would exist after the war. Increased production would relieve the country of a portion of its burden and this, with strict economy and growing population, would, in time, adjust the difficulties of the country.

Taxation cannot easily be lessened and may be increased, added Sir Vincent. A levy on capital, advocated in some quarters, must only result in the stifling of individual incentive and enterprise and the penalizing of industry, self-denial and thrift. Taxing capital to the point of unemployment in industrial enterprise would involve unemployment of labour and produce serious consequences. If placed principally on consumption, the burden of taxation is distributed.

The New Conditions.

With the cessation of hostilities, the cancellation of munitions contracts has begun and the adaptation of war industries to peace conditions will doubtless bring about a check with possible dislocation of business but these adverse factors should prove transitory.

If Canada is to share in the business opportunities during the period of reconstruction, the banks must stand ready to arrange liberal and probably long term lines of credit providing the necessary funds from their own resources or availing themselves of rediscount with the Dominion Government.

As the war ends, all signs point to a great demand for capital for reconstruction, refunding and replacement purposes and interests rates in consequence will in all probability rule high for some time to come.

With particular reference to the affairs of the Bank, Sir Vincent announced that the distribution to the shareholders would now take the form of a straight dividend of 12 p.c. per annum, instead of a dividend of 10 per cent, and a bonus of 2 p.c. With a view of enabling Canada to be closely in touch with the affairs in France during the period of reconstruction the Bank was also making arrangements for the opening of a branch in Paris.

Sane Financial Policy.

Sir Frederick Williams-Taylor, the General Manager, dealt more especially with the growth and development of the business of the Bank and financial conditions in the principal centres of the world. Sir Frederick pointed out that there never was a time when Canada was more in need of sound economic thinking and a sane financial policy.

With the acquisition of the Bank of British North America the resources of the Bank now totalled $558,413,546, of which $34,468,283, belonged to the shareholders and $523,945,262, was entrusted to the care of the Bank by the public. It was worthy of note that the Bank's total assets are now as great as were the combined total assets of all the Canadian Chartered Banks seventeen years ago.

The Bank ever kept before it its duty to its depositors and shareholders. At the same time the Bank had a further duty, national in nature, in financing established business and in fostering the young industries of the Dominion. For these various purposes the power of the Bank was greater than ever before while its position had never been stronger or more elastic. It was of interest to point out that while the cost of everything else had risen the public had paid no higher rate of interest for banking accommodation than before the war.

As regards the outlook in the country, Sir Frederick said:

"It will bear repeating that Canada possesses all the attributes of a great nation, excepting population. The crying necessity of the hour is for increased production. This cannot be fully achieved without immigration. We have room and opportunity for many millions of farmers and for a good class of labour to develop our mineral wealth and our fisheries and to convert our great forests into lumber and into pulp and paper. One sure way of attracting such immigration is to make living in Canada cheap. To attain this object there must be an end to the public and private extravagance of the past."

Business is Good.

Sir Vincent Meredith said in part:—

"The business of the Bank has been well maintained during the year. In view of possible Government financing and the somewhat uncertain outlook at home and abroad, we have consistently set our faces against overexpansion which is to be deprecated under existing conditions. While giving our customers all reasonable accommodation required and taking up many new desirable accounts, we have maintained a strong liquid position, continuing a well considered policy of the Bank; a policy which in the past as now, has added materially to the Bank at home and abroad and to Canadian finance generally.

"Turning to the British finance, two outstanding features during the year were: First, the success of the system of continuous borrowing by means of the 5 p.c. Nations War Bonds, which were made available to investors at all times on application. This plan yielded the huge sum of £1,200,000,000 from daily subscriptions and avoided the unsettling of the money market which invariably attended the placing of great war loans. Notwithstanding this remarkable response of the investing public, deposits held by the banks in England are actually larger than a year ago.

"The second feature is the amalgamation of some of the more important banks in Great Britain, resulting in a closer co-operation between the Imperial Treasury and the banks in meeting and solving the financial problems with which the country was faced.

Change Policy Slightly.

"The question of opening branches in foreign countries to participate in the business that may arise in connection with reconstruction requirements abroad is one that has received considerable attention from your directors. Following the policy of many English banks, we have deemed it prudent to refrain from establishing branches at points far afield where Canadian capital would be required in local and possible competitive industries, preferring rather to strengthen and extend our relations with foreign banking houses and to retain their good will, thereby conserving our resources for the assistance and encouragement of home trade. In this connection it may be well to mention that we propose presently to establish an agency of the bank in Paris, not for the purpose of loaning Canadian funds but to supply necessary banking facilities to Canadians travelling abroad and to further the interests of Canada generally in France.

"Sooner or later we in this country will without doubt have to meet foreign trade competition of cheap and skilled labour together with advantageous transportation facilities, to a more pronounced extent than Canada has yet experienced. If this competition is to be effectively coped with, the increased efficiency, co-operation and co-ordination to which I have referred are essential. Our best energies must be directed to greatly increased production of our basic, agricultural and other great natural resources. In this way, and by strict economy in government, municipal and personal expenditures, a solution can be found of our difficulties of exchanges, the maintenance of our favourable trade balance and the payment of our war debt. Otherwise, we must look for a shrinkage in business, to be followed by a readjustment of the scale of wages for labour and of the prices of all commodities.

"We shall undoubtedly for some years have to pay in relatively high taxes the price of our devotion and patriotism, but I am confident this will be done uncomplainingly, in the belief that all present and prospective difficulties can and will be overcome."

Stood Strain Well.

Sir Frederick Williams-Taylor said in part:

"The ease with which financial Canada has met the stress of war condition has been favourably commented upon abroad. At home one hears no expression of surprise at the stable financial conditions in the Dominion.

"The real basis of that stability is a banking system that has proved most efficient in peace times, and with the facilities accorded by the Minister of Finance, has withstood the severe test of war times. The system as it stands is without doubt adequate to meet any possible demands arising during the reconstruction period and for many years thereafter.

"The anticipated disturbance in bank deposits resulting from domestic Government war loans has subsided, and was to be expected. Seeing that the proceeds of such loans remain in the country, the money, of necessity, finds its ultimate way back to the banks through one channel or another; and therefore the loanable capital of the banks is, in the long run, undiminished. On the other hand, the strength of the banker's position lies largely in his command of numerous small deposits. The volume of deposits has increased by many millions, but the number has not grown proportionately. Our own deposits are now $569,737,811.96, as compared with $330,705,000.72 a year ago. This sum includes $48,950,000 Bank of British North America money. As usual, we have certain large deposits of special character. The increase in our savings deposits is reasonably satisfactory.

Rates Not Increased.

"As regards profits, an impression exists that these war years have been unusually fruitful for the banks. The reply is that when adequate provision has been made for unknown future rates for taxation in Canada and elsewhere, for the increased cost of administration, for heavy depreciation in even the most gilt-edged securities, it may be stated without reservation that the net results are none too ample for safety. I would emphasize another point, viz., that while the cost of everything else has risen, the public have paid no higher rate of interest for banking accommodation than before the war.

"After passing through the inevitable period of economic confusion which all countries must endure, that country of boundless wealth and virility, the United States, the only great power, by the way, to emerge from the war better off financially, may probably enter upon an area of unprecedented expansion and development. Canada must share in such prosperity, independently of the part we have to take in supplying Europe's reconstruction and regular demands. Meanwhile, there never was a time when our country was more in need of sound economic thinking and sane financial policy.

"In London, the important banking events of the year have been a series of bank amalgamations regarded by those competent to judge as wise preparation for foreign trade competition after the war.

"The Dominion has been penalized during the past year by a heavy premium on New York funds. This new condition is a matter of wide-spread interest.

"In theory, there are four ways in which this onerous policy can be removed; by increased exports; by reduced imports; by paying in gold; or, by borrowing in ontside markets. None of these remedies is at hand, but with the return of peace, Canada should at least be able to float public loans in New York. Then also we can hope for better things so far as imports and exports are concerned. Also there is on balance a large amount owing our Government by the Imperial Government and $200,000,000 is owing the Banks of Canada by the Imperial Government representing wheat and munition purposes. In due course, these combined amounts will aid the exchange situation. The premium in question should, therefore, diminish sooner or later to a point that will be immaterial. Meantime it discourages the importation of non-essentials from the United States, and the investment of Canadian funds in American and foreign securities."

SIGNALLER STANTON REPORTED WOUNDED

Mr. R. E. Stanton of Millbrook, has received an official report that his son, Sig. Frank Stanton, brother of Mr. Charles Stanton, of Peterborough, has been shot through the ankle. Previous to the official report, Frank had written a card stating that he had been wounded, but was getting along well. This is the first time he has been wounded, and he has been in many hot engagements.

UNLIKELY TO GUARANTEE FIXED PRICE FOR WHEAT

Government Action Might be Tantamount to Bonus to the Farmers —May Put Question Up to Great Britain.

Ottawa, Dec. 6.—Western farmers want the Dominion Government to guarantee the price of wheat for the coming year and the question is a troublesome one. No action has been taken or conclusion arrived at. The main argument which is advanced is that the United States has guaranteed the price of next year's crop in that country, and that Canada ought to follow suit. The price which has been fixed across the border for next year is $2.26 per bushel. Now that peace has come, many hold to the view that the American Government is going to be "stuck." The Liverpool price dominates the world market, and if in that market the price should be, say, $1.90, the United States Government will have to put up the difference. An immense acreage is being put to seed across the border. Forty-five million acres are sown with winter wheat, and it is expected another twenty-five million will be sown next spring.

MEANS BONUS TO FARMERS

If the yield should be only fifteen bushels per acre, the total would be 1,050,000,000 bushels. Probably four hundred million bushels will be available for export. Then there is the Argentine crop to be figured on, though scarcity of shipping may be an adverse factor in the export.

The Dominion Government last year fixed the price of wheat at $2.25 per bushel. If the Government were now to repeat this action and from big crops here and in the United States a slump should result wheat in the open market would decline in price. With a guaranteed price, the Government would have to put up the difference, which would be tantamount to a bonus to farmers of from seventy-five to a hundred million dollars. Naturally there is a diffidence about embarking on such a scheme, though it is desired to stimulate production as much as possible.

UP TO GREAT BRITAIN!

It is probable that dealing with the matter the views of the British Government, to whose markets the export crop is destined, will be consulted. If the British Government want to buy the export crop at a fixed price the Dominion will be glad to act as an intermediary.

The Government has given no encouragement to the price-fixing idea and the Council of Agriculture is sending a delegation to London to see if the British Government will guarantee a price.

Twice Tried to Bribe Sweden

Finland Was Offered by the Enemy—Demands Backed Up With a Threat.

(Special to The Examiner.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6. — Germany twice tried to bribe Sweden to join the Central Powers, diplomatic information disclosed here to-day.

Finland was offered to Sweden by Germany in 1918, and a year later North Schleswig was held out as bait. Germany backed up these demands with a threat to land troops in Sweden if the alliance was not made.

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

Funeral Took Place in Rochester

The funeral took place in Rochester on November 21 of Eugene Dwyer, Jr., a well-known resident of that city, Mr. John Dwyer, Water Street is an uncle and Mrs. William Geary of Stewart street is a cousin.

Owing to the prominence of his parents in legal, financial and political circles and to their activity in church and social spheres, the death of their son evoked a wide spread feeling of sympathy. The funeral took place at 9:30 from the house and at 10 o'clock from the Church of the Sacred Heart, Flower City Park. Men and women from many walks of life attended the church ceremony, and the Cadet Commandery Knights of St. John attended in a body in uniform.

Solemn requiem mass was celebrated by the Rev. Michael V. Dwyer of Seneca Falls, an uncle of the deceased. An augmented choir sang the responses. The deceased was the eldest son of Eugene Dwyer of the law firm of Sutherland and Dwyer.

Charge Against Chapman Dismissed

Case Was Tried Yesterday in Campbellford.

Police Magistrate G. A. Payne, Campbellford, yesterday tried the case of alleged theft against A. E. Chapman, of Hastings. Mr. Chapman acted for the executors of the David Johnston Estate, late of Hastings, and a dispute took place as to the amount of Mr. Chapman's fees. He had tendered a cheque for $168.00 and retained $150.00 for his fees, but the executors refused to accept the $168.00 and under the directions of one executor, a charge was laid against Mr. Chapman for taking trust moneys.

The preliminary hearing lasted all day, but late in the afternoon when the evidence was all in, Police Magistrate Payne decided that it was not a case of any wrong intent or dishonesty, but simply a dispute as to accounts between the parties, and Crown Attorney Kerr of Cobourg consented to the charge against Mr. Chapman being dismissed.

Mr. G. N. Gordon acted for Mr. Chapman.

ADALBERT JOINS GOVERNMENT.

Special to The Examiner:

LONDON, Dec. 6.—Prince Adalbert, third son of the former Kaiser, has joined the present government, according to a Berlin despatch. He is now at Potsdam, it is said.

The Port Hope File Company May Flit to Ingersoll

The Port Hope File Company want to move to Ingersoll. Ingersoll looks good to them, and if they come here, says the Daily Sentinel Review, which is just about assured, they will bring with them bona fide orders on their books, which total just about $60,000. They manufacture thirty-seven standard varieties of files—have had repeat orders from many of the largest users of files, and have never as yet had one single file returned to them as deficient. They propose to take over the plant of the Ingersoll Nut Company, Limited, and add to it by one hundred feet of the same construction and buildings as now constructed. They will within one year, agree to employ one hundred people. They will bring ten families to town, and will almost entirely require local labour, if available, for the balance. They will invest in actual plant, machinery, etc., including the buildings at present, and those to be constructed to the extent of $125,000. The present plant is to be put in at an appraisal price.

In return, from the municipality, they want a loan of $10,000 for ten years, free of interest, exemption from taxes, excepting school tax, for the same period. They will give a first mortgage on the plant and equipment, etc., as above, as security for this loan.

These men will want an article signed on Thursday by a sufficient number of ratepayers to guarantee the carrying of a by-law providing for the above concessions, and would start in Ingersoll as soon as the building could be completed, and hope to be operating not later than February 1st.

GERMANY HANDS TO ALLIES 300,000,000 FRANCS IN GOLD.

PARIS, Dec. 5.—The Germans have begun restitutions. They have delivered to the Allies 300,000,000 francs in gold, which came from the Russian treasury. The French have recovered a rich collection of art works by Quentin Delatur, a famous etcher, stolen from St. Quentin, and paintings by Antoine Watteau, taken from the museum at Valenciennes. The value of the returned masterpieces is estimated at 2,000,000,000 francs.

PEACE BASED ON JUSTICE

Geddes Advocates Capital Punishment For Ex-Kaiser.

Canadian Press:

LONDON, Dec. 6.—(British Admiralty Wireless.)—Sir Auckland Geddes, member of the government, in a recent speech, said the line of policy advocated by the Colonial government was a peace, which, so far as the enemy powers were concerned, should be based on stern justice. He stated further that so far as the man who planned and started the war was concerned, peace should be founded on "justice of nature," meted out in the highest court of the land.

"Such men as the Kaiser, Envoy Pasha, and the rulers of Bulgaria and Austria should be placed on trial on such a charge that if they were found guilty their lives should be the forfeit," he said.

Natives Want British Rule

Should Urge Question at the Peace Conference.

Special to The Examiner:

LONDON, Dec. 6.—Natives of Germany's colonies want to come under British rule, said Walter Hume Long, Secretary of State for Colonies, speaking at Westminster. Our representatives at the peace conference should see that the case for our retention of those colonies is put forward in full strength.

Earthquake in British Columbia

Miles of Telegraph Lines Down.

Special to The Examiner:

TORONTO, Dec. 6.—Word received here this morning via New York of a serious earthquake in British Columbia. Roundabout wires from Vancouver and Victoria say those cities were shaken violently for two minutes, and occupants of tall buildings felt shocks particularly heavy. Many miles of telegraph wires are down.

British Marine Losses Heavy

Nine Million Tons Lost by Britain.

LONDON, Dec. 6. — Britain lost nearly two-thirds of her total tonnage of merchant ships, which were sunk by the Germans since the beginning of the war, according to an official statement. British losses were nine million tons out of a total of fifteen million tons sunk. During the last seven months the shipping output exceeded the world's losses by one million tons.

BADEN SEEKS UNION.

LONDON, Dec. 6.—Southern Baden is seeking incorporation in Switzerland, according to Baden newspapers, says a Copenhagen despatch. Baden is east of the Rhine. The famous Black Forest occupies a large part of Southern Baden.

A SEASON TICKET TO METROPOLITAN OPERA OFFERS YOU NO MORE THAN THE NEW EDISON

Since Thomas A. Edison perfected this instrument Grand Opera itself has been able to offer you no more than the New Edison. If the two million people who have attended Edison tone tests have been utterly unable to distinguish the artist's living voice from the instrument's RE-CREATION it is clear that no difference exists, isn't it? And if there is no difference between the artist's rendition and the instrument's then obviously the artist can give you no more than

The NEW EDISON
"The Phonograph with a Soul"

Why, then do people attend Grand Opera? Merely for the pleasure given the eye—that is the answer. So far as the music is concerned you can have just as much in your own living-room as the opera can offer. You may be a thousand miles from Broadway but you are missing nothing.

There is but one instrument which actually RE-CREATES the singer's voice with complete fidelity: the others merely imitate. And that instrument is the New Edison.

Call at our store and learn the difference for yourself.

Representative Meeting Held in the Public Library Last Evening

Organization of Local Social Service Council Was Discussed—Address by Dr. Gilbert Agar, B.A.

THE COMMITTEE

Dr. Gilbert Agar, B.A., General Secretary of the Social Service Council for Ontario, addressed a large and representative audience last night at the Public Library. The meeting was called by the special committee appointed on Sunday, November 24th, to get the machinery in operation for a local Social Service Council. Mr. R. F. Downey, K. A., was the chairman of the evening.

The audience was composed of representatives of the different churches, women's organizations, Trades and Labour Council and fraternal organizations. Mr. Hughson Johnstone, read a list of 35 churches and societies who wish to join in this great movement, which is taking hold of the people all over the Dominion.

Rising Generation.

As the Rev. Mr. Agar remarked, the aim of the council is purely to plan and arrange for the other person—the rising generation.

"There is a reason for the present aggressive activity," said Mr. Agar. "The whole cry now is not 'Win the war.' No longer are the boys being attacked by the Hun. What will we do for them when they come home? God has won this war. God has saved civilization, but God has other things to do. In the Province of Ontario there are 6,000 people not fit to be at large. I am speaking of the feeble-minded. The Psychiatric Clinic in Toronto gauges people's intelligence and it finds many people subormal. Of these feeble minded, 54 per cent. came across the waters. If we allow this we are continuing to keep the problem on our hands. Those that are here should be segrated. Consumption has been so isolated that it is no longer the great menace that it was. Then there are other problems, all of which would be dealt with by a local council—mothers' allowances, housing, prohibition, patronage, reconstruction and child welfare.

"You know," said Mr. Agar, "wealth is not what we can accumulate, but ourselves, physically, morally, intellectually and religiously."

Interdenominational.

Dr. Agar then outlined the organization of the different councils — Dominion, provincial and local. He stated emphatically that the councils were non-denominational. Some of the most active workers in Toronto (such as Father Bench) are Roman Catholics.

"Is there any religion in the question of child welfare?" asked the speaker. "The Roman Catholics are an example to Protestants in some things, such as child welfare, and the holiness of matrimony."

It was discussed whether it would be advisable to organize a local council at once or postpone it until the various representatives present could consult with their various organizations.

In this connection Mr J. J. Hartley moved that the organization of a local council be postponed until a later date, and that the original committee (Mr C E Sisson, Mr. W. A. Logan, Mr. Hughson Johnstone, and Mr. R. F. Downey), be augmented by six members, should have power to bring in a report on the advisability of organizing a local council. This was seconded by the Rev. Robert Pogue and carried.

In addition to the original committee the following were appointed. Mrs. W. R. Morris, Mrs. R. H. Parsons, Mrs. Gibbs, Mr. J. J. Hartley, Mrs. Robert Harstone and Dr. E. E. Harvey.

The following motion to be presented to both the Provincial and Dominion governments, was moved for adoption by Mrs. W. R. Morris, and seconded by Mr. J. J. Hartley and Mr. W. A. Logan;

That the feeble minded should be segrated, and the prohibition of further immigration of such people and the care of the mentally deficient, be enforced.

This motion was carried unanimously.

PTE. CORNELIUS ORFORD

Yesterday's cabled news reported his release from Germany where he had been a prisoner for more than two years. Pte. Orford enlisted with the 6th C.M.R. and was captured at Zillebeke in June 1916. His home is on Union street.

HELD PERSONALLY RESPONSIBLE.

Special to The Examiner:

LONDON, Dec. 6.—German officials guilty of acts which resulted in injury or danger to British prisoners of war should be held personally responsible, Lord Robert Cecil, former Assistant Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, said.

This statement was made in a message relative to the attitude of the government on the subject of treatment of prisoners, which has been generally discussed since the signing of the armistice.

Tribute to a Peterboro Boy

What War Correspondents Think of Major Best.

F. A. McKenzie, the Canadian war correspondent, was recently invited to examine closely at first hand what the Y.M.C.A. actually does in France and England. He saw it at work at the front, behind the lines, in Paris and London, and in the great camps of England. Before undertaking this mission he stipulated for entire freedom to say freely what he thought of things as he found them.

The first article written by McKenzie, and appearing in the Manitoba Free Press, included the following reference to Major Best, of Peterborough:

"Major Best was in the old days a college professor, but he had nothing of the professional manner, save a precision of speech which indicates exactness of thinking. Stocky and sturdy, he is a highly charged human dynamo. He is apparently tireless, and his capacity for work seems to be unlimited. He moves quickly and thinks quickly. He understands what you are trying to say before you have half said it. He demands quick action on the part of his helpers. No one can be asleep when Major Best is about. He knows what everyone is doing. There are short hand writers in the office busy all day keeping pace with his work. But you will find him most of the time not in the office, but away out in the battle-front, at dressing station or at aid post, discovering where a fresh post can be opened, solving the difficulties of some worker, and generally helping things along. He is captain of the team, and, like any good "footer" captain, his men feel that he is behind every one of them all the time."

ANNUAL MEETING OF CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY

The annual meeting will be held on Tuesday, Dec. 10th at 4 p.m. over the Bank of Montreal, and will be open to the Public. Come and hear the reports and help to appoint a strong and representative board for 1919.

Lansdowne Lodge Elects Officers

The Lansdowne Lodge, No. 25 of the Sons of England held their annual meeting in their hall, Hunter street, on Monday, Dec, 2nd., when the following officers were elected:

Need Translators at Peace Table

Twenty-three Languages Will Require Official Interpreters at Conference.

PARIS, Dec. 5.—Translators in twenty-three languages, including Chinese, Arabic, Turkish, and some not even so well known, have been called for by Brig-Gen. William W. Harts, who is directing the equipment of the American peace delegates. The number required is indicative of the diversity of the races and countries having interests before the Peace Congress, either through participation in the war or by reason of treaties or other relations.

The full lis of languages compises (French, Italian, Greek, Japanese, Spanish, Montenegrin, Norwegian, Bulgarian, German, Hungarian, Turkish, Chinese, Portugese, Polish, Swedish, Persian, Russia, Serbian, Armenian Czech, Roumanian, Danish and Arabic. This, with English makes the quota twenty-four.

The knowledge of the languages possessed by translators must be complete, in order to get the precise meaning of treaties and documents, and not the ordinary speaking knowledge.

The first effort will be directed at obtaining translators from among college men or army men, and should these be lacking others from various civilian occupations will be taken.

A Letter of Appreciation

Mr. Vincent Eastwood, Mr. Roland Denne, Mr. Chris. Graham, and Mr. R. M. Glover, the committee in charge of securing recruits for the Royal Air Force in Peterborough, have received the following letter of appreciation for their services from the General Commanding:

I have been constantly informed by my officers in charge of recruiting of the sterling service you have rendered in connection with recruiting for the Royal Air Force in Canada.

I wish to take this opportunity of thanking you for your aid, and congratulating you upon the splendid results achieved through your efforts.

I wish also to say that it was not until civilian recruiting committees were organized throughout Canada that a sufficient supply of cadets was ensured, and the success of our efforts in establishing training guaranteed.

You will be interested to know that we have sent overseas 2,538 trained pilots, while we have 552 in Canada, who have completed their training. These figures are considered very remarkable in England.

Yours very sincerely,
C. Hoare, Brigadier-General,
Commanding Royal Air Force, Canada

The Fine Has Been Reduced

Officials Mystified By New Order-in-Council.

City officials are mystified by an order-in-Council recently passed in Toronto by which five young men were fined $200 and costs, in all $210.10 for obtaining liquor from Montreal. The order-in-Council provides that these men shall be refunded $150 each of their fine, making the fine only $50 and costs—$60.10. Each of the young men has been notified to this effect.

Further, Birdgenaw, who as agent of the men, and who purchased the liquor in Montreal, will not have $150 of his fine refunded as the other men. Birdgenaw was arrested by the police as he stepped off the Montreal train with two suit cases full of fire water.

INFLUENZA CURE WAS TOO STRONG

It dost a local man $10 in police court this morning for imbibing too freely of "flu" preventitive. It was good Irish whiskey and the temptation proved too great for a son of the Emerald Isle. Everything would have been O.K. if the tipsy one had not walked the streets. He was garnered in by one of Peterborough's eagle-eyed policemen.

There is a great deal of steel bead decoration used on the prettiest frocks.

Voice of The People

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—Will you allow me a small space in your valuable paper, kindly asking if anyone in the city has had any soldier relative leave England for Siberia in September with the 16th Brigade, as my husband sailed in September from England and I have not heard from him since. If so kindly inform The Examiner. Thanking you, I remain,

A SOLDIER'S WIFE.

To the Editor of the Examiner,

Is there any truth in the rumor that Mr. J. H. Burnham M. P., informed Hon. Frank Carvell, Minister of Public Works, while in Ottawa a few days ago with Mayor Duncan in connection with the Hunter street bridge in question. Mr. Burnham can hardly deny the city's claim on the government in this respect.

To the Editor of the Examiner,

Dear Sir,—Do you or your readers realize that Canada is growing and that, especially after the war, we will have larger problems on our hands and that members of parliament ought to give all or nearly all of their time to the interests of their constituencies and the country at large in fact it is becoming plainer every day that members of Parliament have all they can do to attend to Public business without having business of their own to attend to. There is no business so important and so pressing as that which concerns the people of Canada as a nation and individually as well and yet it is treated by members of Parliament as a mere side issue while they give four fifths of their time and attention to their own business. Is it any wonder that there are so many distressing cases, and so much neglect and so much humbug.

In great national affairs such as railway grants and locations etc. when members of Parliament are not required to give their whole time and attention but only a small part of it to the most important matters of all, how can the great questions of Labour, of Prices, of Contracts, and Public Works, and of Morals, of Defence etc., not to mention others, be deal with by members whose chief attention is given to something else?

Let us pay our members well and then let them give their whole time to get the great work of the Nation and of the People. It's a big problem and needs time and ability to solve. Hoping to hear from others,

Yours for,
GREATER CANADA.

REV. D. S. K. BYRNE IS SURE OF FORTUNE.

In a letter from Rev. D. S. K. Byrne in New York, it is learned that he is progressing favorably. His attorney from Chicago is with him, and will handle the case. Mr. Kidd further adds: "My Chicago lawyer knows every detail from the beginning to the end and says I cannot lose. I am sure to win. The United States Court says that I am the sole heir and executor of the Byrne estate of ten millions, and nothing under the sun can keep me out of it. It don't matter what argument or stunts the officials who have the estate in hand bring up they will have to come across with the goods and turn it into court."—Port Hope Guide.

THE WORLD OF SPORT

Number of Changes Are Proposed for the O.H.A. at To-morrow's Meeting

Proposal to Establish a Consolation Series May Create an Illuminating Discussion.

SUBSTITUTE RULE

TORONTO, Dec. 6.—The Star says to-day:—The delegates to the O.H.A. Convention to-morrow will have plenty of subjects for discussion in the proposed amendments to the constitution, the regulations and the playing rules. The object in changing the date of the annual meeting from the third Saturday in November to the first Saturday in December is because many of the town clubs do not organize before the cold weather sets in and that the third Saturday might be a little too early to renue up hockey enthusiasm. The proposal to establish a consolation series in the Intermediate and Junior series is to be left to the incoming executive committee anyway but the views of the clubs on the question will be illuminating The proposal to give soldiers in Canada who have been discharged since the armistice was signed on Nov. 11th, the same privileges as soldiers returned from overseas in regard to residence, will likely be adopted.

RESIDENCE CLAUSES

The National Service residence clauses for the "balance of the war only" should be made operative for this year as it was intended to cover such cases. This amendment will likely create a lot of argument:—"A player signing a certificate, if eligible under the rules for the series the following season, will remain a member of that club the next year and shall play with it unless the club disbands or gives written permission to the player concerned to sign a certificate with another club." There are some, who think, that such a rule savors too much of professionalism inasmuch as it binds the player in a manner that is not intended under the amateur rules. The proposal to number the players is a good idea and should be adopted. The amendment to make the rule tighter in regard to the registration of junior players is a move in the right direction. The chief argument will arise over the two man substitute clause, proposed by Mr. Marsden. This is certainly a move in the right direction. It will be of great benefit to all the clubs and the game will be improved by having the extra man in line. The present rule allows one substitute and last year's experience at the six man game demonstrated that another substitute was needed to make it a perfect game. The adoption of this rule and the 20-foot zone at each end of the rink where defending team will not be offside are concessions to Western amateur hockey men who are working with O.H.A. in an effort to get uniform amateur hockey rules for Canada

Peterboro to Have Team in Intermediate Series of the O.H.A.

Peterborough is to have an intermediate O.H.A., team as well as a team in the junior series of the big Ontario Association, as a result of a well attended and enthusiastic meeting held at the Empress Hotel last night. There was a good representation of players and fans present and the prospects are bright for a strong team.

Mr. R. M. Glover was in the chair at last night's meeting.

There was some discussion over the question of having the intermediate team operate under the officers already elected to carry on the affairs of the junior club. This proposal was evidently not approved by the junior officers, and the meeting also turned down the suggestion when it was voted on, so that the two teams will be separate organizations, the intermediates playing under the name of the Peterborough Hockey Club and the juniors being known as the Peterborough Junior O.H.A. Club.

Hon. President—Sam Ray.
Hon. Vice-President—M. J. Maher.
President—C. G. Graham
Vice-President—F. G. Roberts.
Secretary—J. P. Bond.
Treasurer—Gordon Matthews.
Executive Commitee—W. Andrews, Geo. Evans, Grover Halpin.

Mr. Glover will represent the Peterborough Hockey Club on Saturday. He was instructed to vote against the proposed amendment to allow teams to use two substitutes. The meeting felt that there was difficulty enough in the small towns to secure six good men and a substitute, without having the number increased, and the new rule would re-act to the advantage of the Toronto Clubs.

Record Scores By Eko Club

Won Three Games From the Grocers.

Last night at the Water street alleys, in the City Five Pin League, the Eko Club defeated the Grocers in three straight games, and breaking all records of the alleys. In the last single game they rolled up the grand score of 1080, and the grand total for three games of 2870.

Fielder had high count of 679; Langley close second with 671, and high single of 264. Solomon, with 259; for the Grocers Ross was high with 565, and Routly 551.

CURLERS MAY HAVE A WAITING LIST

This winter's revival of sports is already promising a fine season for the curlers. From present signs there will likely be a waiting list. The number of members was recently within eight of the limit that had been formerly set, and since that time several others have signed up. It is obvious that last year's players who intend to get into the game this season, should not delay much longer in giving the usual notice to the committee.

THE PRELIMINARY PEACE DISCUSSION

Treaty Will Be Signed in April or May.

(By William Philip Simms.)
(United Press.)

PARIS, Dec. 6.— The preliminary peace discussion, according to the present plans, will begin in Paris on Dec. 17th, with President Wilson participating. They are expected to continue for nearly a month. The formal peace congress, with the Germans represented, probably will start January 15th. It is stated that the Treaty will be signed in April or May.

"I'LL PRAISE IT THE LONGEST DAY I LIVE"

Mrs. Robbins Restored by Tanlac After Suffering Thirty Years.

"Talking about things that help people," said Mrs. P. H. Robins of 1449 South 14th Street, Omaha, Neb., in an interview recently, "Tanlac is doing more good than any medicine I have ever known in my life, and I'm now past sixty years of age.

"In 1889, nearly thirty years ago now," she continued, "when la grippe first came along and so many people were having it, I had an attack of it myself and have had it in some form or other once or twice a year ever since. The first spell left me in a badly weakened condition and I would no sooner be recovered from one attack than I would be pulled down again. The doctors at that time called it "rheumatic grippe," and I had aches and pains all through my body, in all my limbs and muscles. Three years ago I had one of these spells, which was so severe that they took me to the hospital, and I nearly died. I had the worst headaches it seems anyone could have and was badly run down and frightfully weak, couldn't sleep well for all those thirty years. My appetite was poor, I lost twenty pounds in weight and just had to drag myself around. I was hardly ever without some kind of an ache or pain, and the past spring I was in such a bad fix that I couldn't keep house, so I went to my daughters' My husband went to boarding and where he boarded he heard of a remarkable case like mine that had been relieved by Tanlac.

"Then he went straight to Sherman and McConnell's drug store and got two bottles, one for me and one for himself, as he was in very bad health, too. Well, I showed some improvement on the first bottle and kept on getting better slowly. My appetite came gradually and my strength came back a little each day. My aches and pains wore away and I got to sleeping better. When we would see one bottle getting low we would hurry and get another and since I finished my sixth bottle I'm feeling better and more like myself than I have in years. With all the sickness and "Flu" epidemic that's going over the country, I'm feeling stronger and better than ever I did

"We are keeping house again now, and I eat well, sleep well, do all my housework and feel fine all the time. I am taking Tanlac with the Tanlac Tablets again now to keep in shape for the winter. It certainly is a blessing to humanity and has done so much for my husband and me that I will praise it the longest day I live."

Tanlac is sold in Peterboro by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd.; in Havelock by A. C. Denike; in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd., In Fowler's Corners by W. A. Hunter; In Gelert by A. J. Scott; in Westwood by G. Pringle and Son.

Black Knights Elected Officers

Address Given by the Rev. H. A. Fish.

The election of officers for the Royal Black Perceptory No. 261, took place last evening at the Victoria Hall, the following officers being duly elected for the coming year:

80,000 CORDS OF HARDWOOD SAID TO BE AVAILABLE

Eighty thousand cords of hardwood are reported to be available in this district for domestic purposes as a result of the cancellation of munitions contracts. From a Lindsay source it is learned that an extract from this wood was used in the chemical plants for the manufacture of the obsolescing T.N.T. Large quantities had been cut and split, anticipating a prolonged war. Now it is no longer needed for explosives, and may be turned into the fuel market at once.

Ald. Dobbin has written for complete information as to prices and other details, and if the reports are verified the city will probably take a share of the wood if the price is favorable.

The Fuel Committee has confined its attention largely to the coal problem, realizing that the dealers had stocked up with wood, that they were not getting their usual supply of coal, and that the citizens were more anxious about an adequate supply.

If the 80,000 cords of hardwood are as accessible as the reports indicate, the council may take a share of it. An indication of the conditions in the local wood market is provided by a local companys decision to cancel its preparations to begin cutting wood now for early delivery to the city.

Apples Dearer Since Lifting of Embargo

Following the resumption of Canadian apple exports to England, the home price has advanced one dollar a barrel, and even slightly beyond that mark. Local orders that had not been delivered could have been resold to the holders in the east at a profit practically equal to the gain from wholesaling them in Peterboro. However the easier method of disposing of them was rejected, and a car of Baldwins (probably the last of the season) reached the city this morning to supply the local demand.

Music & Drama

GENERAL POST

The return engagement of General Post, the play where everybody changes places and peers join the ranks while tailors take command, was greeted by a splendid house last evening at the Grand Opera House. Mr. Thos. A. Wise as Sir Denny Broughton secured a firmer grip than ever upon his audience by his humorous delineation of the bombastic English baronet and his caste made a splendid impression in the delightful play.

FOUND GERMANS IN PARIS

RETURNED WITH SOLDIERS, BUT WERE SOON DETECTED

Paris, Dec 6.—Seven Germans, one of them a woman, who formerly lived in Paris, have found means of returning here, but have been discovered and arrested. They take advantage of the homeward movement of prisoners and interned Alsatians from Germany to smuggle themselves into France and make their way to this city. Their plea was that they thought the existence of the armistice permitted their return

PRINCE STILL BOYISH

BUT KING GEORGE'S HEIR IS DEVELOPING FAST

London, Nov. 15.—"The Prince of Wales is developing but remains boyish," says a morning paper which recalls that when King Edward as heir apparent was the age of the present prince he had been married for five years, had two sons, presided over a large establishment, and was admittedly the chief figure in the social world.

The question of the prince's marriage is in abeyance, as is that of Princess Mary's. Queen Victoria was determined that her daughters should marry young and openly said so. Queen Alexandra never encouraged match-making for her daughters, nor Queen Mary for hers.

Arrangements had been made it is understood, for the Prince of Wales to go to Cambridge this fall for an officer's staff course, but the plan was altered and the prince was directed to go to France, where he visited in turn the various forces of the Allies seek to arouse your interest by flaming announcements of values extraordinary, by statements of profitless prices, upon which no concern could possibly exist.

IT is not through such curiosities that we hope to thrive, but through a simple statement of facts, a simple story of a different and better store service, of goods of quality, reasonably priced. IT is thus we hope to gain your confidence and your confidence thus obtained, to merit your continued patronage.

WE seek to serve others as we would like ourselves to be served. We know how we want others to serve us, what courtesies we would expect a store that hoped for our patronage to extend to us, and we give you just such service.

WE want you to come and benefit by this painstaking service, and profit by the better goods, reasonably priced.

WE want our customers to be our friends, and then in turn to make their friends our friends, and so extend the friendship and good feeling toward this store.

WE realize fully that only by serving you WELL can we hope to serve you OFTEN and to that end we will labour with might and main. You can cometo our store expecting much—for much is waiting here for you—much in quality, much in service, much in everything that goes to make satisfaction certain for our customers. MIGHT we suggest that you commence your Christmas shopping to-morrow.

Second Instalment of Loan Due To-day

There have been some further reports made by the different provinces, which bring the total for the Victory Loan up to $687,077,500, with 1,067,879 subscribers. The returns are not yet by any means complete, and the above total will without doubt be increased.

The second instalment on account of the new Loan falls due to-day, December 6, when the regular instalment of 20 per cent. can be paid, or subscribers can pay in full if they so desire. If payment in full is made, the amount to be paid is $80,48 per $100, the 48c per $100 representing accrued interest from November 1 to December 6 on the amount paid up.

THE FUNERAL OF MRS. WILLIAM WOOD TOOK PLACE YESTERDAY.

The remains of the late Mrs. Wm. Wood, Bailieboro, who died in October while on a visit with her son in Alameda, Sask., were laid at rest yesterday in the family plot in St. Paul's Church Cemetery, Cavan. Deceased had only been ill a week from pleurisy, followed by pneumonia. The arrival of the remains was deferred until Wednesday on account of the embargo placed by the health authorities on the removal of remains during the influenza epidemic.

Service was conducted at the Wood homestead, Bailieboro, by Rev. Canon Allen, after which a largely attended church service was held at St. Thomas' Church.

The pall-bearers, all close relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Wood, were: Messrs. Asa Barnard, Wm. Fell, Wilfred Brown, Robert H. Wood, James L. McCamus, and Thomas Wood. A number of Peterborough people attended the funeral.

Urge Unhurried Demobilization

OTTAWA, Dec. 5.—William Hendrie of Hamilton, and Major Andrews, M. P., of Winnipeg, to-day laid before Sir Thomas White, Acting Prime Minister, the following resolution passed by the Dominion Executive of the Great War Veterans' Association:

"Resolved, that the Great War Veterans' Association through its Dominion Executive, wishes to lay the very strongest emphasis upon the vital necessity of most careful and unhurried demobilization in order that every reasonable provision and assurance of training and employment be given to the returned soldier, that distress and unrest may be prevented during the coming winter months. In arriving at this conclusion we are actuated by sincere consideration for our men and their relatives in Canada, believing that a further enforced absence of a few months would be fully compensated for in returning to Canada when conditions would be more favorable."

To Discuss War Memorial

There will be a meeting on Monday night under the auspices of the Peterboro branch of the Great War Veterans' Association and the Ladies Auxiliary of the G.W.V.A., of all the mothers, widows, daughters and sisters of Peterboro soldiers who have fallen in the war, to discuss the question of a war memorial. The meeting will be called at eight o'clock sharp in the G.W.V.A. rooms, over Moncur's drug store, on George St., and it is hoped that there will be a large and representative attendance.

Judgment in the Appellant Court

TORONTO, Dec. 6.—By a judgment of the Appellate branch of the Supreme Court of Ontario to-day, Sister Mary Basil loses her case against the Roman Catholic Corporation of the Diocese of Kingston and Sisters of Charity of the House of Providence, but the jury's verdict in her favour against Archbishop Spratt, Sister Mary Regis and Dr. Phelan is confirmed. The court to-day, through Chief Justice Sir William Meredith, gave a finding sustaining the appeal of the two corporate bodies against the jury's verdict, but dismissing the appeals of the individual defendants in the case. In general terms the judgment declared that the corporate bodies in question were not responsible for their representatives' acts in this matter.

The verdict of the jury gave the Sister $30,000 damages as against the Archbishop, Sister Mary Regis, Mother Superior, the Diocese, and the Sisters of Charity, and $4,000 as against Dr. Phelan in connection with the forcible removal of Sister Mary from the Sisters of Charity Institution.

To Bar the Germans From Great Britain After the War

Lloyd George Declares Presence Cannot be Endured in View of the Past—Capital and Labour Both to Get Justice.

London, Dec. 6.—In the detailed restatement of his policy, issued by Premier Lloyd George here, the Premier, after paying a warm tribute to the soldiers and sailors of the Empire said:

"The Kaiser must be prosecuted The war was a frightful, terrible crime. It was a crime in the way in which it was planned and in the deliberate wantonness with which it was provoked. It was also a crime in the invasion of a helpless little State and in the wicked and most brutal treatment of that little State. Remember the treaty of neutrality, the scrap of paper.

CRIMES MUST BE PUNISHED

Surely the war was a crime. The fact that all these iniquitous things were done in the name of war and under the Imperial edict of an autocrat does not change their nature The war was a hineous, abominable crime, which has sent millions of the best young men of Europe to death and mutiulation, and has plunged my riads of homes into desolation. Is no one responsible? is no one to be called to account? is there to be no punishment? Surely that is neither God's judgment nor man's. The men responsible for this outrage on the human race must not be let off because their heads were crowned when they perpetrated the deed.

"The British Government referred the question of the criminal culpabilty of the Kaiser and his accomplices to their law officers some weeks ago. They invited a body of jurists in England to investigate the matter and they have unanimously come to the conclusion that the Kaiser and his accomplices in the making of this war ought to be tried by an international court. They also reported strongly in favour of the punishment of those guilty of murder on the high seas and the abominable ill-treatment of prisoners. The British Government will use its whole influence at the peace conference to see that justice is executed.

Germany Must Accept Consequences.

"After what has happened in the last four or five years it is impossible to entertain in our midst a population of which a considerable portion abused our hospitality. This has been demonstrated by evidence impossible to ignore. They spied and plotted and assisted Germany in forming plans for the destruction of a country which offered them hospitality. They thus have forfeited any claim to remain.

"Further, it would lead to inevitable irritation and disturbance if Germans who have been fighting us for four years came here to take the bread out of the mouths of the men whom they for four years sought to destroy, and, much as I regret that it is impossible to have free intercourse between all nations, I hold we are up against the events of the last few years, for which Germany alone is responsible, and she must abide the consequences. All the European allies have accepted the principle that the central powers must pay the cost of the war up to the limit of their capacity. The allies propose to appoint a committee of experts to examine the best method of exacting the indemnity."

Dealing with the programme for increasing the industrial output the Premier said one step was needed for success, and that was confidence. "All classes must give confidence to those who have brains. I say to labour: 'You shall have justice. You shall have fair treatment, and a fair share of the amenities of life. Your children shall have equal opportunities with the children of the rich.' To captital I say: 'You shall not be plundered and penalized. Do your duty by those who work for you and your future is free for all the enterprise or audacity you can give us.' But there must be equal justice, and labour must have happiness in its heart. We will tolerate no sweating and labour must have its just reward. Bolshevism is the poison of production. Russia proves that. Russia will not begin the building up of a productive system until Bolshevism has worked itself out."

Mr. Lloyd George in his statement describes the extensive provisions the Government proposes for discharging its obligations to the gallant soldiers and sailors alike to the fallen, the crippled and others. He deals also with the housing and other problems connected with post-war reconstruction and the development of electrical power.

SAY CANADIAN WOOL PRICES HAVE DROPPED

Dominion Wool Stock Mills Co. Representative Quotes 25 to 30 Per Cent. Reduction.

NO FOREIGN MARKET

Canadian raw wool drops 25 to 30 per cent.

Finished goods drop 10 per cent.

Speculators who have big stocks may be hard hit.

Signing of the armistice cut off war orders.

British and Australian product remains at high rate.

Dealers are at sea regarding future of wool market.

Great excitement has been produced among wool merchants in Toronto and other points regarding the recent decrease in the price of Canadian wool. Whether the civilian demand will equal the previous war demand is a question which is being eagerly discussed, and no one knows exactly where they are standing in the situation. Some say that the civilian demand cannot possibly equal the supply on hand, while others again are positive that the new call by the British Government for 60,000,000 yards of woollen material to be distributed among the French and Belgians for clothing will keep the manufacturers of clothing working day and night to fill the orders. This, however, is supposition, and no one really knows what the future holds.

Varying interviews have been given on the subject from manufacturers of the raw material and also of woollen clothing. Some say the prices haven't dropped, while others say they have. As a result of the readjustment from Government orders to civilian a representative of the Dominion Wool Stock Mills Co. quotes a reduction in raw material of from 25 to 30 per cent. The fact remains that, while manufacturers are decreasing their prices, wholesalers are increasing theirs.

No Foreign Market.

A statement from an authentic source says that during the transition period there is no market for Canadian wool, and that during this period Canada will have to look to her own country for orders.

Another supposition for the decrease in the present price of Canadian wool in Canada is that the speculators there have been buying up all the wool they could lay their hands on, holding it for prices to go higher. When the armistice was signed they have been left with this overflow supply on their hands.

From an authentic source it is stated that Canadian wool is controlled entirely by American prices. At present there is no real market for Canadian wool in the United States, as a couple of days ago the American Government placed an embargo on wool coming into the country, as a war measure.

Raw Material.

The Dominion Wool Stock Mills says it has decreased its raw material from 25 to 30 per cent. R. S. Keys, superintendent of the Standard Woollen Mills, says that a reduction of ten per cent. on last year's prices has been made in woollen cloths, and B. B. Cronyn, general manager of the W. R. Brock Co., says that their woollen goods have advanced from 33 1-3 per cent. to 35 per cent. of the prices of the same goods last year. He says, however, that the majority of the goods are made from British, Australian and New Zealand wool, which, he says, is more expensive now than Canadian wool. This has again been contardicted from an authentic source which stated that Canadian wool has always been higher in price than British wool and is supposed to be of a finer grade. All frankly admit that it is only Canadian wool which has decreased, as British wool has remained stationary and will likely stay so for another year at least.

In an interview R. S. Keys, superintendent of the Standard Woollen Mills Co., said when asked how the decrease concerned his business: "There is a decrease in the Canadian raw wool. In fact, I have heard of even greater rumours of decreases than from 25 to 30 per cent. We have all piled up our stock of wool for Government orders, which, as everyone knows, have been cancelled, and we now have more stock on hand than we need.

"I do not believe that the civilian demand will anything like equal the present supply." Of course, Canadian and American wool will drop in price, as it is higher in price than the English and Australian wools.

"Of course, when I say that our goods have dropped ten per cent. in price I mean that it is ten per cent. against last season's prices," he said. "Last season's wool went up forty per cent., and the decrease of ten per cent leaves it still thirty per cent. higher than it was two years ago.

John Ross, buyer for the same company, shows a statement of the last price list on blankets received from the Standard Woollen Mills with an increase of fifty per cent. over those bought this time last year. Then the company bought blankets at $4.75, and now they are paying $7.35 for the same article, Mr. Ross states.

The Quick Way to Stop a Cough
This home-made syrup does the work in a hurry. Easily prepared, and saves about $2.
You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough, is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few moments. It's cheap, but for prompt results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant, too—children like it—and it is pure and good.
Pour 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth) in a 16-oz. bottle; then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. Thus you make 16 ounces—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.
And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly heals the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid for bronchitis, croup, whooping cough and bronchial asthma.
To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

Felt That He Would Never Walk Again "FRUIT-A-TIVES" Brought Relief.

MR. LORENZO LEDUC

5 Ottawa St., Hull, P.Q.

"Fruit-a-tives" is certainly a wonder. For a year, I suffered with Rheumatism; being forced to stay in bed for five months. I tried all kinds of medicine but without getting better, and thought I would never be able to walk again.

"One day while lying in bed, I read about 'Fruit-a-tives' the great fruit medicine; and it seemed just what I needed, so I decided to try it.

The first box helped me, and I took the tablets regularly until every trace of the Rheumatism left me.

I have every confidence in 'Fruit-a-tives' and strongly recommend them to every sufferer from Rheumatism".

THE WIFE

BY JANE PHELPS

Brian Becomes Angry and Is Anxious to Go Home

CHAPTER LVI.

When Brian left his sentence unfinished, because just at that moment Claude Beckly joined them; he escaped a scathing rebuke which trembled on Ruth's lips.

"Well, here I am. Yes, I'll take a smoke, thank you," Beckly said as Brian pushed the box lying on the table toward him. Then, facetiously: "Did you give him a good talking to, Mrs. Hackett? He deserved it."

"No indeed!" Ruth braced herself for the ordeal. "Brian and I never give each other what you call 'a talking to,' do we, Brian?"

"Not so you could notice it," he replied with a twisted sort of a smile.

"He always was a lucky dog. Before he married he always carried off all the pretty girls and left the rest of us moping. Now he's got a wife who lets him go right on having a good time and doesn't nag him. For goodness sake tell me: 'Are there any more at home like you?'"

Ruth laughed, she couldn't help it. Claude Beckly was the most ridiculous creature she ever had met.

"I am the one and only," she returned.

"Then what am I to do?" his mock serious tone made her laugh again. That she was a bit hysterical, did not escape Brian. He was sulking now.

"Come Ruth, let's go home!" he said after a moment. "We've spent all our money, there's no use staying here."

"Oh, don't be a grouch! sit and smoke a while," Beckly said, helping himself to another cigarette.

"Yes, do!" Ruth added. "The music is delightful," she really dreaded being alone with Bryan; then, too, down deep in her heart she thought perhaps she might learn more of Brian and Mollie King from Beckly—although she would have hesitated to acknowledge it.

"Oh, very well," Brian sank back in his chair.

"Can't you keep him away?" Beckly asked Ruth.

"From what?"

"From Mollie. She looked with favour on me a while back. Now she scorns me. A jug of red ink, and an Italian table de hote' and me no longer tempt her. Brian has spoiled her for the simple life. It is a shame that one man should have so much and the rest of us nothing. Don't you think so?"

"I think you are talking like an ass!" Brian interrupted. "Ruth isn't used to your nonsense, Beckly. Cut it out!"

"You don't think me silly, do you fair lady?" Beckly asked, paying no slightest attention to Brian's angry looks.

"You couldn't expect me to say 'yes' to that question, could you" Ruth parried, she was beginning to enjoy herself.

"It's all you could answer!" Brian spoke again.

"Oh, come, Hackett! I'm not as black as he is painting me, Mrs. Hackett," he turned to Ruth, "I'm sore at him," that's all. I've always had reason enough to be so; and since I met you the reason has grown immeasurably."

"I am afraid you are a flatterer."

"Nothing like that! I always tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth."

"Of course you do!" this time Brian sneered.

"To change the subject," Beckly was imperturbable, "will you and Mrs. Hackett take dinner with me tomorrow night? Not at some million dollar joint, but down in the village. Bare tables and paper napkins, Mrs. Hackett, but absolutely clean; and also with the dinner there will be given free, a "feast of reason and a flow of soul," impossible to find in a place like this," with an indescribable gesture, he dismissed the roof garden as though it were unworthy of his presence.

"Shall we, Brian?" Ruth looked at her husband for acceptance of the invitation. "You haven't any engagement, have you?"

"No." Brian was surprised that Ruth wanted to go. Could it be possible she was attracted by Claude Beckly in spite of what she had said, and that she wanted to be with him? His jealous nature was inflamed by the thought. Ruth was so chic, so smart-looking, no wonder a boob like Beckly would want to make love to her. Well, he needn't try that on, it wouldn't work.

"Then we'll accept with pleasure," Ruth said. She would take this opportunity of seeing the kind of places and people Brian knew before she married him. "What time shall you want us?"

"About seven. I'll go early and save a table. Brian knows the way."

A few moments afterward they bade Beckly good-night and left the garden. They took the bus, which (fortunately, Ruth thought), was so crowded they could not sit together.

Had a woman ever spent such an evening? she wondered as she sank down into the seat beside an old man.

HATED BY PEASANTS.

Von Eichhorn Used Iron Hand to Extort Food From Ukraine.

Before the European war began, Gen. von Eichhorn, who was assassinated recently, was one of the recognized leaders of the Prussian military ring, and a favorite of the Kaiser. He was the first army officer to exploit the use of the field telephone at Prussian army manoeuvres. This was in 1905.

Most of his work after the outbreak of the war was on the east front. From April, 1915, to November, 1915, he was in command of the right wing of Hindenburg's big push through Poland. In September, 1915, he received the Order of Merit for taking Kovno. From November, 1915, to March, 1918, he commanded the 12th German army, with headquarters at Vilna, on a front that extended from Vidzy to the Vilna.

In March, 1918, he was sent to Kiev as German military commander of the Ukraine. As such he was the supreme authority in the Ukraine. Being concerned chiefly with the task of extorting foodstuffs from the Ukraine for German consumption, his military policy toward the population and the Ukrainian Government was one of peremptory demand, followed by the threat and often the application of force, whenever the peasants failed to comply. Many sporadic uprisings resulted in which the blood of peasants was freely shed.

Rather than release their food to the Germans, the peasants would burn and destroy their crops. Gen. von Eichhorn repeatedly issued decrees ordering the peasants to sow crops and threatening dire punishment if they failed. Just as repeatedly, however, the peasants listened with a deaf ear, and this last spring despite the oppressive tactics of Gen. von Eichhorn, only fifty per cent. of the spring sowing had been done in the Ukraine, the peasants preferring to starve rather than put their labor into the fields for no purpose other than to produce food that would be taken away from them.

When the Ukrainian peace was made the Rada agreed to supply Germany with 1,000,000 tons of wheat by Aug. 1, 1918.

When the helplessness of the Rada to meet its obligations became evident, Gen. von Eichhorn and the German Ambassador in the Ukraine, Baron von Schwartzenstein, decided to dispense with the Rada and support in its stead a dictatorship with Gen. Skoropadski at the head. Under such an arrangement the German military leader believed he could better command the obedience of the peasants. Having nothing to give the peasants for their wheat, he adopted a system of ruthless seizure wherever possible. On the whole, however, this method merely made things much worse. The policy of the "iron" hand only fanned the flames of resentment and antagonism in the population, and Hetman Skoropadski either could not or would not assist the Germans in achieving their purpose.

Kiev and other parts of the Ukraine became the scenes of many riots in protest of the peasants against von Eichhorn's decrees. Desperate over their failures to obtain the promised wheat, the German authorities were ready to employ every means available to seize from the Ukraine whatever resources she held. In several instances it was reported that Gen. von Eichhorn distributed arms and munitions to partisans of German rule in order that they might more effectively suppress the outcries of elements which demanded the establishment of a real Government and the cessation of Germany's oppressive tactics.

In May, 1918, the Ukrainian Government under Skoropadski sent a note of protest to Berlin indicating that it would resign if several German officials, including Field Marshal von Eichhorn, the German military commander, and Baron Mumm von Schwartzenstein, the Ambassador, were not recalled. Von Eichhorn's failure to fulfill Germany's economic policy in the Ukraine through military measures became appallingly evident to the Reichstag, and even there he became a subject of sharp criticism. He was allowed to remain, however, and since then his presence there, with a large force of bayonets, always available, has been equivalent to military occupation of the Ukraine, each organized attempt on his part to assemble grain being met by an increasing and more defiant manifestation of resistance on the part of the peasant masses.

Tried Severity.

A very estimable widow is the mother of a son who has given her much trouble. "I am afraid," said a friend one day, "that you are not firm enough with him." "On the contrary," said the mother, "I sometimes fear that I am much too harsh." "Indeed!" "Oh, I don't mean to say," the fond mother hastened to explain "that I have really taken any summary action; but I have talked to him a great deal." "And what have you said?" "Why, I have said, 'Richard! Richard!' and other severe things."

Up-to-date.

A live sheet is here discovered. Says the Jonesboro News: The friends of this paper will please hand us items while they are fresh. We prefer not to publish a birth after the child is weaned, a marriage after the honeymoon is over or the death of a man after his widow is married again.

Style—Plus Service at a Fair Price

THE style illustrated above is one that is largely preferred by Canadian business men—especially young men. It has the medium long vamp and narrow, somewhat pointed toe which gives the foot a slim and "dressy" appearance, without being extreme in style. Those who like this type of shoe will find it thoroughly satisfactory in fitting qualities and a comfortable easy shoe to walk in.

This style can be obtained in several grades of black and tan. The price range—$7 to $10—considering the present leather market, is extremely moderate.

Next spring a shoe of the same wearing qualities will cost from ten to twenty per cent more. It would cost more now except for the fact that the resources of this company enable us to cover our needs well in advance.

POINTERS FOR CAR OWNERS

Connecting Rod Knock.

The knock ordinarily produced by a loose connecting rod is rather in the nature of a pound, and it is most noticeable at slow speed with a closed throttle. If the play is excessive, however, the knock will be heard at all speeds and loads. This is probably the commonest kind of all, is easy to identify and should be remedied without any delay or worse trouble will follow.

Piston Pin Play.

It is sometimes a little difficult to determine whether there has been wear in the piston pin bearing. With the piston in place and the lower crankcase half down or a side plate off remove a valve cap or spark plug and turn the engine over, so that the piston is at top dead centre, in such a position that a screwdriver may be pressed down on top of the piston, while with a bar the piston may be pushed upward from the under side. So by alternately forcing up and down any play existing may be detected.

Removing Valve Steam Guides.

In removing valve steam guides, which are driven out from the top, be sure and use either a block of hardwood or a similar piece of soft metal. If a tempered metal instrument is used in this operation the guide will probably be hopelessly injured.

Scored Piston.

In cases where the piston and cylinder are slightly scored it may be possible to make an emergency repair for temporary purposes. The first thing to do is to take out the piston and find out what has caused the trouble and remove the cause if it is still present. The roughest edges should then be smoothed off with whatever means are at hand. Next thoroughly clean piston and cylinder, replace the parts and supply additional oil to help fill in the scratches.

Sooted Plug.

When a spark plug develops missing as a result of being sooted and no means of removal is at hand, as may happen sometimes on the road, the plug can be made to fire regularly again by disconnecting the lead and introducing an auxiliary gap of one-eighth or one-quarter between it and the plug terminal.

Tappet Clearance.

A backfire or "pop" back through the carbureter may indicate insufficient intake valve tappet clearance. If the intake valve does not close, the burning charge escapes through the valve and ignites an incoming charge in the manifold. The loss of compression also causes loss of power and the gas blown back deranges the carbureting system for the time being.

Strain the Water.

Sediment in the cooling water certainly adds nothing to the efficiency of the cooling system, no matter what type it may be, but in the case of the pump system it is particularly injurious. Sediment in the water wears the impeller and cuts the bearings and shaft. For this reason water should always be carefully strained as it is being poured into the radiator.

Flooding Carbureter.

The principal causes of flooding of the carbureter may be listed as follows: Needle valve being held open or leaking, due, perhaps, to dirt on the valve seat, preventing its closing properly. Imperfect or worn needle valve or seat. Sticking mechanism. A float too heavy or leaking, causing it to sink too deep, holding the needle valve open. Level, too high. Loose nozzle or needle.

Emergency Pipe Splice.

When the fuel line suffers a fracture on the road there are a number of emergency repairs that may be made. If rubber tubing is available a section of this will make an admirable splice. A cork with a hole through it may be used and in the absence of one a raw potato with a hole through it makes a very satisfactory temporary splice. Cloth smeared with soap or shellac and then reinforced with splints is very handy.

Careful of the Magnets.

When the magnets are to be removed from the magneto for any purpose, an iron keeper must be placed across the two ends or poles, until the magnets are again in place on the pole pieces of the magneto with the armateur in place, these then acting as keeper. If this caution is not observed the magnets will quickly become demagnetized.

Chipped Gear Teeth.

In cases where a number of the teeth of a gear have chipped off at the outer edges they should be chamfered off by grinding. If in grinding the gear is permitted to heat enough to soften the metal a little further chipping will be prevented and the gear can be used until a new one can be installed.

THE HOME CIRCLE COLUMN

Pleasant Evening Reveries—A Column Dedicated to Tired Mothers as They Join the Home Circle at Evening Tide

There was an old geezer and he had a lot of sense;
He started up a business on a dollar eighty cents—
The dollar for stock and the eighty for an ad
Brought him three lovely dollars in a day, by dad!

Well, he bought more goods and a little more space
And he played that system with a smile on his face.
The customers flocked to his two-by-four
And soon he had to hustle for a regular store.

Upon the square where the people pass,
He gobbled up a corner that was all plate glass.
He fixed up the window with the best that he had
Then he told them all about it in a half-page ad.

He soon had 'em coming and he never quit
And he wouldn't cut down on his ads one bit
Well, he's kept things humping in the town ever since
And everybody calls him the Merchant Prince.

—Vevay Reveille.

"MERE MAN."

S. W. Hart, in Los Angeles Record: Man, just mere man, might be the title of what I am going to say.

Man comes into this world, without his consent, and leaves it against his will. He has no voice in the matter.

During his stay on earth, his time is spent in one continuous round of contraries and misunderstandings. In his infancy, he is the nearest approach to our conception to an angel. In his boyhood he divides his honours with the devil and a monkey, with is irrepressible pranks. In his manhood, he is everything from a lobster up. When he falls in love, he is a fit subject for the home of the feebleminded. If he raises a family, he is a chump. If he is a poor man, he is a poor manager, and has no sense. If he is rich, he is dishonest, but considered smart. If he is out of politics you cannot place him, and he is an "undesirable" citizen. If he goes to church he is a hypocrite. If he stays away from church, he is a sinner. If he donates to charity or foreign missions he does it for show. If he refuses he is stingy and a tight wad.

When he first comes into the world all the girls in the neighbourhood, including the old maids, want to borrow him and kiss him. If he dies young there was always a future before him. If he had lived to a ripe oldage, he is in the way and only living to save funeral expenses, and because people do not want to waste the time to bury him alive.

If he swipes a loaf of bread for his starving family, he can go to jail for six months. If he swipes a railroad or a steamship line he can (sometimes) go to congress for six years or longer. If he makes a million or two on an "upward" tip, in a "watered stock" market, he is a marvelous financier. If he can't make it, he is either a "fool" or is playing out of luck, so what's the use anway.

IS IT ONE ON YOU, TOO?

If there's anything that worries a woman,
It's something she ought not to know,
But you bet she'll find it out somehow,
If she gets the least kind of a show.
Now we'll wager a cent to a dollar
This poem she's already read—
We knew that she'd get at it somehow,
If she had to stand on her head.

—Exchange.

The young men whose pockets are filled with cigarette wrappers, mustache combs, finer nail cleaners, miniature curling irons, looking glass, etc., and have their mothers crease their pants every day, are not the ones who will make promising husbands. The pockets of those who are helping make the country bloom and causing two blades of grass to grow where God planted but one, will be found filled with barbed wire staples, and different sizes of nails and screws. They are the boys the girls had better look after.

A raw boy without a dollar, present or prospective, sparking a girl regular and talking about marrying is a spectacle for God and man. He should be reasoned with, and if he will not quit it until he is able to support a wife, and to know whom he loves, and the difference between love and chicken pox, he should be quarantined or put in a convent erected purposely for such cases. Nine-tenths of the unhappy marriages are the result of green human calves being allowed to run at large in the society of pasture without a yoke on them.

How quickly can you tell a live town from a dead one by simply looking over its newspaper. Poor skim milk sort of newspaper with a few small advertisements and those lookin gas though they were run at half price, betoken a dead town just as sure as a corpse indicates a funeral, while a good, lively, well-printed paper, well filled with good, fresh ads, and displayed local shows that the town is prospering and thriving. It never fails.

Among the dress cottons for spring voiles will be the favourites.

"How I Do Hate This Everlasting Dishwashing"

"IT IS the same old thing every day, and three times a day at that.

"Just look at the pile of dishes and pots and pans I have to clean up. Is it any wonder that I get tired and discouraged sometimes?

"I do not mind the cooking and baking and getting meals ready, but I certainly do detest this dish-washing drudgery. It is enough to make one tired of life. It would not be so bad for a change, but it is this monotonous, every day repeating the same work that kills.

"They say that it is monotony that causes a person to lose her mind. And I think I can understand how it is. I suppose I should be thankful that I am not at this job all day long, for that would be still worse. Just think of the girls working at machines in the big factories where they do the same thing day after day, year in and year out."

Next to mental worry and anxiety, there is nothing to be compared to monotony as a means of wearing out the nervous system.

When you begin to find your day's work monotonous and distasteful it is time to take stock of the condition of your nerves. Ask yourself some such questions as these:

Do you sleep well? Does your head ache? Is your digestion good? Do little things worry and annoy you? Are you easily irritated? Are you startled at trifling noises? Are you easily tired out and discouraged?

Your answer to these questions will give you some idea if you are in need of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to build up the exhausted nerve cells. The regular use of this food cure for a few weeks will enable you to take an entirely different view of life and work.

It is only when the system gets run down that one gets in the way of looking on the dark side of things. With nervous energy restored to the system, you will feel again the joy of living and be anxious to accomplish the task before you, whatever it may be.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is proving a blessing to many thousands of women—and men, too—in this broad Dominion. It will be the same to you if you will but give it a chance. 50c a box, 6 for $2.75, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto.

Farmerettes Are Needed Next Year

THE WAR IS WON BUT MANY MOUTHS MUST BE FED NEXT YEAR.

TORONTO, December 6.—Dr. W. A. Riddell, of the Bureau of Labour, spoke to a crowded gathering of farmerettes when they met in the Bills Comittee Room at the Parliament Buildings. "The food shortage will be as great as ever" he said. "As a winning-the-war measure our work is no longer necessary, but as a matter of saving lives it will be just as necessary." Dr. Riddell continued telling of the difficulties of the first year's work. When the 300 girls first started out to work the farmers could scarcely be induced to sign contracts. "The end of that year saw the work a splendid success with the farmer coming out on top," he said.

Miss U. I. Dickens presided over the meeting and opened it with a discussion on the conditions that existed the first year that the farmerettes came into action, what had been effected last year, and the still greater improvements that were to be brought about this year, especially as regards the rate of payment. The question of a sliding rate of payment was also discussed, because last year girls on good crops were paid just the same rates. It was suggested that where the majority of those picking on the patch were not earning 20 cents an hour, the piece rates should be raised.

What is a WAR-SAVINGS STAMP?

It is a stamp for which the Dominion of Canada will pay you $5.00 on January 1st, 1924.

It enables you to lend small savings to the Government at a rate of interest which accumulates 20 cents a year on each $4.00 invested.

A War-Savings Stamp costs you $4.00 if purchased in December, 1918, or January, 1919, and the price increases one cent each month after January.

Canada's Pledge for FIVE DOLLARS

Every man, woman and child in Canada should invest in War-Savings Stamps all the money that he or she can save by STRICT ECONOMY.

With W.-S. S. you can "build a bond" at your own convenience, taking advantage of the unexcelled security and the high interest. You are not tied down to making payments at stated times, though it is desirable to purchase as regularly and as often as you can.

Should you at any time need money, you can cash your W.-S. S. at the Post Office for the indicated surrender value—the amount you paid with fair interest.

By placing your W.-S. S. on the Certificate provided, and registering same, you are protected against loss by fire, theft or other cause. Your registered Certificate is of no value to anyone but yourself.

As an aid to the purchase of W.-S. S., you can buy THRIFT Stamps of the value of 25 cents, 16 of which may be exchanged for one W.-S. S.

W.-S. S. are on sale at Money-Order Post Offices, Banks, and other places displaying the W.-S. S. sign shown at the top of this announcement.

Makes War Flour Easily Digested

WAR flours are darker and heavier because they contain the coarser parts of grains, which are very nutritious, having a larger percentage of iron, calcium, phosphates and other valuable food elements and compounds.

But to get the good out of these war flours a strong, double-acting leavening agent, such as Egg-O Baking Powder, must be used.

DEATH OF WM. KERR.

Ex-Alderman of Cobourg, Mason, and Chosen Friend.

COBOURG, Dec. 5.—The death of Wm. Kerr here has removed an esteemed and useful citizen. Mr. Kerr was a skilled machinist, a former member of the Town Council, a member of the Masonic Lodge and of the Canadian Order of Chosen Friends, and a member of the Methodist Church. He was sixty-four years of age. Surviving are his wife, formerly Miss Harcourt, and two daughters, Miss Ruby, of Toronto, and Miss Edith, at home; one brother, Edward, in Toronto, and another brother, John, and a sister, Miss Kerr, in Peterborough. The funeral service was conducted by his pastor, Rev. H. B. Kenny, assisted by Rev. Dr. A. H. Reynar and Rev. T. L. Edwards. The members of St. John's Lodge attended in a body, and the funeral was under Masonic auspices.

under any condition, nor for any consideration. We prefer not to make it at all, rather than do that.

There is no substitute for CEETEE Underclothing—it is in a class by itself. No other underwear like it is being made in America.

But, owing to the Government regulations regarding wool, which allow a very small percentage for civilian purposes, also the scarcity of available ships, we are only able to supply about half the demand for Ceetee, which is made from finest Australian Merino Wool.

However, if our many friends are unable to secure their usual CEETEE Underclothing, we suggest that they try some other Turnbull brand. We guarantee it will give excellent satisfaction.

Yes, I Intend To But Not Now

Have YOU any idea what that decision is costing you—even if you live? Of course, if you die the cost is much GREATER.

Read the following facts and then decide for yourself:

The premium you would pay for $1000 of insurance at age 60 WOULD BUY YOU nearly $4000 of insurance at age 21.

The premium you pay for $1000 of insurance at age 50 WOULD BUY YOU nearly $2500 at age 21.

The premium you pay for $1000 of insurance at age 35 WOULD BUY YOU $1440 at age 21.

Besides, while you may be insurable at age 21 you may not be insurable, AT ANY PRICE, at the other ages mentioned.

The one great fact that touches our lives is the verdict of NOW.

BRITISH FLEET SWEEPS SEAS

Admiral Beatty's Broom Does Good Work.

BOTTLED UP THE ENEMY

North Sea Is Swept Five Times a Day and Now That the Allies Have Occupied Ostend and Zeebrugge the Submarine Warfare of the Enemy Will Grow Less Effective Week by Week.

THE German high seas fleet has not been out, except in the Baltic, since the battle of Jutland in 1916. It was then that the world learned how effective was Admiral Beatty's broom. There have been a few small raids, but they are like the trench raids—the raider knows when and where he is going to make his cut-and-run. The German people are becoming dissatisfied with the inactivity of their fleet. A complete change of staff, from top to bottom, has taken place in the German navy, but there is no sign of serious change of policy. The British grand fleet often comes out. There are five sweeping operations a day—aerial, submarine and surface—in the Bight. There is no way known to naval science of making a fleet come out of a fortified harbor if it does not want to come.

The British navy lays 10,000 mines a month, and our northern barrage in the North Sea appears to be impregnable. The activities of the British navy have been repaid with important success, and they continue to be incessant.

The short-range German submarine warfare from Zeebrugge and Ostend is wiped out of existence.

The larger German submarines are now attacking large ships farther out at sea—250 miles or more from land — instead of large and small ships nearer the coasts. They make fewer hits, but each hit strikes a large target.

At the end of last year we were sinking U-boats faster than Germany built them. In March the Germans quickened their output. We are no longer destroying more than Germany is building—and there is no cause for anxiety. She had not been able to increase her total of submarines this year.

We are adding more and more to our anti-submarine weapons, and are making headway in the Mediterranean area, which was a bad spot a few months ago.

A change has come over the German submarine crews. They used to be all volunteers. Now the officers are volunteers, but the men are not. Still, there is no evidence of loss of moral loyalty. They are brave men. They are, however, more cautious and wary than heretofore and take fewer risks.

Relics of the Long Ago.

Excavations lately made near the old church of Lauzon, Quebec, have disclosed skeletons of British soldiers interred two centuries ago, as well as old-time cannons, battle-axes and other relics of the period.

YOUR SICK CHILD IS CONSTIPATED! LOOK AT TONGUE

Hurry Mother! Remove Poisons From Little Stomach, Liver, and Bowels.

Give "California Syrup of Figs" if Cross, Bilious or Feverish.

If your little one is out of sorts, half sick, isn't resting, eating and acting naturally—look, Mother! see if the tongue is coated. This is a sure sign that the little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with waste. When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad, or has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated poison, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of the little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

Mothers can rest easy after giving this harmless "fruit laxative," because it never fails to cleanse the little one's liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach, and they dearly love its pleasant taste. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown ups printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

Etruscan "Beautifiers."

Recently excavations in Italy have unearthed many toilet articles used by women of the Etruscan period long before the Romans came into power. Among these are vanity boxes, very much like those of the present time. These were carried on a slender chain that fastened to the girdle of the Etrurian belles and contained sweet-scented pomades and other "beautifiers" with which they were accustomed to dab their classical faces from time to time.

One of the most interesting relics of this faraway day is a hand mirror, shaped exactly the same as those of our time. But instead of glass the Etrurian women were compelled to depend upon a surface of highly burnished copper for a glimpse of their loveliness.

Although glass was in fairly common use many years ago, it was not until recent times that a clever mind thought of painting one side of a glass with a preparation that would cause it to reflect whatever came before it. So in ancient days miladi was compelled to use some glassy pool or a bit of polished copper for her looking-glass. And both seem to have served their purpose successfully. It is from these ancient hand mirrors of copper that we got the design for our modern creation of glass.

Articles similar to those found in the Etruscan tombs have been discovered at various times in Egypt, Assyria and elsewhere, but this recent find is a notable one because of the excellent state of the articles and their variety.

Import Dried Lizards.

Dried lizards are said to be an article of merchandise regularly imported into the United States. They come from China, to supply a demand by Chinese residents in the United States. They are supposed to possess much medicinal virtue when ground to powder and mixed with certain other curative substances. The Chinese used dried toads for a tonic, salted scorpions for smallpox and fossil crabs as an antidote for poison.

LEADING WARLORD FELL FROM POWER

"Military Brain" Departed When End Was Near.

DATE IS NOW HISTORICAL

Gen. Ludendorff, Who Held Destiny of the Huns in the Hollow of His Hand for Nearly Four Years, Was Forced to Resign on Oct. 26th, Which Meant Triumph of Democratic Forces.

WHEN the time comes for us all to look back at the Great War as a memory, one of the dates that will stand out clearly will be Oct. 26th, 1918. That was the day on which Berlin announced officially that Gen. Ludendorff had resigned, and that the Civil Government was taking control of the Teutonic military forces. Gen. Ludendorff had been looked upon for many months as the embodiment of the ascendancy of the war lords. In his resignation Germany lost what often his been described as her "military brain."

Unknown before the war, Gen. Erich Ludendorff sprang into prominence in the fall of 1914, as chief of staff to Field Marshal von Hindenburg, then a general, in the operations against the Russians. When von Hindenburg was given the chief command in August, 1916, Ludendorff was appointed first quartermaster-general, but his position in reality has been chief of staff and collaborator with von Hindenburg.

GEN. LUDENDORFF.

Soon after his appointment as first quartermaster-general, Ludendorff began to be looked upon as the real "boss" of Germany, and was recognized as the representative of the pan-Germans at Great Headquarters. It was Ludendorff who brought about the retirement of Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg and he was reputed to have been responsible for the appointment to the Chancellorship of Michaelis and von Hertling, both of whom were described as stop-gaps. The general's rule as first quartermaster-general has almost amounted to military dictatorship.

Gen. Ludendorff was reported to have been the originator of the plan of the German offensive of 1918. The plan called for offensive operations on the western front which would split the British and French armies and compel the Allies to beg for peace before the strength of the American army could be available to any great extent. It was planned that if the offensive failed then Germany would resort to a diplomatic campaign in order to obtain peace.

As first quartermaster-general, Gen. Ludendorff was responsible for the official statements issued from German General Headquarters. He is the man who has explained to the German people how the German troops during the past three months have carried out "strategic withdrawals."

The Martinet.

A well-known officer told a story the other day about a martinet. "Strict discipline is excellent, it is essential," he said, "but the martinet carries discipline too far. A martinet colonel gathered his officers about him last month and issued orders for the regiment's forthcoming train journey to the coast. 'I don't object to an innocent good time on the men's part during this train journey,' he said, 'but you will, of course, see to it that there's no cursing or profanity, no skylarking, no card playing, and as little cigarette smoking as possible.' 'Pardon me, colonel,' said a timid voice. 'Yes, captain. Speak up. What is it?' 'Pardon me, colonel, but would you object if I took along a little plain sewing to occupy my company and myself?'"

What He Would Do.

The "old-timers" in the Great Lakes region tell the story of a prospective marine engineer who was being examined by the captain. The captain had asked a number of difficult questions in order to confuse the man, but the candidate was always ready with an answer. At last, in a tone of deepest concern, the captain asked: "Supposing the water in your injector was working properly, your boiler check was not stuck or your pipes clogged, but you weren't getting any water in your boilers—what would you do?" The engineer looked puzzled for a moment, unable fully to grasp the situation; then, with a knowing smile on his face, he answered: "I'd go up on deck and see if there was any water in the lake." "You'll do," said the captain.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

The Loving Heart

By VICTOR REDCLIFFE

"Oh, you wretch—you inhuman monster."

Striking her dainty hands against a rickety door, locked on the inside next to a window looking into a wretched room, Eunice Barbour flashed glances of indignation upon a ragged, unkempt old hag, who was slapping a forelorn little mite of a girl not more than three years of age, as she dragged her across the floor. The beldame hastened her steps, frightened, and vanished. Eunice Barbour, a widow at twenty-two, and one of beauty's daughters, had come to the old tenement in quest of a seamstress she had once employed, but had found no trace. Now, overstrained, she stepped through the doorway of a room further on where a wholesome looking woman was bustling about.

"Please let me rest for a moment," pleaded Eunice, sinking to a chair. "I have been all upset from witnessing a mother mistreat her little one terribly. Oh, how can such cruel hearts exist! It reminded me of my dear little one who died a year ago, and the tears gathered in those gentle, yearning eyes.

"Do you mean the red faced, one-eyed woman at the end of the hall?" questioned her hostess. "Sure, it's not her child, that poor little thing. She's a farmed out one."

"What does that mean?" asked Eunice.

"Why, its father, a widower, left it with a Mrs. Dallas, who treated the child half decently. But she gave up the business and got the woman here to take the child at a low price."

"But its father?"

"He is in a traveling business and don't come back only once a year."

Eunice arose and left the house. As she penetrated a narrow passageway she paused suddenly. Seated upon a heap of dirt and caressing and chattering to the wreck of a rag doll was the little victim of abuse. She bore across one dirt soiled cheek a cruel blue mark, one eye was quite discolored. A daring impulse came to Eunice.

"Sweet darling!" she whispered, wrapping the auto cloak upon her arm around the child, "will you come with me?"

The tiny arms reached up and clasped about her neck, a seraphic smile illumined the woman's face. Eunice bore her swiftly to the street and to her waiting automobile.

"Home, quick!" she ordered the chauffeur, and within an hour they were safe in her pretty city flat.

Oh, the tender maternal love that sprang up within her lonely heart like some sweet flower!

Still, Eunice was haunted with the fear that a search might be made for the child, and the little one taken away from her. At the end of a month she ventured to revisit the old tenement and seek the woman who soon told her all she knew of little Una's history.

"You need not worry, ma'am," she answered Eunice, when the latter had disclosed her share in the abduction. "That old hag is glad to get rid of her."

"But when the father returns—"

"Oh, she will probably claim she died."

"Mrs. Drake," said Eunice, earnestly, placing some money on the table, "I want you to notify me at once should the father appear."

A new glory seemed to have come into her life. She had married a man she did not love, though she respected him. He had left her well provided for, but when their little child died Eunice felt as though existence was barren and motiveless.

She was quite agitated one day when the maid told of observing a stealthy figure peering in at the window the evening before. Then a new element came into her life. Her lawyer sent a gentleman named Roscoe Brooke. The avowed purpose of the visit of the latter was to negotiate with Mrs. Barbour for some land she owned in another state. He called several times on business. Then, as he seemed to enjoy her company and would spend half the evening with little Una on his lap, Eunice grew to cherish his company as a welcome panacea for her solitude.

He was at the flat one evening when there was a caller whom the maid had shown into another room. Eunice went thither, leaving the communicating door open. It was Mrs. Drake.

"I've come to tell you," she said, "I should have done it before, but I have been sick in bed for two weeks. The father of the little girl came inquiring for her and I told him about you—why, that's him now!"

Mrs. Drake had caught sight of the visitor through the open doorway. The truth flashed through the mind of Eunice at once. The father of Una had chosen to rejoin his child by forming an acquaintance with her "new mother." When Mrs. Drake had gone Eunice rejoined parent and child.

"I have learned who you are," she spoke tremulously. "You won't take my darling away from me, will you?"

"You have made her happy with your kindly interest," answered Roscoe Brooke. "It is in your power to bless my lonely life as well, Eunice," and his tones were earnest and pleading, "become to our cherished treasure a mother, indeed."

Only Death Is Real.

Everything in Germany, with one exception, has its "Ersatz" or substitute, a fact which is the subject of a little verse in the Freie Presse of Strasburg:

"Ersatz is every morsel. Ersatz is every draught. Ersatz is every rag. Ersatz is every thread. Ersatz is shoe and raiment. Ersatz is every seam. Ersatz all law and justice. Ersatz our very life. And only—death is real."

How She Got Even.

The Wall Street Journal man tells an amusing incident that occurred on the night of the primary elections. At a certain polling place there was a long line of men and women awaiting turns to vote. A woman rushed up and attemped to take a place near the head of the line. "Yiz will have to go to the foot of the loine," the policeman informed her. "Oh, but I want to vote." "So do all the rest of these people. Go to the foot of the loine." "Very well; then I will not vote at all, so there." Is that old courtesy, "ladies first," passing away with the enfranchisement of women?

The Santa Maria.

The Santa Maria was one of the three vessels with which Columbus set sail for America from Palos, Spain, Aug. 3, 1492. She was a good sized boat, ninety feet long, carrying sixty-six seamen. She was decked all over, and had four masts—two with square sails and two with lanteen sails. The other vessels were smaller, and without decks, and they were all provisioned for a year.

Overheard.

"Margaret irritates me dreadfully."

"Why?"

"She is so effeminate."

Potato Crop Is Large.

With a record crop of ten million bushels in Manitoba and a big crop in New Brunswick, to offset a somewhat smaller crop than usual in Ontario and some other parts of Canada, the total yield of potatoes this year promises to be above that of 1917, according to reports received by the Department of Agriculture from all parts of the Dominion. The New Brunswick crop is estimated at 8,650,000 bushels, as compared with but five million bushels last year. With a smaller acreage Prince Edward Island will have as good a crop as last year, and Nova Scotia and Quebec will have good average crops. Despite early frosts Saskatchewan and Alberta will have fair crops of tubers and British Columbia will have a good average yield.

The Cream of the East.

Syria, the region extending from the Taurus mountains to Egypt and from the desert to "the Great Sea," needs no identification. It is the land of the patriarchs and prophets and apostles — "the Holy Land." Its population numbers about three and one-half million of Semitic origin, speaking the Arabic language, and yet with so many races intermingled through the centuries of the various conquests and occupations that the people cannot claim any one race as their own. Greek, Roman and European Crusader, all have blended with the ancient Semitic stock to produce the Syrians of to-day, whom Lord Cromer, in his memoirs, termed "the cream of the east."

In Syria was the one green spot of Turkey—the Lebanon mountains. In 1860, because of massacres, the European Powers insisted that these mountains be made autonomous. And since that date this little district has been a living demonstration of what the people of the land are capable of becoming.

The steep mountain sides have been terraced to a height of 4,000 feet and planted to olives, figs and vines. Taxes have been low, safety to person and property secured, good roads built and kept in repair. The people have constructed more comfortable homes and have sent their sons to schools and colleges.

The story of the achievements of the Lebanon and its sons during these sixty years of autonomy would be a thrilling narrative in itself. Now that autonomy has been taken away, the Lebanon is prostrate in famine. —National Geographic Magazine.

The Dugout

(By Lieut. J. B. Morton).

Each man has his own picture of it, some dugout that he knew well, some cramped place where dramatic moments were passed. History was made, perhaps, at the dirty wooden table, in the hours before an attack.

At the bottom of the steps there is a floor of rubble, and posts keeping the roof up. In wet weather the earth walls are slimy, and the wood damp, so that the rusty nails, on which water-bottles and haversacks are hung, droop dangerously. All the Kirchner girls are there, and one or two women with a more intimate meaning. Very likely someone is writing a letter, trying to take his mind away from the war for a moment. Bits of mud on his sheet of paper scamper over the undried ink of his writing whenever an explosion shakes the dugout.

In a corner you can make out the blurred outlines of an orderly. He is boiling water, or cleaning a revolver, or opening a tin of condensed milk by the light of a twisted bit of candle. He hums fragments of songs he has brought with him from the Palladium or the Coliseum. From time to time somebody looks at his watch. There is not much leisure for letters or cups of tea.

Regiments come and pass, going to other parts of the line, so that later on there will be other men in the dugout, changing it slightly. For every dugout expresses some personality. The photographs and pictures on the wall change. There comes, it may be, an austere man, who frowningly removes those Kirchner girls, substituting Haig and Foch; or a youngster, who prefers Gladys Cooper to those beauties from the magazines. In any case, there are nearly always pictures of some kind or other.

Wonderful things happen in that damp cave. At the table men write those short discursive notes that mean so much to people at home. Here they open their letters eagerly, letters from girls, parents, friends in other parts of the line, telling of births, deaths, adventures. Here, by candle-light, they pore over trench-maps in the last few hours before an attack. Here, too, a man may suddenly decide to make his will, or to write a last letter home, to be sent off if he falls. Books have been written in odd moments, even poetry; and very quaint songs are sung, and stories from that old world at home.

At night giant rats creep from their hiding-places, to hunt for crumbs of bread.

At any moment of day or night there may come stumbling down the steps a runner, very much out of breath, with a message to the Company Commander or the Platoon Commander, and vital decisions may have to be taken down there at short notice. This is the place where preparations for a stunt are made, and where all the intricacies of trench domestic economy are regulated in quieter times.

"Dugout!" The word brings back to one's mind something extraordinarily vivid. One sees so plainly the well-known faces by candle-light, the slimy walls, the muddy table. The incongruous song of the orderly in the corner is almost audible.

UNION OF CHURCHES IN COUNCIL'S TOPIC.

(By United Press).

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 3. — Organic union of the Evangelical churches in America is being discussed by more than 100 representatives of 10 Protestant denominations, meeting here to-day.

The Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. made the proposal that brought the churchmen together. The present meeting is to last three days, and will consider plans to unite the ten denominations in one federal church.

These churches sent delegates: Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A., Protestant Episcopal Church in the U. S., Reformed Church in the U. S., United Presbyterian Church of North America, Methodist Episcopal Church, Congregational Churches, Disciples of Christ, Evangelical Synod of North America, Moravian Church in America.

Food Board Flashes

The health and strength of millions of people in the allied and neutral nations has been reduced by the lowered standard of living enforced by war time rationing systems. Meats, fats and dairy produce have been dangerously limited during recent months of the war. The flocks and herds of the war-torn nations have been diminished by millions of head. Years must elapse before the meat supply and the milk and butter supply of some of those countries can be restored to normal. There will be a great demand upon this continent for animal products for some years. Canadians must do their share on the farms by maintaining live stock production at its maximum, and exercising the greatest thrift in the use of meat and dairy products. "Fancy Meats" like ox heart, calves liver, tripe and the other parts of the animal carcasses which are in such demand in other countries are not nearly so well appreciated in Canada as they might be.

RICH, RED BLOOD RESISTS INFLUENZA

Its Victims Are Largely Among Weak, Anaemic People.

In the epidemic of la grippe, or influenza, that has swept over Canada, in common with the rest of the world, it has been noticeable that its earliest victims were the thin-blooded anaemic people whose power of resistance is greatly weakened because of the watery condition of their blood. When a person is strong, hearty, able to enjoy a brisk cold day, chills and infections are set at defiance. But when the system is run down, when the nerves are shaky and the blood watery, the germs of influenza are quick to seize their opportunity. It is therefore good policy to keep the blood always rich, red and strong, and the nerves well nourished by the use of such a reliable tonic as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. People who take these pills from time to time are usually able to resist colds, influenza and other ailments, and enjoy good health while many about them are weak, ailing and miserable.

To those who have been attacked by influenza, the after effects are more dangerous than the attack itself. They are left at the mercy of relapses and complications. There is a persistent weakness of the limbs, shortness of breath at the least exertion, poor digestion and a tendency to take cold easily. This condition will persist and will grow worse unless the blood is built up and the shattered nerves strengthened. For this purpose there is no tonic can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. From first to last dose these pills make new, rich, red blood, which reaches every organ and every nerve in the body. Thus the lingering germs are driven out, the appetite is improved, and weak, despondent victims of influenza are transformed into cheerful, healthy, happy men and women. If you have passed through an attack of influenza you will find Dr. Williams' Pink Pills the one thing needed to restore you to full health and strength. If the trouble has passed you, you can further strengthen yourself against its insidious advance by the use of this same tonic medicine.

Medicine dealers everywhere sell Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, or you can procure them by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THREE WARSHIPS NOW REMAIN TO BE GIVEN UP BY THE GERMANS

All Submarines, Numbering 122, Have Been Surrendered.

BASEL, Switzerland, Dec. 4.—(Havas Agency despatch.)—It is reported from Berlin that the surrender of German warships under the terms of the armistice has now been carried out with the exception of the battleship Koenig, the cruiser Dresden, and a torpedo boat which will be taken to England early this month.

The last of the series of submarines left Heligoland November 29, so that 122 U-boats have now been delivered to the Allies.

The clearing of mines from the Baltic has been begun. The Little Belt and the Great Belt may now be crossed without a pilot.

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

London Arouses St. Thomas' Ire

ST. THOMAS, Dec. 4. —Much indignation has been felt and freely expressed by the business men and citizens of St. Thomas over the attitude and action taken by the London Chamber of Commerce, dominated by Sir Adam Beck, concerning the proposed new provincial highway in making strenuous efforts to prevent the highway taking the southern route through St. Thomas. At a largely attended meeting of the St. Thomas Board of Trade it was agreed that all the merchants of St. Thomas will discontinue purchasing their goods from London wholesalers and manufacturers if that city persists in its organized effort to divert the highway from St. Thomas.

ANTHRACITE OUTPUT LOWER.

Anthracite coal production has been so reduced by a number of causes that it is now nearly 100,000 net tons behind the daily average production last year. Figures just gathered for the week ended November 16 show a total for that week of 1,405,000 net tons, a daily average of 234,000 tons, as compared with a daily average of 340,000 tons for the corresponding period last year. The anthracite output for the coal year to date is 63,561,000 net tons, compared with 64,921,000 net tons, last year's record for the same period. Influenza and the celebrations of the signing of the armistice contributed chiefly to the slump in production.

TEN MEN WERE KILLED IN DETONATOR WORKS

POMPTON LAKES, N.J., Dec. 5. —Ten men were killed and 28 injured here late to-day by four explosions which destroyed the detonator assembling building of the Dupont Cap Works and shook the country-side for miles around. Fire, which followed the explosions, was confined to the one unit, and the property loss was said to be slight.

Epidemic Serious During November

TORONTO, Dec. 4.— While the influenza epidemic has run its course in practically every section of the province the undertakers' returns to the provincial health authorities show that the disease accounted for nearly as many deaths during November as for October, the total being 2,608 for November and 3,015 for October. The actual difference was smaller still since a number of undertakers have failed to report on time.

This failure of undertakers to comply promptly with the provisions of the Public Health Act is likely to get some of them into trouble. For months the undertakers of Ottawa have neglected to make reports and Dr. J. W. S. McCullough, the Provincial Officer of Health, declares that should they continue to violate the regulations the department will have no other recourse but to prosecute those who refuse to conform with the Act.

The general health statistics for the month show a marked improvement. Scarlet fever, diphtheria, measles and whooping cough were decidedly less in evidence. The latter two, however, were a more virulent form than afflicted the province in November, 1917.

TIRED AND DISCOURAGED

Mrs. Warren Randles, Rothesay, Kings County, N.B., "I have three small children and had to stay in the house all winter. So when spring came I was all run down doing all my work and looking after the children. I felt all tired out, and looked on the gloomy side all the time. I decided to try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and the results were most satisfactory. I feel fine now, and am recommending the Nerve Food to others."

How Romanoffs Met Their Death

LONDON, Thursday Dec. 5.—A despatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Amsterdam says the Kiev newspapers publish a story, given by the valet of the former Empress of Russia, of the murder of the entire Romanoff family by the Bolsheviki. According to this story the once-royal family was compelled to live in a single room of a convent at Ekaterinburg for weeks before the murder, under guard of Bolshevik soldiers who insulted them shamefully.

The valet said on July 17 all the members of the family were taken to the cellar of the convent and placed against the wall and shot one after the other. According to the story the murderers granted the last request of the former Emperor Nicholas that his wife, who was ill, should die in his arms.

According to the valet, the Grand Duchess Tatiana was only wounded by the shots of the riflemen and was killed by blows from their rifle butts. All the bodies were burned in the outskirts of Ekaterinburg.

LIKED FRENCH GIRLS.

Married "Over There."

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—Ten thousand American soldiers have married French girls already since the war began, and more are expected to follow, according to the Rev. Dr. Charles Stedman McFarland, Chaplain, who has returned from the war zone. Dr. McFarland made the statement in an address before two hundred members of the New York Advertising Club.

It wouldn't surprise him, either, if a great many of the American boys made France their home for the future, eventually marrying French girls, as the thousands of others have already done, he said.

Dr. McFarland paid a tribute to Marshal Foch, who, he related, found time to pause during a great offensive and discuss with him the religious influences that have played a large part in the war. He said General Pershing's greatest quality was his willingness to be self-effaced, to let his subordinates have the glory, and that lack of such a quality kept many men at home.

GIN PILLS AND THE SPANISH "FLU"

Everybody knows that one of the most depressing and dangerous complaints resulting from the attack of Spanish Influenza — is weakened kidneys.

Hundreds of persons are now suffering worry and annoyance from Kidney disorders because they failed to remedy the detrimental effects left by the "Flu."

But there are other people who are not suffering—they are the people who used Gin Pills and restored their kidneys to their proper state of health again.

From all parts of the country letters in large numbers are coming in to us stating that Gin Pills have proven just the remedy required. They strengthened the weakened kidneys and banished annoyance and worry.

Gin Pills have always been accepted as the universal remedy for Kidney or Bladder Trouble—now they make good again, as the best remedy for after the "Flu" convalescence.

If you have suffered from the "Flu" try Gin Pills and safeguard yourself against the possibilities of more serious kidney disorders.

RUSSIA REFUSES TO TAKE OVER CAPTIVES BACK FROM GERMANY

Million and Half Prisoners Returned By Berlin Are Stopped at Frontier.

LONDON, Dec. 5. — The Russian Government has refused to admit 1,500,000 Russian soldiers who have been prisoners in Germany and has turned them back at frontier, according to a Berlin despatch to Express under date of Monday. The incident is serious for Germany because of the necessity of feeding these men.

It is reported that the Russian prisoners have seized four ships at Danzig, West Prussia, which the British Red Cross had obtained from the Germany for the purpose of housing British prisoners.

MAYOR MAKES PROTEST

OBJECTS TO SENDING DISEASED SOLDIERS TO PRISON

Halifax, N.S., Dec. 5. Mayor Hawkins objects to the military authorities sending soldiers to the city prison who are suffering from venereal diseases, and he has a dispute on at present with them over the matter. A man was sent to the prison for nine months who had escaped from the military hospital. The Mayor ordered him out of the prison and sent him under guard to the hospital. They refused to admit him and he walked off and is now at large. The authorities object to this but the mayor stands his ground and invited them to go ahead and do anything they consider proper.

Spanking Doesn't Cure

Don't think children can be cured of bed-wetting by spanking them. The trouble is constitutional, the child cannot help it. I will send to any mother my successful home treatment, with full instructions. If your children trouble you in this way, send no money, but write me to-day. My treatment is highly recommended to adults troubled with urine difficulties by day or night. Address.

Holland May be Asked for Compensation for Violation of Neutrality

Dutch Government Prepared to Undertake the Permanent Care of William Hohenzollern and His Son.

HOLLAND WILL YIELD

Canadian Press:

LONDON, Dec. 7.—If the Allies insist upon delivery of the former German Emperor and Crown Prince to an International Court of Justice, Holland will yield, but will first urge that the Allies content themselves with an undertaking by Holland to intern them for life in one of the Dutch colonies, according to an Amsterdam despatch. Holland, it is understood, will suggest that Herr Hohenzollern and his son be placed on an island in either the East or West Indies, where he will be guarded by the Dutch fleet.

It is also anticipated that Holland will be asked for compensation for permitting the violation of her neutrality by allowing German troops to pass through the Province of Limburg on their retreat from Belgium, and receiving German ships from Antwerp. This compensation may possibly be the release of certain territory along the Belgian frontier owned by Holland since 1839. Perhaps the southern part of Dutch Limburg will be demanded. The population of this region is principally Belgian.

Victory Concert a Big Success

Col. J. W. Miller Occupied the Chair—Socks for Soldiers.

The Y.M.C.A. victory concert held in Victoria Hall last evening was one of the most successful events of the season for the association. Between three and four hundred persons took advantage of the treat, and were more than satisfied with the programme presented. Colonel J. W. Miller occupied the chair.

"Rule Britannia" and God Save the King was sung by a quartet of costumed ladies—Mrs. G. A. Perrin, Miss Lillian Eastwood, Miss Ida Sanderson and Miss Clara Kidd.

Socks for Soldiers.

The chairman gave an address on the great need of woollen socks for the soldiers, in whose benefit the concert was held. The soldiers are still wearing socks although the war is over, and the need is just as great as if the war were still on.

The Y.M.C.A. gave an exhibition of gymnasium agility on the "horse" and the poles. Vaulting, tumbling, and acrobatic stunts were also appreciated by the audience.

Fred. Brooks, with the illuminated clubs, elicited much applause.

Piano selection—Miss Ida Sanderson.

Vocal selection—Miss Lillian Eastwood.

Impersonating two men — Master Wilfred Johnstone.

Violin selection—Miss Lora Logan.

The net proceeds were given to the Peterborough Mothers' Club to purchase wool for socks for the boys overseas.

Christmas Decoration at Heintzman Hall

The massive plate glass show window of Heintaman Hall has assumed its best Christmas dress. The effect evinces well prepared thought and artistic taste, and is a strong invitation to call in and visit the beautiful interior warehouse filled with pianos and musical instruments.

The window is the eyes of business, where the best and most original of the store decorations are to be exhibited. It is a good expression of the character both of the store itself and the business management. People have learned to regard the window as such. While it is probably more difficult to make up original displays of pianos than it is of many other commodities, at the same time there is probably no other line where artistic judgment can be used to better advantage.

The variegated colored festooning in the window of Heintzman Hall, the wreaths, the ribbon idea, and connecting with the instruments furnish attractions of a decidedly Christmas character.

HEALTHY CONDITIONS PREVAIL IN PETERBORO.

Only One Case of Scarlet Fever Reported to Authorities.

The city is in a particularly healthy state for this time of year, and only one case of scarlet fever has been reported to the Sanitary Inspector for a long time. There is no diphtheria at present.

What British Will Claim

Will Ask an Indemnity From Germany of Eight Billion Pounds Sterling.

(Special to The Examiner.)

LONDON, Dec. 7.—Premier Lloyd George, according to the Daily Mail, will announce in a speech at Leeds to-day, a demand from Germany of eight billion pounds sterling on behalf of Great Britain and her Dominions, as reparation for the war. This, according to the Daily mail, is what the war cost Great Britain and her Dominions, and Britain taxpayers will be relieved of four hundred million pounds per annum by the German payment. The British claim, says the Daily Mail, has been prepared by a committee under Mr. Hughes, the Australian Premier, and Baron Cunliffe, former Governor of the Bank of England, who is one of the principal members of the committee. It adds that it is expected the report will be published Saturday.

The Daily Mail says the French claim for reparation will be infinitely larger than that of great Britain.

Peterboro Boy Will Spend His Fourth Christmas Overseas.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Burke, 263 Monaghan Road have received the following letter from their son, Gunner F. P. Burke, who states that lately he has received a number of parcels, also the Examiner, which he said was by no means the least of the good things sent him. The letter follows:

France, Nov. 15

Dear Mother and Father:—

The war is over at last, but I don't think I will be in time for Christmas turkey. It will be the fourth Christmas for me out here, but it is all in one's life. I sent you a pocket prayer book which I carried for the last twelve months, also a little white heather which I got in Scotland last month. I received a parcel of goods from you, containing underwear, cigarettes gum and your letter containing the French money. I have travelled some since I left Peterboro. I have seen old London twice, Scotland last month and except poor old Kaiser Bill. We are stopping with an old Belgian lady who went wild with delight when peace was declared. She ran around kissing everybody. We are just outside the famous town of Mons where the biggest retreat began in 1914. That was when Fritz was in his prime, but he has changed his mind since then. Best regards to all at home, and wishing you a merry, merry Christmas,

Your loving son,
Gunner F. P. Burke,

Work Among Shantymen

Field Secretary of the Shantymen's Christian Association Here.

Rev. Thos. Joplin, field secretary of the Shantymen's Christian Association, is in the city in the interests of that most important movement, and is staying at the Y.M.C.A. The tenth year of the Association's work has been a very busy one among the lumber men. The eighteen missionaries of the Association visited 545 camps and ministered to 30,256 men. The Quebec camps were visited for the first time during the past year and good work was done there.

In August, 1914, the German colonies had an area of 1,154,220 square miles. Practically all have been lost in Germany's bid for world-dominion. Their area is far larger than that occupied by her and her allies in Europe, as this chart, in which they colonies are drawn to scale and superimposed upon a map of Europe, shows. Were they returned there is no security that they would not be used as bases for piratical warfare. As Mr. Balfour says, in no circumstances is it consistent with the safety, security, or unity of the British Empire that they should be returned.

GERMANY'S LOST COLONIES COMPARED WITH EUROPEAN AREAS.—The above interesting map is published by "The Great War" and is most timely in view of the discussion as to what is to be done with the former German colonies.

Britain's Day in the United States

Many Special Events Feature the Occasion—British Naval Men Take Part.

WARM GREETING

Special to the Examiner:

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—With British flags, speeches and many special events, New York to-day celebrated Britain's day.

Prince Higassi Fushimi of Japan arrived during the celebration and was greeted with high honours by American army and navy officials.

H.M.S. Berwick, carrying veterans of many battles in which the British have won distinction in the war, was in the harbour for the festivities.

"Even in Halifax we have not felt the same real how-do-you-do spirit that we have felt in every American city we have visited," said one of the officers, with regard to the attitude of the United States toward the British.

Every officer on the Berwick saw fighting at Jutland, "the stunt," as they call it, at Ostend and Zeebrugge, in the Dardanelles or in the trenches at Gallipoli.

Welcome For Japs.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—The Government has detailed a group of navy, army and State Departments officials as honorary escort for Prince Higassi Fussimi and suit, who are arriving to-day in New York, en route home to Japan, after returning the visit of Prince Arthur of Connaught.

It is expected that the party will come here and be entertained by the Government authorities.

Generous Tributes.

Canadian Press:

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—To-day was celebrated all over the United States as Britain's day. Generous tributes to the supreme part Britain has taken in winning the world war were paid by the public and press, and with lavish displays of British flags everywhere. Special church services in honour and gratitude to Britain will be held to-morrow. "Together we have won the fight," says the New York Tribune. "Together we shall stand while generations now living shall endure."

A Red Chapter.

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—The "Herald" says the celebration "cannot be observed with enough enthusiasm to do justice to our valorous and powerful ally."

The "Sun" pointed out Germany's curious misinterpretation of the Empire, outside of one island, as liabilities rather than assets. "To the German mind, Ireland was in herself a stop to England. Canada was something to be seized by the United States at the first opportunity.

"German conspiracy in Ireland failed, Canada, quite neglecting the Yankee peril that the Kaiser talked of to his dentist, sent to France men who wrote at the second battle of Ypres perhaps the reddest chapter of courage in all the war, and other Dominions responded with utmost enthusiasm."

Fifty Men Employed on St. Railway Work

Alderman Says it is Inconsistent of Labour Men to Protest Against This Extension When Many Men Are Idle.

AN EXPLANATION

"I should think the Labour men would be consistent," said an alderman this morning referring to their resolution opposing the present extension of the street railway. "They are surely not opposed to fifty or more men getting work at this season of the year when there is nothing else for them to do. This was the only street railway work planned to such an extent that a beginning could be made at once. I am told that there are more than fifty men working on this line, and the Labour men surely desire the employment of those who have been thrown out of work."

In justice to the Council a belated explanation should be made of the circumstances that caused the rejection of the resolution to hold the aldermanic nominations at night instead of at noon. The by-law had been passed following its three readings. It was then that Ald. A. A. McIntyre proposed his motion, but it was stated that this would entail the rescinding of the by-law just passed, the amending of it or the preparation of a new one, and another meeting of the Council to pass it. And it was desired that the question be disposed of at once in order that all the preparations for the elections would be complete as early as possible.

SHOP EARLY

Christmas is only seventeen days away. Take three Sundays out of this and you have fourteen days left in which to do your Christmas shopping. You help yourself when you do your Christmas shopping early, and incidentally help the merchants and the army of clerks that has been mobilized to serve you. In addition days left in which to do your tion of goods, and that alone is sufficient reason why you should shop early and avoid the rush.

GERMANY ADDRESSES A WAIL TO DENMARK REGARDING FOOD

Present Food Supply is a Third of Normal—On the Verge of Famine.

WITHOUT COAL

Special to The Examiner:

COPENHAGEN, Dec. 7.—Germany has sent a note to Denmark, declaring that she is on the verge of famine.

"It is necessary that we greatly reduce our rations up to February, when our cereals will be exhausted," the note said.

"The present supply is a third of normal.

"Austria has not food enough to last a month. Vienna is without coal. It will be necessary shortly to cease railway traffic, put out street lights and close numbers of schools and shops."

FRANK JENNE SAYS:

"A gift with a personal touch." That's what really counts in the Christmas gift—the "personal touch" carries the joy of Christmas right into the heart of the recipient. Your gifts will lack this charm if you leave the choosing of them until the "eleventh hour." Begin now, choose your presents with discrimination—and for gifts for men "Come to Me."

Will Publish War Documents

Will Convict Former Kaiser of Starting the War.

Special to the Examiner:

MUNICH, Dec. 7.—Kurt Eisner, head of the Bavarian Government, has promised the Bavarian Council that he will public War Office documents, with marginal comments in the former Kaiser's handwriting, which will convict Wilhelm of the responsibility for starting the war.

German newspapers report that the Soldiers' Council has decided unanimously to support the Ebert Saase Government.

A despatch from Berlin says that the democratic German people's parties have combined.

THE WEATHER

For the first time this season the temperature went down to below zero, the thermometer at eight o'clock last evening marking 2 degrees below. It then began to rise, and at daybreak this morning was up to 16 degrees above, and has been steadily rising since.—W. P.

COMMENT IS WITHHELD

Majority of Germans Believe in President Wilson's Good Intentions But Have Other Reasons to Fear.

LITTLE COMFORT

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

BERLIN, Dec. 7.—A summary of the address delivered by President Wilson before Congress last Monday which has reached here, is presumably inadequate and hence there has been little comment on it in the newspapers. The Germans seek vainly for comfort in the message and Mr. Wilson's programme, in which it is supposed that America and the Allies have pledged themselves that Germany will have only a shadowy existance at the peace conference.

A majority of Germans believe in President Wilson's good intentions and all their hopes are centred in him, but there is a general fear which amounts almost to a settled belief that he will be unable to force his programme through.

The Underwriters Will Meet on Friday Next

A very important dinner will be held at the Empress Hotel on Friday, December 13, when between 50 and 60 members of the Local Life Underwriters' Association will meet to discuss present-day problems. Representatives from all centres in Central Ontario will be present, and many outside speakers will be heard. Mr. R. F. Sedgwick, President of the Association, will preside.

The report of the delegate to the Annual National Convention held in New York will be heard.

Mr. A. E. Dawson, of the Imperial Life, will deliver an address on "Ethics of Insurance." It is hoped to have one of the Executive of the Dominion Association from Toronto present at the meeting, as it is the last meeting before the annual election of officers. All members of the Association or prospective members are invited to be present.

A CHANCE TO HELP.

The Christmas treat for the children of Peterborough's soldiers will be just what the people of Peterborough make it. The Veterans have undertaken the arduous task of making are the preparations, and have in addition voted $50 out of their own working funds to help the movement along, but they cannot finance the whole project. Surely no one in Peterborough would be willing that the whole burden should fall upon the shoulders of men who have already sacrificed so much for Canada.

It is an event that the citizens of Peterborough should be proud and glad to assist. The total receipts so far are, however, not sufficient to provide an entertainment that would be worthy of the occasion. Hundreds of children will be on hand and it would be something of which Peterborough might well be proud if to the fathers of the little folks the news could be sent overseas that while they are away in Germany the people at home had co-operated in giving the little folks an afternoon of pleasure and good cheer, with music, games and refreshments and a visit from Santa Claus. All that is required is the help of the citizens.

Send in your donations to the Examiner or to the Veterans' committee and help make this Christmas one that the soldiers' families will talk about in the years to come.

MORE LIKE GERMANY.

If the published accounts of the Stratford case in which a number of residents of that city were arrested on a charge of being officers or members of the Social Democratic Party, are correct, the proceedings would seem to be more in keeping with the Prussian spirit the Allies have been fighting against than it is consistent with the ideas of British fair play and Canadian justice. It is alleged that although the Stratford citizens, one of whom is a city alderman, were arrested early in October, they have not yet been granted a trial, the case being enlarged time after time at the request of the prosecution. The alderman implicated in the case, claims that he was not even allowed to telephone from the police station to his family to tell them that he was arrested. The accused were kept in jail for two days, bail being refused. Then they were remanded for a week and the Crown Attorney, it is said, opposed their renewed requested for bail, which, however, was granted by the Magistrate. On Thursday the men appeared in police court for the sixth time, but the authorities, although they have had nearly two months to prepare their case, were not ready to go on and once more the case was adjourned, this time until December 19th.

The whole affair would seem to furnish a good hunting ground for the Attorney General of Ontario. What has Mr. Lucas to say of the Stratford method?

SWAT THE PESSIMIST.

Flies, the "flu," imperial rogues and Bolsheviki are not the only pests. For instance, there is the professional pessimist, the party who "glooms" under the happiest circumstances. To him the most glorious of sunrises or sunsets are hiding places for storms. He always sees black or "blue," no matter how cheeringly vivid-coloured the outlook may be. He is the grand little dampener of hopefulness. He can always discern old man adversity in the offing and is convinced that the community, of which he is a discreditable member, and the nation generally, is walking on the edge of an abyss. He is a noxious, mischievous, destructive nuisance who spreads his mean infection with the same rapidity and deadliness as the "flu," or the fly, and he should be squashed and swatted with the same ruthlessness with which we annihilate those pests.

Just now you will run across some of the creatures as the conclusion of the war furnishes them with material on which to base their lamentations and blue ruin predictions. Their two strongest "glooms" are slump and depression. Under the most distressing conditions such wailings are tactless and altogether out of place, but at the present time there is nothing in the financial, industrial or commercial situation of this country to justify them. Canada is already on the way to a prosperity that will make all progress of the past appear lilliputian. Canadian trade, agricultural and industrial, is in for a mighty expansion. Instead of the coming of peace setting us back it is much more likely to strain our capacity to keep up with the demand of the world for the made-in-Canada and grown-in-Canada essentials and necessities. Factory, mill, shop and farm will all contribute to this demand and share in its rewards.

It is clear that for years Europe will have to draw vast supplies of foodstuffs, machinery, timber and minerals from the north and south American continents, and no country is in so excellent a position as the Dominion to take advantage of this rich opportunity. Our big neighbour's hundred millions must be supplied before the foreign markets are attended to, yet the United States is preparing for a stupendous overseas trade. Canada with but a small population will be able to send abroad for the best prices two-thrids of what she can produce. Ottawa announces that the British Government has just arranged to spend $200,000,000 in Canada for export trade, and credits equally as vast will presently be forthcoming from continental governments.

The outlook for Canada is distinctly and opulently optimistic. There will be problems, big ones too, to be tackled, problems of reconstruction and readjustment, but Canadian courage, faith and tenacity can be depended upon to solve them quite as cleverly and promptly as Currie's boys cleaned out the Boche from his strongest defences. There will be no hard times if we all pull together, cheerfully co-operating to keep tracks clear. Cultivate a sane, healthy optimism. Optimism is a builder, while pessimism retards and destroys. Be an optimist in your own affairs and those of the nation. Swat the pessimist, or better still convert him. —London Advertiser.

THE CANADIAN ARMY.

For the first time the "order of battle" of the Canadian forces on the western front has been made public, the cessation of hostilities rendering it possible to give the people of Canada this most interesting information about the army that has played such a prominent part in the victory of the allied cause. Many of the details as given out will be new to the public, and there will be somewhat general surprise over the extent to which the Canadians have participated in the line of communication, railway, forestry and other services. The Canadian people knew that the Canadian Army Corps consisted of four divisions, about 80,000 men, the Corps troops of about 10,000 men and a Canadian Cavalry Brigade of 3,000. They knew in a general way that there were forestry, railway and labour battalions from Canada at work in France and Belgium, but the number of these will come as a surprise, as will the official announcement that when the armistice was signed the Canadians in France numbered 160,000.

In addition to the men of the Canadian Corps there are Canadian units with all the five British armies. For instance, with General Byng's third British army, in addition to the Canadian Cavalry Brigade, there is a Canadian Army Medical Corps unit, No. 3 Canadian Casualty Clearing Station, a Canadian Army Service Corps unit, the 3rd Cnadian Railhead supply detachment, the 4th, 9th and 12th Battalions, Canadian Railway Troops and the Canadian Overseas Railway Construction Corps. Similar Canadian units have done valuable work with the other British armies.

The Canadian Forestry Corps is a small army in itself and is distributed in four groups in different parts of France, and consisting of some sixty companies of foresters, many district workshops, construction companies and other units.

Miscellaneous Canadian units in France include sanitary sections, mobile veterinary sections, anti-aircraft batteries, auxiliary horse transport companies, mobile laboratories, light railway operating companies, broad gauge operating company, tunnelling battalions, field auxiliary post offices, base post offices, waggon erecting companies, an engine crew company and other similar units about which the people at home knew little or nothing. The publication of the list of units in France will be a revelation to most Canadians.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Judging by the scale of restaurant prices existing at present in Paris, President Wilson was wise in taking so many cooks over with him.

Don't put off that Christmas shopping any longer. The time is getting short and you will lose the advantage of a good selection if you hesitate much longer.

Saving is as much a necessity now as during the war. Thrift stamps form an easy way to save. Have you bought the first one yet?

A correspondent writing to the Examiner suggests that the members of parliament should be paid more for their services. There seems, however, to be a pretty general impression that the average member is richly recompensed for the amount of labour and mental strain he exercises on behalf of the country.

Somber, Interesting Colours for the Winter Season

Separate Blouses Are Given Attention.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—One of the most essential considerations for the selection of an attractive wardrobe is the colour of the materials which are used in its various developments. Very little, if any, thought is given by the average woman to the colour which most suits her particular style of looks and complexion. It does make a big difference if the right colour is chosen. The entire effect of a frock or any garment is lost, irrespective of its grace, if of the wrong colour. It is therefore quite necessary that a moderate amount of thought be given to the shade of the garment if the thing is to be a success.

It is with this purpose in view that an association has been formed which, with the co-operation of the manufacturers and designers of this country, intends to standardize the colour chart to be used by the trade. Previous to this time, in fact at the present time, if one goes to one shop and asks for a certain shade and then into another and asks for the same shade, the result is that each shop offers an entirely different colour. If the colours were standardized this would be avoided and much confusion concerning colours would be eliminated. The co-operation of all American women is asked in this movement and I'm sure it will be readily given.

Fringe Passes Out.

For a long time fringe was the most sought-after trimming that could be found. But like all things that have enjoyed a supreme popularity it must abdicate in favour of some newer things such as jet and wool embroideries. One quite effective but a little extreme afternoon frock which one of the importers is showing is of henna coloured duvetyn in one-piece effect and bright, very bright wool embroidery at the lower edge of the skirt, at the edge of the flowing sleeves, and around the collarless neck.

Another whispered hint of passing is the gradual disappearance of or rather the gradual decrease in sales of the short fud coatees. These have been very popular all summer and have been ultra smart for the fall with a one-piece dress. But women are fickle, and now as the winter sets in they are inclined to dsicard them.

Duvetyn Favoured for Hats.

More and more has the millinery trade been using cloth, such as broadcloth and duvetyn, for hats. And now one of the most desirable and smartest hats is developed in duvetyn. When this material is used, the shape is invariably small as the material lends itself more readily to draping over a turban.

Fur and flowers! And indeed this makes a remarkable prety combination. The sales of hats of this combination have been tremendous. They seem to appeal to the most discerning taste. The flowers bring out all that is soft and beautiful in the fur and render it silky and likable to look at. Just think of a modest little squirrel tam with a still more modest flower perched quietly on the small brim.

British Army Feeding Hungry

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY OF OCCUPATION, Dec. 4.—The British army is rendering great assistance to devastated and impoverished Northern France and Flanders. During November the army furnished to the American Commission for Relief in Belgium 20,000,000 rations, which were badly needed, for quick distribution among the hungry people.

This aid come at a time when the commission was unable to get provisions through speedily enough from Holland. British officers and soldiers are also giving largely from their own stores, and the British army is providing great quantities of kerosene and candles for the homes and shops otherwise darkness would prevail in most of the towns.

Succor of a different sort, but equally valuable, is being afforded by transportation of the refugees. This timely aid saved many who would otherwise have perished by the wayside.

One seldom passes a lorry nowadays without seeing it jammed with refugees, both French and Belgian. The Governments tried to prevent the refugees from returning to the devastated districts, but they preferred their own communes, even though ruined, and so the pitiful procession continues its cruel march to the only place the people know as home.

LILLE-BRUSSELS RAILWAY

Repair work on the highways and railways in the British zone is being rushed with amazing results in remedying the destruction wrought by the Gemans in their retreat. The railway between Lille and Brussels will be opened on Dec. 7, and the reopening of other lines will soon follow. The relief commission's trains will have precedence over other trains, after military traffic.

BRITISH WARSHIPS ARE ON THE WAY

Canadian Press:

LONDON, Dec. 7. (British wireless service).—The Councils of Livonia, Esthonia and Courland have sent an appeal to Allied and neutral Governments, urging the intervention in the Baltic Provinces against the Russian Bolshevik forces, according to a telegram from Copenhagen. The Bolsheviki, who have invaded a part of the provinces, are killing and burning as they advance. Various ports of the provinces are filled with fugitives in anticipation of the arrival of the Allied and neutral warships to protect them.

The announcement was made in London early in the week that British warships had reached Libau, Lithuania.

MATTERS MUSICAL

IN CRITICAL NEW YORK.

Philadelphia Orchestra, under Stokowski, will be associated later on with Mendelssohn Choir in series of programmes.

With all the talk about the freedom of Poland, one's thoughts naturally drift to Chopin, Paderewski, Scharwenka, Godowsky, Hofmann and others. Our music, particularly our piano music, is deeply in debt to the Polish people. Though born in England, Leopold Etokowski is the son of a Pole and in Mr. Stokowski and his Philadelphia Orchestro there centres to-day a good deal of the Canadian music lovers' interest. This orchestra has attained such a high standing among the continent's first organizations that in its present entre into the New York field a genuinely warm reception is assured, as also in its coming appearance in Canada with the Mendelssohn Choir in the latter's February 1919 concerts.

Mr. Stokowski is the third conductor of the Philadelphia Orchestra, which was established eighteen years ago. He was born in London in 1882, which makes him only thirty-six years of age. He sailed for this side of the Atlantic when twenty-three, becoming a citizen of the United States. His first musical engagement was as choirmaster and organist of St. Bartholomew's Church, New York. Later he returned to Europe as guest conductor in appearances in London and Paris. Coming back to America in 1916, he assumed the leadership of the Cincinnati Symphany Orchestra from which three years later he went to the Philadelphia position.

The series of five programmes in progress in New York are with these soloists: Matzenauer, Zimbalist, Bauer, Gabrilowitsch, Samaroff and Thibaud. Mr. Stokowski has set a pace that becomes a critically exacting standard. Yet there is no doubt of his power to maintin it for as someone who speaks authoritively on orchestral music remarked "Stokowski is at home with romantic music of any period or any school."

HIS MUSICAL LIKES WERE CHANGED DURING COURTSHIP.

The charge has been laid against us Canadian that we are ashamed to own up to anyone that we really like classical music. Generally speaking, the charge is not true. Of some, it is How a certain young man got a new view of classical compositions is both interesting and amusing. Fred was a young street railway conductor who politely told old ladies where to get off to reach a certain street. He wormed his way through the crowds of strap-hangers in the rush hours good naturedly collecting their fares. Fred could whistle all the latest rags, sing the lovey-dovey hits and he just revelled in those popular productions that vaudeville artiste are paid to introduce. He was a ragtime fan pure and simple.

But our hero changed his job to one in a factory which paid him big wages In the factory he met a girl who caused his heart to go pifty-pat, in the way that love at first sight affects a youthful lover. Now you know Thackeray tells us that when a man is in love with one woman in a family, it is astonishing how fond he becomes of every other person in and about that house. Well, Fred's sweetheart's sister was a pianist who in true high-brow fashion, frowned upon and refused to tolerate any music but the sonata—Symphony—opus 23—Staccatissimo variety. Fred could hardly assimilate the beauties of Mendelssohn's songs without words and the Hungarian rhapsodies of Liszt, and yet in a few evenings he found himself beating time with his foot on the hardwood floor while the pianist performed her practice of these very works. Indeed so enthusiastically did his foot keep time that the young lady whirled around on the bench, to give him a look that duly stopped the tapping.

Then later on, of course, Fred had to buy tickets to take the ladies to a piano recital by Longlockskowski the renowned Polish artist. That whetted Fred's appetite so at Thanksgiving he took his young lady to a symphony orchestra. She went into raptures over certain "movements" that were loudly applauded. Fred found the appreciation of them contagious. Having set his mind on marrying into a musical family he decided to go to the full limit, to forget his old self, to smother out his former desire for those crude rags and jazz orchestras. His great will power conquered Before many weeks of the next year had flown Fred had bought tickets for the appearance of a famous violinist. At Easter they went to some thing else and from that on Fred and his fiance became enrolled among the regular patrons of the best in music. The subject of this sketch actually took to whistling Paderewski's minuet in G, humming the overture from Semiramide and singing aire from Paglinacci. When once the prejudice against classical music, which is usually founded on ignorance, was swept away the acquiring of a love for the best of music was easy. It came naturally. It was hastened through repeated hearings of the good works. The case is just another illustration of the truth that time and prospective sisters-in-law work wonders.

OPEN YOUR LIFE TO THIS POWER.

Those in attendance at a recent concert by a southern Municipal Symphony Orchestra had impressed upon their minds the power of music by the following, which appeared on one of the pages of the programme booklet:

"Make a large place in your life for Music, and it will bring you a priceless reward.

All the desires of your heart will come closer as you become attuned to the rhythm and harmony of life.

In the hour of rest Music will uplift your spirit and give refreshment to every faculty of your being.

In the hour of work you will rejoice in the strength and energy which Music has given you.

In the hour of jubilee Music will bring you thrills of delight that compensate for all that is dull and commonplace.

In the hour of prayer Music will quicken the aspirations of your soul and perfume your life with the breath of heaven.

In the hour of fellowship Music will blend your spirit with others in unity and understanding.

In the hour of love Music will enrich your heart with feelings that magnify the meaning of existence.

In the hour of memory Music will unseal the treasures of the past and bring a sacred glory to the present.

In the hour of death Music will speak to you of a life filled with an eternity of joy and song.

In the hour of vision Music will give power and scope to your imagination and bring into reality the things that were not.

In the hour of high purpose Music will summon the potentionalities of your soul and urge them forward to great and glorious achievement.

Such is the power of Music; to this power open the doors of your soul and there will enter into your life a greater fulness of all that makes for progress and joy.

Specks Floating Before His Eyes

When specks start to float before the eyes, when everything turns black for a few seconds and you feel as if you were going to faint, you may rest assured that your liver is not working properly.

The essential thing to do in all cases where the liver is slow, lazy or torpid, is to stir it up by the use of a medicine that will clear away all the waste and poisonous matter from the system, and prevent as well as cure all the troubles arising from this accumulated mass which has collected in the system.

Keep the bowels open by using Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills and you will have no liver trouble of any kind. They will clear away all the waste and effette matter which has collected and make the liver active and working properly.

Mr. John R. Morrison, Grand River Falls, N.S., writes: "Several months ago I was troubled with a sour stomach, and had specks floating before my eyes. I took five vials of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills which cured and cleaned my blood before any length of time. I told my friends about it and they got some, and they, too, find themselves different since they took them. I recommend your pills very highly."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Three Outstanding and Impressive Reasons Clearly Pointing to the Superiority of the Pathephone

1st It plays Records with a permanent, genuine Sapphire Ball, which NEVER has to be changed, and never injures the Record.

2nd It will play other Records as well as the Pathe. The owner of the Pathephone can also play Victor, Columbia and Edison Records. The Pathephone will reproduce them better than ANY other machine.

3rd Cabinets which are entirely different to the usual ugly phonograph box. Pathe Cabinets are beautiful pieces of Furniture, true to the best Fusniture traditions, adding a touch of distinction to ANY home.

There are many other points of superiority about the Pathephone;—let the Pathe Dealers listed below explain them to you.

A SEASON TICKET TO METROPOLITAN OPERA OFFERS YOU NO MORE THAN THE NEW EDISON

Since Thomas A. Edison perfected this instrument Grand Opera itself has been able to offer you no more than the New Edison. If the two million people who have attended Edison tone tests have been utterly unable to distinguish the artist's living voice from the instrument's RE-CREATION it is clear that no difference exists, isn't it? And if there is no difference between the artist's rendition and the instrument's then obviously the artist can give you no more than

The NEW EDISON

"The Phonograph with a Soul"

Why, then do people attend Grand Opera? Merely for the pleasure given the eye—that is the answer. So far as the music is concerned you can have just as much in your own living-room as the opera can offer. You may be a thousand miles from Broadway but you are missing nothing.

There is but one instrument which actually RE-CREATES the singer's voice with complete fidelity; the others merely imitate. And that instrument is the New Edison.

Normalites at George Street Methodist Church

Interesting Programme Provided For the Students.

The students of the Normal School were the guests of the Epworth League of George Street Methodist Church last evening at a very successful little entertainment.

The first part of the evening was devoted to a pleasing programme, in which the following numbers were given:

Chairman's address of welcome — Rev. A. J. Thomas.
Address by Miss Elson, president of the League.
Address by Mr. C. C. Parsons, superintendent of the Sunday School.
Solo—Miss Mazie Armstrong.
Reading—Miss Edwards.
Duet—The Misses Gardiner.
Recitation—Miss Winnifred Parker.
Solo—Mr. C. C. Parsons.

Amusing Contests.

Following the programme an amusing feature, comprised of contests by groups of ten, was given. This included an advertising contest, when tableaux representing different advertisements were given, a stunt contest and a conversational contest.

After dainty refreshments had been served, Mr. Wooldridge, on behalf of the Normal students, thanked the Epworth League for the splendid entertainment.

Voice of The People

Peterborough, Ont., Dec. 7, '18.

Dear Sir,— Seeing the letter from the Soldiers' Wife in last night's issue asking if anyone here had anyone in the 16th Brigade, I am writing to say my son, who joined here with the 74th Battery is with that unit and gone to Siberia. He wrote me over two months ago telling me not to worry as they were starting on their journey, and I wouldn't get a letter for some time, giving me his address, Care Army P.O., London, and as I have never heard since I even had to send his Christmas box by that address, I, too, was anxious, as I had not heard for so long, but suppose, as no one else seems to have heard, there has been no mail from there yet.

Yours, etc.,
A Soldier's Mother.

Sir,—This is the day and the hour for making people "efficient," whether they like it or not. It used to be that individuals had a national right (under God alone) to do as they pleased, provided they did not interfere with others.

Nowadays that purely negative position has been passed by, and a man or woman must now conform outwardly, no matter what he thinks inwardly about his or her individual rights and responsibility to God. He is in these days responsible to the community first, and must toe the mark. Hence prohibition, race-control, eugenics, education, consent, child - control, public ownership, license, etc., etc. The inquisition was formerly a religious one. It is now a moral and economic one. Efficiency not of individuals but of communities as a whole is the sole idea, so that in the race (for what?) we may win. We are becoming more like prize horses, hogs or cattle every day. There will be soon no need or right of self-control. We shall all be controlled from a central office. But let us beware of "prohibiting" the wrong people and the Creator into the bargain. More good jobs for the "good" boys.—Yours truly,

'Ow I 'ates Patronage.

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

TOMMY'S AND DEPENDENTS PAY

The following is one of the reasons why some of Tommy's and his Dependents pay is sometimes late.

Scene—Pay Office "Somewhere in Canada."

Time—8:30 a.m. Enter Lady Clerk. The Officer in charge looks at his watch.

"Yes," says the Lady Clerk, "I know I am a little late but you see I had to manicure my finger nails this morning."

She takes off her hat and coat and then opens her vanity bag and looks at herself through the mirror inside to see if her hair is all right. Then she goes to her seat at the desk to start work Bu she looks a the girl next to her and then this generally happens.

'Hello! May, how did you like the show last night? Wasn't the dresses lovely?"

Just then the orderly comes in with a bundle of papers in a hurry.

"All right," says the Clerk, "put them on the desk, I'll see to them in a minute."

"Yes," she continues to the other girl, "talking of dresses, I think I am going to get a brown this spring."

And so this kind of conversation goes on till the orderly returns for the papers only to find them as he left them.

"Gee," says the Lady Clerk, 'I wish he would not keep bothering me."

Then she gets up from her seat and reaches her vanity bag and goes to the cloak room and puts a little talcum on her face and a few other finishing touches, and then it is dinner time. After dinner she may look through a few documents if she has nothing to talk about and then goes home "tired out." Now I do not say all these lady clerks are alike. I know some personally, that are good workers. But I know the above kind of "work" is done in some of the Pay Offices, and that is one reason Pay and allowances are sometimes delayed

Yours,
HAD SOME.

P. S.—Another point I would like to mention, is one concerning the condition the soldiers will want changed when they all return. The men have been "over there" and seen life as it really is. They will have a broader view of things when they come back I don't suppose they will want a lot of fuse, but when they look around and see men who have made quite a nice little stake on munitions work, (in fact enough to live on all winter) it will set them wondering why some of these, who would rather make munitions than use them, were not "over there" with them. But for goodness sake don't let us see "Tommy" in a line up for the soup kitchen or getting "pinched" for vagrancy while looking for work.

Street Railway Plans Should be Based on the Needs of the Greater Peterboro of To-morrow

The discussion that buzzed about the extension of the street railway on the Monaghan Road this week emphasized the need of a clear statement of Peterboro's transportation problem. It must have surprised many citizens to learn that the City Council and the Board of Trade were neither working together nor in harmony on the street railway question. The Council was evidently committed to the plans outlined by the Hydro-Electric Commission's engineers who made a survey of the local traffic conditions several years ago. The Board of Trade, however, have made an investigation of their own, and were about to submit their recommendations to the Commission, when Ald. Edgar's protest against the Commission's neglect of Peterboro's needs precipitated the undertaking of the extention on the boundary. It is, of course, evident that such lack of team work, of that "all together" spirit, is not conducive to the best interests of the city. Whatever lines are built, they should be the unanimous expression of the city's vision of its development, fostered by the most effective use of its street railway. And it seems obvious that the wisest course is to acquaint the people of the plans in prospect, that they might thoroughly understand the transportation problem and the solution that is to be applied. If the Hydro-Electric Commission has mapped out a system of extensions it should be published in detail, and similarly the Board of Trade's suggestions should be presented to the citizens. A very desirable object is the awakening of the public's interest in this and other questions pertaining to the city's growth and expansion, and the fact that they have been obscured by the all-absorbing progress of the war prompts their restatement.

Peterboro has already committed one egregious blunder by neglecting to lay double tracks on the paved parts of Charlotte and George streets, and this lapse should be a warning that further development be based on carefully considered plans.

The needs of Ashburnham present one phase of the general problem, the Normal district is also without a service, and the extensions in the south end offer another and urgent detail of the scheme that should be planned for the entire city. It need not be repeated that in the rush hours the C.G.E. and Charlotte street cars are always overcrowded, causing delays at transfer corners and along the routes that retard the service. It must be recognized that the Byersville district contributes largely to the revenue of the street railway. Furthermore, it is generally believed that the city will continue to grow in that direction. Hence, any plans for extension must include a better service for the south end.

Again, there is a pressing demand for a line that will tap the area adjacent to the De Laval factory, and it has been proposed that the C.G.E. line should be run down Park street instead of turning west at R. C. Braund's corner. It is, of course, dependent upon a line down the Monaghan Road to Byersville. The Park street course has two more railways to cross, the main tracks and sidings of the G.P.R., and the G.T.R. to Port Hope.

Simply as a tentative suggestion, would it not be desirable to retain two lines to the populous and growing district of Byersville, although two widely separated districts, and lay a new line on Aylmer street, south from Charlotte street to Romaine, turning west to Park south, past by the De Laval and east to link up with George street. The Lansdowne street loop would have the additional merit of giving a splendid service to the Exhibition Grounds Furthermore this branch would avoid the unnecessary deviation to the corner of Park and Charlotte streets, and give a direct service up-town. It would require extra cars, of course, but it should open up new patronage. It would cross two railways, but there is a flag man already stationed at the C.P.R. Other obstacles may perhaps arise but the idea may help to direct attention and thought to the scheme which must eventually be decided upon for the south end.

It should also be recognized that the only way to George street from the south west, west and north west districts is by way of Charlotte street. This is congestion with a vengeance and transportation problem glimpsed in perspective ten or twenty years hence would surely be helplessly involved if this is the only connection. The Park street and Charlotte street cars must continue to use this connection to George street, and as the business on these lines increases there will be less accommodation for passengers who transfer from the Jackson Park cars.

Another problem will certainly materialize out of the settlement of the extensive area south of the G.T.R., between Park street and the Monaghan Road. It reaches down to the river, and already comprises several growing communities that are steadily attracting home seekers. It is safe to predict that if Peterboro continues to grow industrially in the next decade as it did during the last ten or fifteen years that this southern annex will be largely built up. These are problems for the future, but it would seem wise to make the present extensions mere links in the system that must contemplate a greater Peterboro.

INFLUENZA CAUSED 350,000 DEATHS

Insurance Companies Hard Hit by Epidemic—Government Liabilities.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Between 300,000 and 350,000 deaths from influenza and pneumonia have occurred among the civilian population of the United States since September 15, according to estimates yesterday by the Public Health Service. These calculations were based on reports from cities and States keeping accurate records, and public health officials believe they are conservative.

The epidemic still persists, but deaths are much less numerous, according to reports reaching here. A recrudescence of the disease now is occurring in many communities throughout the country, but this is believed to be sporadic, and not to indicate a general renewal of severe epidemic conditions.

Insurance companies have been hard hit by the epidemic, Government reports indicate, although there are no figures available here to show the total losses sustained by these companies. The Government incurred liabilities of more than $170,000,000 in connection with life insurance carried by soldiers in the camps, not including those in Europe. About 50,000 deaths occurred in the camps in the United States, War Department records show.

COAL IS ALL SHIPPED.

Consignments for Northwest Went by Great Lakes.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—Lake shipment of coal to the northwest which was about 300,000 tons behind schedule, November 22, has been virtually completed the fuel administration has announced. The last consignments of bituminous coal were said to be on the water and by the end of the week the last of the anthracite shipments will have left the mines.

THE BEGINNING OF THE WAR

(By a Peterboro Boy.)

The following article was writ en by George Geary, 667 George Street, a boy of twelve years old. It was written for the "Lone Scout" Magazine of Chicago and is only of a number of articles:

THE BEGINNING OF THE WAR

John Bremore lived in Belgium. One brigh morning in August he was walking down the street and as usual went to get a morning paper. He got the paper, put it in his pocket and walked home. His mother read he news for about an hour, then suddenly said "John!"

Running to her boy she kissed him, "My boy, my dear boy," she murmered.

"Mother, what is the matter?"

"Read that!" she said: "War declared on Belgium."

John was a boy scout and belonged to the cadets, so he repor ed for duty.

The town three weeks after was not quie the same. Church bells were ringing The town was in flames. The Germans were bombarding the town.

The Belgian headquarers were hree miles behind the town. John's mother had fled to England, but John stayed behind like many of his kind. One morning while at headquarters he was called. It was only two o'clock in the morning. "Can you take his to the town of Brafette," he was asked by an officer. "Take it for you country, but under no circumstances open it," warned he officer, "and if you are seized or about to be shot destroy it immediately." "On my honor as a boy scout of Belgium, I pledge allegiance to my flag and will not open it or le it fall into the enemy's hands."

Saluting, he departed. He passed through barb wire entanglements escaping with only a few scratches. When he was trying to cross a pond he was s opped by the command, "Halt! Who goes there?" "A scout, may I pass?" was his answer. Being allowed to proceed he ran for miles along smooth road towards his destination. Then all of a sudden he stopped. Something jerked his arm. I was a sniper's bullet. But he did not stop. "I must get there!" was his only though . So he ran on. His legs were weak, but it was only another mile. Could he hold out? When he was within a short distance of the place where he was o deliver the message he fell with a groan He was dead. A Belgian officer and a few guards ran forward and picked him up. The officer said that he saw him fall. "Wonder what is the matter?" The boy's hand gripped a message. The officer read:

"Germans will attack on your lef . Get women and children to safety."

Just in time, poor lad. He gave his all. John was buried awayifto all. Two days after John was buried with full mill ary honors. John war gone, but to be rewarded by his Heavenly Master in the Beyond.

To-morrow Marks Auniversary of the Great Naval Battle in Which Huns Were Defeated

To-morrow will mark the anniversary of the battle in the Falkland Islands between the German and British navies, and a special effort is being made in Lindsay and elsewhere to fittingly commemorate the occasion. Citizens are asked to fly their flags and preachers to refer to the occasion from the pulpit.

Below will be found an interesting account of how British gallantry and heroism avenged Coronel by the brilliant victory at the Falkland Islands. The story is by George Hughes, a well-known writer:

"Had the British Navy been less prepared to contest German militaristic aspirations on the sea during the first six months of the war, Germany to-day would have been the master of Europe."

Such was the remark of an American high official some months ago. Four years of war has vindicated this observation, and justified the immense expenditure of the British people upon the Royal Navy.

But during the six months of hostilities, from that fateful August day when Germany refused to accept arbitration and issued her ultimatum to the Entente nations, to well into the New Year of 1915, the British Navy had an agitated existence. While the bottling-up process was singularly complete in the Kiel Canal and the waters adjacent thereto, in the more remote seas German maritime marauders roamed in search of prey.

In November, 1914, the world heard of Coronel and the defeat of the gallant Sir Christopher Cradock. It was dire news for the Entente, and a dark day for the British nation.

Defeat of Enemy Planned.

Lord Fisher had scarcely succeeded Prince Henry of Battenberg as First Sea Lord, ere he took the first steps in the naval campaign which brought about the downfall of Von Spee and his South Sea squadron at the Battle of Falkland Islands. Rear-Admiral Sir Frederick Doveton Sturdee headed the squadron to avenge Admiral Cradock and the 1,650 officers and men who had gone to their last sleep in the blue waters of the Pacific. How he accomplished his object has been told in a vivid manner by the greatest historians of the war.

Surprise was to be the principal element utilized by the Admiralty for the defeat of Von Spee. Consequently the expedition was kept a profound secret, a wonderful achievement when the insidious and effective espionage system of the enemy is taken into consideration. Our naval ports were filled with German spies, and important news had an uncanny way of percolating through to the Huns.

The plan conceived by the British Admiralty to rid the Southern Seas of the German raiders was simple, yet audacious, and evoked the admiration of naval strategists.

Baiting the Ocean Trap.

Rear-Admiral Sturdee was given the liberty of action which would allow him to apply the plan in keeping with existent conditions. His was a game of "bluff," an allurment in the shape of a wireless message to the "Canopus," instructing her to proceed to Port Stanley in the Falklands, where, she was told, there would be safe concealment and security from the German Squadron, since guns for the new forts had arrived.

Von Spee intercepted the message as it was intended that he should. He rightly believed that the talk of new guns was all nonsense. Flushed with his success over the British Squadron at Coronel, his cunning for the moment forsook him. How easy it would be to steam for the Falklands, seize the disabled "Canopus," and, at the same time, the wireless station at Port Stanley! This done, he could sail across the Atlantic to the South African coast, and there intercept the Union Force at Luderitz Bay with disastrous results to the Allies. His plan was masterly and ambitious, but he overlooked the chief factor of sea warfare. In his eagerness to strike a vital blow at the Allied nations in the Southern Seas, he failed to appreciate the spirit of true British seamanship; and to him this failure meant defeat and death.

Von Spee Makes Fatal Mistake.

Admiral Sturdee's initial squadron was the "Invincible" and the "Inflexible," two battle cruisers, displacing 17,250 tons, and having a speed of 27-3 knots; the "Carnavon," 10,850 tons, and 22-3 knots; the "Kent" and the "Cornwall," each 9,000 tons, and a speed of 23 knots. At sea, this force was joined by the light cruiser "Bristol," which belonged to the West Atlantic Station; and the armoured liners "Macedonia" and the "Glasgow."

On the morning of Dec. 7th, the British Squadron arrived at Port Stanley, which lies at the eastern corner of the East Island. The Falklands, with their brown moors, shining with quartz, their innumerable lochans, and their Scotch shepherds, are a striking simile to the Outer Hebrides of the Orkneys, transplanted to the Southern Seas. Port Stanley is a deeply indented gulf, leading into an inner harbour. The low shores on the south side allow vessels escohced therein an excellent view of the outer sea.

December the 7th had been spent by the British Fleet in coaling and making ready for the grand finale. The "Canopus," the "Bristol" and the "Glasgow" were in the inner harbour; the "Invincible," "Inflexible," "Carnarvon," "Kent" and "Cornwall" in the outer gulf.

Dawn had barely awakened on December 8th, before Von Spee arrived from the direction of Cape Horn. Ever wary, he sent one of the light cruisers ahead to reconnoitre, and this vessel reported the presence of two British ships, probably the "Kent" and the "Macedonia," the first ships visible on rounding the islands.

But here Von Spee blundered. He misjudged the two ships as the remnant of Cradock's ill-fated squadron, fled for concealment and recuperation after the Coronel defeat. Intent on making a speedy annihilation of the presumed refugees, the Germans advanced in line, the "Gneisenau" leading. She was followed by the "Nurnberg," the "Scharnhorst," the "Dresden," and the "Leipzig."

The Germans Trapped.

At eight o'clock the British lookout signalled the presence of the enemy. It was a clear, glorious morning. Orders were given to get up full speed, and the battle cruisers raised a smoke screen with oil fuel that destroyed the visibility for the German outlooks.

At last Von Spee arrived abreast of the harbour mouth, and was for the first time able to note the strength of the British Squadron. It was then that he realized how he had been deceived. He saw that flight was his only hope of escape. He turned, and made off, with the British ships close behind.

At 11 o'clock, eleven miles separated the combatants, and at 12.55, the British opened fire on the "Leipzig," which was at the rear of the German line. The German commander had long recognized the hopelessness of his position. He prepared to give battle. The "Invincible," the "Inflexible" and the "Carnarvon" engaged the "Scharnhorst" and the "Gneisenau." But the dense smoke from the funnels of the enemy ships obscured the view, and the British were forced to use superior speed to get to the other side of their antagonists. A terrible batle ensued, in which the "Gneisenau" and the "Scharnhorst" were crippled and sunk.

The Last of The Huns.

Meanwhile the "Kent," the "Glasgow" and the "Cornwall" hotly pursued the "Nurnberg" and the "Leipzig." The weather had turned thick and rainy, and poor visibility badly handicapped the British gunners. Of slightly superior speed were the ships of the enemy, but the magnificent work of the British engineers and stokers negatived this advantage; and that night the "Nurnberg" and the "Leipzig" fell prey to British prowess. Only the "Dresden," limping away into the wastes of the South Atlantic, remained of that proud fleet which had tasted the delights of victory at Coronel.

The Battle of the Falkland Islands was a brilliant piece of strategy and a credit to the skill of its creators. It was a manoeuvre necessitating a trip across the world; a stratagem at once audacious in its conception, subtle in detail and almost perfect in attainment. The sole blemish was the escape of the "Dresden."

Thus disappeared the German menace to Allied shipping. Von Spee and his men fought courageously, and due credit is given them by the victors. They went down with their colours flying, to rest in the profoundity of the ocean, with brave Cradock and his men, for all time.

ALADDIN'S MAGIC HAS NOTHING ON THIS OHIO WIZARD

Discovers drug which loosens sore, touchy corns so they lift out

You reckless men and women who are pestered with corns and who have at least once a week invited an awful death from lockjaw or blood poison, are now told to use a drug called freezone, which the moment a few drops are applied to any corn, the soreness is relieved and soon the entire corn, root and all, lifts out with the fingers.

This new ether drug is the recent discovery of a noted Cincinnati chemist. It is a sticky substance which dries the moment that it is applied, and is said to simply shrivel the corn without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue or skin. It is claimed that a quarter of an ounce of freezone will cost very little at any of the drug stores but is sufficient to rid one's feet of every hard or soft corn or callus.

Russia May Not be Represented

Will Have to be Drastic Change or Russia Will be Among the Missing When Peace Conference Convenes.

Special to The Examiner:

LONDON, Dec. 7.— The League of Nations is one of the most important matters to be taken up at the peace conference, Foreign Secretary Balfour declared in an interview here. He said the prominence President Wilson has given the subject has been "a valuable contribution to future civilization."

Balfour asserted that no occupation of Berlin had been arranged, and that he believed the limits fixed by the armistice would be as far as the Allied armies would proceed into Germany. He intimated that France would furnish the chairman of the peace conference.

Unless there is a profound change in Russian conditions, Balfour said, he could not conceive of Russia having any official representation at the conference.

AUSTRALIA'S DEBT IS $3,319,862,890

War Indebtedness of Country Alone Amounts to $1,227,335,030.

SYDNEY, N.S.W.— In delivering the Budget speech in the Australian Federal Parliament on September 25 last, the Acting Prime Minister of Australia, Mr. Watt, stated that the war debt of Australia stood as follows:

Australian war loans...	$ 738,650,195
Borrowed from Imperial Government ...	245,410,295
Soldiers' deferred pay ..	51,549,540
Due British Govt. maintainence of soldiers ...	191,725,000
Total ...	$1,227,335,030

Added to this prodigious debt is the domestic Federal indebtedness, amounting to $192,775,080, and the various Australian state debts, incurred from the time of responsible government until the inception of Federation, amounting to no less than $1,899,762,780. These added together comprise the indebtedness of the Australian nation, of 5,000,000 souls —no less than $3,319,862,890.

The year 1917-18 closed with a surplus of $19,525,455. Deducting this from the surplus brought forward from the previous year— $10,510,885, the actual surplus for the year is $9,-138,320.

The estimate for war expenditure for the period of 1918-19 is $500,222,-055. Of this amount, $400,000,000 is to be raised by two loans of $200,-000,000 each—the first of these loans is already being raised at the present time. The balance, which is $100,-000,000, is to be raised out of revenue.

Cure That Cold Don't Get Grippe

Take them at once when you feel the first pain or shiver—the first symptom of a cold.

Taken then, they will prevent the Grippe. Taken after it has developed, there is nothing better for the pain and fever.

Dropping Christ Out of Christmas

It is a very timely protest that is made to us about the substitution of the "X" for Christ in our use of the word Christmas. Of course it must not be forgotten that the formula began with the use of the Cross and the letters "mas" after it. But in these modern days, the Cross has become the X. Gradually our Christmas cards and banners have adopted the words "Merry Xmas" until it is rapidly becoming the exception to find the word "Christmas" used. It will not do to lose the name of "Christ" out of the name of His birthday. If we are to have Santa Claus canonized in the Sunday school at Christmas as he is, almost to the exclusion of Christ, and the motto is to proclaim Christmas with an "X" there is danger that the name of Christ will be entirely dropped out of our Christmas celebrations. As a matter of fact, this happened in one church last Christmas, where all the songs and exercises proclaimed Sans Claus, and the banner stretched across the pulpit wished the people "A Merry Xmas." Christ was not at any time praised in the entire service, and this in a church! Let us spell out the word Christmas and insist upon buying only those cards and using only those decorations that do so. The "X" may be left for its indication of the unknown quality in mathematics. It does not belong in the word "Christmas."—Home Journal.

Are You a Milk Bottle Hoarder?

Do you realize that every milk bottle you keep, when empty, helps boost the price of milk?

Glass, and particularly bottle glass, has increased in price by bounds, and is still rising.

Every breakage, every bottle you use for convenience around the house—in fact, every bottle you do not return promptly—means added expense to the dairy.

Get the milk bottles you have carelessly put aside and help keep down the price of milk.

It doesn't matter which dairy they belong to—they will be returned to the proper owner. But put them out to-morrow morning.

JAMES J. WARREN, President — E. R. STOCKDALE, General Manager

One of the Oldest Residents in Peterboro Came Here When the City Was a Hamlet

It Took Nine Weeks and Three Days to Cross the Ocean—Mr. Loughlin Nolan, Perry Street, Recalls the Early Days of Peterboro.

When it was suggested lately that Peterborough would be a city of fifty thousand population in a few years, many citizens looked wise and spoke doubtfully of the town even growing much beyond its present size. Not so with Mr. Loughlin Nolan, 214 Perry street, perhaps the oldest resident of the city who celebrates his 97th birthday on March next. He has watched, with a fatherly interest, the growth of a hamlet of a few scattered makeshifts for houses into the present city and confidently expects much greater things even before his time is up.

Days of Peter Robinson.

Mr. Nolan's memories of the city date back from the early days of the Peter Robinson settlers, and few details of the life of Peterborough have escaped his active memory.

In 1833, with his parents, he started from County Carlow, one of the smaller counties of Ireland, for the land of promise from which lumber was already pouring into the British Isles. The journey started out by the family being held up for eight days from crossing to England by a storm in which the sister ship to the one he was to sail was wrecked.

Carried Guns.

The first sailing was made from Liverpool on a three-masted West Indian trader, which carried guns in case of encountering pirates which were fairly plentiful in '33. The sailing across occupied nine weeks and three days, a fairly brief journey in those days.

Arriving at Quebec the Nolan family came by boat to Cobourg, and from there to Rice Lake by land, and latterly wound up in a woods which was later to become Peterborough. There were then three log wood stores where George street now stands, and a few log huts in isolated spots. The present situation of the Y.W.C.A. was a swamp.

The City Hall.

Any municipal affairs were transacted in a roughly built log hut where the market now stands. This building acted as market hall and city hall. The few supplies which were ever on hand were brought to the three small stores by waggons, the drivers of which were in constant fear of meeting wolves in the dense and lonely woods by the trail.

Any church services in the days of '33 were held in private homes for a long time before a tiny log church was built near the greater number of houses. Of the first church Rev. Father Cowley was priest.

A 1,000-Acre Farm.

Mr. Nolan's father settled in Douro on a 1,000-acre farm which is still partially occupied by his heirs. Only last month, though 96 years of age, Mr. Nolan walked to his farm on the old site, a distance of ten miles, and felt no ill effects. Though he has seen the reigns of five English Kings, he hopes to remain long enough to see many mores years of the reign of the fifth sovereign, King George.

Mr. Nolan retains every faculty, and is delighted to hark back to the past, and give details of the founders of the city. He relates with much pride the fact that Captain Charles Nolan, whose head was taken off with a cannon ball while leading the charge of the Light Brigade, was his first cousin.

LONDON CONTROLLER TAKES KING'S COAL.

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 6.—City Fuel Controller John McCallum scored what appears to be the final round in the fight for possession of more than 440 tons of anthracite coal in the Post Office and Customs House, when he received authorization from the Dominion Department of Public Works to take the fuel if he finds the people need it. It is stipulated, however, that in the event of seizure by the city the coal must be replaced in the basis of a ton and a half of bituminous coal for each ton of anthracite.

Tale of How He Slew Mrs. Hamel Convulses Court

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—Comedy and not a murder trial, with the life of a young girl in the balance, seemed to be presented the other day in General Sessions when James F. Regan, habitual criminal, confessed that he and not Elizabeth Baksa, strangled Mrs. Helen Hamel in her boarding house, No. 507 West Twenty-third Street, on February 13.

The courtroom was crowded, many women being permitted within the rail. They leaned forward, shuddering or laughing as the testimony shifted, drinking in every word of the so-called star witness of the defence. Regan insisted his name is James F. Burns, although he stated to Samuel S. Koenig in reply to a question: "Anything that suits you, suits me."

Regan's replies in many instances were flippant, his manner arrogant. At times he was rude in answering questions asked by Alfred J. Talley, Chief Assistant District Attorney. He snapped back answers on many occasions, declining to reply on the ground of self incrimination. Regan admitted few damaging charges, blaming crimes on "pals," whose names he refused to divulge.

Regan, many times a convict and with bench warrants awaiting him when his present term of ten years is completed, yawned amid many of his replies and posed an actor in a very light comedy. There was a craning of necks to get a glimpse of the criminal as he was led to the stand.

"Nothing Much" in Religion.

Asked his religion, the witness replied that it was "nothing much of anything." A discussion between Mr. Talley, Charles Firestone, counsel for Regan, and Judge Otto A. Rosalsky, before whom the case is being tried, halted the proceedings for several minutes. Regan leaned far over and attempted to learn what the discussion was about.

Regan told how he had written to Judge Rosalsky, hinting he could clear the Baska girl, and how he was questioned after his arrival from Auburn prison. He named those present during the inquisition, especially Dr. V. P. Garrison, who observed him.

"I ought to know the 'Doc,' for I went through his place once," Regan said.

Regan nonchalently told how in Brooklyn, early this year, he struck down two women when they found him plundering their homes.

"I touched off the house of a minister next door to Judge Dike in Brooklyn," Regan said, "and I would have touched off the Judge, only he was home that day."

"I suppose your conscience smote you and you decided to tell what you knew about this murder case?" Mr. Talley inquired.

"Well, I don't know whether I've got any conscience," Regan replied. "Anyway, I wanted justice done the girl. I don't know her or her friends."

Mr. Talley remarked that it seemed worthy of comment that Regan knew the defendant's name and aliases she is allawed to have assumed after the murder.

"You get the New York newspapers in prison early every day, do you not, Jimmie?" Mr. Talley inquired.

"No such thing," the witness replied. "I ought to know, for I've been there, and you don't know, for you haven't been there."

Brings Outburst of Laughter.

Judge Rosalsky was forced to rap for order when a general outburst of laughter followed Regan's answer.

"Would you tell a lie while under oath?"

"I would if it would save me."

"What is your mother's first name?"

"I don't know."

"When were your father and mother married?"

"You'll have to ask her; I wasn't at the wedding."

"Isn't your name Leo Sellinger and weren't you for six months until your twelfth year an inmate in the Hebrew Sheltering Arms Society Institution?"

"No."

"How many times have you attempted suicide?"

"Couple of times; once in Raymond Street Jail by cutting my wrists and before that time on Hart's Island by putting a rope around my neck."

"How did you escape death by hanging?"

"Well, you see, I got the rope around my neck and it began to choke me and I took it off."

Even the defendant joined in the laughter, which Judge Rosalsky stopped by sharp rapping.

Regan told how he followed his "pal" into the home of Mrs. Hamel, and when he found the two struggling he seized a towel and wound it about her neck and knotted it. The witnesses declined many times to admit burglaries.

"Why do you admit to murder and refuse to testify to amiable little crimes like burglary and the like?" questioned Mr. Talley.

"See, it's this way: When I get out of jail for her murder, after 20 years there won't be any of these little crimes wrapped around my neck."

Questioned again about the murder of Mrs. Hamel, Regan said he and his companion seized some rings, a breastpin and money, stating he had forgot to rip the mattress in a bedroom in the house in quest of more money.

Regan said that before he consented to becoming a witness he stated his willingness to plead guilty of manslaughter. Regan on cross-examination admitted that last April he "confessed" to the murder of Harry Cohen, later repudiating it.

TOOK BRONCHITIS AFTER THE MEASLES

Measles is a disease that is very hard on children, and it generally leaves the system in such a debilitated condition that it is liable to attacks of some other trouble. One of the most common of these is bronchitis, which starts with a short, painful, dry cough, a feeling of tightness through the chest and difficulty of breathing, accompanied by a wheezing sound from the lungs.

There is a raising of phlegm from the bronchial tubes which is very often streaked with blood.

Bronchitis although not really dangerous, should never be neglected as some serious lung trouble is most liable to follow if it is.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup will loosen the phlegm, soothe and heal the irritated bronchial tubes, and in a short time the bronchitis will disappear.

Mrs. Murdock McLean, Adanac Apts., Winnipeg, Man., writes: — "About two years ago my little girl had bronchitis; took them after having the measles. I tried several cough remedies, and oils of all kinds, but they all failed. At last I got Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. After using three bottles she has never had any sign of it since. I can honestly recommend it as being a grand medicine."

The genuine Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25c. and 50c. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Hindenburg Tells Army the Nation Will Build Houses

"Hunger Conquered Us," Said Crown Prince in Farewell to His Troops—Hindenburg's Message.

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—The German Crown Prince's last proclamation, announcing his resignation from his command is published by the Tagliche Rundschau of Berlin. In this proclamation, Frederick William, who is now interned on the Island of Wieringen, having fled Holland, says:

"My army group is unvanquished by arms. Hunger and bitter need conquered us. We can quit the soil of France proud and with heads erect. Your shield, your honour as soldiers, are unspotted. * * *

Deeply moved, I separate from you, bending my head for your mighty exploits—exploits which history will relate to the coming generations with indelible characters. Be true to your leaders as before. God be with you, and our fatherland."

The Berlin Tages-Zeitung says that Field Marshal von Hindenburg addressed the following proclamation to his troops:

"The preliminary work for a land settlement on a big scale is in progress, and will be pushed forward as rapidly as the shortage of coal and of building materials will permit. The returning warriors will first receive the thanks of the country for more than four years' work in a thousand battles in which they were unbeaten.

"Hundreds of thousands of buildings will be erected on cheaply acquired land, with public money loaned at low rates to farmers, gardeners and country artisans. Houses will be built for workers, employees and officials belonging to sedentary occupations, and transferred to them on the payment of a moderate portion of the actual costs. Only have patience a little while. Help the wounded fatherland through its hardest time. Save it again by German manly discipline and order, and thus make your own future and your own happiness."

The Berlin government, according to the Deutsche Zeitung of Berlin, seriously fears a Bolshevik outbreak, under the leadership of Dr. Liebknecht, the radical socialist. The extremists are said to have a quantity of artillery and munitions concealed.

The newspaper demands that the government act energetically before it is too late, and declares that Premier Ebert and Philip Scheidemann will be responsible if one drop of blood is shed.

Premier Eisner, of Bavaria, according to an official despatch from Munich, has telegraphed to Premier Ebert and Herr Haase, of the German government, that the Bavarian Cabinet is unanimously of the opinion that a conference of the representatives of the German governments should be summoned immediately at Jena, Saxe-Weimar, or at some other meeting place to agree on a programme of foreign and internal policies. Indispensable points, it is added, include the questions of the national assembly, of the foreign ministry and the publication of documents.

Johnston Looking For Fight With Flynn or Savage

Will Try to Open Way for a Smash at Jess Willard.

Special to The Examiner:

LONDON, Dec. 7.— Jack Johnson, cabling from Barcelona, has asked H. T. Booker, the Anglo-American baseball promoter, to arrange a bout for him with either Porky Flynn or Jim Savage.

Johnson said that King Alphonse has given permission for the bout to be held in the Royal gymnasium at Barcelona. He said he had been in training for some time, while acting as manager of the Royal gymnasium, and was "in the pink of condition." He told Booker he would regard such a bout as opening the way for a return match with Jess Willard.

Booker has undertaken to arrange the match for Johnston.

CURLING CLUB HELD MEETING LAST EVENING

A meeting of the executive of the committee of management of the Curling Club was held last evening. An indication of the interest and enthusiasm of the citizens for curling is shown by the fact the membership which is limited to 140 is reached with a waiting list of 6 on hand. The waiting list will in all probability grow as the season advances.

RETIRING ADDRESS OF O.H.A. PRESIDENT

Will Perpetuate Memory of Those Who Have Fallen.

Special to The Examiner:

TORONTO, Dec. 7.—The address of the retiring president, Sheriff Paxton, was delivered at to-day's O.H.A. convention at the Temple Building and referred to the victorious conclusion of the war and the resulting benefits of hockey throughout Ontario. Mr. Paxton stated that undoubtedly the Association would take some action to perpetuate the memories of the many members of the O.H.A. who fell in action. The President paid a tribute to the late John Ross Robertson and suggested an O.H.A. monument to his memory.

Canadian Press:

TORONTO, Dec. 7. — The twenty-ninth annual meeting of the Ontario Hockey Association convened here this morning, with better prospects for a successful season than existed at any time for five years. There was a larger attendance of delegates than for many years, R. M. Glover, of Peterborough, was returned unopposed to the Presidency, but there are keen contests for other offices on the executive. The results will be known later. The Marsden amendment to allow two substitutes instead of one met with much opposition, but the proposal to arrange a consolation series for those defeated in the first round was greeted with favour, as was also the amendment giving clubs the right to reserve players at the end of the season. A balance of $2,500 cash and $5,000 victory bonds were reported in the treasury.

WHAT TO KNOW ABOUT STEAM HEATING APPARATUS

The general directions for operation of steam heating apparatus are alike. Particular directions for each make will be supplied by the manufacturers.

Examination of Boilers.

See that the boiler is filled with water so that it shows at the proper level in the gauge glass at the upper front side of the boiler. Do this before starting the fire.

Air Valves.

See that the air vents on the radiators operate properly, viz., that they open when the radiators are cool and that they close when the entire radiator is heated.

Firing.

Watch your drafts. Keep the fire under perfect control. Excessive steam pressure is wasteful. Any system should operate at not more than two pounds pressure, and many at less. Operate at as low a pressure as possible to heat the radiators.

Turn off the steam in radiators where not required, and when heat is not wanted. Be positive that the valve is closed tight when turned off; don't leave partly open.

Covering.

See that you boiler and pipes are properly covered with asbestos or other material. You will get better results and save money.— See that the steam gauge is in good working condition.

Remember the clean-out doors, and why they are there.

Study the "General rules for firing."

Naval Officer Who Obeyed Fatal Order

Admiral Markham, Unwilling Actor in British Tragedy in Mediterranean.

A few lines in Canadian newspapers a while ago chronicled the death in England of a man who played a prominent, though unwilling and unresponsible, part in one of the greatest disasters that has ever occurred in the British Navy. The London papers devoted considerable space to the career of Admiral Sir Albert Hastings Markham, who was in command of the battleship Camperdown when she rammed and sank the flagship Victoria with 336 men and 23 officers, including Sir George Tyron, the Commander-in-Chief of the Mediterranean fleet, June 22, 1893.

The fleet was at manoeuvres off Tripoli, on the coast of Syria, when Admiral Tryon gave an order that was impossible of execution without bringing the two ships together. Admiral Markham realized the danger and hesitated to obey, believing the mistake would be recognized by his superior and rorrected. Instead Admiral Tyron signalled sharply to enquire what the commander of the Camperdown was waiting for. The order was carried out, and the collision followed. Both ships were badly damaged, the Victoria rolling over and sinking in a few minutes. The Camperdown managed to reach port.

Admiral Tyron assumed all blame for the disaster, and almost his last words as his ship went down were in exoneration of Admiral Markham. One of the findings of the court-martial that enquired into the case was regret that Admiral Markham did not adhere to his first inclination and call his superior's attention to the apparent error; at the same time the court said it realized that in the interest of naval discipline he could not well have done otherwise than he did. It absolved him of all blame.

Admiral Markham, who was born 76 years ago, the son of a naval officer, entered the service in 1856. His career from that time to his retirement in 1906 was an active one and filled with adventure. He took part in the English and French expedition that captured Pekin and burned the Summer Palace. A few years later he aided in quelling the Taiping rebellion that brought fame to General "Chinese" Gordon.

Then followed cruises in the South Seas, in which hostile natives were taught to respect the white man's rule, desperate battles were fought with the Chinese pirates that infested that section of the Pacific, and the foundation was laid for England's vast trade interests in the Orient. In 1875-1876 he commanded an Arctic exploring expedition that, with one insignificant exception, pushed farther north than any other expedition till that of Nansen.

The Admiral was a man of culture and of varied interests. He wrote a number of books dealing with his explorations and adventures, and was a frequent contributor to magazines. He was intensely interested in everything pertaining to the Empire, and followed the events of the great war closely almost to the day of his death.

The Zurich correspondent of the Paris Journal reported Thursday that he had received advices that a terrorist revolution would break out in Berlin Friday evening. The revolters, it was added, would be led by Dr. Liebkneicht, the Radical Socialist, who was said to have 15,000 well armed men under his command.

The City Officials Whose Terms of Office Expire At End of Present Year

Entire City Council Will Go Out at the End of This Month—Candidate Will Have the General Vote System to Contend With—Women May Contest Vacancies on the Board of Education.

December 23rd has been named as Nomination Day for the municipal elections, and Wednesday, January 1st as Election Day.

The entire Council, consisting of Jas. Saunders, W. H. Taylor, F. H. Dobbin, John Edgar, R. N. Jones, E. Worth, W. Langford, A. A. McIntyre, A. Wier and M. McIntyre go out at the end of the present year. Some or all of the present councillors are expected to run again. Under the General Vote System, which is in place of the Ward System, the five aldermen with the highest majority will remain for two years. Mr. W. H. Moore, whose term expires with the Utilities Commission, will run for another term.

BY-LAWS

As yet City Clerk Armstrong has not been informed of any by-laws to be voted in.

BOARD OF EDUCATION

"We will leave it to the electors of Peterboro whether or not women will be included in the 1919 School Board," a prominent member of the Women's Council told the Examiner to-day. As yet the candidates have not been named, but the matter will probably be dealt with at the next meeting of the Council of Women. Members of the Council who have been mentioned as probable candidates were non-committal as to whether or not they would accept the nomination, but it was gathered that they would not refuse when such important issues are at stake as are before the Board next year. The change in educational system and the increased accommodation are two of the more outstanding questions for 1919.

RETIRING MEMBERS

The retiring present members who will run for re-election for 1919 are Mr. R. Denne, Mr. G. N. Gordon, Mr. V. Eastwood and Mr Fowler. Those who will remain another year are Dr. F. C. Neal, Mr. J. W. Worth, Mr. J. M. Greene, Mr. E. G. Patterson, Mr. G. O. Cameron and Mr. T. McGrath

Mrs. Warner Forced by Raiders Into His Room

Evidence Adduced in Divorce Action—Co-Respondent Visited Mrs. Warner's Home When He Had a Highball.

MINEOLA, L. I., Dec. 7.—Harry F. Holbrook, co-respondent in the Warner divorce action before Justice Scudder, testified that raiders forced Mrs. Charles B. Warner into his room in the Goshen Inn. He admitted he was very fond of Mrs. Warner, that he hoped she was fond of him, and that it was at his suggestion that their names were not on the hotel register of the Grand Hotel in the Catskills. He added that he had used false names because he did not want any further gossip about Mrs. Warner and him and thought that the local newspapers might publish the names on the register.

"You admit there was gossip about you and Mrs. Warner?" said Isaac Oeland, counsel for Mr. Warner.

"Yes," replied the witness, reddening visibly. Later he added that he never went to the home of Mrs. Warner unles he had had a highball.

After he had met Mrs. Warner on the Great Neck Golf course he visited at her house, Holbrook said, and late in the summer remained overnight several times. Mrs. Warner on one occasion washed two shirts for him, he said, to save him taking them to town.

Holbrook said that he did not understand why Mr. Warner, father of the plaintiff, had grabbed him by the throat when he was found in Mrs. Warner's home. He went away from the Warner house right after the incident, he said.

"Mr. Warner did not throw me off the porch, as he has testified here," Holbrook said. "He is an old man, and I grabbed him by the hand and he quit within a minute and walked away."

A few days afer the encounter the party was arranged for Goshen, Holbrook said.

Holbrook said he was married, but was not living with his wife. She was with him when he first visited the Warner house, in December, he said and they stayed until half-past five o'clock the next morning.

"Did your wife ever go to that house again after that night? asked Mr. Oeland.

"Not with me," was the reply.

Holbrook admitted that he had met Mrs. Warner twice at the Hendrick Hudson apartment house in Manhattan in an apartment leased by a Mrs. McClure. Mrs. Warner telephoned for him, he added.

Holbrook said he had called Mrs. Warner "Louise" soon after he met her and she had called him "Harry." But he said he never had been unduly friendly with Mrs. Warner, never called her "dear" and she had never called him "dear"; he had never put his arm around her, had never had his arm around her, had never rubbed her forehead on a couch at Kensington, the Warner summer home, had never been in her bedroom, she had never been in his, and that her clothing had never been in his room.

Of the raid at the Goshen Inn, Holbrook said he had retired early, the women being in an adjoining room, he said. Suddenly he was awakened by a terrific crash and jumped out of bed. The door between his room and that of the women, connecting the bath, was thrust open, he went on. Mrs. Warner was forced into the room by a crowd of men and kept there until C. M. Warner came, and she said she was his daughter-in-law.

Mrs. Mae Fickling said she had gone to the Goshen Inn as a chaperone for Mrs. Warner. She said she left the door open because she knew she could trust Warner. Her husband Irving Fickling, a partner of Holbrook in an enamelling business in Long Island City, testified that he had registered Holbrook and Mrs. Warner under false names at the request of Holbrook. He denied there had ever been anything but the most proper actions between them.

SEEKS SEPARATION BECAUSE HUSBAND LOCKED ICE BOX

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—Contending that a man who locked the ice box to keep his wife from getting food, who tore down an American flag and who insisted on keeping every window in the house shut during the summer and wide open in the winter was not fit to live with, Mrs. Katherine Hambrecht, of Hicksville, L. I., petitioned Justice Benedict in the Supreme Court, in Brooklyn, for separation from Henry Hambrecht.

Hambrecht, the petition alleges, put a padlock on his door and one on the ice box. In June of this year he tore the American flag from a window of his home, according to his wife, and told her it "ought to be put on the shelf where it could not be seen." Justice Benedict allowed $80 a month alimony and $250 counsel fees pending trial.

Need No Fats for Glycerine

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Out of the war's necessities has been developed a new synthetic process of making glycerine by fermentation of sugar in quantity at low cost, which Government officials say will revolutionize production. The secret, carefully guarded while the war lasted, was disclosed yesterday in a Treasury report.

Chemists of the internal revenue bureau worked for months on information reaching the Government in the spring of last year that Germany, by producing glycerine through a fermentation process, was able to turn out explosives requiring great quantities of glycerine in spite of the scarcity of fats. John R. Oeff is the chemist who directed the experiments which finally solved the German riddle.

The process was tried out on a large scale in a chemical plant at Aurora, Ill., and found to be commercially profitable. Then the secret was conveyed to Allied Governments and to manufacturing chemists who proposed to undertake commercial exploitation of the process.

CIVIL SERVICE FEDERATION STILL LOOKING FOR FURTHER CONSIDERATION FROM GOVERNMENT

Ottawa, Dec. 5.—Regardless of whether the average civil servant has given up hope of getting his $350 war bonus or not, the Civil Service Federation still looks for further consideration by the Government of the claims contained in its original memorial. Although no reply has yet been received to the Federation's request for a Board of Conciliation and Arbitration officers of the Federation say they have a thoroughly planned policy which they intend to follow.

What a Standard Christmas Dinner Will Cost in Peterboro

Turkey Heads the List With a Substantial Increase in Price—Dinner for Five.

Three years ago the distraught housewife reluctantly parted with $5.00 to secure something like a standard Christmas dinner. To-day with the increased cost of living $7.00 will hardly cover the same menu for a family of five. Turkey is one item, and an indispensible one at Christmas time which has increased tremendously in price in the past few years. In 1915 a respectable sized bird could be had for $2.40, while the same sized one (8 pounds) brought $3.20 on the market to-day.

PRICE OF DINNER

Taken by items the dinner this year according to a leading grocer will be as following for a family of five:

Turkey	$3.20
Dressing (Butter Flavoring etc.)	.40
Potatoes (¼ Peck)	.20
Cranberries (Sugar Included)	.35
Salad	.30
Plum Pudding	.75
Celery (One Bunch With Cream Sauce	.15
Grapes and Nuts	.60
Cream (1 Pint)	.30
Coffee	.15
Mince Pie	.25
Sweet Pickles	.20
	$6.75

DANCE AT THE CONSERVATORY

Over a hundred young persons attended the "Not Out" dance at the Conservatory Hall last evening. Most of the young people were attired in costumes ranging from Louis XIV. period to modern times. Refreshments were served during the evening.

Little Red Riding Hood could be seen peacefully munching sandwiches, with Patrika, Clancy the Irishman, with a Tennessee colored gentleman. The identity of some of the costumes was not revealed until a ring had been raised or the grease paint removed from his or her physiognamy.

Some of those whose alibis were completely established were: Miss Patterson, Toronto; Miss Maida Connor, Miss May Lynn, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Baloon Landed at Clear Lake

A couple of weeks ago an item appeared in the Havelock Standard to the effect that a couple of baloons had been seen floating over the village, to one of which was attached a steel cable of considerable length. Last week two brothers named Thompson were hunting on Cedar lake, in the township of Cashel, when they noticed a huge baloon sailing over the lake at a low altitude, to which were attached an observer's basket and a steel cable about 150 feet long. They fired several shots at it, some of which evidently penetrated it, as it immediately commenced to rock considerably, and a few days later was found on the shore of Clear lake, a few miles distant, where it now lies. The interior of the balloon is fitted with a number of small gas bags to give it bouyancy. It would be interesting to know just where these balloons came from. We were not aware that they were in use is any of the training camps in Canada, and they must have drifted across from the States. The one at Clear Lake should be taken charge of by some person, as it is likely very valuable, and will be rendered comparatively useless if it remains there all winter.

Later—Mr. G. L. Jarman received a telephone message from an American aviation officer inquiring if these balloons had been seen in this district.—Bancroft Times.

HERE'S R. L. BORDEN'S LETTERS DAY BY DAY.

OTTAWA, Dec. 7.—Some curious letters find their way to the Prime Minister's office, Sir Robert Borden's absence in the Old Country having diminished only slightly the number of freak communications. A Western man writes to suggest that the Premier endorse his note to the tune of $100. He confesses he is hard up. Another, from Ontario, claims that the late Sir John Macdonald bequeathed him a legacy of twenty thousand. He is willing to compromise with Sir Robert on the basis of 25 per cent. off. Finally, a woman down in Carolina writes that her husband enlisted with the Canadians, and is seeking divorce. She wants an inquiry as to whether he has become demented or has "fallen for" some French maiden.

TRADE WARFARE.

Former Clashes Occasioned General Losses.

"In 1888, France and Italy engaged in a trade war. For two years each country applied retaliatory duties against the other, and then for eight years further each country applied its maximum duties to imports from the other. Both suffered seriously. By the end of the decade Italian imports to France had declined fifty-seven per cent. and French exports to Italy showed a decrease of fully fifty per cent.

"More serious was the trade war between France and Switzerland in the early nineties. This war lasted for two and a half years. France applied to Swiss goods her maximum rates, which were approximately forty per cent. higher than the minimum rates Switzerland in turn applied to French goods, punitive duties ranging upward to one hundred and fifty per cent. The Swiss also, by changes in railway rates, assisted to diverting their Marseilles business to Genoa, their Havre and Dunkirk trade to Antwerp and Rotterdam, and the whole of their trans-Atlantic silk trade to England, via Belgium and Holland. In addition, they canceled their literary convention with France, which meant not only a serious financial loss to her, but the diminishing of French cultural influence, to the advantage of German thought and literature.

"France's losses in this trade war were heavy. The diversion of Swiss commerce to other countries lost to her millions of francs in railway receipts, ocean freight, and commissions. Austria, Italy and the United States gained at her expense in the sugar trade; Germany and Belgium in metal goods; and the United States in leather. Germany received half of the trade lost by France in ready-made clothing and one-third of that lost in woollen goods. Not until seven years after the close of the trade war did French exports to Switzerland equal again the exports of the normal years before the trade war.

"History is conclusively against trade wars. In so far as the Paris resolutions and the plans for the economic union of Central Europe provide for the use of the economic weapon as a war measure, they are legitimate supplements to military operations. It is when they go beyond this and contemplate organized trade warefare after peace is declared that they become dangerous. The very conception of such plans has made it clear that the military struggle must go on to a point where all problems can be settled at the peace conference. They constitute a warning against an inconclusive peace They lead to the conviction that a permanent peace can be achieved only after a decision in the field. If we can look forward only to a bitter trade conflict after hostilities cease, with the Allies on one side and the Central Empires on the other, we may expect that conflict to culminate in a second world war."—William S. Culbertson, in the November Century.

Alsace-Lorraine Practically United to France Already

Even the German Immigrants Evince No Regret for the Fallen Regime—How the Revolution Was Carried to Strassbourg.

GERMAN RULE DISCREDITED.

With the French Armies, December 9. — The general impression which I bring back from Lorraine and Alsace is that the problem of these lately imperial territories will be solved more easily than seemed possible a few months ago.

In the first place the outburst of pro-French feeling when the armies came in surpassed in extent and passionate warmth anything that had been anticipated save perhaps by a few officers and men belonging to Alsation or Lorraine families.

This was true even of Metz, where for various reasons it was least to be expected. Metz was the spearhead of Germany in the flank of her old enemy. The German garrison, it is true, had gone, but nearly if not fully half of the remaining population was of German origin, consisting largely of immigrants since 1871. Some immigrants, indeed had left, and others were preparing to leave. Still, one felt the dead hand of Berlin upon the little city.

Here had been neither possibility nor, I believe, any desire on the French side to organize a favorable reception. Marshal Petain is a figure standing apart among the chieftains of France, direct in his sense of discipline and duty. One feels in him a single directness of character and an intense personal reserve to which any pomp must be abhorrent. It was certainly in accord with his taste, as well as in regard to subsequent celebrations, that the entry into the capital of Lorraine should be treated as a strictly military event, and not a national demonstration.

GERMAN IMMIGRANTS QUIESCENT.

A very remarkable demonstration it became, nevertheless, and if we cannot suppose that the thousands of Germans present entered sincerely into the spirit of the occasion, at least they offered no dissent—not a sign of regret for the regime that had passed. They say that the French entry into Chateau Salins was a more heart-stirring affair. In general however, Lorrainers are rather dour folk themselves. Balanced against their admitted slowness to unbend is their virtue of obstinate fidelity, which has kept the flames of French culture and feeling alive through this half-century of hardship.

For those of the old French line and faith, the true Lorrainers, the occupation has brought flood of pure joy. It is to them all the victory is to us, and this besides—a recovered fatherland under a steady, just government.

The German immigrants will leave or settle down. "Our ties are here now," some of them said to me, "and coming from Metz, we should not be well received in Germany." As the Hohenzollern Empire fades into the shadows, and the founts of Prussian arrogance dry up, it may be reasonably hoped that the malevolence which has so long clouded the life of the Moselle country and from which efforts at conspiracy might otherwise have been feared, will finally disappear.

To our surprise the marks of popular rejocing increased as we went eastward. Pfalsbourg was in a very ebullient mood, and Zabern (Saverne), of unenviable notoriety, was radiant with glee. Everywhere, the French language has broken it bonds; everywhere old signs, banners and heirlooms have been brought out of their hiding places, and with them secret stores of food and goods.

Of the wonderful transformation scenes in Strasbourg I have already spoken, but it is in the thousand little hamlets of the countryside that the deepest content will be found. Gradually the young men of Alsace and Lorraine are coming back home after years of servitude in the German army or after years of free service with the French.

This is one of the new factors in the problem of Alsace-Lorraine, and it may very well prove the decisive one. Men who have gone through such an experience do not tolerate political pedantry. It is not of Louis XIV., or even of the treaty of Frankfort; it is not of fancy Constitutions or of impossible plebiscites that they have been thinking in the trenches and in guardrooms. It is peace and liberty here and now that they demand. In no sense can the Germany of to-day offer these conditions. France can give them immediately. To all but a handful of irreconcilables, in fact, the war and the method of its termination have radically changed the problem. The sufferings of the war, the breakdown of the German Empire, the vindication of French ideas—these are more important than all the earlier historical factors put together

GERMAN RULE THOROUGHLY DISCREDITED.

Berlin and the immigrants had their chance for forty-three years. The imperialism of which the Reichstag was the particular victim, is in ruins, but the German people have yet to establish their own freedom. For every true Lorrainer and Alsatian France is the liberator, while Germany is the fallen tyrant—fallen not only in defeat, but in open contempt.

They told me at Metz—and there was a like story at Strasbourg—how two sailors and two soldiers came from the north, established a Soviet and instantly obtained the surrender of the garrison and the city government. Von Oven, the ultra-Prussian governor, had been in a blue funk for weeks as the French and American troops approached. At last he determined to bolt and changed into civilian clothes at the station. He was recognized by some of the Bavarian soldiers, who chased him along the platforms and, catching him at last in the women's room, gave him a thrashing and then let him go.

Such incidents and many others may be cited, and may help even more than graver memories to liquidate a situation the difficulties of which are not comparable with some which the statesmen of the Allies will now have to tackle.

Alsace and Lorraine will require, and, under French traditions will receive, careful handling in a liberal spirit. The economic side of the problem alone presents a certain gravity. The manner of the German downfall clears the decks for sympathetic statesmanship. The old regime is disgraced in the eyes not only of the outer world but of its own people, and no nucleus of seditious agitation will remain. The great war has drawn a curtain over the distant past. The universal welcome of the French troops was the most convincing of plebiscites. The books of the age of conquest is close and the era of true peace is dawning for these long-tormented lands.

Winter Feeding of Dairy Cows

(Experimental Farm Note.)

Cows are fed in the stable during one half of the year or more and feeding during this period may, through ignorance or on account of using unsuitable feeds be made very expensive The profits from the herd will, of course, depend to a large extent on the economy of the methods of winter feeding followed.

Economical feeding does not mean scant supplies, but the using of the kinds of feeds and feed combinations that will be likely to produce the best results at the lowest cost.

As the milk produced depends upon the quantity and quality of the feed consumed, every effort should be made to supply the cow with all she will eat of a ration combining palatability, easy digestibility, variety and nutrition.

The most economical ration must have as a basis, cheap but rich nutritious, farm-grown roughages such as clover hay, ensilage and roots. The liberal feeding of meals is advisable to balance the roughage ration and to provide the heavy milking cow with an extra supply of nutrients in a less bulky form.

A pound of grain when the cow is fresh is equivalent to several pounds of grain after the cow has decreased materially in her milk flow. Feed one pound of meal for every 3 1-2 pounds of milk produced; as her lactation period progresses, decrease the meal gradually to one pound for every five pounds of milk produced.

The following are two well-balanced daily rations for the 1,000 pound dairy cow suitable to the individual needs of farmers throughout the district:—

No. 1.—Mixed hay 16 pounds, turnips or mangels 40 pounds, meal mixture composed of bran 6 parts, ground barley 2 parts, oil cake 1 part and cotton seed meal 1 part. This meal fed at the rate of 1 pound per 3 1-2 pounds of milk produced.

No. 2.—Mixed clover hay 12 pounds, corn ensilage 30 pounds, meal mixture composed of bran 5 parts, cotton seed 2 parts, oil cake 1 part, fed at the rate of 1 pound for every 3 or 3 1-2 pounds of milk produced.

All cows are not of the same temperament. On this account a study should be made of the requirements of the individual animal. In the best-bred herds, cows vary in their productive ability, therefore to obtain the greatest profit, records should be kept of both milk and feed, and tests made occasionally to ascertain if it would pay to increase or decrease the grain

Cows, in order to make a maximum production at a minimum cost, should be housed under the most favorable conditions, that is, in regard to cleanliness, good ventilation, plenty of light, with necessary bedding and occasional grooming.

A cow should have all the good quality roughage she wants, with a well balanced grain ration regulated by her production, also plenty of fresh water and from one to three ounces of salt added to her feed daily

If you keep chickens in a small run, be sure to give them plenty of green food.

As Charlie Says:—
Take plenty of Arabelas with you. What's a week-end without good cigars. Arabela is the mild ten-center.

MRS. LEWIS OF BROOKLYN

Tells How She Was Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—"For one year I was miserable from a displacement, which caused a general run-down condition with headaches and pains in my side. My sister induced me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I found it helped me very much and such a splendid tonic that I am recommending it to any woman who has similar troubles."—Mrs. ELSIE G. LEWIS, 80 Vernon Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Such conditions as Mrs. Lewis suffered from may be caused by a fall or a general weakened run-down condition of the system, and the most successful remedy to restore strength to muscles and tissue and bring about a normal healthy condition—has proved to be this famous root and herb medicine, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

THE WIFE

BY JANE PHELPS

Claude Beckly Arranges a Surprise for Ruth and Brian.

CHAPTER LVII.

By the time they reached home, Ruth had made up her mind what to do. Had it not been for Claude Beckly joining them, she would have said something about "her money" and then have been sorry afterward. She was grateful she had not mentioned it. That was the one thing she never must do if she and Brain were to live happily. Suppose he had spent it for Mollie King? If he hadn't had it, he might have run in debt again, might have borrowed it from that man Clark. So when they were getting ready for bed she remarked:

"I wish you'd ask me to lunch the next time you ask Miss King. I'll not interrupt, if you talk business, and I would so enjoy it."

"All right, I will. But I don't suppose I'll take her again for some time," Brian answered, mollified by Ruth's tone and the thought that it was only her (Ruth's) desire to be with him that had made her act as she had on the roof. She was jealous.

Yet Brian Hackett knew he had done something that he had no right to do; and, as a person who is in the wrong invariably does, he was cross and unreasonable, both that night and the next morning.

"Shall you come home, Brian, or shall I meet you somewhere?" Ruth asked, "I might come down to the office, then you would not have to wait."

"Oh, I don't care what you do! I don't see what you accepted his invitation for. The sort of a dinner Beckly'll put up won't be half as good as Crawford could cook for us."

"I think it will be nice to go."

"Oh, I'll go all right! only you'll be disappointed. What time will you come down?"

"I'll be there by six-thirty."

All day Ruth thought of Brian and Mollie King. What right had Brian to object to her working, then take what she earned and spend it on another woman? She would have a talk with him, not mentioning Mollie. She would pay all the expenses of the flat, and that would give him his money to do with as he pleased.

The rent was due the next day, so she took part of her noon hour and visited the real estate office and paid it, taking a receipt. She would lay it where Brian would see it, then when he asked about it she would have a chance to tell him. It was too much, to have him use her money for Mollie. It belittled her—and him. That was really what hurt Ruth more than the fact that Brian was with Mollie. That Brian, her husband, could bring himself to be unfaithful, and to demean himself by doing as he had, hurt. Yet Ruth in her thoughts gave him all the benefit of the doubt. She never would believe him unfaithful until she knew beyond all quibble that he had gone from her. She still believed it was his hurt pride that she had taken her life into her own hands; and more than that, his jealousy of her earning power as opposed to his that had driven him to do things he never would otherwise have done.

And in this supposition Ruth was absolutely right at that time. Neither in word or positive action, had Brian been untrue to her, although it may have looked as if he were.

Ruth dressed for the evening with the greatest care, although wearing a simple, plain, dark dress. But she was very attractive. She was so well groomed, so dainty as to gloves, shoes, etc., that more than one woman looked enviously at her; and more than one man turned to take a second look as she waited for the car to take her to Brian's office.

Brian was still grouchy, but Ruth pretended not to notice.

"Can you cash this check?" he asked her. "One of my clients came in to-day and instead of giving me the money, gave me that. It makes me tired." The check was for only seven dollars. "I suppose they think I am sending to the bank every ten minutes."

"Of course I'll cash it. You know I told you I got paid to-day."

"Well, I can't go down with the old bunch without any money in my pocket, even if Beckly is going to blow. If you couldn't have cashed it, I should have been obliged to get it somewhere—and that gives a fellow away so darn bad. Getting a seven dollar check cashed before he can pay car-fare."

"How terribly he feels the question of money," Ruth thought. "I never must say a word about mine, what I earn."

"Come on!" Brian said after he had put the seven dollars in his pocket, and Ruth had taken the check. "The dinner will be better if we get there on time."

When they went into a basement door, then to the dining-room, the noise at first bewildered Ruth. Everyone seemed to be talking at once, and I young man with a shock of black hair was pounding the tinpanny piano as, if by using his strength, he could make his music heard about the din of voices and dishes.

"Ah, here you are! so glad to see you. I caught Mollie, too, for tonight! I knew she'd entertain Brian and let us get better acquainted." Claude Beckley said ("screamed," Ruth would have declared).

"Good evening," Mollie King said calmly to both Ruth and Brian. "Wasn't it good for Claude to ask me?"

Hard Times for Idlers.

Robert Louis Stevenson once wrote an apology for idlers. It was an ingenious essay, designed to decoy the most hardened man of business to stray afield into the primrose paths of dalliance.

The world has changed since R. L. S. dreamed and idled the hours away in the shade of an adobe wall in the quaint old Spanish-California town of Montrey or from his bench in the old Plaza in San Francisco looked down upon the vari-colored life of the waterfront. In his day idleness was a personal affair. It was no possible business of the community whether a man focused his vision on the business ledger or lay on his back under a tree and followed the manoeuvres of the cloud argosies overhead. It was a man's own business if he preferred to loaf and invite his soul in pastures green or chase the dollars in Piccadilly.

But war has changed all this. Idling, shirking, inviting one's soul—call it what you will—is no longer a private affair. Yesterday a man might do with time as he pleased, and there was no one—perhaps save his wife — to say him nay. To-day time belongs to the state. To waste it, to idle it away, is to do treason. Indolence in these days of world strife and stress is another word for sedition. Laziness is disloyalty; laxity in the duties of citizenship is treachery.

And so it is "Work or Fight." This is the slogan of the Government, and the states have fallen loyally into line to back up their Uncle Samuel. In this state all able-bodied men from 18 to 50 are obliged by law to engage in some useful occupation or be fined $100 or spend three months in jail. And the loafer, the shirker, who tries to evade this mandate by trying to find sanctuary in some other state, will have his labor for his pains. There is not a square foot of land in all these United States to-day where the slacker, the loiterer, the idler, or the plain out-and-out hobo can evade his duty.—Rochester Post-Express.

Brass.

Up to the time of the war nearly all brass was made in costly crucibles of imported clay and graphite. Since the war it has been impossible to obtain the imported materials for crucibles, and manufacturers have had to put up with crucibles of much poorer quality, and at a cost many times that of pre-war prices. With the huge tonnage of brass needed for war purposes, such as shells for cartridges, manufacturers have been anxious for a solution of the crucible problem.

Pimples Broke Out All Over Face, Arms and Neck

Pimples are a sure sign that the blood is not in its proper shape.

While the skin is the seat of the irritating, unsightly pimples, the real disease is in the blood.

Medicated lotions and powders may allay the itching and the irritation, but never cure, no matter how long and faithfully continued, and the condition is often aggravated, and the skin permanently injured by their use. The disease is more than skin deep; the entire circulation is poisoned.

Burdock Blood Bitters quickly and effectually cures blood and skin troubles because it goes direct to the root of the disease and stimulates and restores normal, healthy action to the different organs, cleanses and enriches the blood, and thus relieves the system of all poisonous secretions.

B. B. B. cures permanently because it leaves none of the original poison to ferment in the blood and cause a fresh attack.

Miss E. M. Davidson Daysland, Alta., writes: "Last summer I was greatly troubled with pimples breaking out all over my face, arms and neck. I was advised to try Burdock Blood Bitters and after taking two bottles the pimples had almost all disappeared. I shall always recommend this remedy to anyone afflicted with skin troubles."

HENRY FORD IS LABOR UMPIRE

Gives Valuable Time to Settle Minor Dispute.

A VERY ODD SPECTACLE

A Man Whose Income Is Estimated at $12,500 a Minute Does His "Bit" In War Work by Arbitrating a Labor Trouble Which Involved $50 Per Hour—Took Long Time.

ONE of the queerest of the many queer spectacles daily to be seen in wartime Washington was observable there the other day—a man whose income normally is $12,500 an hour sitting in judgment upon a case where the amount at issue involves a trifle more than $50 an hour.

The case was that of Henry Ford, of Detroit, who is one of the ten "labor umpires" recently appointed by President Wilson, listening to a dispute between the owners of the HENRY FORD.

For three full hours (or for $37,500 worth of time if you want to figure that way) Umpire Ford hearkened to the arguments of the proponents and contestants. Then he reserved his decision, pending a personal investigation of the case, which he purposes to make in the West Virginia city.

The exact sum they were fighting for did not develop in the testimony, but probably they were paid 60 cents an hour and wanted 90 cents for that ninth hour they worked every day. Thirty cents extra for each of the 145 would mean $53.50 for that disputed hour.

It was a lengthy and involved matter, but it was noticeable that whenever "Mr. Umpire" stopped the flow of argument to ask a question it was right bang to the point.

Seven or eight spectators witnessed Mr. Ford's debut as a jurist.

A Preventive of Grippe.

Father Kneipp, that most worthy Swabian priest and physician, whose name and fame have spread over Europe during the last fifty years, bringing down on his devoted head blessings and cursings, gratitude and scorn in almost equal measure, tells in the 60th edition of his first book, "My Water Cure," the story of his experiences with a simple and inexpensive fumigator he had used for many years.

"Who does not know the juniper berry?

"Juniper, when used to purify the atmosphere in the home, spreads an agreeable odor and destroys all fungi.

"I always recommend the disinfesting of a room in which a patient with an infectious disease or a corpse has been lying, and also at a time of infectious diseases.

Juniper acts with similar effects upon the interior of the human organism, the berries fumigate, as it were, the mouth and stomach and ward off contagion.

"Those who are nursing patients with serious illness, scarlet fever, smallpox, typhus, cholera, etc., and are exposed to danger when raising, carrying or serving the patient, or by speaking, should always chew a few berries; they give a pleasant taste in the mouth and are of good service for digestion. They burn, as it were, the harmful miasmic exhalations, when such seek entry by mouth or nostrils. (Smokers chewing half a dozen at bed time will awake with a clean, sweet taste in the mouth.)

"The berries are also good for weak stomachs, and are also known as excellent for gases, kidney, gravel and liver troubles."

CHILDREN MUST BE PROTECTED

The children must be safeguarded, for, if they do survive the frequent coughs and colds, it is often with the lungs so weakened that they become chronic sufferers from bronchitis or consumption. Being composed of simple ingredients of undoubted value, Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is admirably suited as a treatment for children. It is pleasant to taste, so much so that children delight to take it on this account, as well as because of the quick relief it affords them.

Throwing Kisses Illegal.

Three young men were fined $10 each in Worcester, Mass., for disturbing the peace, on complaint of the management of a carpet factory that by throwing kisses to the girls employed in the mills they distracted the attention of the girls from their work, so that they fell short of 100 per cent. efficiency.

Birth Marks.

According to a French scientist birth marks in families not now of good social position indicate that they are of knightly descent, the marks being due to the fact that their possessors' ancestors wore armor.

SELECT MEDICINE CAREFULLY

Purgatives are dangerous They gripe, cause burning pains and make the constipated condition worse. Physicians say the most ideal laxative is Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut they are exceedingly mild, composed only of healthgiving vegetable extracts. Dr. Hamilton's Pills restore activity to the bowels, strengthen the stomach, and purify the blood. For constipation, sick headache, biliousness and disordered digestion no medicine on earth makes such remarkable cures as Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Try a 25c box yourself.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

"Down South"

By Augustus Goodrich Sherwin

"I can give you no work," spoke blunt John Ward to the young man who stood beside his desk. "Our clerical force is complete and the only vacancies are in the technical mechanical department, in lines you probably do not understand."

"I suppose not," retorted Elbert Marcy. "I want work, I don't care how hard or confining. I have been an auditor, but my firm went out of business. Then I had a long siege of sickness, and—"

He choked up a trifle, but brought himself erect, trying to be brave. Lillian Ward, seated just beyond her father, experienced a sorrowful thrill. She could imagine the pitiful story this applicant for work might tell. John Ward directed a keen glance at his visitor. Then he opened a drawer in his desk drew out a five-dollar bill, and pushed it across the glass top.

"I believe you are deserving," he said. "Don't be discouraged. A willing young fellow like you will strike his gait."

"Father!"

Too late; the quick aspiration proceeded from Lillian's lips. Her detaining hand checked itself. For a moment the eyes of Elbert Marcy flashed. Then they expressed a mute gratitude for the delicate motive of the fair young girl.

"I could not take money without equivalent compensation for you," he said in a quiet, but decisive tone. "I shall get along somehow. You have a good heart, sir, and it—it helps me."

"Hold on," spoke the big manufacturer, as Marcy turned to leave. "I like your grit and manliness. Sit down."

Marcy obeyed.

"You want work," he began musingly. "A thought has occurred to me. You need a better climate than this rough one, and building up. I happen to own a patch of land down South—so far down South that it's a part of the wilderness. They say, however, that the soil is so rich that a crop grows in a month, and five harvests a year. I have sent my son to the land, provided money to build a house and hire help to see what can be made of this patch. Would it suit you to join him and work?"

"I should be delighted," spoke Marcy promptly and eagerly.

"Very well," said Mr. Ward. "I will furnish you transportation and a letter to my son."

"Your kindness gives me new life," he spoke in an unsteady tone, and then John Ward, all business, led him to the cashier's desk and went into details. Once only, as he left the place, Elbert Marcy directed a last glance at Lillian Ward—reverent, grateful and irresistible. She made a slight motion of her head as if in parting blessing.

Far South, indeed, in the midst of a lonely district, always summery, but sparsely settled, remote, almost wild as the primeval forest, did Elbert Marcy find the patch of land that was his Mecca. It was to face a great disappointment. Upon the land was the lumber to build a house, but no Ward. There was only one near neighbor. From him Marcy learned that young Ward had abandoned his task, disgusted with the prospect of hard work, had taken the rest of the money entrusted to him by his father, and had gone to New Orleans to squander it in reckless dissipation.

"So here you're stranded, aren't you? All right, come over to my place and help me through, will you?" questioned the neighbor.

Marcy gladly acquiesced, but not for long. That very week a great flood swelled the river to overflowing, a bayou levee burst, and the neighbor found his entire plantation under water.

"It won't clear for a month," he informed Marcy, "too late to put in the crops. See here, you get to Riverton and wire Mr. Ward if he'll make it fifty-fifty, if you and I use his land for the season," which Marcy did, and an assenting reply came.

They put in lettuce, which had a profitable early market, and other quick-growing vegetables. At the end of four months the crop was all sold. Then the neighbor assisted Marcy in building a neat, pretty bungalow with the lumber already on the ground.

It was a proud day when Elbert sent to Mr. Ward a report of the progress made and a draft for $1,800. A reply came a week later: "Circumstances have changed with me, and I shall visit the land month after next."

How Elbert Marcy worked to decorate the little home and set out roses, honeysuckles and clematis! How lovely the little plat about the house looked the day that a carriage drove up, and there alighted Mr. Ward and his daughter.

"Oh, papa, this is home!" cried Lillian. "What need you care for losing your fortune, when such an Edenlike haven of rest and plenty as this is provided for us by this kind friend?"

It needed not the mellow moonlight, later, when father and daughter had become domesticated, nor the swaying perfume of the sleeping flowers, nor the low cadence of the nightingale, to inspire love in those two young souls, for they had loved each other all along.

And the old man's life was brightened when the wandering boy, tired of the follies and the husks of life, came home to settle down to peace and plenty.

All woollens are safe with Lux

If you have always dreaded to wash the children's sweaters and woollens for fear they'd shrink and thicken—you'll be delighted to know about Lux.

You can wash them as often as necessary—just dip them up and down in the thick, creamy, cleansing Lux lather—no rubbing or twisting—no shrinking or matting of the wool fibers

They'll always come out of the Lux wash as soft, fleecy and brightly colored as when new.

All silks and dainty fabrics can be safely washed with the pure Lux flakes—they harm nothing that pure water itself may touch.

Huns Blame Their Spies.

German newspapers are now explaining that the reverses on the western front are due to the blunders of the German spies, and they say Germany has never known how to organize her system of espionage. This is perfectly true, but it is not the true explanation of the military reverses. Foch is a better general than any German, and we believe that Haig, Pershing and Petain are also. And besides this, the Allies have the bigger and better equipped and more intelligent and more confident army. But no nation in the world ever used spies on so vast a scale as Germany has for half a century, or got so little good out of them, partly because most of the spies are Germans, and therefore incompetent, and partly because their reports are made to Germans, who are, therefore, incapable of assimilating any facts that do not suit them. The German spies collect misinformation in order to make themselves popular in Berlin, and if they send any honest reports they are treated as no less a man than the German Ambassador to London before the war was treated because his reports from England did not suit Berlin. A German can believe anything he wants to, and nothing that he does not like.

DOMINION RUBBER SYSTEM AND ASSOCIATED COMPANIES

Why Dominion Belting Gives Superior Service

Over fifty years of practical belt making to meet special demands and conditions of Canadian Manufacturers has given us a fund of knowledge and experience that will prove invaluable to every user of belting.

We have determined to a scientific exactness the kind of fabric and rubber that gives the best service in each size of belt—the degree of temperature and the time necessary for proper curing and the correct construction of each belt for a given purpose.

We have developed our Dominion Friction Surface Belt to a point where it gives a pulley grip that has proved, in competitive tests, to be greater than that of any other belt made.

Before shipment is made every Dominion Rubber System Belt is tested in our laboratory for pulley grip—tensile strength—weight and cohesion of the plies.

This "proving up" process is the "safety first" measure that insures each belt meeting the high standard for quality and uniformity set by the Dominion Rubber System.

The superior service rendered by Dominion Rubber System Belting in actual use is only a part of the service rendered by the Dominion Rubber System — we maintain a free advisory department in charge of belting engineers — not merely salesmen but technical experts who know belting and machinery requirements thoroughly.

Through our service branches these experts and the facilities of Canada's largest rubber organization are at your service whether you are, at present, a customer or not.

If you are in trouble, 'phone, wire or write our nearest branch and test our emergency service.

CODFISH WEEK.

Exports of codfish from Canada since the war began have been seriously interfered with not only by lack of shipping, but recently by submarine menace at our very doors. This has proved unfortunate because the Canada Food Board had been urging every fisherman to produce more and more. Vast quantities have been caught as a result, and now the Food Board is very anxious to have a home market for these fish as shipping will be scarce for some time to come. With this in view, it was decided to have a Codfish Week, and this week is being devoted to that splendid specimen of Canada's food fish. Every housekeeper is urged to use cod fish for at least three meals this week.

HAD WEAK and FAINTING SPELLS

Those feelings of faintness, those weak, "all gone" sinking sensations, which come over most people from time to time, are warnings that must not go unheeded.

They mean an extremely weakened condition of the heart and a disordered nervous system.

When the system is in this condition there's no time for delay. One fainting spell may be recovered from—will the next? One dizzy spell may pass off, but the next may be more serious.

Those who are wise will start taking Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, before their case becomes deep rooted and perhaps hopeless.

They will act directly on the disordered heart and weakened nervous system and restore them to full strength and vigor.

Miss Mary McCoy, Algoma Mills, Ont., writes:—"I was awfully troubled with fainting and weak spells, and I could never get any doctor's medicines to help me. One day a friend of mine was at the house when I took one of those spells, and she got me a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. That was six years ago, and from that day to this I have never had any of those spells. I would not be without your pills for any money and can highly recommend them to any one."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

The HOME CIRCLE

THE BOOK OF BOOKS

No frogran of a battle ever survived so many battles as the Bible; no citadel ever withstood so many hurricanes and was swept by so many storms. And yet it stands. It has been the rise and fall of Daniel's four empires. Assyria bequeaths a few mutilated figures to the riches of our national museum. Media and Persia, like Babylon which they conquered have been weighed in the balance and long ago found wanting. Greece faintly survives in its historical fame "Tis living Greece no more," and iron Rome of the Caesars has long since ceased to boast. And yet the book that foretells all still survives. While the nations, kings, philosophers, systems, institutions, have died away. The Bible engages men's deepest thought, is examined by keenest intellect, stands revered before the highest tribunals, is more read, sifted and debated, more devoutly loved and more vehemently assailed, more defended and denied, more industriously translated and freely given to the world, more honored and abused than any other book the world ever saw. It survives all changes, itself unchanged; it moves all minds, yet is moved by none; it sees all things decay yet itself is incorruptible; it sees myriads of other books engulfed in the stream of time yet is borne along till the mysic angel plants its foot in the sea and swears by him that liveth that time shall be no more. With Isaiah we say: "All flesh is grass and all the goodlines thereof is as the flower of the field. The grass withereth, the flower fadeth, but the word of God shall stand forever."

You know the grievances that beset your path, the shadow that hangs over your own home, the fears, often groundless ,it is true, of impending calamities that disturb you; but you canno lift the curtain that conceals your neighbors' misfortunes; the door will not swing back to reveal the skelton in heir closets; and you can not dealize tha every one is loaded as you are; and every home however, charming to the outward, has yet within, trials as severe as your own, and heart aches that would make your's seem light in camparison. We each have our own peculiar troubles as we have our own countenances and our own hobbies, and we cannot escape them.

A cheerful atmosphere is important to a happy home life. It is hard for children to be good when they are exposed to an incessant hail storm of fault-finding from their parents. It is very difficult for a wife to maintain a calm and charmingly sweet demeanor when her husband is critical or sullen, and takes all her tender efforts with difficult appreciation.

Married couples would be happier if home troubles were kept within the four walls of the home; if each would remember that the other was a human being, and no an angel, and if husbands and wives would sometimes remember that they were once sweethearts and lovers and should be so always.

You want your wife to be cheerful and brighten your life all she can. Very good and now as a help towarde this end, suppose you try to be cheerful and shed a few rays of brightness upon her pathway.

Securing Peace in War of 1870

ONE reason why the precedents established by the Franco-Prussian war cannot apply in existing conditions, especially as regards the last act in the drama, is that France held out until the people of Paris were starving. The final act of the war was the siege of the city. In the present case there is no thought that the Germans will resist until the Allies are encamped about Berlin. Nobody believes that the Germans will fight to the end as did the French. Moreover, it would be an utter impossibility for the city of Berlin to stand out for even a week against the Allied armies let alone suffer for months as did Paris. The last scene of all is likely to take place in Berlin, but the entrance into that city of Allied troops will be for the purpose of impressing the German people, to show them that the forces upon which they relied to conquer the world are beaten utterly to the dust. It will not be on account of military necessity.

Nevertheless, there is a general determination that if there is to be a precedent found for the close of this war it shall be found in the events of 1871, that we shall treat the Germans with no more mercy than they showed to the French, and in view of this sentiment it is interesting to recall the last phase of that great tragedy. The French armies had been beaten decisively in the field. There was not the slightest hope for them. One defeat had followed another until the crowning disasters at Sedan and Metz. The city of Paris was invested by the enemy. The population were living in cellars famishing and freezing. In vain Thiers had visited London, Vienna, St. Petersburg and Florence to persuade one of the great powers of Europe to stand between Prussia and its prey. All that came of it was a series of appeals that Germany should be lenient. Everything had been tried. The Committee of National Defence had lost the confidence of the people. Mobs gathered in the streets, and Paris was threatened with the Commune. Mutiny reared its ugly head in the National Guard.

On Jan. 1, Jules Favre presented himself to Bismarck to ask for an armistice. He did his best for his nation, but he held no cards, and Bismarck knew that he was bluffing. He warned the Chancellor that Paris had enough food to last for six months, and continued "Paris is about to assault your lines. I do not know what the issue of this action will be, but to avoid the necessary sacrifices I propose the following conditions," and he named them. Bismarck, too, could bluff. "It is too late," he said, "I have opened negotiations with the Imperial family." However, he suggested that Favre should set down his terms, and this was done in lead pencil, Bismarck promising that no other eye should see them but that of the Emperor. Favre then withdrew, but three days later there was another meeting between these adversaries, and specific terms were discussed.

Bismarck insisted that the Germans should enter Paris for the moral effect, although, it is to be borne in mind the question was one of an armistice, and not of peace terms. He also asked that Belfort should be surrendered, but to this demand Favre refused to listen, and he won his point. Bismarck, it might be observed, could have well afforded to be generous, for no man knew better than he that France was beaten and would in the end have to take what was offered her. It was agreed that hostilities should cease in the provinces, but disposal of the French army of the east and of other forces in the field was to await belated news of conditions. On Jan. 28, Favre in the name of the Government of National Defence telegraphed to Gambetta at Bordeaux, "We have signed an armistice. See that it is immediately executed everywhere." The armistice was to have expired on Feb. 21, but it was extended, for nt that time Thiers could not bring himself to agree to the German conditions of peace.

Bismarck asked for the cession of Alsace, although later on it developed that he was opposed to this demand, including Belfort and Metz, and demanded an indemnity of six milliards of francs. Thiers said that this was not to be considered, that two milliards would pay Germany's expenses. Then Bismarck came down to the irriducible German minimum; five milliards of francs, and Alsace (including Metz). Thiers saved Belfort. The armistice was extended to March 12 to permit the National Assembly to meet and consider the terms. It was agreed that German troops were to remain in France, but to withdraw gradually as instalments of the indemnity were paid. Then came the triumph of the Commune; the Government that Bismarck had treated with was thrust from Paris, and the Chancellor intimated that it might be the duty of the German army to police the city and restore order. The knowledge that this was in his power no doubt influenced him in signing the final peace treaty with Favre and Pouyer-Quertier, and accepting their assurances that the Government really represented France and could recover its authority in the capital. Between the time of signing the armistice and the final treaty of peace seven months elapsed.

The Sacrifice Stone.

The sacrificial stone was the stone on which human victims were sacrificed before the war god Huitzilopochtli in the principal Aztec temple in Mexico. It was dug up near the site of the temple in 1791, and is now in the Mexican national museum. The stone is disk shaped, 8 3-5 feet in diameter and 2½ feet thick. The sides are covered with elaborate sculptures.

EDWARD RENO HAS GAINED 25 POUNDS

Takes Tanlac Following Attack of Influenza and Results Are Wonderful.

"For anyone suffering from the after effects of influenza and needing something to build them up," said Edward W. Reno, a well-known employee of the American Railway Express Company, living at 1721 Broadway, Kansas City, Missouri. "Tanlac is the finest thing in the world, and I'll tell you why.

"During the recent epidemic I was taken down with the "Flu" myself, and for two weeks was just about as sick as one got to be. I finally managed to pull through, but my, I was as weak as a baby afterwards. I lost twenty-five pounds in weight or more, and every ounce of my strength seemed to be gone. Of course, I wasn't able to do a bit of work and it was just about all I could do to walk around and my legs would just completely give out sometimes. I had no appetite, either, and never cared for a thing to eat.

"I knew I wouldn't be able to go back to work at all feeling like I was, and as I had heard so much about Tanlac I decided to test it out. Well, it seemed to help me right from the first few doses and has put me in shape to where I have actually gained twenty-five pounds in thirty days' time. I have just finished my third bottle, and it is nothing short of astonishing the way it has increased my strength and built me up in every respect. I have not only gotten back all my old strength, but I really believe I feel better than I did even before I had the "Flu." My appetite was never better, all that tired feeling is gone and I am putting in ten hours of good, hard work every day, and it really doesn't bother me one bit. To say I'm strong for Tanlac is making it mild. I am constantly telling some friend about it, and I think everybody who is in a run-down condition would do well to give it a trial."

As has been stated, there is not a single portion of the body that is not benefited by the helpful action of Tanlac. Tanlac contains certain medicinal properties which enrich the blood and promote a healthy appetite for nourishing food, thus helping to build up health and strength in the natural way. And, as in the case of Mr. Reno, Tanlac will prove invaluable to all persons suffering from the after effects of influenza, la grippe, typhoid, and pneumonia, bronchial troubles, etc. Tanlac is a powerful reconstructive tonic and always produces most gratifying results.

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co. Ltd.; in Havelock by A. C. Denike; in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co. Ltd.; in Fowler's Corners by W. A. Hunter; in Gelert by A. J. Scott; in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

German People Guilty.

Why hold the Hohenzollerns responsible for all the deviltry of Germany in this war? Why try to distinguish between the people of Germany and their Government if it can be shown that their methods of warfare were just as inhuman before the existence of their present Government?

And it can be shown. "The very devils in hell are kinder to each other than you Germans are to your own peasantry"—so said Gustavus Adolphus, the Swedish King, to his own German troopers in the Thirty Years War in a vain attempt to restrain their excesses. That war, which began in 1618, just 300 years ago, was fought in Middle Europe, mainly by Germans. It was organized brigandage on both sides, where noncombatants had no rights whatever. In a word, it was German warfare. The amelioration of warfare, which can be traced historically as far back as 2,500 years, presents two striking exceptions, namely, the Thirty Years' War and the present one. More than 500 years before Christ, while besieging Babylon, Cyrus, the Persian, sent this proposed agreement to his opponent: "Peace to those that are at peace, war to those that are at war," and this guarantee of protection to the unarmed was accepted and observed by both sides. Even the fanatical Saracens, who offered to the conquerors the choice of "tribute, the Koran or the sword," were far more merciful than were the Germans in the Thirty Years' War.

German savants, with all their pretensions to masterly research, have studiously avoided the field of international law. Search through the list of authorities on that subject and you will find not one name that is internationally accepted as an authority or ever has been. Again, when President Lincoln caused to be issued in 1863 the first manual ever formulated for the guidance of troops in hostile territory it was followed next year by France, Great Britain and others. But Germany instead gave notice that she had formulated a secret manual for the instruction of her army officers in occupied territory. Why she desired it to be secret we can now understand. Belgium and France can testify.

Clearly the German race itself is, morally considered, one of the "backward races," and has been so for centuries, in spite of all the individual exceptions that may be mentioned. Germany as a unit must be held accountable for her misdeeds.

BUT WHOSE ICEBOX WILL HOLD A HORSE?

(By United Press).

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Hats off to the faithful farm horse!

With prices steadily soaring on almost everything under the sun, the cheery tidings come from the agricultural department that farm horses are cheaper than they have been for ten years.

Prices paid this year average $127.98. In 1910 the high-water mark was reached at $145.22, and prices have fluctuated between the two figures since then.

Cynical folk, of course, may argue that it's small consolation to know farm horses are cheap when they need a suit of clothes or a roast of beef, but then you can't satisfy everybody.

A Visit to Orpington

AT Orpington there is a girl at the station gate who takes your ticket and says "Thank you" as she does so. You fall into step with a grey-clad patient who is on his way back and who volunteers to show you the road. It slopes down hill from the station and turns into a quiet lane under arched trees between lichen covered palings. Here and there is a trim suburban villa with its gay garden. Though three-quarters of an hour by train from London, the road is as smooth under foot and as well kept as any tar macadam pavement in Toronto. Though you are in the country, there is a uniformed policeman who keeps a paternal eye upon everything in general. Five minutes' walk brings you to a turn in the road and you find that it runs through a high arch under a 60-foot railway embankment. The years that have passed since that embankment was made may be judged by the fine trees which form a veritable wood upon its slopes. On the other side of the arch the road runs between high hedges, and over that to the left, set back in the fields, is the group of low white buildings which form "No. 16 Canadian General Military Hospital."

Col. McPherson, the O.C., is proud of his establishment, and well he might be. Its location in a most charming countryside could not be improved. There seems healing in the very winds that sweep over the sunlit fields. It is true that sometimes the boys find it "slow," but much is being done by the Y.M.C.A. and other agencies to dissipate that feeling. The general impression which remains with the visitor who manages to pass the sentries at the gates is the bright airiness of the wards, open for the full length of both sides to the light and air, and the cheeriness of the patients.

"In the Base at Toronto the boys used to grouse a lot," said one nursing sister, "but I never heard one do that here."

The other day two of the patients set out to see London. One of them was totally blind, the other had lost one eye.

"We had one eye between us, so we got along all right," said the blind lad cheerfully. He is just twenty years of age, and was on an Atlantic cable boat before he took to soldiering.

The hospital is equipped for looking after 2,500 cases. Each of its several wards has its chart room, where the nursing sister on duty is the presiding deity, its diet kitchen, medicine room, pantry and scullery. There is a large general kitchen with the latest cooking apparatus, and a large dining room for those who can get about. For those who are unable to leave their beds, hot food is taken from the big kitchen to "serveries" convenient to the wards, where it is kept hot till dished up.

The hospital is finely equipped in its various departments. There is an elaborate X-ray plant, an interesting feature of which is a lantern for viewing the X-ray pictures, which, by an ingenious biscopic arrangement, enables the surgeons to determine the depth at which a piece of shell or other foreign matter may be located. It gives the observer an uncanny impression of actually looking into the patient. In connection with this department is a plant for the production of colored slides and photographs for record purposes. There is a dental clinic, in which marvels in the way of repair and replacement have been effected, and beside it is a waiting room, in which a billiard table has been installed, to enable the boys to kill time while waiting for the dentist.

Dreadful, but interesting, is the museum of record, where Lieut. Walter Duff, a member of the Toronto Arts and Letters Club, makes a record in painting and drawing, and in plaster casts, of the various stages of the surgical re-making of men who have been mutilated. Lieut. Duff had aspirations to serve on the sea, and not being able to convince the navy that it could not get along without him, managed to get into the C.A.M.C. as a full private till he was discovered and set to the work for which his talents specially qualify him.

One thing which he is developing beside his records is a partial mask for men who have lost one eye and whom it is impossible to provide with an ordinary glass eye. By the aid of a pair of dummy spectacles a close-fitting model with eyelids, eyelashes, eyebrows and eye is provided for the patient, the coloring being so delicately done that at five paces you would have to look twice before noticing that the man had been injured.

An ingenious device seen in Lieut. Duff's museum is one by means of which a surgeon is enabled to make an experimental operation. Holes which have been torn in the face are generally mended by cutting flaps of flesh in other parts of the face and folding them over. Often the surgeon is perplexed to know where to cut. To assist him in coming to a conclusion, a cast is made of the patient's face, and this is covered with a composition of gelatin and cooking syrup, which when cold has the same consistency as flesh. This is made the same thickness as the flesh, and on this mask the surgeon makes his experiments.

IN FLANDERS NOW.

(An Answer to Lieut.-Col. McCrae.)

We have kept faith, ye Flanders' dead,
Sleep well beneath those poppies red
That mark the place.
The torch your dying hands did throw,
We've held it high before the foe,
And answered bitter blow for blow,
In Flanders' fields.

And where your heroes' blood was spilled,
The guns are now forever stilled,
And silent grown.
There is no moaning of the slain,
There is no cry of tortured pain,
And blood will never flow again
In Flanders' fields.

Forever holy in our sight
Shall be those crosses gleaming white,
That guard your sleep.
Rest you in peace, the task is done,
The fight you left us we have won,
And "Peace on Earth" has just begun
In Flanders now.

PRESIDENT IN CONFERENCE

United Press Correspondent With the George Washington Says Presidential Party Is Nearing the Azores.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS

(By Robert J. Bender.)

ABOARD THE U. S. S. GEORGE WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—(By Wireless to the United Press)—President Wilson has given no indication of his views concerning the disposition of the former Kaiser, but he is expected to be consulted by international law experts in this regard. In view of the fact that British officials favor placing Wilhelm on trial, the President's attitude may be the most important. The President to-day had his first conference with his advisers.

Secretary Lansing and Ambassador White had a long talk with him concerning America's attitude toward specific problems of the peace conference. William Howard Taft's speech in New York, favoring the league of nations, was read with much official satisfaction It is known the president regards the formation of the league of nations as one of the fundamental objects of the peace congress, and is expected to take the stand that this important matter shall not be clouded with minor issues.

The weather is getting warmer and the seas smoother as the George Washington approaches the Azores which are expected to be reached Tuesday.

Rejoice at End of the Conflict

Germans More Cordial in Attitude Toward the British Troops.

LONDON, Dec. 9. — The German population west of the Rhine becomes more cordial in its attitude toward the British as Field Marshal Haig's troops move eastward, according to a late despatch from the correspondent of the Daily Mail with the British army. The authorities in such places as Buren say undisguisedly that they rejoice at our arrival. They give two reasons for this, that they are afraid of their own people and are afraid of starvation. Many men confess that the end of the war brought such relief that the stigma of defeat weighs little. Children sometimes cheer our arrival. Danger signs are received at times, and on one occasion cavalry and machine gunners were called for by the Germans for fear of a general uprising and an exaggerated fear of Bolshevik outbreaks.

The Mayor and their staffs act with admiral ability, but much of the population is almost obsequious and servile for our men.

Street Fighting in Berlin Between Government Troops and Spartacus Group

Machine Guns Were Used on Both Sides—Republican Guard Under Arms in the Capital.

BOLSHEVISTS ARRIVE

Special to The Examiner::

BERLIN, Dec. 9.—Twenty-eight persons were killed and forty-eight injured in street fighting here between the government troops and forces of the Spartacus group, in which the latter were completely defeatd. The Spartacus, under Karl Liebknecht, planned a coup d'etate, in which the police station and Chancellor's palace were to be seized ,and the government ejected. Appeals weer made to workmen to call a general strike. Many of them responded and marched into the streets to the royal palace. Spartacusites placed machine guns before the Reichstag building. Liebknecht addressed the crowds from the roof of a motor bus, while the workmen shouted "Long live the International Republic." The mobs were finally incited to attack public buildings, but were defeated after a sharp encounter, in which machine guns were used on both sides.

REPUBLICAN GUARD WAS MOBILIZED

Special to The Examiner:

COPENHAGEN, Dec. 9.—Spartacusites broke up non-Socialistic meetings in Munich and compelled the police to promise removal of all national flags, according to a despatch from that city to-day.

Ten thousand members of the Republican Guard were ordered under arms in Berlin last night to quell rioting there, according to despatches received from that city to-day. The best Bolshevik organizers from Russia are arriving in Berlin to lead the Spartacus group. Among them is said to be "Lewine." It is not known whether this is a mis-spelling of Premier Lenine's name.

REVOLUTION ORGANIZED THROUGHOUT GERMANY

Special to The Examiner:

PARIS, Dec. 9.—Chancellor Ebert's government is bringing new troops into Berlin, in an effort to crush the Spartacus movement, which has now spread throughout the northern suburbs, according to a Zurich despatch to L'Information, to-day. Pillaging continues, the despatch says, especially in the populace quarters. One confused despatch received here from Berlin, declares Karl Liebknecht's followers have organized a revolution throughout Germany. The Reichstag building in Berlin is reported to have been taken, and the trouble appears to have spread to Munich and Pilsen. Bloody riots continue in Berlin. Another message says that Allied intervention in Prussia may save the government.

Canadian Press:

PARIS, Dec. 9.—The Ebert government has brought additional troops to Berlin to crush Leibknecht's Spartacus revolters, who now control the northern suburbs of Berlin, including some government buildings. General Duponte, of the French army, has arrived in Berlin to arrange repatriation and transport of French prisoners.

Joseph Begley Will Not be Candidate

Mr. Joseph Begley, who was endorsed by the Trades and Labour Council as one of the Labour candidates for the aldermanic elections, stated to-day that he would not be a candidate for the Council. This leaves four others, who will doubtless be heard at the Labour Council's open meeting to-morrow night. They are Alex. Murray, Robert Morrison, Harry Gainey and James Runnett.

Cut Hardwood at $13 a Cord

THE BEST WOOD VALUE OFFERED THIS SEASON—TWO MORE CARS IN TO-DAY

Last week we disposed of one carload of dry hardwood cut into stove lengths at thirteen dollars a cord. This is the best wood value that has been offered in Peterboro this season. This week we will sell two more carloads at the same price. Remember if there is going to be a fuel famine it won't be this month or the next but the months to follow. "Burn all the wood you can now and avoid such a possibility" is Fuel Controller's advice. Telephone 86, the Peterboro Planing Mill for a cord of cut hardwood at thirteen dollars delivered.

SHOP EARLY

Christmas is only fifteen days away. Take two Sundays out of this and you have thirteen days left in which to do your Christmas shopping. You help yourself when you do your Christmas shopping early, and incidentally help the merchants and the army of clerks that has been mobilized to serve you. In addition days left in which to do your tion of goods, and that alone is sufficient reason why you should shop early and avoid the rush.

Machine Guns Were Mounted

A Feature of the Public Meetings Held in Berlin by Socialists Group.

(By Associated Press).

BERLIN, Dec. 9.—Eager to make the most of the Spartacus party martyrs as the result of Friday's rioting, Dr. Karl Liebknecht, leader of this faction, lost no time in staging a spectacular open-air meeting at Tiergarten last night. His call for a meeting brought forth 4,000 munition workers, who had responded to demand for a general walk-out.

Machine Guns.

The semi-circles of Dr. Liebknecht's auditors was flanked on all sides by machine guns, mounted on motor trucks, which commanded all approaches. Dr. Liebknecht harangued the crowd in his familiar style, indicting Friedrich Ebert, Premier, Philipp Scheidemann and other Kaiser Socialists of complicity in Friday's rioting. He called upon the masses to organize Red Guards and beat off the attacks of the counter-revolutionists.

All Quiet.

At a late hour to-night Berlin was absolutely quiet. It is estimated by the "Tageblatt" that the number of soldier deserters that Berlin is feeding exceeds 60,000. Premier Ebert and his Cabinet held a secret session with the Executive Committee of the Workmen's and Soldiers' Council discussing Friday's rioting. Over thirty mass meetings of the conflicting parties were announced for to-day.

WHITE INTIMATES A GOOD ROADS PROGRAMME.

Canadian Press:

OTTAWA, Dec. 9.—Sir Thomas White, acting Premier, intimated this morning, in replying to a delegation, that the Dominion Government would probably shortly announce some programme of co-operating with the provinces in the matter of highway constructionn. The delegation, which was representative of all the provinces, suggested a proportion of 30 per cent. of costs of roads to be borne by the Dominion and 70 per cent. by the respective provinces.

Says Army Undefeated

German Troops Receiving Tremendous Receptions in Rhine Cities.

AS "VANQUISHED VICTORS"

AMSTERDAM, Dec. 9.—The mental attitude is evidently still widely prevalent in Germany, which persists in regarding the German army as unbeaten, or at least as "vanquished victors," as a popular paradoxical German designation has it, exemplified in the farewell proclamation to the inhabitants of the Rhineland issued by General Von Einm in evacuating the provinces. In this message, as quoted in a Coblenz despatch to the Dusseldorf Nachrichten, General Einm said:

"You desired to see the victorious army which protected the Fatherland for four and a half years against all its enemies. You wish to see for yourselves whether our strength was broken and whether we remained true sons of German sires. The glorious reception given us, the display of flags, the greetings extended, are the best evidence that you are satisfied with us and that we have not disappointed your expectations.

"We are proud of this, and we thank you. Although unfortunate circumstances brought the enemy into the land he is not the victor in battle. Our hearts remain true to you, and you belong to us. Remain proud and German. Remember the good repute and honour of the Fatherland."

At Cologne and other places the departing troops, according to the local newspapers, have been given tremendous farewell receptions at which their "glorious achievements" were recalled and "Deutschland Uber Allies" sung. The soldiers were smothered with flowers and gifts, while the officers expressed to the people the hope that they would meet again soon.

Mr. G. N. Gordon Seeks to Recover $50

An Echo of the Berrodine Stabbing Affray.

The case of Gordon versus Berrodine was resumed in police court this morning. Mr. G. N. Gordon charged Louis Berrodine with the theft of $50 which occurred on Thursday, October 24.

Berrodine through his counsel, Mr. Fletcher Kerr, of Toronto, pleaded not guilty and elected for summary trial.

Mr. Gordon alleges that when Nicholas Berrodine, brother of Louis Berrodine, was taken in custody at the time of the Fall Assizes that he gave $50 in charge of Governor Nesbitt of the jail. After sentence was passed in which Nicholas Berrodine was sent to the penitentiary for five years for doing bodily harm, Nicholas told Mr. Gordon that the $50 in Governor Nesbitt's hands was to be part of the lawyer's (Mr. Gordon's)' fees which was $75. Louis Berrodine agreed to pay the rest of the fee—$25.

Louis offered to bring the $50 to the court room to Mr. Gordon, but Mr. Gordon told him to leave it in the Governor's hands.

"He had a pair of eyes that slanted both ways and I didn't trust him," said Mr. Gordon looking at the prisoner.

Mr. Gordon afterwards went to the Governor's office but found that Louis Berrodine had received the money and according to Berrodine himself had taken it to Toronto and placed it in the hands of Mr. T. C. Robinette, K.C., to enter an appeal for his brother.

The case is still proceeding.

KING GEORGE WILL NOT VISIT AMERICA

Special to the Examiner:

LONDON, Dec. 9.—That King George will visit America, as a return courtesy for President Wilson's visit to England, is not regarded as likely. It was pointed out to-day that the President's coming is not a personal visit to the King, but a part of his itinerary in attending the Peace Conference, as a result of which diplomatic custom will not require that the visit be returned.

THE WEATHER

The thermometer has been up to around 45 degrees yesterday and to-day, and the weather, especially to-day, has been more like a fine spring-day in the latter end of March, than the 9th of December, and the uncertain fortunes of a rigorous Canadian winter staring us in the face. A north end resident, while taking a Sunday constitutional yesterday up the G.T.R. tracks, noticed a crane nonchalantly fishing in the creek. In ordinary seasons this long legged fellow would have had several months residence by this time in his southern winter resort.—W. P.

Will Hold Conference

Associated Governments Will be in Conference for About Five Weeks.

"SIGN HERE"

(Special to The Examiner.)

PARIS, Dec. 9.—The formal sessions of associated governments' conference will begin about January 3, it was believed here to-day. They will be held in the French Foreign Office and will continue five or six weeks. After fully formulating peace terms the Germans will be invited to send their delegates to Versailles, where the general peace conference will take place. The peace congress will be largely a mere formality, as Germany presumably will accept terms without much quibbling, inasmuch as she has acknowledged she is beaten and unable to resume hostilities in any event. In this respect the peace treaty will be similar to the armistice terms — not quite a "sign there" proposition, but almost.

Will Visit Paris.

In the meantime, Premier Lloyd George and Foreign Secretary Balfour will visit Paris next week, and informally confer with President Wilson, Colonel House and the other American representatives. There will be similar conferences with Premier Clemenceau and other Frenchmen, also with Premier Orlando and Foreign Minister Sonnino, who will accompany King Victor Emmanuel to this city. Owing to the French peoples' enthusiasm over President Wilson, and their desire to give him an appropriate ovation, the visit of the Italian King has been set for Dec. 19. He will remain until Christmas when President Wilson hopes to visit and address American troops and inspect the devastated regions.

DIAMONDS WORTH $1,800 RECOVERED BY LOCAL POLICE HELP

The theft of four diamonds worth $1,800 from a Toronto party at Pontypool last July, has been partially cleaned up as the result of the co-operation of Chief Thompson and a Thiel detective. Two of the stones were recovered on Saturday, and the others are expected to be uncovered shortly. When the loss was first reported to the Toronto police they were so busy working on a bank robbery that they could not give the diamond theft the immediate attention desired, and the case was placed in the hands of the Thiel Detective agency. When one of their men had secured certain information he visited Chief Thompson, and from their conference developed the arrest of R. R. Cockburn in Ottawa. While he was brought here Detective Newhall went to Toronto and arrested Bert Belisle who is said to be implicated in the theft of the gems. At Ottawa Cockburn denied everything when questioned by the police, and also tried to impress his alibi upon Chief Thompson. Eventually the Chief educed a confession and Cockburn offered to get the diamonds if he were taken to Toronto. It was found that they had been sold for a mere fraction of their value, and the holders were averse to surrendering them, when Detective Newhall took up the Toronto end of the investigation. Cockburn was brought back to Peterborough on Saturday in company with Belisle, and both men will appear for trial to-morrow, one here and the other probably in Millbrook.

"THE SHOP WITH THE TARTAN FRONT"

Some men "shop around" for clothes—others come to Frank N. Hourigan's—"the shop with the tartan front." Looks never counted for more than they do to-day. Men should take as much pride and exercise as much care in the selection of their suits and coats as women folks. Come in and study the styles with our "Style Book." We do our best not to let a man select an unbecoming style or cloth. We show very fine overcoatings in many popular weaves. They will be well trimmed and lined, and man tailored—in any model you select—big warm ulster, snappy ulsterette, belted trench model, form-fitting, loose Raglan, or Chesterfield with velvet collar. ORDERED TO RAISE HATS TO BRITISH TROOPS.

AMSTERDAM, Dec. 9.—The British authorities in charge of the occupation in the German zone assigned to the British Army have ordered all the German men to raise their hats to British officers, according to an official announcement in Berlin. They must do similarly when the British National Anthem is sung, the announcement adds.

INVITATIONS FOR PRESIDENT WILSON

Canadian Press:

AMSTERDAM, Dec. 9.— President Wilson is invited to visit Cologne by the "Volks Zeitung" of that city, which suggests that representatives of the German Foreign Ministry meet him there. The Independent Republic of Schleswig-Holstein will soon be proclaimed, according to the "Weser Zeitung" of Bremen.

Wants to Carry a Revolver

Former Crown Prince Must Wear Uniform When Travelling in Holland.

(United Press.)

AMSTERDAM, Dec. 9.—The former Crown Prince has decided not to receive visitors unless he is permitted by the Dutch authorities to carry a revolver, it is learned here to-day.

That Friedrich Wilhelm, although he has abdicated, still regards himself as an interned soldier, is indicated by his request to be allowed to wear mufti while visiting a dentist in this city. It is understood that the government has granted him permission to come here, and will provide him with an escort, but specified that he must wear a uniform.

A special German cook has arrived at Wieringen. The former Crown Prince is quoted as having said that he would die if he were forced to eat "a la Dutch."

Says Bill Was a Great Showman

The Former German Emperor Missed His Vocation.

Canadian Press:

LONDON, Dec. 9.—Maximilian Harden, editor of "Zukunft," of Berlin, said to a correspondent of the Express, according to a despatch from the German capital, that the impression abroad concerning the former Emperor William is a false one. He said that it was a fact that William Hohenzollern had no personal part in starting the war, but was merely a tool in the hands of the military party, by which he was regarded as a coward.

"When the moment for declaring war came, the militarists were afraid he would refuse to sign the declaration," said Harden.

"The former Emperor missed his vocation. He was never happier than when posing in the limelight. He ought to have managed a cabaret or taken a show on tour. He was a great showman.

"The Kaiser had no personal part in the war. He was discredited and became a tool of the junkers. They thought him a coward, and feared he would fail to sign the declaration of war, so they sent him to Norway. Foreigners saw the Kaiser's facade, but never saw his interior.

"The armistice terms are hard. If they form the basis of the peace terms, Germany will be ruined. By losing possession of Alsace-Lorraine and Silesia, she cannot become an industrial country. Millions of Germans are sincere. The Entente should treat them as men, not as militarists."

Canadian Cavalry With British

Canadian Armoured Cars Are Still Doing Service.

Special to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, Dec. 9.—Canadian cavalry and Canadian armoured cars are in all probability with the British troops which have entered Cologne. For the last several weeks these Canadian units have been working with the Third Cavalry division, the lancers of which are mentioned in a German despatch as having entered the bridgehead town which is to be occupied during peace negotiations. The armoured cars which the Canadians are using have among them the Eaton battery, taken overseas with them in 1914. One was destroyed in the retreat at Amiens last March, and another was burned in the victorious Arras battle. The rest remain and are treasured souvenirs of the motor machine gun brigade commanded by Brigadier General Brutinelle, with wings under Colonel "Tiny" Walker of Winnipeg, formerly machine gun officer of the cavalry brigade, and Col. F. Heurling, formerly of the Provincial Survey in British Columbia. The motors have, since the beginning of the offensive in August, been acting as an independent force with the British cavalry division.

TERRIBLE ATROCITIES

800 CHILDREN BURNED

LONDON, Dec. 9.—The Morning Post publishes from Constantinople a detailed account of the massacres of Armenians by Turks, which began in the early part of 1915. Its terrible tale points to a determined attempt to exterminate the whole nation, and the following story is told of awful deportation schemes.

"For hundreds of miles over mountains, in scorching heat or freezing cold, long convoys went. Young girls from the age of ten upwards were obliged to march naked for hours at a time. Hundreds of thousands died on the march.

Only 1,500 Escape.

"It is estimated that 300,000 who were deported to Western Asia crossed the bridge over the Euphrates from Soriar to Chittadi, and of these only 1,500 are now alive.

"But the trials of these unhappy people did not cease at the end of that march. The luckiest were the young girls who were taken into harems. Starvation and massacre awaited them.

"The Governor of the vilayet released all the convicts from the prisons, divided them into bands of 200 or 300 each, armed with clubs, and then sent them to outrage and massacre the Armenians collected in the vilayet. In Urfah soldiers and others got so weary of the work of massacre that the Governor advertised for executioners to complete the work. He boasted that at Diav-Bekir 80,000 Armenians were put to death.

800 Children Burned.

"He took 800 children, enclosed them in a building and set light to it.

"Girls who were admitted into harems were obliged to adopt the Mussulman religion.

"Three months ago after his accession the present Sultan ordered all children who had been forcibly converted to be returned to their homes. The Governor of Samsoun, on receiving order, collected all the children in his district and placed them on barges and had them towed into the Black Sea and drowned.

"In Georgia, Zekki Bey regretted that his soldiers had not been energetic enough in killing Armenians, and he had huge pits dug in which young children were buried alive."

Four Charred Bodies Recovered

Canadian Press:

QUEBEC, Dec. 9.—With four charred bodies recovered from the ruins, and at least seven other employees missing, Shawinigan Falls to-day is anxious as to the exact extent of the casualties and damage caused by the tremendous explosion late Saturday in the premises of the Canadian Electric Product Company. The explosion took place in a brick building where Prussic acid was manufactured, and three hundred persons were working thereabouts. Fire broke out in the ruins immediately after the explosion. To-day searchers are going through the debris to locate the missing seven.

"Practical and truly good-looking." That's what a customer said the other day when she chose one of those delightfully warm, soft angora wool mufflers as a Christmas gift for her husband. And Madame Customer was describing these genuine angora mufflers most aptly. If you consider giving a muffler as a Christmas gift, "Come to me."

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

A CHANCE FOR THE CHILDREN.

With the first snow fall and the appearance of winter weather last week the youngsters of the city dragged out their coasters and sleighs, and the merry, health-giving amusement of coasting was once more under way. As usual, the children used the sidewalks on the hills of the city—practically the only safe place available to them, and as usual the ubiquitous policeman, notebook in hand, made his appearance, and the fun was stopped. The trouble is that to allow the children to coast on the sidewalks is not safe for pedestrians, while to allow them to use the middle of the road is not safe for the children.

There is a solution of the problem, however, that other cities have employed and that is feasible in Peterborough—that is to close the approaches to a street that affords a good hill for coasting for a few hours every day in order to give the children a chance. The Stewart street hill, a favourite sleigh-riding place for generations of Peterborough's children, naturally comes to mind as a suitable place that might be used. If vehicular traffic across Stewart street, via Dublin and London street was forbidden during the hours set apart for coasting, the little folks could sleigh-ride to their heart's content with no danger to themselves or without endangering the safety of the people on the sidewalks.

A number of cities have adopted this plan and it has been a great boon to the youngsters and to their parents. The City Council could profitably consider this question which, without any expense, would provide a splendid amusement feature for Peterborough's children.

CHOOSING THE MANAGING DIRECTORS.

The ratepayers of Peterborough should realize that the approaching municipal elections will be the most important in the history of the city. Never have there been so many problems for the civic bodies to handle as are already looming up for next year, and consequently never was there greater need for Peterborough's citizens to study earnestly and conscientiously the matter of securing the best available men for the Council and Board of Education. The careless indifference and lack of interest that have characterized municipal elections in other years will be fatal to Peterborough's progress if the same policy is continued on this occasion. The situation calls for the strongest men that can be found, irrespective of politics, creed or calling in life. To guide Peterborough through the period of reconstruction, to successfully deal with the problems of next year, to set the city firmly on the path that will lead to a bigger and better municipality, men are needed who will forget themselves and their own advantages, men who have vision and foresight, men with ability and energy, men who realize the importance of their duties, men who will be animated only by the desire to serve the whole community. There should be no place found in next year's civic bodies for the citizens with an axe to grind, for the individual who accepts a nomination only for the opportunity it affords him of posing before the public, for the man with narrow, sectional views.

Before next year's Council there will be many difficult questions. Mayor Duncan outlined some of them to the Board of Trade the other day, and he did not by any means exhaust the list or over-state their importance. The Hunter street bridge, an undertaking that calls for the expenditure of at least $300,000, the building of a sewage disposal plant that will cost $100,000, street railway extensions, and the question of purchasing the present system from the Hydro-Electric Commission, the reception of Peterborough's returning soldiers, and what is more important, their absorption into civil life, the determining of a policy in regard to a proper memorial for the Peterborough men who have fallen in the war, the platoon system for the fire department, are all problems for next year's council, and there will be more later on. With big questions like these in the offing, can Peterborough afford to be as careless in the coming elections as in the past?

The same condition of affairs is true of the Board of Education. There never was an occasion when more attention to the calibre of men elected to this body was needed than now, because the coming year promises to be one of unusual importance. If the compulsory age for school attendance is raised from fourteen years to sixteen, as Hon. Dr. Cody has already intimated, the change opens a wide field of activity for the Board of Education. The present school accommodation will not be sufficient—there will have to be more teachers and more buildings, and a technical school would seem to be a necessity. In fact the change in the age limit would necessitate a big programme of reconstruction in educational affairs. Such a programme cannot be entrusted to weaklings; the best brains and talent that Peterborough can provide should be selected for next year's Board.

The ratepayers are urged to carefully consider these matters between now and election day. The election of candidates for the civic bodies is something that can no longer be treated with indifference. The problems of the future are too serious for a repetition of what has often happened in the past, the election by acclamation of citizens who were utterly incapable of properly carrying out of the duties of the position into which they were thrust because the people failed to display enough interest to see that candidates with the necessary qualifications were brought into the field.

The management of civic affairs is a business—a great big business—bristling with difficulties and full of pit-falls, but offering great possibilities. The ratepayers are the shareholders and the civic bodies are the board of directors. If the shareholders choose their managing board with no regard for their ability, disinterestedness or sincerity of purpose, they have only themselves to blame if there are no dividends to divide.

The annual meeting of this big business concern of Peterborough will be held shortly. If every shareholder will feel that he has a personal responsibility in the matter, the old firm will start out in 1919 with a new board of directors, honest, live, energetic and able and the whole plant will feel the impetus of the new driving power that is turning the wheels.

OLD OR NEW GERMANY?

Mr. Hugo Preuss, Secretary of Interior in the "new" German Government, bewailing the obligation of the supposed rulers of the supposed "new" State to "rear democracy on the foundation bequeathed us by the old system, which has now gone forever, provided it is not restored through external forces," plaintively remarks that the attitude of Germany's enemies warrants the observation that they are "treating us just as if William II. was still on the throne." Field Marshal von Hindenburg, in a proclamation to his troops, talks exactly as if William II. were still on the throne or were to be put back there, or some other Hohenzollern put there in his place, as soon as the Treaty of Peace has been signed. Like some Roman Emperor, or the commander of the Pretorian Guard, he promises to colonize the soldiers. "A land settlement on a big scale is in progress." Hundreds of thousands of buildings are to be built on land cheaply bought with public money cheaply loaned, and so on. "My army group is unvanquished by arms," echoes the Crown Prince. He sticks to the legend. Germany has not been beaten. She has merely succumbed to hunger.

Hindenburg's admonition to "his troops" is that they have patience a little while. To hundreds of thousands, to millions of men held together by the old traditions of discipline, the permanent superiority of the military to the civil power an unquestioned dogma in their minds, their vanity soothed by the assurance from their commander that they are invincible, their material future assured by a great agrarian programme, Hindenburg says in effect, only wait till the signing of the Treaty of Peace estops the Allies from any interference with the German form of government. Then this scenery of democracy and republicanism and radicalism, these officious supernumeraries of Soldiers' and Workers' Councils and what not, will be lugged off the stage.

As Hindenburg says, "help the Fatherland through its hardest time." There will be better times when the old regime gs eback. Meanwhile, let us pretend that we are starved, that we are very uh frightened by the insignificant "Bolsheviki" minority. Hindenburg'c proclamation indicates that the ol dsystem, still latent, in some cases rampant, under the new forms, may hope to be restored by a well-bribed disciplined, "unbeaten" soldiery. ...l democratic goods made in Germany are returnable and exchangeable.—New York Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Don't delay sending in that subscription for the children's Christmas treat of the war veterans.

While Jack Canuck from Peterborough is keeping the watch on the Rhine it is up to the people of this city to see that his children have a merry Christmas.

The United States' nation-wide tribute to Britain will be appreciated by every citizen of the British Empire.

"Britain's Day" is the beginning of the new British-American entente.

The Attorney-General of Ontario is to investigate the Stratford case. It looks like a fertile field for his efforts.

Police, Fire Unions in Montreal Will Take Strike Vote

Many Claims Involved in Present Dispute Now Coming to Head.

MONTREAL, Dec. 7.—To strike or not to strike—that is the question which the Montreal police and firemen will decide here when the two bodies meet separately to discuss the salary situation.

Ever since the members of the two forces were organized two months ago the possibility of a strike has been mooted; now it looks like a certainty within a short time.

The firemen have definitely announced that if the city does not come to terms with them they will go out; the Police Union declares equally emphatically that there must be some big improvements in salary or they, too, will take a rest. There is an idea, however, that the firemen will do nothing while the Christmas rush is on but that about the first of the year they may shut the fire stations and go home.

It's all a question of money and terms of service. The police claim that they are the poorest paid workers in the city and they are demanding increases of about $300 each. The firemen have put in a demand for about $400 each more. The city, so far, has taken the position that it was paying all that could be paid while the treasury was so seriously depleated, as it has been for the last few years.

When the re-organization of the Departments began six months ago under the Director of Public Safety, Mr. Joseph R. Tremblay, there were many changes in rank and position in the forces. Many mene were dropped from the rolls and of course there was much unrest in the rank and file as a consequence. Then followed the Union. So far there has been no clash between the city and the Union. But the demand for higher pay has come from the organization and for the first time the city is compelled to take action.

After several letters to the Administrative commissioners had been unanswered, the Union applied to the Labour Department for the appointment of a Board of Arbitration. That was granted but the city has taken no action yet in that matter.

The police want, in addition to the salary increase, some big change in conditions. They complain that their uniforms are too old for a Montreal winter; some say they have been four or five years with the same overcoats. They want, too, up-to-date equipment for guard duty on rainy and stormy days. The city at the present time has an advertisement in the papers calling for tenders for new overcoats.

The firemen want more money and the two-platoon system. This would compel the addition of over one hundred firemen to the force. The city claims that the salary bill would be a big one, but with one hundred new men it would be almost prohibitive.

An enormous increase in the supply of hogs in the United States is indicated in a report on the grain and provisions market received from Chicago. According to this report, there are now 80,000,000 hogs in this country and as their raising under present conditions is a very profitable occupation, the production of the "porkers" is being constantly increased by farmers.

At the present rate it is believed that there will soon be as many pigs in this country as there are residents here, more than 100,000,000 all told. The Government estimate of the supply of hogs in the country on Jan. 1 last was 71,374,000 head, valued at $1,392,276,000. This valuation represents an increase of 127 per cent. over the value of hogs early in 1914.

$900 WORTH OF LIQUOR STOLEN IN COBOURG.

Thieves Made a Clean-up in Senator Pringle's Cellar.

Burglars entered the residence of Senator Pringle at Cobourg, a few nights ago, and made a thorough clean up of his wine cellar. Cases, jugs, kegs, and a large barrel of wet goods, made up the haul, there being in all about nine hundred dollars worth. Word has been sent to all the neighboring towns to keep a close watch for the thieves.

There is no doubt about the new coat being a coat for all occasions.

Passementerie embroidery has suddenly become very fashionable.

There are still pockets, but few in number and mostly ornamental.

GERMAN PRINCE RUINED BULGARIA

Career of the Crafty Ex-Czar Ferdinand.

CALLED "FOX OF BALKANS"

Treacherous and Effeminate, This Relative of the Kaiser Has Brought Ruin to the Little Country Over Which He Reigned for Thirty Years—He Has Left a National Debt Under Which the People Will Groan.

FERDINAND, ex-Czar of all the Bulgars, as he used to call himself, has retired to spend the remainder of his life on his Austrian estate. He is a rich man, and may well be one of the richest in Austria, and in quitting his country he is making no mistake. In Bulgaria he would have been in danger of assassination, for it was he who brought the country to ruin and double disgrace. In Austria he is regarded not as a Bulgarian, but as a German, for he was a prince of the House of Coburg when he was elected to the Bulgarian throne. He never had any use for the country he has reigned over for 30 years except to impoverish it, and when he sold it out to Germany and Austria and forced it into the present war he may have concluded that there wasn't much left in Bulgaria for anyone to sell.

Only because he has had greater opportunities has the Kaiser brought the divine right theory into greater contempt than has Ferdinand, and when he accepted the throne Czar Alexander III. of Russia predicted that he would bring ruin and desolation upon the Bulgarian nation. Russia had a particular interest in Bulgaria, for it was Russia that helped it establish its independence of Turkey, although a nominal suzerainty was maintained by the Sultan until 1908, and Russia did not desire that this queer young prince who used to wear corsets, and powder his cheeks, and cast ravishing glances, should reign over Bulgaria.

At the time of his election the Bulgars were almost wholly an agricultural people, who had for generations groaned under the Turkish yoke. Newcomers to freedom and to such Parliamentary institutions as they had been provided with, they did not make the most of their opportunities, and Ferdinand, who was equipped with a huge campaign fund, bribed himself to the throne at a moderate expenditure. The national debt of Bulgaria when Ferdinand lighted on it was nominal. At the beginning of the present war it was about $200,000,000, and is supposed now to be more than a billion. The state is practically bankrupt, and will only be able to get along by borrowing from the Allies. Bulgaria has been in two Balkan wars and one world war in the course of the past seven or eight years. Her first and astonishingly easy success over Turkey turned the heads of her people, and convinced them that their real mission on earth was to wage war instead of cultivating the soil. They look now upon their plight, and it is because Ferdinand knew that their next look would be toward him that he lost no time in fading swiftly into the hinterland.

But whatever the feelings of the British people are toward the former Czar of Bulgaria they are not what they might have been had Queen Victoria carried out her wish and bestowed upon him the Order of the Bath in 1899. She was only dissuaded by the then Prince of Wales, who was a shrewd judge of character and who entertained a positive loathing for his Oriental-looking kinsman. The First Gentleman in Europe often declared that the air of Marienbad was poisoned for him when, on the occasion of his annual visits, Ferdinand used also to appear and obsequiously attach himself to Edward's entourage. His unwelcome attentions were persisted in until the last, for he attended the funeral of Edward VIII., and is said there to have excited intense indignation by his callous attitude and his unseemly mirth and manifestations of impatience at the ceremonies.

Ferdinand also showed the basest ingratitude to Stambouloff, his first and best premier, and is believed to have instigated the murder of the statesman, which took place at the very gates of the Imperial palace. Nevertheless, he clung to power for thirty years and cut quite a swath in Europe.

Ignorance may be bliss, yet the real self-satisfied man is the one who believes he knows it all.

BURGLARS MADE A BIG HAUL AT ORONO.

Mr. Charles Armstrong of Orono, was in Port Hope in conference with Chief Colwill relative to the burglary committed at his store on Wednesday night. Mr. Armstrong states that the burglars got away with a large quantity of dress goods, tweeds, serges; men's suits, rubber boots and jewelry to the value of two thousand dollars. The robbers got in by a cellar window and left by a rear door, which they left open upon their departure.

The games scheduled for this week are as follows:

Monday, Dec. 9.—Invincibles vs. Engineers.

Wednesday, Dec. 11.—DeLaval vs Printers.

Friday, Dec. 13.—Rosebuds vs. Bankers.

TEN PIN LEAGUE WILL OPEN THIS EVENING

The first game in the George Street League will be played on the George Street Alleys between G.W.V.A. vs. Hellenic's. This will be an interesting game as both teams have been practicing hard for the contest and ought to be a good game to witness. The prize winners for last week in the five and ten pin contests were won by the following players: A. Stewart 240, C. Hayes 236, H. Yates 224, P. Laskas 230. T. Rutherford wins the five pin contest with a score of 232.

Voice of The People

THE MUNICIPAL ELECTION

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

Dear Sir,—As candidates are being selected for the municipal council I think that you will see a real lively interest taken, more so than for years Owing to the adoption of the general system of electing there will be no more elected by acclamation candidates. All will have to put up a fight and a hard one.

I always was in favor of the general vote for alderman. Why elect a school board, city commissioners, utility and water commissioners, general vote and alderman by wards?

Hope there will be no unfair tactics used as was done before, by candidates to accomplish their ends. In my estimation the City Council should be a body of men who are able to discuss all topics of the day from any standpoint and give a reasonable answer to the conclusions arrived at as well for the nation as for our city.

It has been said by one of the aldermen that The Trades and Labor Council was only a resolution factory. Even so it gives weight to bear on many pressing questions and shows where the delegation stands. It is the mouthpiece of the people to show what is wanted by working classes.

Now it would be in line for the City Council to start up some such factory, but believe me if the alderman that mentioned factory, ever started a resolution, their would have to be some means to stop him as he would monopolize it entirely. Judging from my experience in hearing him. But start it just the same.

I hope the G. W. V. A. will see to it that they elect at least one of their number to represent them, so as to be in line with what is going on in other places.

JOSEPH CROWE.

Sir,—There is a movement on foot throughout the Province of Ontario amongst the "free and independent electors" to get back some of the necessaries of life of which they have have been deprived and which they feel the need of when sickness comes over them. The cold water cure is not enough. The human system craves variety and must have it. No one wants the bar and few people ever did want it. It has gone and will stay gone. Few people want strong drink to come back as a beverage. It should be as at present but under the control of the government not of the doctors. If it is good at all it should be so that the poor men can get it at a reasonable price. It should be treated from the standpoint of a tonic under the stern and strict control of the government but neither prohibited nor abolished. This will prevent any likelihood of the return of the horrors of drunkenness and debauchery. Light wines and beers are not and never have been guilty of the evils of intoxication. They are excellent tonics for weak people and like sauces add zest and piquancy to food. They greatly aid digestion and are desirable and not harmful. There are people however, who have suffered either in person or in the person of their friends or relative, who would abolish and extinguish alcohol off the face of the earth. Now alcohol is found in nature. It cannot be made except by nature and God made nature. Shall we condemn God? Do not let us go to the extreme that condemns God and would put the decent man and woman in chairs. It is not enough to say that some have gone to excess and ruin and that more than half the crime was due to alcohol These conditions existed because of the practically unrestricted use of strong drink not to the policy of government control of strong liquors and the abolition of the opportunity of drinking to excess. Peterborough has a strong body of respectable men and women who have consulted a very prominent man regarding this movement and the next provincial election will see him in the field with this policy as his policy. Had it been possible to do away with the horrors of drunkenness under the old system no fault would have been found with it but it was not possible and the people almost without exception arose and demanded a change. Let that change be reasonable and consistent with the physical and spiritual well being of the community but not such a one as from its unnecessary severity will produce a reaction against all restraint. We must, nay we cannot abolish what God has made but we can regulate and restrict ourselves as much as we like and that desirable degree of restriction seems to be embodied in the light wine policy. At any rate Peterborough will see a man in the field at the request of the people endorsing that policy and, in other things meeting the requirements of the general policy of the Hearst government.

APPRECIATE WHAT AMERICA HAS DONE

Sending of Wilson Regarded in Same Spirit as War Effort.

LONDON, December 9. — (British Wireless Service.) — The British newspapers of recent days, in publishing full reports of President Wilson's address to Congress, and news regarding his voyage, have taken occasion to point out that the British public's ever growing appreciation of what the American soldiers and people as a whole have done in the war.

"We would ask the Americans," says the Times, 'to believe that the Allied peoples regard the coming of the President in the same spirit in which they regarded the immense war effort of the United States and the decisive contribution of its armed forces to the common victory.

"If it be a sacrifice for the American people that the president should come, it is a sacrifice which the European nations deeply appreciate.

Noting the President's suggestion that control may yet, "perhaps for a long while," have to be exercised over shipping, the Times says:

"We venture to read into this American recognition of the splendid work done by bodies like the wheat executive and the inter-allied maritime transport board whose operations have gone far to prove in advance the feasibility of a practical league of nations."

The Morning Post says that President Wilson's address "bore witness to the great achievement of the American army and to the hardly less notable accomplishment of those at home who supported the army. The Americans in the field under the command of General Pershing were able at a critical moment of the campaign to strike a blow which in consonance with Marshal Foch's great plan of campaign, fulfilled the allotted tas kof the American forces at St. Mihiel and Chateau Thierry. British troops which have tought alongside the Americans testify to their quickness, resource and valor. The presence of many thousands of the U. S. Army in this country has brought the countries into cordial relations which we cannot but believe will not again be clouded by misunderstanding."

DEMANDS EXCEED ARMISTICE TERMS, SAYS A BERLIN DESPATCH.

Special to the Examiner:

AMSTERDAM, Dec. 9.—The following despatch was received to-day from Berlin: "An Allied Sea Commission will proceed to Hamburg to inspect and demand the surrender of captured and interned Entente vessels, as well as warships under construction. It is declared that these demands exceed the terms of the armistice."

Regan Should Be Punished

Jury Suggests That Regan Be Punished for False Confession.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9. — Elizabeth Baksa, 19 years old, who had been on trial two weeks on the charge of murdering Mrs. Helen Hamel, was freed of the charge by the jury in Judge Rosalsky's part of General Sessions, after which the jurymen announced that the confession of the murder made by James F. Regan, a Sing Sing convict, was not true and suggested that Regan should be punished for committing perjury. This situation leaves the murder unsolved Mrs. Hamel was strangled to death in the basement of the lodging house she conducted at 507 West Twenty-third street on Feb. 13.

The attorneys for Miss Baksa considered the evidence submitted against her of such insufficient character that they notified the court they would not prolong the trial by offering any testimony for the defence. Assistant District Attorney Talley submitted the prosecution had no evidence other than information and belief, based entirely on a slight basis of circumstantial evidence. Judge Rosalsky then ordered the jury to acquit the woman, which they did without leaving the courtroom. Miss Baksa, who departed with her attorney, Thomas C. McDonald, said she would return to the home of her parents at Freemansburg, Penn.

GERMAN CROWN PRINCE EATS OYSTERS, DRINKS CHAMPAGNE AND STRUTS BEFORE MIRROR

AMSTERDAM, Dec. 9. — The German crown prince, trudging over muddy country lanes in Dutch sabots, is a familiar sight on the Island of Wieringen, says a correspondent of the Telegraaf. He declares that what he misses is a riding horse.

Frederick William plays billiards with the villagers and treats them to drinks and smokes, and buys candy for the children.

The younger Hohenzollern has his breakfast at 8.30 o'clock and his dinner at 7 p.m. He eats oysters and drinks champagne regularly; unlike his father, who dines plainly. Nevertheless he is reported to suffer from fits of depression. Sometimes, according to eyewitnesses, he dons a full uniform, resplendent with medals, and parades in front of the mirror. He then resumes a woolen sweater and knickerbockers and plays the violin. He is said to have a deep dread of Spanish influenza and takes preventive medicine regularly. He becomes extremely nervous, it is added, when strangers near him make abrupt movements.

Cheap Dishes From Apples and Spuds

Potatoes may be served in numerous tempting forms for the dinner table. The economical housewife may also use apples in any number of appetizing dishes. A few recipes for preparing potatoes and apples for the delectation of the most fastidious guest follow:

POTATO DRESSING.

Many an economical housewife, who makes an effort never to have any dry bread on the plate, will be glad to know that she can have dressing for the Christmas dinner, and need not use bread for it.

Grate or put through food chopper with fine knife enough potatoes. Drop them as they are grated or ground into fresh water to prevent discoloration. Wash the starch out thoroughly through two waters; place in strainer or in muslin bag and drain dry. Brown in skillet with onion and sage just as you would the bread and pack lightly in the chicken or turkey.

STUFFED POTATOES.

Select perfect potatoes of uniform size and shape, pare, hollow them out to form oval cases, and boil in salt water until tender. Drain and fill with hot buttered peas. Pour over each a spoon of hot cream, which has been seasoned to taste with salt, pepper and butter and slightly thickened, garnish with parsley.

SWEET POTATO.

Boil sweet potatoes in unsalted water until tender, remove the skins and wash as you would Irish potatoes. Work through them sugar, butter, salt to taste. Put in a baking dish, cover the ttop with marshmallows and set in the oven long enough for the marshmallows to swell and brown.

POTATO CRUST PIE.

Put cold beef through a meat chopper; put a layer in a pudding dish, a cup of canned tomatoes, pepper, salt, bits of butter, one onion sliced, then a thick layer of mashed potatoes seasoned as for the table; stick bits of butter substitute over the top, bake in slow oven half or three-quarters of an hour. It makes one hungry to smell it baking.

APPLE PUFFS.

Two sour apples, chopped fine, 1 egg, 1-8 cup of molasses, 1/4 teaspoonful soda; 3-4 cup of corn meal, 3-4 cup of flour, 1-8 teaspoon salt; water to make thin batter. To the chopped apples add beaten egg, molasses and salt. Mix thoroughly the corn meal and flour, adding a little water in which soda was dissolved. Combine apple mixture with the flour adding more water to make a thin batter. Pour into greased cups, and bake in a quick oven. Serve with any pudding sauce.

PORCUPINE APPLES.

Pare and core apples of equal size and cook in corn syrup. Boil syrup until thick; roll apples in it. Stew quickly with blanced almonds and fill cavities with jelly. Serve with a boiled custard, flavored with a few drops of almond and vanilla.

Appointed Head Trade Commission

Will Co-operate With the Overseas Commission to Secure Trade For Canada.

Special to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, Dec. 9.—It is stated here that Sir Charles Gordon will be appointed head of the Canadian Trade Commission, which is to be created to act in co-operation with the overseas commission under Mr. Lloyd Harris, in securing trade from Canada and in arranging for the absorption of orders here. Sir Charles Gordon is at present in Washington in his capacity as representative of the British munition ministry, clearing up the various details connected with the closing down of its munition industry. He is also vice-chairman of the Imperial Munitions Board in Canada.

The proposed new head of the Canadian Trade Commission is connected with a wide variety of Canadian industries and financial institutions, including the Dominion Textiles, Penmans Ltd., the Bank of Montreal, the Royal Trusts, the Canadian Tube and Iron Co., Ltd.

Tucks of all sizes are used, both on shirtwaists and separate skirts.

The very high collars on coats give them great smartness.

LIFE IN PETROGRAD RENDERED TERRIBLE BY EXTREME FAMINE

Only Half Million Left of Former Population of Two Millions.

MIDDLE CLASSES DIE BY THOUSANDS.

Hundreds Are Buried Daily; Hotels, Restaurants Are Closed.

STOCKHOLM, Dec. 7.—(By The Associated Press). — Fugitives from Russia who have reached here say that life in Petrograd is terrible. The famine there, they say, defies the imagination. Flour is selling for 50 rubles and butter and sugar for 150 rubles per kilogram (2.2 pounds). Herrings are the only food obtainable, and sell for five rubles each. All middle class elements are excluded from public eating houses, and are dying of starvation by thousands. Hundreds are buried each day between six and nine o'clock in the morning, no funerals being permitted later during the day.

Of a normal population of two millions, only half a million is left in Petrograd. The city looks deserted. Half of all the flats are occupied by Red Guards and their families. Hotels, restaurants, cafes and offices are closed. The houses of the middle classes are deserted, their furniture stolen and windows smashed.

Many widely known persons have been shot or have starved to death recently. Rumours of approaching Entente intervention have increased Bolshevistic hatred, and resulted in frenzied persecution of the middle class elements. There is a great nervousness in the neutral legation. The Polish Legation has been looted, while the Swiss Legation has been entered forcibly. The personnel of this legation has left Petrograd.

FOURTH ANNIVERSARY OF THE IMMACULATE CONCEPTION CHURCH

A branch of the Holy Name Society was organized by the men of the Church of the Immaculate Conception yesterday afternoon as one of the events of the fourth anniversary of the church. One hundred and ten men were present and the following officers were elected:

President—Mr. Dan McCabe.
Vice-Pres.—Mr. J. Malane.
Secretary—Mr. H. Gainey.
Treasurer—Mr. J. Devlin.

Most of the congregation received communion at the early mass, and at 10.30 His Lordship Bishop O'Brien celebrated Pontifical High Mass and preached the sermon. He also sang Pontifical vespers in the evening, assisted by Rev. Peter McGuire and Rev. Michael O'Brien. Rev. J. J. O'Brien, pastor of the Church of the Sacred Hearth, preached the sermon. He spoke on the text, "Thou art all fair and there is no stain in thee," from the Canticle of Canticles, explaining the doctrine of the Immaculate Conception of the Blessed Virgin. It was presaged in Genesis and in the Book of Wisdom, and was believed from the first days of Christianity. The liturgy of St. James referred to the Mother of God as the holy, immaculate mother, and practically the same words were used in the Alexandrian liturgy, which was another of the oldest liturgies of the church. The records of the catacombs and the writings of the early fathers also testified to its belief in the early days of the church, as did the Council of Trent in the fifth century. In 1492 the boat that carried Columbus to America, was named "Mary of the Conception," and the second island he discovered he called Mary Immaculate. The first chapel opened in Quebec in 1608 was known as the chapel of Mary Immaculate. Hence, although the doctrine did not become a dogma until 1854, Father O'Brien said, it was not a new one, but had been believed through the centuries back to the first days of the church. The whole doctrines were complet with the apostles. By the Immaculate with the apostles. By the Immaculate Mother of God had been free from original sin. It was a reasonable doctrine because the God of all sanctity, who came into the world for the purpose of cleansing it from sin could not spring from a sinful source.

$60 DAMAGE CLAIM IN DIVISION COURT FOR AUTO DAMAGE

A jury of five men heard a Division Court case this morning, Judge Huycke presiding, in which J. S. Coon claimed $60 from W. Downer, 181 River Road, for damages to his car in a traffic accident on Charlotte street about 10 p.m. on September 16th last. Mr. G. N. Gordon, solicitor for the plaintiff, in reviewing the case to the jury, stated that Mr Downer was a collector of mail. He engaged a boy, Cecil Delong, 15 years old, to help him. Delong was driving a horse and buggy east on Charlotte street near the corner of St. Thomas street. Mr. Coon was motoring home in the rain. He was going west and on the north side of the street. Suddenly, it was alleged, Delong's horse cut across the street in front of the automobile and on the wrong side of the street. The automobile was damaged on the right hand side, the fender crushed in and other parts broken. The claim was pressed against Mr. Downer on the ground that he was liable for his agent, Delong.

The jury was composed of Thomas Brown, Ernest Benson, George Boys, E. J. Brown and Wellington A. Boys.

Mr. F. D. Kerr appeared for Mr. Downer.

Police Sergeant Arthur Blade said that he was in charge of the police station that night when the accident was reported by telephone. "There were no constables at the station so I went myself. The buggy and automobile were locked together about twelve feet west of Thomas street. They were in the middle of the street, on the car tracks and were blocking traffic. The top and seat of the buggy had been thrown off the box. The side curtains were up. Delong told me he didn't see the automobile until it crashed into him. I thought the boy's hip was broken, and had him sent to the hospital."

Sergeant Blade stated to Mr. Kerr that he held a license as an expert driver. Delong was driving east when he collided with the automobile.

"Did you see the horse?" Mr. Kerr asked.

"Nobody saw the horse, as far as I could learn."

"It was a horse-drawn vehicle?"

"Yes. I don't know what became of the horse."

Witness said that the hind wheels of the automobile had scored the pavement for ten or twelve feet, indicating that the brakes had been thrown on about four feet west of Thomas strget.

Explaining the direction from which the buggy had been struck, Sergeant Blade said that its right-hand wheel had been wrenched off.

Michael Duffus verified a bill to Mr. Coon for $83.75 for the repairs to his car. To Mr. Kerr he said that a horse and buggy should be visible at fifteen yards in the radiance of the Ford's electric headlight. Rain on the windshield would reduce the visibility by one-third.

British Troops Reached Rhine

Remarkable Feats in Salvaging Wrecked Ships

(Saturday Evening Post).

Up to date the Salvage Department of the British Admiralty has been able to restore to service in the neighbourhood of four hundred and fifty sunken or damaged ships, and by these performances has been able to discount the ravages of the rabid U-boats by well over a million tons of ocean-going bottoms. This branch of the fighting fleet—for it is a recognized part of the regular navy—has come entirely into being since the outbreak of war.

The British Navy, with its enormous peace-time fleet, was well-nigh entirely lacking in salvage facilities until the concluding months of 1914. Various disasters had quite failed to awaken the authorities to the need of Government-owned salvage craft and wrecking gear. At the start the Admiralty's Salvage Section was devoted to taking care of stricken battle craft; but by October, 1915, its main function had become that of dealing with damaged or sunken merchantmen. Mines, storms, collisions and the sinister submarine had by then taken such a toll of tonnage that it was imperative that something be done toward offsetting the losses — in short, to refloat and to repair any sizeable vessel which could be saved.

The man chosen to head the newly formed department of the Admiralty is not a naval officer. He is a practical and very successful marine salvor. Captain Fred. W. Young, the man in question, is a bluff, sea-tanned type of British mariner who scoffs at gold trappings and prefers to work in his shirt sleeves. He can well afford to neglect the mere badges of authority, for he has behind him a record of things done in the field of wrecking that has won for him world-wide recognition. Ten years ago he wrought a salvage wonder when he turned over H.M.S. Gladiator, lying on her side in the open waters of the Solent, and refloated that dead weight of six thousand tons, notwithstanding the fact that the cruiser had a hole in her side fifty feet long, which reached from her gunwale down to within a few inches of her bilge keel. He did this by means of submergible pontoons.

Saving a Freighter.

A large freighter, laden with a cargo of foodstuffs, valued at fifteen million dollars, was torpedoed by an unseen U-goat shortly after entering the home waters over there. Salvage vessels were rushed to her relief; but she went to the bottom a short way off-shore in fairly deep water. Her shelter deck, fifty-seven feet above the keel, was just awash for about two hours at low tide. The torpedo that got the ship tore a hole in her side forty feet long and twenty-eight feet wide. Before the war a craft so circumstanced would have been declared a total loss, in all likelihood, and left untouched, or have been blown up if an obstruction to navigation. But the Salvage Department looked upon her as a promising problem, and Captain Young's men tackled that job, fortified by special facilities which have been developed or perfected since 1914. Among these are the submergible electric pump and the so-called standard patch.

The ordinary wrecking or lift pump, which is operated at the surface, can raise water only a matter of twenty-eight feet or so, while the submergible pump can be lowered deep into the flooded interior of a sunken ship and lift out of her hundreds of tons of water hourly to a height of from seventy-five to eighty feet. Electric current is supplied by means of an armoured cable from one of the salvage boats, and this connection can be broken and the pumps left safely in the hold of the wreck in case of stormy weather and the temporary abandonment of operations.

Pumps of this sort were placed deep down in the submerged stokehold of the freighter in question, and by the aid of divers accustomed to the perilous work of exploring the interior of sunken ships holes were drilled and blasted in divisional walls of steel, so that the water could drain into a common sump in the stokehold and engine room and thence be discharged surfaceward. In this way the freighter was lightened sufficiently at low tide so that part of her cargo could be removed and her position shifted into shallower water. There she was temporarily patched, thousands of tons of the goods aboard were unloaded, refloated by further pumping, and then towed to port for permanent repairs.

Torpedoed Twice and Yet Saved.

A seven-thousand-ton cargo carrier had nearly reached her haven when she was intercepted by a U-boat and torpedoed. Her captain promptly headed her for the shore and beached her in shallow water before rescuing tugs hove in sight. The Salvage Department then took her in charge, closed the gaping hole in her side by means of a standard patch, pumped her out, and a few days later had her afloat and bound for the nearest repair base.

But the enemy was alert, and, before the harbour was made, torpedoed her again. The second injury was on the side opposite the patch, but, notwithstanding the force of the explosion the temporary closure remained substantially water-tight.

The ship was once more beached and patched; but he had been landed in an awkward place and was so high and dry that she could not be pulled into deep water. In order to refloat her, sliding ways were built under her, much as was done in the case of the U. S. S. Morongahela, which was carried ashore by a tidal wave in the West Indies in the late sixties. The vessel was then launched without further mishap and a little later was overhauled and refitted for active service.

Sinking to Save.

The American tanker O. B. Jennings, carrying sixteen thousand tons of oil, collided last April in the English Channel with a large freighter, also partly laden with oil and other highly inflammable commodities. The stern of the latter vessel tore a great rent in the tanker's side and the friction caused by the impact set the Jennings aflame. The rescuing tugs found it impossible to subdue the blaze, and to save the splendid ship and her valuable cargo she was deliverately sunk by gun fire.

Divers afterward closed the wound occasioned by the collision and plugged the holes made by the shells. The Jennings was raised, towed to port, and temporarily repaired and run to the United States for thorough overhauling. On the 5th of August, unfortunately, the tanker was attacked by a U-boat off the coast of Virginia when homeward bound and sent to a watery grave.

The British ship that collided with the Jennings also took fire, and the explosions that followed killed pretty nearly all of her crew. Notwithstanding she was so dangerous as a powder magazine, the wreckers undauntedly approached her to save her. The character of the men in the salvage flotilla was splendidly evidenced by their courage in boarding the flaming freighter in order to attach hawsers so that she might be pulled stern first against the wind for the purpose of preventing the spread of the conflagration within her.

After towing the vessel for nine hours a mine exploded under her, parting one of the cables, and a moment later two other mines burst beneath her stern. Finding it impossible to get hold of her again, the craft was sunk by gunfire near an exposed inlet on the south coast of England. The steamer has since been raised.

CONDEMNS WAY CASE HANDLED.

TORONTO, Dec. 9.—Not only did Mr. Justice Riddell, in a judgment delivered at Osgoode Hall, quash the conviction of Sam Hackam, a Syrian, but gave no protection to the magistrate who sentenced him, and assessed him along with the prosecutor to pay the costs. Hackam was charged with failing to register as an alien enemy, as required by an Order-in-Council of September, 1916, convicted and fined $250. On default of payment he was imprisoned for two months. Hackam went to jail but the next day paid the fine and through his solicitor, Mr. H. H. Davis, of Toronto, entered an appeal against the conviction on the grounds that the Order-in-Council did not apply to him, as he was not at that time an alien of enemy nationality, residing in Canada. He also claimed that the prosecution should have been brought within six months of the alleged offence, as there was no provision to the contrary in the Order-in-Council.

BIG LIQUOR HAUL AT PORT HOPE.

License Inspector Goodrich seized 75 bottles of liquor in a widow woman's private dwelling at Port Hope. The supposition is that the liquor was stored there by a man, said to be connected with the livery business at Port Hope, who it is further rumoured has been selling it. It is stated that Mr. Goodrich visited the house, and succeeded after some conversation with the lady in getting her to confess the whole story.

AND HAVE US EXPLAIN THE PLAN

How the Government Takes Care of Confiscated Liquor

Government Has $25,000 Worth of Liquor and Also a Warehouse to Keep it in—How it is Disposed Of.

Times have changed in Ontario. Not so very long ago the Ontario License Board needed but a small portion of the cellar at the Parliament Buildings in Queen's Park to keep the cases of liquor which their officers seized on account of it being illegally handled.

In the olden days, when the express companies would drop a couple or three cases of whiskey into the buildings there would be but a few who bothered taking any notice of it. Then, during 1917, there would be a larger crowd gathered to witness the arrival.

Had to Secure Warehouse.

Since the beginning of 1918, there has been very little brought up to the buildings. The License Board has found it necessary to engage a warehouse down town to hold all the liquor that has been seized.

Twenty-five thousand dollars worth of booze, it is estimated, now reposes in the cellar of the Parliament Buildings and in the warehouse. In the past, this would represent about twenty-five thousand good-sized headaches, provided the money had been judiciously invested. But, alas, the price of headaches has gone up.

Price Goes Up.

This December the price of a headache via the Tippling route, has reached the sum of at least five dollars.

People have tried many different substitutes, but all of them have proved failures. And now the License Board and the Ontario Board of Health are contemplating cutting off the last resort —certain patent medicines which are said to be not so bad to taste and to contain a certain good percentage of alcohol.

"What are they doing with all this seized liquor?" was a question asked by one citizen.

A Suggestion.

One suggestion made by a returned soldier is that the Government might dispose of it to the soldiers who have come back after that fateful order-in-council of Ottawa which made the whole province so dry.

Some of the bulk liquor is sold to the Government vendors at the same price they could get it at the distillery, and these vendors in turn sell it to the public who come armed with a doctor's prescription and demand an imperial quart of liquor, instead of just a reputed quart.

Hospitals Get Some.

Then hospitals and dispensaries and other public institutions are able to get some of it for medicinal purposes free of charge. While the military camps are still being held here, they will get a fair portion of it. The recent influenza epidemic also took a considerable quantity, which was supplied to the hospitals.

The License Board has a never-failing well. Far more comes in than ever goes out. Now and again they get a big seizure, sometimes as much as $10,000 or $12,000 worth at a time.

Can't Get a Bottle.

There was a time, it is told, when the authorities were a little lax over what became of the liquor seized, and once in a while a person got hold of a bottle, and it was never missed. To-day one could no more pry loose a bottle than a burglar could loose a bottle than a burglar could

Every bottle that is given out has to be accounted for, and before it is given to a hospital, etc., the applicant has to go through a regular cross-examination as to what it is wanted for, who handles it, and what chance of it being used just to give a thirsty man "happy days."

How it Comes In.

The ways in which liquor has been brought into Ontario since total prohibition came into force are devious Shipments by the carload have been camouflaged as hay, but the noses of the liquor sleuths have unearthed them. Some of the liquor has been disguised as fish, hot water bottles, sofa cushions and lumber, but they have been discovered. Still, at that a whole lot of alcohol yet slips through disguised in one way or another. When men began to fear they couldn't get it in, women took a hand in the game. When the police started to get suspicious of women then children were employed.

Sammies' Surplus Wardrobe Costs U.S. $750,000,000

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—According to carefully compiled figures there is in Government possession fully three-quarters of a billion dollars' worth of clothing for soldiers. Part of this supply is in France and the balance in this country. This amount of merchandise does not include textiles uncut, of which there are possibly one-quarter billion yards, including woollens and cottons. Not a garment or shoe enumerated below has ever been allotted a soldier. Many millions of dollars' worth of clothing are of course in use, most of which has a second-hand value.

The long list of items include nearly 23,000,000 trousers and breeches valued at approximately $160,000,000; over 17,000,000 coats which cost fully $10 each of $170,000,000; about 4,000,000 overcoats worth in excess of $50,000,000; upwards of 50,000,000 pairs of drawers and a like number of undershirts, costing about $180,000,000; about the same amount of socks with a value of about $18,000,000; fully 10,000,000 flannel shirts worth $3.50 each or a total of $35,000,000; nearly 6,000,000 blankets said to have cost the Government approximately $28,000,000; about 25,000,000 pairs of gloves, costing fully $1 each or $25,000,000 in all, and 11,000,000 pairs of shoes worth $66,000,000.

TO REPRESENT CANADA

Tom Moore to Attend Conference in Washington.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 7.—Tom Moore, president of the Trades and Labour Congress of Canada, left on Tuesday evening for Washington where he will represent Canadian labour at a conference with representatives of the American Federation of Labour to be held on the 14th instant. Among the matters to be discussed is a question of the amalgamation of several Canadian railway organizations in which railway men of the Dominion are interested. Mr. Moore will place the case before the American representatives.

Albanians the Most Warlike Race of Europe, Subdued Under Italian Domination

Gladly Disarm and Submit to Armies of Occupation, Abandoning Notorious Blood Feuds and Obeying Rules of Civilization.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—In a war geography bulletin issued from its Washington headquarters the National Geographic Society tells of the changes wrought in Albania under the military administration of the Italians. The bulletin is based on a communication to the society from Brigadier General George P. Scriven, U. S. A., who has just returned to America after several months spent in the Balkans on an official mission.

In this bulletin General Scriven says:—

"Throughout Southern Albania—indeed probably throughout all of Albania in these days—government is administered by the armies of occupation. The people have little to say as regards their own affairs and have been almost completely disarmed. In the Italian section, however, many local prefects and magistrates hold office and administer the law as it now exists, the old Turkish code having been partially replaced.

"For this administration lower courts have been established, methods of procedure drawn up and, wherever possible, natives have been appointed to minor offices. This recognition of the Albanians and delegation of authority to them has caused great satisfaction. They are beginning to understand that under the mild military control of the Italians they are treated simply as Albanians, without regard to religious differences No iniquitous distinction in law is now made between Orthodox, as the people of the Greek Church are called and Mohammedan. In this respect the Italian wisely differs from the Greek, who, perhaps naturaly enough, sees little good in the Moslem.

ALBANIANS AN ANCIENT RACE

"The Albanians are regarded as the most ancient race of Southeastern Europe. There is no record of their arrival in the Balkan Peninsula, no legend relating to their origin. They are thought to be descendants of the of the earliest Arryan immigrants and with praiseworthy persistence have retained their mountain stongholds through many ages

"Except for Byron's casual tribute in "Childe Harold," the Albanians, unlike othe peoples of the Balkans, have not been praised in song and story. Indeed, they appear to have but little attention from the world, except to be characterized as a turpulent race of mountaineers, whose principle occupation has been to fight amongst themselves when not engaged in fighting against some one else. But, like the early Swiss, these rude, untutored people possess many primitive virtues They have preserved, with remarkable tenacity the tradition of their descent, and are brave, honest and hospitable. Their lives having been spent in constant conflict with nature in its most unfriendly aspects, and they have been taught from infancy to fight against men as readily as against the warring element of the air.

"Albania is notorious as the land of blood feud—a tribal, or perhaps more properly a racial custom observed for many centuries. Travellers and commentators usually refer to the Albanian mountaineer as utterly lawless but in reality his actions toward his fellow men, up to a few years ago were based upon the strictest possible observance of law—a tribal law founded upon a most distorted idea of personal and family honor

BLOOD FEUDS EASILY STARTED

"The smallest infraction of custom —a blow struck in anger, an unwitting shove in a crowd—inevitably led to declaration of a blood feud and hon or of the injured party was sullied until he had slain either the actual offender or some male member of his family. The relatives of the slain individual were then compelled to take up the man hunt, and thus the feud spread.

"So fatal were these feuds that in some muntain districts it is said an old man is seldom to be encountered, in spite of the traditional longevity of the Albanian race. The men were killed off before they attained patriarchial years.

Many of the curious customs and rituals growing out of the blood feuds, it is the unwritten law of the land that a man must not be attacked while accompanied by a woman, and frequently a wife, daughter or sister follows her menfolk on all journeys through the mountains in order by her presence, to furnish protection from an implacable foe. Formerly in certain districts it was possible to buy immunity from the vengeance of an aggrieved Albanian, the price varying from $50 to $80, according to the locality.

CODE PROTECTS MOUNTAIN GUEST

A rigid code protects a guest in the mountain fastnesses, and if a traveller has slept under the roof of an Albanian the host, according to tribal law, is obligated to declare a blood feud against any person who insults or harms the visitor within a certain length of time after he has been entertained.

"Such is a picture drawn of the people of Albania less than a decade ago. It is in striking contrast to the country as I saw it a few weeks ago under the control of the French and Italian armies The change is especially conspicuous in that part of Albania which is under Italian administration. There the children are sent to school, the natives are paid more than a living wage for work which often is for the benefit of the people themselves, the country is effectively policed by the soldiers, and not an armed native, except for the Bandes is seen from one end of the occupied territory to the other.

"If feuds still exist they are unfulfilled and secret, for the arms of the mountaineers have been taken from them by the troops and among themselves the Albanians are practically at peace. The old conditions probably never will return. Light is coming to Albania."

No Amnesty for M.S.A. Offenders

Will be Prosecuted Rigorously, Says Acting Minister of Justice.

OTTAWA, Dec. 8.—Hon. Arthur Meighen referred Saturday to various communications that have reached the Government with regard to the prosecution of military defaulters. The acting Minister of Justice states that while fortunately the suspension of hostilities consequent upon the armistice, which has been arranged with a view to the submission to the enemy of terms of necessity of further drain under the Military Service Act, and consequently leads to the restriction of the activities of the military police there is no amnesty in respect of offences committed against the Act of regulations, and the policy of the Government to prosecute these offenders rigorously remains steadfast and in full effect.

The law will to the utmost practical extent be enforced as against defaulters belonging to Class 1 both those who failed to register under the proclamation of the 13th October, 1917 and those who having registered failed to report in compliance with orders. These men are subject to severe penalties which may be adjudged by the civil or military tribunals, and instructions have been issued to the Dominion Police to apprehend and prosecute all such offenders.

Moreover, employers and others should bear in mind that the regulations prohibiting the employment, harboring or assisting defaulters, deserters and absentees without leave, remain in full effect and will be enforced.

LOUIS F. SWIFT DENIES THERE IS PACKERS' COMBINE

NEW YORK, Dec. 7. — Louis F. Swift, president of Swift & Co., packers, denies there is a combination of meat packers in the sale of meats and the purchase of live stock. Mr. Swift's denial resulted from charges to that effect made by the Federal Trade Commission.

"In so far as we know and as far as Swift & Co are concerned, there is no foundation for the Federal Trade Commission's repeated charges of combination," Mr. Swift declared. "We are in open and active competition with all other packers, both in the buying of live stock and the sale of meats. These charges are a rehash of old matters that have been fully answered many times and are now resurrected for the apparent purpose of arousing antagonism toward the packing industry. The best industrial, governmental and publicity efforts should be constructive and devoted at this time to stabilizing conditions and establishing business on a sound basis."

Mother Never Received Letter

Peterboro Soldier Was Killed in Action and About the Same Time His Mother Died From Influenza.

The following letter concerning the death of Lance-Corporal Carl Noftall, formerly of the 93rd Battalion, was received a few days following the death of his mother, Mrs. William Noftall, 188 Dalhousie Street:

France, October 18, 1918.

Dear Mrs. Noftall,—It is with sincerest regrets that I write you to tell you of the death of your son, Lance-Corporal Carl Noftall, killed in action a few days ago. I was with him at the time that we were taking an enemy machine gun post, and I can assure you that your son displayed great courage all through the action. After we had taken the gun and I got back I did what I could to help him, but I saw that he was too badly wounded to move, but I dressed his wounds and did what I could. Even then he was brave and did his best to keep up. He asked me to write you, and his last words were of his mother.

LANCE-CORP. CARL NOFTALL.
Who was killed in action October 11th, or exactly one month before the armistice was signed. His mother died in Peterboro of influenza about the same time.

I turned his private papers into the orderly room, and they will be forwarded to you as soon as possible, and if you care to answer this note write to 3030096, Pte. Stanley Crowe, 20th Canadian Battalion, "D" Company, France.

Noftall was well liked by all in the Company, and as a N.C.O., I for one found him square.

Hoping these few lines reach you. I can only tender my sincerest sympathy in your bereavement. — I am, sincerely, (Pte.) Stanley Crowe.

"Kildare of Storm" is a Metro Masterpiece

Emily Stevens to be seen in this play at the Grand Theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday This Week.

Emily Stevens, the famous emotional actress, will be the attraction at the Grand theatre in "Kildare of Storm," a powerful drama of life in the south. The play was adapted for the silversheet from the novel of that name written by Eleanor Mercein Kelly, and published by the Century Company, and which created such a furore in literary circles. In it Miss Stevens is surrounded by a cast of notable players among whom are King Baggot, in the role of Basil Kildare. Crauford Kent, Florence Short, Edwards Davies, Helen Lindroth and Maggie Breyer. The direction was done by Harry Franklyn and the excellent photography was the work of Arthur Martinelli.

The story is that of a young girl who is compelled to marry a man, on account of his social standing and wealth, whom she does not love. He is of the brutal, domineering kind who believe that women are merely the toys of men and he treats her accordingly— parading her before his friends on account of her rare beauty —of which he is very proud—as he would a blooded horse or a favourite dog.

He drives her to utter unhappiness and for consolation she turns to the friendship of a young doctor and his mother — love develops between the young people and appalling consequences result. The plot is cleverly handled and is of sustaining interest —deeply dramatic and tenderly romantic. The script was written by Jere Looney and June Mathis and produced under the personal supervision of Maxwell Karger.

Six German Delegates at the Conference

Special to The Examiner:

LONDON, Dec. 9.—Philip Scheidemann, member of the present German government, declared in an interview with the Berlin correspondent of a London newspaper, that Germany will have six delegates at the peace conference and that they will be backed by the National Assembly. "A Council of six persons will be selected as peace delegates," Scheidemann said. "They will call upon the National Assembly to guarantee Germany's good faith to the Allies."

Regarding the former Kaiser, Scheidemann said: "The government is discussing the question of the trial of persons responsible for the war."

Scheidemann said he was inclined toward the belief that Germany ultimately will form a republic.

Bess—That's Mrs. Grabbit—she's a great war worker. Bob—Indeed! Bess—Yes; she's married four of her daughters to soldiers.

League of Nations Cannot be Instituted for British Navy

No Other State in the World in the Same Position as Great Britain, Says Churchill.

Canadian Press:

LONDON, Dec. 9. — The British Navy is the subject of an article contributed by the Right Honorable Winston Churchill, Minister of Munitions in the Coalition Government, to the Glasgow Sunday Post. He says that no other state in the world is in the same position as Great Britain.

Safety From Invasion.

Our safety from invasion, our daily bread, every means whereby we maintain our existence as an independent people, our unity as an Empire or Federation of Commonwealths and Dependencies, all those float from hour to hour upon our naval efficiency," says Mr. Churchill. Continuing he says: "If that defence is neglected we make our fetters, we shall be in continual danger of subjugation or starvation. We should be forced to live in continued anxiety if that naval defence were overpowered or out-matched by any other navy or hereby probably by combination of navies, we should hold, not merely our positions, but our lives and liberties only on sufferance.

Sincere Advocates.

In conclusion, Mr. Churchill says: "We are sincere advocates of the League of Nations. Every influence Britain can bring to bear will be used to make such League powerful in reality. This fine conception of President Wilson has been warmly welcomed by British democracy all over the world. We shall strive faithfully and loyally to carry it into being and keep it in active benefit and existence. But we must state frankly that the League of Nations cannot be for us a substitute for the British navy in any period that we can forsee."

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

NO ONE PERFECT.

Amo, Amas, I loved a lass,
And she was tall and slender.
At school, she'd always pass,
No need for tutor to attend her.
In mother's eye she was a prize,
Could sew, cook, but oh, what a letter!
Daddy said "Amen," but for her size
She should have had a Nelson typewriter.

Jimmy says, "'Tis never too late to mend your ways."

EDGAR BURNHAM CLAIMS $1,000 FROM MRS. C. H. ACKERMAN

MIDDLETON VS. FAIRBAIRN

Ernest Ward Middleton the plaintiff is a candymaker, and Andrew Fairbairn is a farmer in Smith; Charlee Beattie a co-defendant is a bailiff in Peterboro. Middleton rented from Fairbairn the candy shop at 458-460 George street, in May 1918 and on Sept. 11th was forcibly ejected for his rent that was in arrear, and without any process of law the store was locked up. Subsequently certain goods seized were sold and the plaintiff asks for an accounting, also $443.50 damages. J. G. Guise-Bagley for plaintiff and A. E. Dixon for defendants.

BURNHAM VS. ACKERMAN.

Edgar Burnham claims $1,000 and costs from Mrs. C. H. Ackerman for damages to his automobile in a collision on Park street on June 11th, which he alleges was due to the defendant's careless driving. He also asks for $10 to cover the rental of a car from the day of the accident until he purchased a new one. G. N. Gordon for the plaintiff, and S. T. Medd for the defendant.

DOBLE VS. LAPLANTE.

John R. Doble, a commercial traveller seeks $751.84 and costs for damages to his automobile while under seizure by Harold Laplante, acting as bailiff.

HARTWICK VS. WILSON.

Geo. Hartwick of Harvey, claims $2,000 with costs for injuries sustained by falling through an opening in [illegible] owned by his employer, Archie Wilson of the same [illegible] Lot [illegible] of the town. Peck, Kerr & McElderry for defendant.

LOGAN VS. FAUX.

Patrick Logan, the defendant, alleges that James H. Faux is the father of his daughter Martha's child, born on Sept. 30, 1918, and claims $3,000 and costs to cover his loss by reason of his daughter having to give up school teaching and the expenses of nursing and taking care of her. Gordon, Widdifield & O'Brien for the plaintiff; Porter Butler & Payne of Belleville, for the defendant.

Voice of the People

Peterborough, Dec. 9th, 1918.

Dear Sir,— I notice in Saturday's Examiner where an alderman accuses the Trades and Labour Council of being inconsistent in opposing the extension of the street car line, and that they ought to be glad to see fifty men employed at this time of the year. I wish to say that there was no objection to the work of extending the street car line, but it was the fact that the extension was on a street where it will be practically of no benefit to the citizens. Had the line been extended down Park street where it would have given accommodation to the large number of employees of the De Laval factory and that neighbourhood, there would have been some sense to it, but it looks as if a number of the aldermen are more concerned about the vacant property on the Monaghan road than they are about the accommodation of the citizens. The Trades and Labour Council is always glad to see work going on and money expended, but like to see it expended where it will be of the most benefit to citizens. As to changing the time for nomination from noon to evening a poor excuse is better than none.

J. J. HARTLEY,
President Trades and Labour Council.

CATTLE MARKET

Union Stock Yards— Receipts, 321 cars, with 5,889 head of cattle, 207 calves, 2,904 hogs, and 1,921 sheep and lambs.

The market opened good and steady for medium to common butcher and strong for choice quality and for canners. There was a big run of cattle offering, with a low percentage of choice quality steers and heifers. There was a brisk demand for anything good, and Christmas quality beef steers, heifers, and yealers sold very strong from $13.50 up to $15, the bulk of the best butcher selling around $14.

There was a good market for fat cows and heavy bulls, the latter selling up to $12. The demand was quite active for canners, from $5.50 to $5.75, which was better than last week.

Calves, choice veal, firm.

Lambs good and steady, the bulk selling at $14.75 and a few at $15.

Hogs steady and firm at $18.50 to $18.75, fed and watered.

The Event Was a Big Success—The Grove School, Honour Roll.

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 10.—The annual football supper was held at The Grove on Friday evening, December 6th. A goodly number of guests were present, as the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Mackenzie is well known, and this year was no exception. Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Tate, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Strickland, Mrs. Langley, Miss Hilliard, Mr. and Mrs. N. G. Fitzgerald, Mr and Mrs. J. M. Simpson, Miss Atwood, Mrs. Hamilton, Mrs. Marling, Mr. Keith Tate, Miss Dorothy Langley, all of Lakefield, and Mr. Dawson and Mr. Eric Stuart, of Peterborough, Cadet Gerald Moore of Saskatchewan, Capt. Bruce Lumsden, R.E., of Ottawa, Capt. (Rev.) Charles Hedley of Port Arthur.

The Toast List.

After a bountiful repast, followed the usual toasts:

The King, proposed by Mr. Mackenzie.

The School, proposed by Capt. Hedley and responded to by Mr. Mackenzie.

The Ladies, proposed by Mr. Dawson and Cadet Kenneth Mackenzie and Mr. Eric Stuart made graceful speeches in response.

The Old Boys and Absent Friends was proposed by Mr. Tate, and Capt. Bruce Lumsden responded.

The New Boys was proposed by Rev. H. Britton and several small boys replied.

The prize giving for the sports followed, and the remainder of the evening was spent in games and dancing.

The Grove school has a good reputation as a home-like school and the following honour roll is a creditable one.

THE WIFE

BY JANE PHELPS

Brian Shows Jealousy, Which Puts Ruth's Fears at Rest.

CHAPTER LVIII

Ruth noticed that Brian was listening.

"I think Mr. Beckly was very good to ask us. It isn't every young man who wants an old married couple with him when he asks a young lady to dinner even tho the man does happen to be the young lady's lawyer."

'She's game, all right," Brian said to himself as he sat down, and there was a feeling of pride that, in spite of himself, found expression in his voice as he added:

"Not much of a lawyer yet, Ruth."

"Enough of one, I guess, to attend to any business Mollie can have," Claude Beckley's sarcasm was not lost upon Ruth.

Mollie King, tactful as she was, blushed at the implication, but, quickly recovering herself, said brightly. "Is this your first visit here, Mrs. Hackett? If it is, we must point out our celebrities to you."

"I never have been here before," Ruth replied. "Please tell me all I should know."

"Claude is about as famous a character as we have," Mollie said with a mischievous glance at Beckly, "He both writes and paints."

'How interesting!" murmured Ruth, thinking if he didn't write more sensibly than he talked, it might account in part for his frayed appearance.

"Yes, you must get him to write some poetry not for you, but to you," Mollie added, her eyes twinkling.

Evidently she sees thru his pretense as well as I, Ruth thought, and was rather pleased that the woman whom her husband admired was not dense. It would be impossible to be at all at her ease with a stupid woman. She would not know what to say to her

The only time she had seen Mollie she had thought her very pretty and bright. It had been at the dinner Mrs. Curtis gave. But now she was more critical. She wanted to know well, this woman whom Brian seemed to like so much. Not that she wished for any intimacy; that was farthest from her thoughts. She wanted to understand her character—her point of view.

So as Mollie told her of the different people dining, she watched the while she listened. Mollie's speech, while in a way refined and showing education, was plentifully sprinkled with a gay, innocuous sort of slang that gave it point. She occasionally told a story about some one of whom she was speaking, and told it well. Ruth had to acknowledge, even before the dinner was scarcely commenced, that Mollie King was an interesting talker and would prove a delightful companion to any man if she was so inclined.

Yes, she must not underrate Mollie she thought as she turned to reply to some remark of her host.

"It's folly, having you here!" she heard Brian say as soon as her attention was obviously taken by Beckly.

"Claude is terribly hit with Mrs. Hackett. He raved before you came."

"Fool!"

'Not sauce for the goose, eh, Brian?"

"Not on your life!"

Brian's answer was so emphatic Mollie laughed gayly. But Ruth felt comforted. She had heard every word. If Brian loved her well enough to be so jealous of her, he would hesitate long before he did anything really wrong. The thought made her happier than she had been since Beckly had joined them on the Roof Garden the night before. Brian was silly of course, to be jealous of anyone; but of a man like Claude Beckly—it was really ridiculous.

Then came the thought. If I am attractive to others, perhaps he will care for me more as I want him to; hesitate to leave me or to take the risk of making me angry by being so much with Mollie. So she commenced to talk brightly with Beckly, simply laughing at his extravagant compliments, and leaving Mollie and Brian to entertain each other.

With a little smile, she saw Brian getting restless. Occasionally he would break into the conversation with some impatient remark when Beckly had been particularly fulsome Finally he said:

"Here, you two! this dinner is a foursome. Suppose we talk about something in which we are all interested."

"Or suppose we finish our dinner, and then dance?" Mollie broke in.

"Oh, do!" Ruth agreed at once. She knew she was a good dancer, and she loved to dance. To tell the truth, she was becoming tired of Beckly's compliments.

"Thank the gods I can dance!" Beckly said so fervently they all laughed. Ruth danced first with him, then with Brian. When it came time to go, acting on the spur of the moment, she invited both Beckly and Mollie King to dine with them a week from that night.

"We'll be there, won't we Mollie?" Claude asked.

"Indeed we will, and thank you," Mollie said graciously, but wih a look that Ruth could not fathom; a look directed at her.

To-morrow—Happy Days Follow The Dinner in The Village.

WHEN YOU WAKE UP DRINK GLASS OF HOT WATER

Says inside-bathing makes anyone look and feel clean, sweet and refreshed.

Wash yourself on the inside before breakfast like you do on the outside. This is vastly more important because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing illness, while the bowel pores do.

For every ounce of food and drink taken into the stomach; nearly an ounce of waste material must be carried out of the body. If this waste material is not eliminated day by day it quickly ferments and generates poisons, gases and toxins which are absorbed or sucked into the blood stream, through the lymph ducts which should suck only nourishment to sustain the body.

A splendid health measure is to drink, before breakfast each day, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, which is a harmless way to wash these poisons, gases and toxins from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels; thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate costs but very little at the drug store but is sufficient to make anyone an enthusiast on inside-bathing. Men and women who are accustomed to wake up with a dull, aching head or have furred tongue, bad taste, nasty breath, sallow complexion, others who have bilious attacks, acid stomach or constipation are assured of pronounced improvement in both health and appearance shortly.

"Escaped" From His Country

TURE NERMAN, a picturesque personality of the Swedish capital, poet, revolutionary newspaper editor, dyed-in-the-wool Bolshevik and translator of Robert Service's poetry, has been to see Prof. George Nicolai.

Three times, he writes, has Prof. Nicolai already won world repute. The first time as doctor, as an internationally renowned heart therapeutist, consulted by the Hohenzollern family and even by the Kaiser himself. Then, through his great epoch-making book against war, wherein, without any trace of pacifist sentimentality, with the tranquility of science and the keenest penetration, he showed up the damage done to humanity by the instinct for war and how it already was receding.

And when, one day recently, like a flash of lightning from the clear heavens, Nicolai landed in Denmark after a bold escape in a German army airplane had saved him from the consequences of his fatherland's reaction, the cable bore his name once more over all the earth, one rejoiced so much the more to find, as chief actor of that unforgottable adventure, the famous physician and fighter for peace.

A man with so important a life work behind him one might easily have pictured as elderly. But whoever meets him for the first time is struck by his youth. Nicolai is only in the forties. He is of medium height. An energetic face, reminding one a little of Schiller's. Keen, at times hard eyes. A tough, wiry body. Nicolai is already so acclimatized in Copenhagen that he makes long cycle trips through Sjalland; in Kongens By, as every one knows, all the world rides. A great scar across his forehead, a reminder that his student days were more traditionally Germanic than his later years. His is a figure expressive of power, intelligence and robust youth. But four wartime years have not passed over his head without leaving a trace; his thick brown hair is deeply grayer at the temples. World war people age fast.

Why did Nicolai take his renowned flight? It is a long story and rests on his persecution for peace campaigning. His peace lectures in Berlin were forbidden. He was sent to a little frontier fortress at Graudens, degraded—this brilliant medical specialist—to an ordinary hospital orderly. This, nevertheless, he endured; and he worked in the moments he succeeded in getting to himself, on his great book, which, like his diary, was sent sheet by sheet, through secret channels, under the noses of the imperial censors, to Switzerland, and assembled for printing. But the fortress commander began to indicate that this degrading was not enough, that he, Nicolai, might expect a heavier punishment for his improper peace strivings. He was now to be trained as an ordinary soldier, he was now to learn how to shoot, to die.

"They had no legal right whatever to do this," declared Nicolai, "I was liable to perform military service with my medical skill, but to make me an ordinary soldier was a flat offensive against the law. It was when this proposal began to take clearer form that I thought of escaping. When the commander one day announced that now the matter was clear and that the new training was to begin, my decision became definite. The chance of the airplane offered itself. I had to consider also my wife and my little daughter, who would have to be left behind. But they both took it bravely—and there was nothing else to be done."

After Nicolai's arrival in Denmark the Danish authorities arrested him as a spy. He was identified by a German art teacher who happened to be staying in Copenhagen, and he was released.

As soon as the German authorities got to know where the refugee was to be found they naturally made powerful efforts to have him given up to them. But the Danish Government stood fast against all attempts, even when the Germans, failing other possibilities, wanted to have Nicolai given up as a thief—for the theft of the airplane. He had, however, himself not taken it; quite undamaged, it has been sent back to its owners.

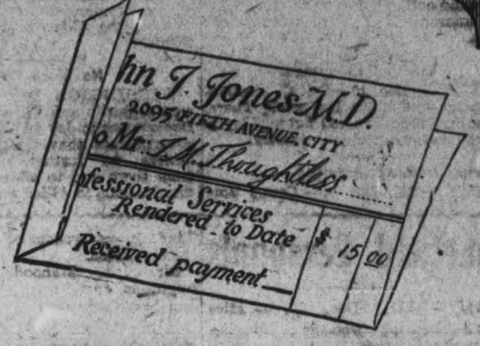
Physically none the worse, too, Prof. Nicolai found himself in neutral Denmark, the land of bread and milk in abundance despite the grim year of the world war. But his own private finances were not in good shape. When he went up in the airplane he was still a rich man. Next day he had nothing. Beyond his social position and a wide circle of friends he had sacrificed also his economic security in campaigning for peace. His not inconsiderable property was instantly seized by the German state.

"Here am I now," said Nicolai smiling, "in a rather strange position, a man without a country, a being without a passport. That is scarcely pleasant in these days of glory for each nation. I am really sorry that I cannot continue here my work as doctor. It is my real work and the occupation closest to my heart. It is odd; nobody doubts that I can do my work, but for all that the law forbids me to practice."

Nicolai has to live, in the first place, on the income from his book, "War's Biology," the foreign editions of which, beginning with the Swedish translation by Algot Ruhe, will soon be followed by a Danish-Norwegian edition translated by Svend Borberg and provided with a foreword by George Brandes. Heniemann, in London, will bring out an English edition. Nicolai himself will revise the manuscript for a second German edition.

If all women were mind readers every man on earth would take to the tall timber.

The airplane has been the model for several of the smartest hats.



Is This Your Bill?

"The Sins of the Flesh" are punished in this world—not in the next.

Disease is not an accident, nor is it sent by Providence. It is Nature's punishment for the breaking of her laws.

Hemorrhoids, for example, occasion an infinite degree of discomfort, suffering and misery. So does a fissure or a fistula.

But such punishments are meted out to those who sin against Nature in two ways, by neglecting to maintain regular, easy, thorough evacuation of the bowels—who form the bad habit of constipation—or what is a worse habit, the taking of pills, castor oil, purgative mineral waters, salts, etc., with the mistaken idea of overcoming constipation by forcing the bowels to move unnaturally.

But the Nujol Treatment for Constipation prevents such sins of the flesh, or mitigates the punishment therefor.

Nujol is absolutely harmless.

Nujol keeps the waste matter soft, moist and easily voided.

Nujol is not absorbed, does not effect the body—acts as a mechanical lubricant, which can be used for any length of time.

Get Nujol from your druggist. Take Nujol according to directions.

THE CANADIAN RED CROSS

ALTHOUGH in a general way the name and work of the Canadian Red Cross is well known, not so many people realize the immense amount of work this society accomplishes for the benefit of humanity.

This work is being still further extended in connection with the relief of destitute peoples in the devastated regions of Northern France and Belgium—$300,000 having already been allotted for that purpose.

The Canadian Red Cross Society is affiliated with the British Red Cross Society. It was founded in 1896, and was the first Colonial Branch established in the Empire. The society was incorporated by Dominion Charter in 1909. The first Red Cross flag ever used in Canada flew at Batoche, and may be seen in the John Ross Robertson Collection in the Public Library, Toronto.

The function of the Canadian Red Cross Society is:

"Extra"—(1) To furnish, for the welfare of the sick and wounded, comforts of all kinds which are "extra" to the supplies furnished by the Government to the Canadian Military Hospitals and other units.

"Emergency"—(2) To supplement the supplies and co-operate with the Medical Service in times of "emergency," holding itself ready at such times to provide, at a moment's notice, any stores required.

The Canadian Red Cross Society assists the Canadian Army Medical Corps Overseas:

(b) By furnishing, on indent of the Commanding Officers, extra and emergency stores of all kinds—clothing, surgical supplies, invalid foods, and hundreds of articles of all kinds calculated to make the hospitals more homelike and more efficient.

(c) By erecting Recreation Huts, Verandah Wards, and other buildings to add to the efficiency of the Medical Services and the health and comfort of the patients.

(d) By providing ambulances, lorries and other motor transport to expedite the movement of the wounded or the distribution of supplies for their relief.

The society has an Information Bureau in its London Office with four departments, which exists to find the individual Canadian in whatever hospital he may be, and provide him with all the comforts he needs while invalided.

A corps of visitors, organized under this Bureau, visits the hospitals where Canadians are patients, reports to their friends and the society as to their progress and their needs.

The Parcels Department despatches the comforts needed by each man—fruit, flowers, stationery, smokes, toilet requisites, games, fancy work materials, and so on.

The Newspaper Department tries to secure for each man his own "Home Town" newspaper.

The Drives and Entertainment Department provides recration outside the hospital or home for the patients well enough to profit by it.

The Enquiry Department searches continually for news of "missing" men, often gleaning information from other wounded men of the same battalion through the Red Cross visitors.

The Canadian Red Cross Society undertakes to despatch to every Canadian prisoner in enemy countries, regardless of rank, the maximum amount of food and clothing permitted by the regulations of the Central Care Committee for Prisoners of War, which was established by the Joint Committee of the British Red Cross and St. John of Jerusalem to be the central authority with regard to all British prisoners.

No food, clothing or other articles, except money, letters and newspapers, can reach Canadian prisoners in enemy countries unless they are either sent by the Canadian Red Cross Society itself or under its direction or bear the coupon which this society is empowered, by the Central Care Committee, to issue to the next-of-kin.

The Canadian Red Cross Society provides a Rest Home for nurses in London (Ennismore Gardens), with accommodation for forty. It also provides a Rest Home at Boulogne for nursing sisters passing through that base, which is open to all nurses with the B. E. F., whether Canadians, Australians, Americans or Imperials, and can accommodate some 60 nurses at one time. All these homes are open to the Nursing Service of the Canadian Army Medical Corps, to members of the Imperial Nursing Service, to Canadian V.A.D.'s, and to the voluntary staff of the Canadian Red Cross Society in London.

In 1917 the head office of the society received from the Provinces of Canada the following sums:

Alberta	$107,725
British Columbia	84,883
Manitoba	230,197
New Brunswick	16,536

GOVERNMENT HOUSE
OTTAWA

The work already accomplished by the Red Cross Society of which all its members may well regard [illegible] with pride and satisfaction, & the support which has unanimously been extended to all its efforts proves that the people of Canada are determined to give to the full possible assistance to those who are making such sacrifices to defend our homes and our Empire.

The constant increase in our work is a heavy drain on the funds and supplies of the Society, and I am confident that in the future as in the past ample means will always be forthcoming to meet the growing demands both in Canada and overseas.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

The Charmed Life

By ALVAH JORDAN GARTH

He had a plain, common name, Hugo Bahl, he was homely of face, big handed, clumsy in all his movements. One eye had been blinded in youth, yet he had a soul clear as crystal and the gentle nature of a child.

The little village of Grasden was his world and he never cared to go beyond its mountain-guarded confine. His home was his heaven. To him Olga, his wife, was an angel of beauty despite her work-hardened hands and misshapen form, and the two little children, a boy and a girl, freckled faced healthy rather than handsome, were cherubs! A few pence earnings a day meant once a week, patched clothing and pallets of straw—these ever present, but irradiated with the glory of full appreciation and thereafter they were happy.

And then! War leaped forth from hell, bent upon a long trail of death and devastation. Rude clamors shook the commonwealth, the loyal legions of menaced Belgium arose to smite the invading foe. Hugo Bahl kissed his wife, mother and children adieu and joined the ranks to battle for his native land. Then back to the village mother and another came. A thousand deaths were in their faces and one poor victory. Then the invasion of the heartless foe, and Hugo in the broken ranks of his comrades, was sent to France on duty beyond the frontier.

He was agitated and anxious when he heard that his native town had been invaded by the enemy. Then came dreadful news—a letter from a friend at Grasden. The enemy had sacked the village; they had burned up his little home. His aged mother had collapsed from the shock, and brutal soldiers had cut off the hands of each of the children. His wife had gone insane and had died.

Like one demented Hugo Bahl raged madly for a day and a night. Then succeeded a dull lethargy. It was later when he learned that his two little ones with hundreds of others had been deported to America. His company was abruptly ordered into action. With fierce savagery he sought the foe, as if thirsting for blood. He courted situations of extreme peril but escaped unscathed, seeming to lead a charmed life. One day the sergeant came to the captain of the company:

"I fear for Bahl," he said. "I believe in one of his wild mental paroxysms he will leave us."

"Why, he is our best fighter."

"Yes, thinking of Butcher Hollern, who led the attack at Grasden and who personally ordered the maiming of his children. Day and night Bahl mutters and raves of that fiendish apostle of 'Kultur.' He will reach the man yet."

But if Hugo meditated abandoning duty to hunt down the fiend who had robbed him of home and family, circumstances prevented. In a fierce dash against the enemy an exploding bomb shattered one limb and Hugo was a cripple for life. Limping upon a wooden stump, he was invalided from service. Because he was helpless he was allowed to return to Grasden. That was just what he wished, for Colonel Hollern was there in charge of a camp.

Hugo had now but one thought—vengeance against the despoiler of his household. It would have been easy for him to have visited the camp and have ended Hollern with a pistol shot, but he did not wish to kill that fiend until he had him in a position where he could first torture him and detail his wrongs.

He managed to get enough from friends to start a little barber shop. All along he nurtured his dreams of vengeance. Then early one morning his eyes flamed, his breath came in a hiss, his soul seemed on fire as Colonel Hollern entered his little shop. To the arch murderer Bahl was unknown. He threw himself into the chair.

"A shave and let me doze," growled the great bloated plutocrat, drowsy and dull from a night of reckless dissipation.

"Ah-h!" breathed the quivering Bahl. "Surely Heaven has delivered mine enemy into my hands!"

The colonel threw himself back in a comfortable position, his eyes closed. Snapping like a whiplash, the keen blade swept the strop. Then bending over his victim, pressing back his head and holding it firmly with one hand, Hugo pressed the razor blade directly across the throat of the burly brute. Hollern opened his eyes.

"Move or speak and I sweep the blade into your throat," hissed Bahl, his burning eyes devouring the being at his mercy. "I am Hugo Bahl. It was you who killed my mother and my wife. It was you who ordered the mutilation of my little ones. Now your hour has come. You fiend incarnate. You ruthless, soulless assassin."

His victim had gulped, paled, his face convulsed. Then he lay still and white, and then Hugo Bahl knew that he was dead. This warrior, this bold valiant soldier had died—craven that he was at soul—of fright.

And then Hugo Bahl left his shop and went to the little graveyard where two rude crosses marked the graves of mother and wife, and then somehow glad that his had not been the hand to wreak the intended vengeance, he turned his face to the west, beginning the long journey that should bring him to the new home, the free home of his lost little ones.

The Blood Pressure

"WHAT is the meaning of blood pressure?" you may ask, and "What has it to do with the health?" For as much as we hear of blood pressure these days it is somewhat of a mystery to most people.

Perhaps the easiest way to explain it is by comparison to water pressure, whereby water is supplied to homes and made available upstairs and down at a mere turn of the tap.

The blood in the human body is under a similar pressure as you will know if you cut an artery and see the force with which the blood spurts out.

The arteries may be likened to the rubber hose which you attach to the water system in your house. So long as the rubber retains its elasticity you do not fear trouble, but as it gets older and harder and begins to crack you dread the water pressure which is everywhere testing the strength of the hose.

And so it is with the arteries. The walls of the arteries harden as age advances, more particularly if the vital organs are not doing their full duty in filtering and purifying the blood and keeping it in rich, healthful condition.

When your physician suspects that your arteries are hardening and losing the elasticity which enables them to withstand the strain put on them he recommends that you have your blood pressure tested. Then he seeks a means of improving the condition of the blood and of restoring the health and vigor of the digestive, filtering and excretory organs.

In the great majority of cases the weak functioning of these organs is due to the low vitality of the nervous system, and the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is resorted to with most satisfactory results.

Comparatively few people realize that the healthful working of each and every organ of the human body is dependent on the amount of nervous energy with which that organ is supplied, and that when nervous energy is consumed in overwork or worry, in sorrow or mental anxiety, these vital organs must fail for want of motive power.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food cures by improving the quality of the blood and increasing the amount of nervous energy in the human system. In other words, it increases vitality, and this is what is lacking in persons whose arteries are hardening and whose blood pressure is consequently rising. 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.75, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto. Look for the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., on the box you buy.

IS THE ACID OF WAR.

Germany Has Immense Supply of Sulphuric Acid.

"If it were necessary to decide," said a French writer in the Revue des Deux Mondes of July, "which of all things produced by industry has been most needed and useful to the country since the war began, and without which defeat would have been rapid and inevitable, I should reply without hesitation that it is sulphuric acid."

It has long been an economic maxim, he continued, that the factor which best represents a nation's economic progress is its consumption of sulphuric acid. And it is the very life blood of war industries. In the two years, preceding 1914 Germany overstocked herself with six hundred thousand tons of pyrites to make sulphuric acid beyond her normal requirements. These figures may be drawn from her imports from Spain and they furnish an eloquent though silent answer to the attempted German excuses for that nation's great crime. Inasmuch as the war has lasted longer than was the design of the authorities at Berlin, they have had recourse to Norwegian pyrites and have cut down the allotment of German fertilizer industry, which normally requires, for superphosphates alone, some six hundred thousand tons of this leading chemical product. And bitter complaint has arisen from the farmers because of this restriction.

Sulphuric acid is needed as a war chemical in the manufacture of gun-cotton or nitrated wood pulp for smokeless powder, used to fire cannon. The cotton or pulp is first treated with nitric and sulphuric acids, after which it is dissolved into a gelatine-like mass to make it insensitive to shock, and then is cut into the prismatic disks which constitute smokeless powder.

Bursting explosives are required for loading the shells, and for these, no matter whether picric acid or any other high explosive is used, sulphuric acid must act in the process of nitration. Again in the preparation of nitric acid sulphuric acid is necessary.

When the war broke out the monthly production of France was only fifty-four hundred tons a month, mostly at the St. Gobain works, while the German production in times of peace approximated 145,833 tons a month. The present French production, however, for war purposes alone, has been increased to over one hundred thousand tons a month, somewhat approaching the present German production.

The Converts Grow.

Gustaf Sloesteen is a Swedish newspaper correspondent who has lived for fifteen years in Germany and recently returned to Sweden. He has been writing in a Gothenburg journal a series of articles explaining the decay of his pro-German opinions. He says that the so-called liberation of the Russian border communities has been a scandal.

"The way in which the Russian people have been economically bled, in spite of their right of self-determination, and in opposition to the principles solemnly proclaimed by Germany, has created a seething volcano at Germany's back."

Mr. Sloesteen says that neutral vessels on the Baltic cannot sail without a German safe-conduct, a fact which disproves Germany's claim that she is fighting for the freedom of the seas. He adds that owing to bold falsifications of the censorship the Government is under suspicion. "Nobody believes anything and general confidence is lost." Mr. Sloesteen is not alone. Public opinion in Sweden has thoroughly sounded the depths of German duplicity. No intelligent man can read the terms of the Brest-Litovsk "treaty," its subsequent emendations, and the Bucharest "agreement" without realizing that Germany's rulers are still brigands.

CHINA HAS PROBLEM

STRUGGLES OF REPUBLICANS IN FAR EAST

New President, Hsu Shi-Chang, Is Expected to Bring About Understanding Between Northern and Southern Chinese—He Is a Civilian and Military Heroes Who Have Secured Power Were Chief Trouble-makers.

THE new Chinese President Hsu Shi-Chang, is the fourth to hold that title. Yuan Shi Kai was the outstanding figure in Chinese affairs from the time of the Boxer rebellion till his death. His successor, Li Yuan-Hung was the first great military leader in the rebellion which led to the establishment of the Chinese Republic, and though a liberal and enlightened man, showed the effects of having been trained in a military environment. When he resigned office in midsummer of last year he was followed by Vice-President Feng Kwo-Chang as acting President; he was a commander who fought at first with Yuan Shi-Kai against the south in revolt, and later threw in his fortunes with the Southerners against his old chief. It is Acting President Feng who has just retired. The recent election is only the second of a formal character to take place in Pekin. It was almost unanimous, and the opinion seems widespread that it was the best which the Northern Parliament — the Parliament which the world recognizes — could have made. Whatever the new President's abilities, it is a relief to have the office in the hands of one not a military hero; while his election was apparently designed as the best attempt at placating the South that the Northern Parliament could make.

Above all else, China needs internal peace, which she has hardly had in the last decade. In 1911 fighting began to overthrow the Manchu throne. The new struggle commencing in 1913 was born of the fear of republicans that President Yuan Shi-Kai was making himself a virtual emperor—a fear well justified; and it continued with little cessation till in 1916 Yuan died just as the great object of driving him out had been almost achieved. The fighting which has gone on since early in 1917 and still continues has had more complicated mainsprings. In essence, the revolt which began in May of last year was a revolt against the Parliamentary Government, which, with the completion of the new constitution and under the favoring hand of President Li Yuan-Hung, seemed about to take on permanence.

The Manchu court party took advantage of the turmoil to set the boy Emperor upon his old throne for a brief fortnight. In the end, the President's old Premier, Gen. Tuan, arrived with overwhelming forces and restored order, but Li Yuan-Hung relinquished his office to Acting President Feng. Why has there not been harmony after this double failure of the military governors and Manchu party? Because, say the Constitutionalists who have since taken up arms at the South, the outbreak did not end in a restoration of true Parliamentary government. They did not trust Premier Tuan and Acting President Feng. They have called for a reconvocation of the Parliament which perished at the beginning of the imperialist revolt, and declare they have called in vain.

China in recent weeks has therefore been a republic with two Parliaments, one at Peking and one at Canton, each denouncing the other. The Southerners have control of five southwestern provinces, and of some districts in others, and recent despatches tell of sporadic engagements. The Southern Government recently published in the Shanghai Gazette and elsewhere a manifesto signed by Foreign Minister Wu Ting-Fang, the tone of which by no means closed the door on reconciliation. The Government called the Northerners a group of militarists and autocrats, and denounced their attempt to raise money in every possible way to carry on war with the South. But it stated that "no pains have been spared time and again to make clear that the sole aim of the Constitutionalist Government is to uphold the law and the constitution, its sole claim is for the restoration of the dissolved Parliament. If the order for reconvocation be issued to-day there will be peace to-morrow." At about the same time there came news of a conference of northern military governors at Tientsin, at which, according to the Far Eastern Review, "the policy of President Feng in attempting to settle the dispute with the south by negotiation was strongly favored by all the generals." But the south has since made it plain that, insisting on the present Peking Parliament and the reconvocation of a new one, it will refuse to recognize any of the steps taken by the present body.

Competent observers have not despaired of a stable republican government in China. Thus the Far Eastern Review warns outsiders "that all Chinese are not to be judged by the handful of blind and conscienceless braves and brigands who have managed to seize and hold power" in some sections. "It would be unjust if we did not do everything in our power to dispel the idea that is likely to form in the foreign mind that the whole of the country is corrupt, venal, and unpatriotic. Once let the Allies demonstrate that they are ready to help democracy, and there will be a tremendous awakening in China. Then the real Chinese will be able to effect reforms and demonstrate their capacity to develop along modern lines."

JOPPA.

It Was a Mighty Town In Ancient Days.

In the tribute lists of Thothmes III., King of Egypt, who held his court on the banks of the Nile, some 1,500 years before the Christian era, there figured the town of Joppa. Thothmes III. was a mighty warrior. He fought no fewer than seventeen successful campaigns in Syria, twice captured Kadesh and was one of the greatest builders and administrators Egypt had ever known. So, although nothing is certain about the matter, he probably captured Joppa and laid tribute on the inhabitants, who then, as to-day, built their houses over the "rounded hillock" which, from the sea, forms a gracious landmark. That was 3,400 years ago, and every now and again during all those centuries, the old city, which looks out over the Mediterranean towards the coast of Africa, away beyond Egypt, has stepped into and out of the history of the world.

The town was never within the territory of the Israelites, in Old Testament times, and so meets with only casual reference from the Old Testament writers. Thus it is mentioned, by the writer of II. Chronicles, as a seaport for the importation of Lebanon timber, which was floated down the coast. Said Hiram, the King of Tyre, in the course of his "kind answer" to Solomon's embassage for workmen and materials, "And we will cut wood out of Lebanon, as much as thou shalt need: and we will bring it to thee in flotes by sea to Joppa; and thou shalt carry it to Jerusalem." And so the great cedars of Lebanon, as they were hauled across the country between Joppa and Jerusalem, must have followed much the same track as that road and railway from Joppa to Jerusalem which has figured so prominently in the news of recent months. Joppa came into the hands of the Jews in the time of the Maccabees, and, although Pompey restored it to the Syrians, it was later given back to the Jews, with an exemption from tax.

And so the story comes into New Testament times. It was, at Lydda, which was "nigh unto Joppa," that Peter restored Æneas, "who had kept his bed eight years and was sick of the palsy," and it was, of course, in Joppa itself that Peter restored Tabitha to life. Here also he lodged for a time "with one Simon a tanner, whose house is by the sea side," and it was here that he saw the wonderful vision which taught him the universality of Christianity.

Later on Joppa fell on evil days. Strabo records that in his time it was a resort of pirates. It was destroyed by Vespasian in the Jewish wars of A.D. 68, but, as with most such destroyed cities, people, after a time, returned and rebuilt it. The great landmarks in the city's history are soon set forth. Joppa, with the surrounding district, was captured by the Knights of St. John, but was lost to the Saladin in 1187. Then Richard Cœur de Lion retook it in 1191, but it was finally lost to Malek el 'Adil in 1196. In the sixteenth century it had fallen very low, and history records that it was an almost uninhabited ruin. It recovered again, however; in the seventeenth century, and was once more a flourishing town when Napoleon stormed it in 1799. The modern Joppa, as the seaport for Jerusalem and for the whole of Southern Palestine, is a place of no little importance.

Two Mistakes Proved Fatal.

An Owen Sound man recently paid $25 in a fine, with costs, for covetousness plus. Seeing a monster pumpkin in a neighbor's garden he yearned for it—and took it. Then he yearned further to show it at the County Fair, and did so. The pumpkin was recognized by the original owner and a prosecution followed.

Government experimenters in Argentina have had much success in making pulp from the wood of several varieties of native pine trees.

NO CONSTIPATION NO PILES

We think, without a doubt, that constipation is the most prevalent, and at the same time, one of the greatest troubles human nature is afflicted with, and causes more sickness than anything else.

Unless a free action of the bowels occurs at least once a day, constipation is sure to ensue, then comes the sore and uncomfortable piles, sick and bilious headaches, coated tongue, obnoxious breath, sour stomach, heartburn, water brash, and many other ailments.

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills will regulate the flow of bile to act properly on the bowels, thus removing the constipation and its allied troubles.

Mr. Dan Doucette, Eel River Crossing, N.B., writes: — "Having been troubled for years with constipation and trying everything I know of, a friend advised me to use Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills. I used four vials and am completely cured. I can gladly recommend them to anyone who suffers from constipation."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills have been on the market for the past 25 years, and have been used with the best results by thousands of people in that time, and we have yet to hear of a complaint as to their curative powers.

A cake of Gold Soap is not only big but solid. It wears away slowly and evenly without crumbling or softening. It can be used down to the thinnest wafer. For this reason alone, Gold Soap is more economical than ordinary laundry soap,—it goes farther. But a cake of Gold Soap is bigger than any other laundry soap at the same price,—more soap for your money. It also is better soap—made only from the best materials suitable for laundry use.

Gold Soap is made in the Procter & Gamble Factories at Hamilton, Canada

VISION OF COWS.

Explanation of Apparent Stupidity of Animals When Approached.

When a cow faces an object both eyes may with ease be focused on it. When the object is at the side or rear one eye may be focused on it, while the other is viewing objects in quite a different direction. Evidently the animal may direct attention to one object with both eyes, or two objects with different eyes, or it may inhibit one eye and direct and concentrate attention with the other toward some object of fear or fancy.

In advancing in a car toward cows standing in the roadway it will be noticed that those facing the car usually turn to one side and let the car pass; those with side toward the car will, if on, say, the right side of the road, run and attempt to cross to the left side; those with head away from the car will usually run down the roadway ahead, turning off at one side or the other.

The reason why the cow or chicken on the right side of the road turns to go over to the left, and vice versa, is, I suggest, because the eye of the animal which sees and appreciates the danger of the advancing car, is by instinct kept on the dangerous object. To turn to the right and escape would blind the animal during the period of turning, and this she will not willingly do. But if she runs across the road in front of the car, the eye with which she first observed it will keep it clearly and continuously in view, and, she thinks, allow her to escape the impending danger.

Even when safely across, if turned around, by encountering a fence, or by chance, so as to perceive the enemy with the other eye, I have seen her run for dear life to recross the road to the side whence she has just come. The instinctive action, originally protective, is thus made a source of danger to the animal. The chicken, with monocular vision, labors under the same hallucination; it, too, thinks that the danger may be avoided by running with all its might, keeping the enemy all the time in view with the eye that was originally turned toward it. Thus, truly, the cow crossed the road because she crossed the road.

GREATEST RULE OF HEALTH

With all their differences in regard to disease, its cause and treatment, doctors are of one mind in regard to the one greatest rule of health, viz: "Daily movement of the Bowels." Unnumbered thousands of people suffer almost continuously as the result of constipation who could be readily cured by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills

Corrected.

The train was pulling into the station, and, as the passengers crowded to get off, the hotel man walked up and down calling: "King George, sir? King George?" Coming up to an old gentleman from the country he said, while stooping for the man's bag, "King George, sir?"

"No, sir," replied the old man, you're mistaken. I'm just plain Abraham McCarthy."

GERMANS STILL CRUEL

MORE TALES OF BRUTALITY IN PRISON CAMPS.

Germans Who Have Been Prisoners In Allied Countries Are Now Placed In Charge of Internment Camps and Are Allowed a Free Hand In the Ill-usage of the Men at Their Mercy.

THE German prison camp authorities have been trying another method of treatment of prisoners of war. They have installed at certain of the camps German officers and men who have been exchanged from England, and who act as officers of justice and corporals of justice to the camps. These officials are allowed a free hand in the treatment of prisoners of war, and, to judge by their behavior in some cases, the excellent conditions in British prison camps have made little impression upon them.

According to the sworn statement of a recently repatriated Englishman, the officer of justice at one particular camp has been dealing out punishment with a very free hand. A favorite practice of his was to order a parade of the camp at 9.30 p.m., and then at one or two o'clock in the morning give the fire alarm, following this with a kit inspection at 3 a.m. His sole object seems to have been to make the prisoners uncomfortable.

In the same camp a German corporal, who had escaped from France, was put in charge of the French, and he carried out a program similar to that adopted by the officer. When prisoners complained to the camp commandant—whom they describe as a good man ready to consider their complaints — the officer of justice simply showed his papers and intimated that he was paramount in the camp. This practice of giving German former prisoners of war a free hand in ill-treating British prisoners is typically German, and one which would hardly appeal to the subjects of any other country who had themselves been in captivity and regained their freedom.

Another former prisoner, a Royal Naval Division private, in a sworn statement describes his experiences at the camp at Frankfort-on-the-Oder from January, 1917, to March, 1918. There the commandant in charge said that he would like "to shoot every English swine who put his foot into the lager." Although there were 20,000 men in the camp only 50 or 60 were British. Some will never come back. "They went," says the deponent, "before civilian doctors, who ordered them to work, notwithstanding their condition. They were told to work, and, if unable were liable to be shot by the sentry or killed with the bayonet. A notice to this effect was posted up in the lager, and prisoners have been killed in this way."

A Royal Naval Division man has stated on oath that while working in the firing line on the German-Russian front near Kelzien in February and March, 1917, 40 prisoners perished. "The guards," he says, "had orders that if they were seen treating a prisoner leniently they would be sent into the firing line for a fortnight. The tent we lived in was shelled constantly. When we were out at work we have seen shells bursting in and around the tent, and it looked like a pepper pot afterward. There was an old barn near the tent, and the Germans had a machine gun in it, and during one night they played it over the tent just to show what they could do to us. The top of the tent was just riddled."

Another member of the Royal Naval Division who was captured on board the steamship Prinz Hendrik while going on leave from an internment camp in Holland to England, describes the flogging of prisoners resorted to at Cassel between May and August, 1917. After detailing his own particular case, he goes on: "I heard a man howling one night when I was in my cell, and I am sure it was another case of flogging, as I heard the blows. Afterward I heard it was a Frenchman who was flogged. It seemed to be almost habitual to knock a man about on his entry to prison. There was a bad case of flogging at Cassel which occurred after mine, the victim being a bombardier in the R.G.A., a fine powerful man who had been a Metropolitan police constable. I forget his name. He told me that they struck him across the back, and he retaliated, and laid out the searcher. Nothing was done to him at the time, but a number of German soldiers came into his cell at night, and gave him a severe thrashing and laid him out."

Another repatriated prisoner, a naval A.B., was one of a party of 15 Britishers who while in Heisenhagen Camp were set upon by 11 sentries, with the result that he and two others were badly injured. He goes on: "In this condition we were each ordered to get on with our work, which we were quite unable to do, and about an hour later we were taken to our shed. At four o'clock the next morning we were still helpless, but were ordered to work, but none of us was able to start. At nine o'clock that morning we were taken back to the shed and told to lie down. We remained for 12 days, but received no treatment or attention of any kind to our injuries. The name of the civilian commandant for whom the prisoners were working was Julius Berger, who was very cruel in every way."

Some Satisfaction.

One of our returned soldiers who got wounded early in the first scrimmage was asked how many Huns he had killed. He smiled rather ruefully—then brightening he replied: "I can say this, anyway, I killed as many of them as they did of me."

Generous Northerners.

In a recent membership campaign conducted by the Red Cross, Alaska obtained as members 94 per cent. of the entire population, this being fully twice the percentage secured by any other territory or state.

HAD SEVERE COLD

AND TICKLING SENSATION IN THE THROAT.

This trouble is most distressing, and is caused from a cold that has settled in the throat.

How many people have lost a good night's sleep by that nasty, tickling, irritating sensation in the throat?

The dry, hard cough keeps you awake, and when you get up in the morning you feel as if you had had no rest at all.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, which is composed of the most soothing and healing expectorant herbs and barks, combined with the lung healing virtues of the world-famous Norway pine tree, will give almost instant relief in all cases of this nature.

Mrs. G. C. Routley, Bright, Ont., writes: — "I take great pleasure in writing you of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

For several weeks I was troubled with a severe cold, and a tickling in the throat. I tried numerous remedies, but found no relief until I used Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, which I had heard so much about, and on taking one bottle got instant relief. I highly recommend it to those who need a quick cure."

So great has been the success of "Dr. Wood's" in curing coughs, colds, bronchitis, etc., it is only natural that many imitations have been placed on the market. The genuine is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25c. and 50c. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

THE "SCHUTZMANN."

Hun Policeman Carries Sword Only "Exceed" His Duties.

The policeman in Germany is usually recruited from the army. If he is not, it is all the same; he takes care to acquire the military air and manner which will at once identify him with that august institution, the German police. So that if one really wants to understand the German policeman, why he carries a sword at his side, and wears a helmet like a "Pickelhaube," and marches, acts and salutes like a soldier, this fact ought to be borne in mind: he is under colonels, captains, and lieutenants, acting lieutenants and sergeant-majors, and wears his war medals and other distinctions as proudly as any soldier.

His official designation is a "Schutzmann," that is to say, guardian or protector. Now in most countries the policeman is required to be the protector or guardian of the public safety, and as such the servant of the public. But while the German policeman is supposed to throw the aegis of his protection over the public, he never forgets for one moment that he is more military than civilian, and that the public is his enemy—as he theirs. For the rest it is a question of what the public owes him he has to protect—in the place, considering the number of guns he possesses, and the authority with which he

CHASE & SANBORN MONTREAL

Unionist member for Cariboo, and Thomas E. Simpson, Algoma West.

The complexion of the Cabinet is interesting. There are now twenty-one Cabinet Ministers and they are divided as follows: Presbyterians, 8; Methodists, 7; Anglicans, 3; Roman Catholics, 2, and Baptists, 1.

The Presbyterians are Hon. C. C. Ballantyne, Hon. J. A. Calder, Hon. T. A. Crerar, Hon. A. K. MacLean, Hon. Arthur Meighen, Hon. J. D. Reid, Sir Thomas White and Senator Gideon Robertson.

The Methodists are: Hon. F. A Carvell, Hon. Frank Cochrane, Hon. T. W. Crothers, Sir Edward Kemp, Sir James Lougheed, Hon. N. W. Rowell and Hon. Arthur Sifton.

The Anglicans are: Sir Robert Borden, Gen. Mewburn and Hon. Martin Burrell.

The two Roman Catholics are Hon. C. J. Doherty and Hon. P. E. Blondin, while Sir George Foster is the sole representative of the Baptists.

It is interesting to note the apparent powerful influence of Ontario on Western Canada. Of the six Western Ministers, five were born in Ontario. Only one, Hon. Martin Burrell, was born outside of Ontario, and his natal place was England. He is the only British-born in the Cabinet.

One of the Quebec Ministers, Mr. Ballantyne, was born in Ontario. On the other hand, one of the Ontario Ministers, Sir Edward Kemp, was born in Quebec. So that of the twenty-one Cabinet Ministers over half, or twelve, were born in Ontario. Two-thirds of the western members also first saw the light of day in Ontario. There are only seven British-born members of the House. They are Hon. Martin Burrell, Dr. Michael Clark, F. J. Fulton, Cariboo and C. R. Harrison, the new Labor Unionist member for Nipissing, who were born in England; Major R. C. Cooper, Vancouver South, and Andrew Knox, Prince Albert, who were born in Ireland, and John F. Reid, new Unionist member for Mackenzie, who was born on the Orkney Islands.

There are but two American-born members of the House. William A. Charlton, member for Norfolk, was born in New York State, but came to Canada when he was but eight years old. The new American emigration in Western Canada is represented by Charles E. Long, new Unionist member for North Battleford. He was born in Wisconsin in 1879 and is a graduate in science of Wisconsin University. He came to Canada in 1906.

The newness of the west is emphasized by the fact that of the west's 57 members only two were born west of the Great Lakes. They are Thomas Hays, who was born at St. Andrew's, in the riding he represents, Selkirk, Manitoba, and Dr. J. F. Tolmie, representative for Victoria City, who was born in Victoria. Mr. Hays is a son of one of the original Selkirk settlers. Dr. Tolmie's father was one of the pioneers of the Pacific Coast, arriving in the far west in 1832 as a doctor in the employ of the Hudson Bay Company.

"Where have the girls gone?" "To Sulphur Springs." "Um. Lots of matches made there. I s'spose?"

A CHILD GETS CROSS, SICK AND FEVERISH WHEN CONSTIPATED

Look, Mother! If tongue is coated clean little liver and bowels.

If your little one's tongue is coated, it is a sure sign the stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once. When your child is cross, peevish, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, eat or act naturally; if breath is bad, stomach sour, system full of cold, throat sore, or if feverish, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the clogged-up, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again.

Sick children needn't be coaxed to take this harmless "fruit laxative." Millions of mothers keep it handy because they know its action on the stomach, liver and bowels is prompt and sure. They also know a little given to-day saves a sick child to-morrow.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which contains directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine made by "California Fig Syrup Company."

FACTS ABOUT OUR RULERS.

Roman Catholic Members of Parliament Most Numerous.

The new Parliamentary Guide has been issued by Col. E. J. Chambers, Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod and Chief Press Censor. The new Guide is the first which has been published since the last elections and is of particular interest on account of the biographies of the new members of Parliament.

There has been much discussion as to the religious complexion of the new Parliament. The Guide settles this, except that there are nineteen members who have not furnished the author with their denominational choice. There are 67 Roman Catholics in the new Parliament. Of these only seven are in the Government benches. The Roman Catholics on the Government side are Hon. C. J. Doherty, R. H. Butts (Cape Breton South), Dr. J. L. Chabot (Ottawa), H. A. Mackie (Edmonton East), Capt. R. J. Manion (Fort William), P. F. Martin (Halifax) and James McIsaac (King's, P.E.I.). On the Opposition side are fifteen Protestants. This is exclusive of those who have not reported, all but one of whom are new Unionist members.

Presbyterians are second among the members of Parliament, totalling no less than 62. Anglicans are third with 34 members and Methodists fourth with 27. There are eight Baptists, headed by Sir George Foster, who describes himself in his biography as a "Free Christian Baptist." There are two Congregationalists in the new House. The Lutherans are represented by W. D. Euler, the new Laurier member for North Waterloo. The Jews for the first time in Canadian history have a parliamentary representative in the person of S. W. Jacobs, member for Cartier.

There is also a Quaker representative in the House. Isaac E. Pedlow, the new Laurier member for South Renfrew, professes this faith. Capt. Joseph Read, the Prince Edward Island mariner, who sailed every sea, is put down as a Universalist. Levi Thompson, Liberal Unionist member for Qu'Appelle, is a "Disciple of Christ." There are two members who simply describe themselves as Protestants. They are E. J. Fulton,

THIN PEOPLE SHOULD TAKE PHOSPHATE

Nothing Like Plain Bitro-Phosphate to Put on Firm, Healthy Flesh and to Increase Strength, Vigour and Nerve Force.

Judging from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing arms, neck and bust, and replacing ugly hollows and angles by the soft curved lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness.

Thinness and weakness are usually due to starved nerves. Our bodies need more phosphate than is contained in modern foods. Physicians claim there is nothing that will supply this deficiency so well as the organic phosphate known among druggists as bitro-phosphate, which is inexpensive and sold by McDermid and Jury and by most druggists under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphoric food elements, bitro-phosphate quickly produces a welcome transformation in the appearance; the increase in weight frequently being astonishing.

This increase in weight also carries with it a general improvement in the health. Nervousness, sleeplessness and lack of energy, which nearly always accompany excessive thinness, soon disappear, dull eyes become bright, and pale cheeks glow with the bloom of perfect health.

CAUTION:— Although bitro-phosphate is unsurpassed for relieving nervousness, sleeplessness and general weakness, it should not, owing to its remarkable flesh-growing properties, be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.

Recognition.

A colonel of a colored regiment, coming in about 10.30, was challenged by the sentry and responded, "Col. ——, officer of the camp." The sentry tried his best to pierce the darkness, gave it up, and finally said: "Looky 'eah, man, yo-all ah de foth man what's done tried to make me think he's Cunnel ——. Go way wid dat stuff." The colonel pretty warmly reaffirmed that he was Col. ——, and demanded immediate admission. The guard unabashed told him to step up so that he could see him. The colonel walked up to him in a rage, and you can imagine his consternation when the sentry took hold of the silver eagle on his shoulder, looked up at him with a grin on his face and said: "Oh, Lawsy! 'tis de old bird, ain't it?"

Women! Here Is A Dandy Thing

Few drops on corn or callus stop pain, then they lift off.

Your high heels have put corns on your toes, and calluses on the bottom of your feet, but care now?

This tiny bottle holds an almost magic fluid. A genius in Cincinnati discovered this ether compound and named it freezone. Small bottles of freezone can be had at any drug store for a few cents. Don't limp or twist your face in agony and spoil your beauty, but get a little bottle of freezone and apply a few drops on your tender, aching, corn or callus. Instantly the soreness disappears and shortly you will find the corn or callus so shriveled and loose that you can lift it off with the fingers.

Just think! You get rid of a hard corn, soft corn or a corn between the toes, as well as hardened calluses, without suffering one particle. Millions of women keep a tiny bottle on the dresser and never let corns ache twice.

NO DAMAGES ALLOWED

Cecil Delong, the fifteen-year-old boy, who was collecting mail for Mr. W. Downer, when his buggy collided with Mr. J. S. Coon's automobile on Charlotte street, on September 16th last, declared in his evidence in the Division Court action yesterday afternoon that he had never been sent to school. He could write his own name, but otherwise he was illiterate, and the boy's unfortunate youth called forth a sharp censure from Judge Huycke upon whatever official had failed to provide for the lad's education.

"He is a clever boy, and no doubt a good boy,' said His Honor in digresing from his address to the jury publicly to refer to the neglect of young Delong. "He was never sent to school, and one year was the full extent of the time he spent in school. He went to Sunday school and to church ocasionally."

Judge Huycke stated that this case should be made public and that an effort shuld be made to put a stop to the neglect of boys such as Cecil Delong. It was a disgrace to the community in which the boy had grown up to fifteen years and to the communities surrounding it that he had never been sent to school. The public officials entrusted with the care of the country's youth were to blame that such a thing should be allowed. Cecil Delong had spent all his time in Peterboro, or very near the city, and there was no excuse for the failure to give him an ordinary education at least.

"No boy should be put under the handicap in life, as has been this boy,' said His Honor, in speaking of the need of the closest attention to the education of all the youth of this country.

It was learned that Delong had lived in the city nearly a year, but this fact does not remove the blame from some near-by community that ignored the right of this boy to a primary school education, at the very least.

THE CASE DISMISSED.

The jury disallowed Mr. Coon's claim for $60 against Mr. Downer for damages to his automobile, announcing that they had concluded that there had been negligence on the part of both drivers. Mr. F. D. Kerr was solicitor for the defendant, and Mr. G. N. Gordon for the plaintiff.

CHARMING NEW EVENING FABRICS

To-morrow would be an ideal time to carefully inspect the big assortment of charming new evening fabrics that are now being displayed in the dress goods department of Richard Hall & Son. Such beautiful soft draping materials as Georgette crepes, ninons, crepe de chines, taffetas and salins in an abundance of all the pleasing pastel shades so very suitable for evening costumes are there in big variety, as well as many novelties in jetted materials for combinations and over dresses. The display is well worth seeing by any woman who has the idea of a new evening dress in mind.

Watch for Black's Sale

Owing to the heavy pressure on the advertising columns of to-day's Examiner, a half-page advertisement of Mr. P. Black's was crowded out of to-day's issue. It will appear to-morrow, and will be found worthy of a careful perusal by all economically disposed shoppers.

Counter Revolution in Parts of Germany is Reported From Hamburg

The Main Army Has Established Headquarters in Berlin—Bolshevists Broke Up a Meeting.

BREWERY STORMED

Special to The Examiner:

HAMBURG, Dec 10.— The counter revolution at Potsdam is in full swing, according to reports received here today. It is also reported that the main army has established headquarters in Berlin and is refusing to acknowledge the Workmen's and Soldiers' Council. The Workme's and Soldiers' Council here announced to-day that Bolshevists planned a coup d'etat in Hamburg last night but were frustrated. Several arrests were made.

Special to The Examiner:

AMSTERDAM, Dec. 10. — Bolshevists at Munich broke up a meeting of the democratic party, stormed a brewery and tore down German flags, according to advices received here today. Bolshevism is said to be spreading throughout Bavaria.

An American-Polish division, commanded by General Haller, is en route to Danzig from where it will undertake the occupation of Posen and Silesia, a Warsaw despatch stated to-day.

AMBASSADOR EXPELLED.

MADRID, Dec. 10. — Louis Polo Bernabe, Spanish Ambassador to Germany, has been dismissed by the Berlin government, it was announced here to-day.

Previous reports from Spain intimated that the Spanish government planned to expel German Ambassador Von Ratibor and his staff for alleged espionage.

WANT SPEEDY PEACE.

BERNE, Dec. 10.—The German people are concerned principally with demobilization and the problems of food and work, it was stated in a Berlin despatch received here to-day dated Saturday.

Newspapers in Berlin continue to demand that peace be signed as quickly as possible so intercourse with other nations can be resumed before the present supplies of food and raw materials—estimated as sufficient for three months—are exhausted.

THE SCHOOL BOARD NEEDS GOOD MEN

Mr. V. Eastwood, Chairman of the Board Will Retire at End of, Present Year.

Mr. Vincent Eastwood, chairman of the Board of Education, announces that he will not be a candidate for re-election to the Board. Mr. Eastwood's term expires at the close of the year, and, in his own words, he prefers to drop out and give somebody else a chance to serve the city in this capacity. "There never was a time when the Board needed good men," said Mr. Eastwood.

Recital Given By the Pupils of St. Mary's Convent

The recital given by the pupils of St. Mary's Convent last evening in St. Alphonsus Lyceum was attended by a large number of interested friends. Rev. C. J. Phelan occupied the chair.

The different numbers were given in a manner highly creditable to the pupils' splendid training, and indicated considerable talent among the young musicians.

PARIS FILLING UP WITH DELEGATES

Canadian Press:

PARIS, Dec. 10.—Every train arriving at Paris these days brings in large numbers of officials attached to various delegations to the peace conference. All larger Allied nations are continuously sending parts of their working personnel and by the time the delegates gather the number of officials of all nationalities will number between three thousand and five thousand. Each one will have some special work to do. Many of them are already busy.

Should Make the Sea Safe

"America is Under an Unfortunate Misapprehension," Says Morning Post.

Special to The Examiner:

LONDON, Dec. 10.— "The United States should continue in association with Great Britain, the task of making the seas safe," the Morning Post declared editorially to-day.

"Nothing could be more gratifying to England. No arrangement could be more effective to ensure world peace." The newspaper said it believed America is under an unfortunate misapprehension regarding the British naval policy as the result of statements by Winston Churchill, Minister of Munitions and former First Lord of the Admiralty, who is called a "tactless, impulsive politician." The English, in discussing freedom of the seas, it is pointed out, think only of the German definition, which means piracy. Therefore, it is impossible to relax the least precaution.

"CINDERELLA"

Here for a Return Engagement Thursday Evening.

HERE FOR A RETURN ENGAGEMENT THURSDAY EVENING.

F. Stuart-Whyte's third annual Canadian presentation of standard English pantomine, "Cinderella," will return to the Grand Opera House, on Thursday evening of this week.

With his pantomine productions, Mr. Whyte has established a following in this city that will insure crowded houses here everytime he offers a season of pantomine.

"Cinderella" is admittedly the most beautiful and at the same time most elaborate and costly to produce of all the English pantomines and it was not until he had created a demand for this form of theatrical entertainment in Canada that Mr. Whyte felt justified in incurring the financial expense necessary for such an elaborate production. The past two years have amply evidenced the fact that Canadians and Americans do appreciate English pantomine when it is properly presented. With this knowledge in mind Mr. Whyte has gone the limit and prepared a production of "Cinderella," the exquisite beauty of which has never before been attempted outside of the Drury Lane Theatre.

Miss Zara Clinton, who was the "Robinson Crusoe" last season, will appear as "Prince Charming," while Miss Sue Parker, a little ingenue, with a big Broadway reputation, will be the Cinderella. The supporting cast is large and well balanced, and the chorus is easy to look at. The Seat Sale opened this morning.

WELCOME AT STRASSBURG

President Poincare Assures People That the Keys of the City Will Never be Relinquished.

OTHERS PRESENT

STRASBOURG, December 10. — President Poincare and the Governmental and Parliamentary party of France, were given in Strasbourg, the former German capital of Alsace-Lorraine, the nearest thing possible to an official greeting in the province. The Djet appointed by the former German Emperor being defunct and the Landtag dissolved by its own consent, there exist no parliamentary institutions, but unofficially the native Alsatians of the defunct assembly gave President Poincare, Premier Clemenceau and the members of his Cabinet, and several hundred members of the French Parliament, and the members of the diplomatic corps of the Entente powers, including Marshals Joffre, Foch, Petain and Haig, and General Pershing, a reception that may be considered as having the sanction of official Alsace to the reasserted authority of the French government over the province.

PRESIDENT POINCARE.

Strasbourg had profited from its first fortnight of release from German hands and had put on a dress that was French for the occasion. The old Kaiserplatz had become the Place de la Republique; Friedrich Karl Strasse had been transformed into the Rue de la Paix, and the Rue de la Liberte had superseded another thoroughfare with a Teutonic name. Shop signs with German names everywhere had been revised, wiped out or covered over to conceal German connections.

President Poincare arrived early yesterday morning and was heartily welcomed by the populace, the keys of the city being turned over to him. The President assured the people that the custody of the keys would never be relinquished.

From the steps of the City Hall the President delivered another speech in which he said the desire of Alsace to be returned to the bosom of the mother country had been attained, and that henceforth the country would be French.

To quote the poet Gray—

"Morning smiles the busy race to cheer,
And new-born pleasure brings to happier men."

The joy of the Christmas season is in the air these December mornings — and this is a particularly joyful and peaceful Christmas season. When your thoughts turn to Christmas gifts—remember I have an unusually beautiful assortment of gifts for men. "Come to me."

Unionist Convention May Be Held in Near Future Regarding Several Issues

At Present There is No Means of Guaging the Opinions of Those Who Form the Present Government.

A MIXED AUDIENCE

Special to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, Dec. 10.—The question of calling a Unionist convention at Ottawa during the session is being seriously canvassed here. It is pointed out that since the formation of the union there has really never been even a caucus at which anything but war problems was discussed, and that no serious attempt has been made to secure a consensus of opinion among Union supporters on various economic problems and issues of the day. In fact should Parliament meet to-morrow there are a dozen or more issues upon which the government can do no more than guess as to what followers it would have right on its own side were a vote taken. Indeed, on the primary question of perpetuation of the Union alone the government have no conception of the general public opinions. Advocates of such a convention contend that were supporters of Union gathered at Ottawa it might be possible to arrive at a compromise on the main problems regarding which, at present, there may appear to be acute division between Liberal and Conservative Unionists. Otherwise such issues will be precipitated into a House, the temper of which has not been guaged. The tariff question, the railway problem, the question of the war time election act, reconstruction question in general, all constitute problems upon which there may be wide divergence of opinion. A convention called at Ottawa would go far to indicate public opinion or to the perpetuation of Union and the base on which such perpetuation might be secured. Opposition supporters are to hold a sort of informal convention during the session when representatives from various districts will be present.

Herbert Edmison Died in West

Was a Son of the Late Magistrate Edmison.

Herbert Edmison, son of the late Magistrate Edmison, of this city, died on Sunday in Winnipeg. He had been ill for some time from pleura-pneumonia. The late Mr. Edmison was well-known locally, having conducted a drug store here for many years. About ten years ago he disposed of his business to Mr. MacDiarmid, and left for the West to enter the real estate business.

He leaves his wife and one daughter, and one brother, George, in the West.

Funeral announcement will be made to-morrow.

Burnham-Ackerman Case Was Set Over

Mr. Edgar Burnham's action for $1,000 against Mrs. Hilda Ackerman was laid over for another sitting of the County Court this afternoon, because of the illness of the plaintiff. His solicitor, Mr. G. N. Gordon, submitted an affidavit from Dr. G. S. Cameron to the effect that Mr. Burnham's condition of health prevented him from attending court and undergoing the mental strain of examination, and that he would be unable to attend for at least five days. Mr. S. T. Medd, representing the defendant, agreed to the postponement, but pressed for the day's costs, stating that he had not been notified by Mr. Gordon of Mr. Burnham's condition until just prior to the opening of court. On this point, Judge Huycke reserved his decision.

Wilson Refuses the Invitation

The President Has No Intention of Visiting Germany.

Canadian Press:

PARIS, Dec. 10. —According to a wireless despatch from the United States' ship "George Washington," President Wilson has been informed that Premier Ebert, of the Berlin government, was about to make an effort to get him to visit Germany. President Wilson replied: "Only by long years of repentance can Germany atone for her crime and show sincerity. No true American could think of visiting Germany unless forced to do so on strictly official business. That is to say, I decline in advance to consider a suggestion of the kind."

World Happenings

TROOPS INSTRUCTED TO USE WEAPONS RUTHLESSLY.

(Canadian Press.)

MUNICH, December 10. — In a statement, Premier Eisner calls on the people of Bavaria to maintain strict order. He says that disturbances such as those that occurred on Friday night, cannot be tolerated and that troops assigned to preserve order have been instructed to use their weapons ruthlessly, if necessary.

(Canadian Press.)

WASHINGTON, December 10. — Vice-President Marshal was asked by President Wilson in a wireless message to-day to preside at the usual Tuesday Cabinet meeting at the White House. This was an unexpected move on the part of the president.

IVORY BRANDS

Those who wish to purchase Ivory Toilet Articles for Christmas presents, etc., are greatly bewildered with the variety of brands stamped on each article. For instance an article stamped French Ivory might be manufactured in United States, Canada, or Japan. The original brand stamped Oriental Ivory comes from Great Britain, and each piece is not only uniform in colour but will last probably ten years or even longer.

A BIG HOTEL WAS RAIDED

Dramatic Sequel to Friday's Attempted Arrest of Committee of Soldiers and Workmen.

PLOTTERS ARRESTED

(By the Associated Press.)

BERLIN, Dec. 10.—A dramatic sequel to Friday's attempted arrest of the executive committee of the Soldiers' and Workmen's Council occurred to-day, when the Hotel Bristol, one of the most fashionable places of Unter Den Linden, was raided by order of Eber Haase Cabinet. All exits of the hotel were guarded by troops and the premises were searched on the strength of rumours that plotters were concealed there. In one of the large apartments raiders found twenty-two men suspected of complicity in Friday's raid. Among them were Baron Rheinbaden, former Prussian Minister of Finance and the younger Prince Hohenlohe. A number of students found in the adjoining chamber were seized. Count Matuschka, one of those alleged to have been involved in Friday's disorders, has not yet been arrested.

Sergt. V. A. Henry Has Been Liberated

Mr. W. J. Henry, Homewood ave., received a telgram this morning from his son, Sergt. V. A. Henry, announcing his arrival in England, after having been held a prisoner in Germany for more than a year. He was captured at Cambrai in 1917. Sergt. Henry was with the Fort Garry Horse when the cavalry broke through the enemy lines in a drive that threatened the German lines, but which was broken up by a powerful counter attack. The fact that he has reached England would indicate that other Peterboro boys have also been returned.

Closing Down Aeroplane Stations

Service May Be Resumed and Extended in the Spring.

Special to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, Dec. 10.—Demobilization of the Canadian navall air service, organized during the days of the submarine menace on the Atlantic, is declared heer to be but temporary. The equipment are being carefully stored for the winter and in the meantime it is stated, plans will be devised for the continuation and perhaps extension of the service on a peace basis next spring. Meanwhile stations at Halifax and Sydney are closed down and staffs disbanded.

Among the plans advocated for organization of service on a peace footing is the suggestion that planes be utilized for fast mail and express service between various points in the Dominion, more or less inaccessible from each other by rail. For exploration and survey work they might also be utilized. It is also suggested that planes would constitute a valuable complement to equipment of Royal Northwest Mounted Police for patrol work, etc.; also, they could be employed in protecting of forest and game reserves.

Demand for Wood Continues Brisk

HARDWOOD AT $13 A CORD FINDS A READY SALE.

The two cars of hardwood advertised yesterday at thirteen dollars a cord, cut into stove lengths, are going fast. As one man ventured to remark this morning, "It is the best wood value that I have struck yet." Wood can be used to good advantage this weather and a few cords is a good thing to have in reserve for any contingency that may arise between now and the end of winter, which is early five months away. Telephone 86, the Peterboro Planing Mill, for a cord at $13.

DEMURRAGE CHARGE ON CAR OF COAL

A carload of coal was shipped to a Peterboro dealer and the demurrage charges are said to be in the neighborhood of two hundred and fifty dollars and are still going up. The coal resembles cinders, according to a coal expert d hs ban anento oet shadin expert and has not been accepted by the dealer.

Changes Suggested For the Workmen's Compensation Act

Deputation Represented All the Branches of Building Trades—Broader Scope of Act.

Special to the Examiner:

TORONTO, Dec. 10.—A deputation from the Building Trades League waited upon Sir William Hearst and Hon. W. D. McPherson to-day and asked the Government to make a number of changes in the Workmen's Compensation Act. All the branches of the building trades were represented by the following representations to the Government:

1—That the present rate of 55 per cent. of workmen's former wages was inadequate to meet the liabilities.

2—That the entire cost of all accidents should be borne by the various industries covered by the Act, and that injured workmen should receive compensation to the full extent of their former wages.

3—As a lot of time is lost owing to weather conditions, men should be compensated on the basis of the union or prevailing rate of wages paid in the cities or towns.

4—That the medical provision of the Act, which at present only cover the first month of disability, should cover the whole period.

5—That the scope of the Act should be broadened to include private companies not engaged in the building trade.

6—That widows should receive at least $30 a month for themselves and $10 for each child under 16, instead of $20 a month and $5 for each child up to a maximum of $40 as at present.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 10TH, 1918.

A TEST FOR CANDIDATES

The action of the Peterboro Playgrounds Association in deciding to request all candidates for next year's counil to state their attitude towards the question of providing a municipal bathing place in the South end of the city is a step in the right direction and should lead to some definite results. It has been a matter of which the citizens of Peerboro might well feel ashamed that in a city with a beautiful river running through it there were no facilities provided for public bathing. During the past summer the Nicholls Park Board earned the gratitude of hundreds of citizens by erecting a bathing house at Inverlea Park and by appointing a caretaker. The result was that many young people who had no opportunity before were given a chances to learn to swim. To the people of the North and Centre of the city the acion of the Nicholls Park Board meant a summer's healthful amusement and the enterprise of the officials was thoroughly appreciated.

A summer bathing place in the South end is a necessaryy and the Playgrounds Association may feel confident that they will have the support of the great mass of the citizens in their campaign to make Peerboro a better place in which to live. Any candidate for the council who will not pledge himself to support movements of the kind which will be of benefit to the whole community would be much better left at home and the question should be put squarely to every aspirant for office so that the citizens will know how to deal with the candidates on polling day.

PETERBORO'S OPPORTUNITY

The biggest question before the people of Peterboro from now until the polling has taken place in the municipal election is the composition of the cure bodies who will be at the head of affairs here in the coming year. The approaching elections are of tremendous importance to the future of Peterboro—the more people who realize his fact and act upon it the more hopeful will be the outlook for this city.

The continued growth of Peterboro is guaranteed not only by natural and economic advantages but by the rapid expansion of its established industries. It is a matter of certainty that the industrial institutions of Peterboro already great will grow greater each year under their intelligent far-sighted management. These concerns did not come here by accident they did not locate in Peterbor beause they were given a bonus or extension of taxes These companiese of long-headed business men came co Peterboro because after carefull investigation they found superior advanages here.

Rich in material resources, rich in the fundamental element of growth of which our water power ranks first Peterboro contains those natural advantages that lead to great city ti they are carefully and energetically developed. What is needed now as never before is the absorption of the brain-power of the city into the task of guiding the city's affairs. With brain-power added to Peterboro's heritage of water-power, the growth of this city of ours into a grea centre is made easy.

And so at this critical period in Peterboro's history when Canada as a whole will be engaged in the big task of reconstruction—of restoring the Dominion to a peace footing after four and a half years of war. The citizens of Peterboro should see to it that men are elected to municipal positions who are big, honest, energetic and able enough to visualize the importance of their duties and to frame a fore-sighted policy of civic development that will enable Peterboro to do something in the big game. We have been idling along with the little fellows long enough, the reconstruction period and Peterboro's wealth of natural resources give us a chance to get away from the visionless unsystematic method of civic government of the past

Let us get together and work together—couple our water-power and our brain-power and get busy. There never was such an opportunity. With the right men at the helm there is an era of unprecedented prosperity before Peterboro Let us see that we get the right men at the coming elections.

EDITORIAL NOTES

"The good old ships of England saved the liberty of the world," declares Lloyd George, Th fact will not be lost sight of at the peace conference.

Complaints about the manner in which Canada's returning soldiers are being handled are far too numerous. If the government has complete plans for dealing with the problem of transportation they should be put in force at once.

By pulling together capital and labour won the war," is the reading of a significant poster issued by the United States Departmen of Labour.

"Every previous war had its back fire. Let us no have one after this war," is another slogan from the same department.

IMPOSSIBLE TO TELL.

Willis Hohen's Remarks on the War Are Treated Lightly by Hun Paper.

Canadian Press:

AMSTERDAM, Dec. 10.— Interview given by Frederick Hohenzollern, former German Crown Prince, to the Associated Press recently, was widely reprinted in the German press. Referring to the former Crown Prince's statements that Germany's position was hopeless after the Marne and that the General Staff lost its nerve, an Essen newspaper remarks that is impossible to tell what is true and what is false regarding these assertions."

ITALIANS ON TRIAL.

The Austrian Consul is a Fugitive in Bulgaria.

Special to The Examiner:

GENOA, Dec. 10.—The trial of several Italians and an Austrian charged with the sinking of the Italian dreadnought "Leonardo di Vinci," on August 2, 1916, will begin here Dec. 12. The accused include Erensto Cimmarutta, Commissioner of Police; Giuseppe Gaeta, former Austrian Vice-Consul at Naples, and several Italian petty officers. Gaeta is a fugitive in Sofia.

WOMEN WILL WAIT ON THE CABINET

Special to The Examiner:

TORONTO, Dec. 10.— Five women, all members of the Independent Labour Party, will appear before the Provincial Cabinet to-morrow at 10.30 o'clock to ask that women be allowed to sit in the Legislature. The deputation will be headed by Mrs. George Hodgson.

"Ontario is the only province in the Dominion where women are not allowed to sit in the House," said Mrs. Hodgson.

The Toronto Markets

Germany Must Address Notes to All the Allies

Second Note Sent to the German Government Covering This Point—What Bolo Pasha Did While in the United States.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—This Government has sent a second note to the German and Austrian Governments asking them not to communicate with the United States unless they address the other Allies at the same time. A number of communications have been received from various groups in Austria and Germany.

Washington, Dec. 10.—Bielaski testified before the Senate Investigating Committee that Germany spent more than $7,500,000 from the German Reich's Bank for the dissemination of propaganda in this country from the beginning of the war. Some of this, he said, was used in purchasing controlling interests in newspapers, some for the printing and distribution of pamphlets and some was sent to the German Consulates in principal cities.

The money used for propaganda was obtained largely through the sale of German treasury notes in this country, Bielaski said. Evidence obtained by the Department of Justice showed that the funds of the German Embassy amounted to $27,850,000. Of this $12,500,000 was obtained by the sale of German treasury notes, $7,050,000 from bank credits and loans, $7,000,000 from the German Reichstag Bank, and $1,300,000 from other banks.

Bielaski was asked by Senator Overman to put in the hearing an account of the activities of Bolo Pasha executed in France as a spy, while he was in this country.

Bolo is Dead Now.

"Since Bolo is dead now," Senator Overman said, "it won't hurt anything to talk about him."

Bolo was brought to this country by a representative of Hearst, he said, and was taken to the German Embassy by Adolph Papenstadt, a wealthy German of New York who is now interned. Later the witness said, Bolo was introduced to Hearst, who invited him to luncheon and who later attended a number of meetings with him. Bolo's mission in this country was ostensibly to obtain print paper, the committees was told, but in reality it was to obtain money for purchasing a paper in France. After getting it he returned to France.

"There is one fact about the case which was never brought out before," Bielaski said.

"That is why he was in touch with the German Embassy here shortly after the war began in 1914. In a notebook of Dr. Albert, which we have in our possession, this entry appears:

"'Prepare telegram to Pasha,' that shows conclusively that the Embassy knew intimately of Bolo and probably knew of his activities."

Efforts of the Germans to create pro-German feeling among the negroes of the South proved entirely unsuccessful, Bielaski stated. Stories were circulated there to the effect that the negroes were descendants of the Indians and that they were the rightful owners of the land instead of the white people. Another story, designed to create feeling against the British, was a perverted account of the aid given the South during the Civil War.

"The negroes did not take to these stories, however," Bielaski said, "as they were too loyal. Money spent in the South for propaganda was thrown away."

Activities of the Labour's National Peace Council, organized in Chicago in May, 1916, were discussed by Bielaski.

SHOT TWO WHITE DEER NEAR KINGSTON.

Animals are Regarded as a Freak of Nature.

KINGSTON, December 10. — An unusual event was the shooting of two white deer, called albinos, by a hunting party on the river Madawaska in Renfrew County. Although every year one such deer has fallen, Edward Scott, of Renfrew, has two this year to his credit. Both were male fawns. Nimrods generally regard them as freaks of nature.

RATE INCREASE TO BELL TELEPHONE CO.

Canadian Press:

OTTAWA, Dec. 10.—The rate increase granted to the Bell Telephone Co., Ltd., is to be temporarily only. Further order to be made after various valuations and later conditions are ascertained.

FOURTH OF POPULATION.

Belgrade Was Completely Sacked — Belgrade-Nish Railway Was Destroyed.

Special to The Examiner:

GENEVA, Dec. 10.—The Austrians, before the evacuation, completely sacked Belgrade, according to Deputy Pavisic of Croatia, who arrived here to-day.

Pavisic said that not a fourth of the Serbian population remains in the capital. Only the walls of the Royal Palace are standing. The railway between Belgrade and Nish was destroyed.

The man with a million may not be a success, but the man without a dollar looks suspiciously like a failure.

Disposition of German Fleet

Naval Expert Thinks Surrendered Ships Will Never Again Fly the German Ensign.

Canadian Press:

LONDON, Dec. 10.— Archibald S. Hurd, naval writer in the Daily Telegraph, to-day says, with reference to the idea to be held by some Germans that surrendered German warships would be returned to Germany after peace was signed, that it points, of course, to complete misapprehension of the intention of the Allies, "for it is believed that these ships will never again fly the German ensign."

After a discussion of various proposals for the disposal of German warships, Mr. Hurd says that the only course to adopt is to distribute them among the Allies in accordance with losses which each has suffered in maintaining command of the seas.

German submarines, on the other hand, should cease to exist. Mr. Hurd suggests they be broken up and parts used for other purposes.

FREEDOM OF SEAS."

Attorney General Smith Agrees to American Definition.

Special to The Examiner:

LIVERPOOL, Dec. 10.—The British are bound to concede all possible to America regarding "freedom of the seas," Attorney General Smith declared here in a speech before the pronouncement on the matter for the Cabinet.

Smith said he would probably tell the conference that he will be "quite satisfied with such definition as will enable the British navy, in case of future war, to do exactly what it has been doing in the last eighteen months, aided by the American navy."

NOISY DEMONSTRATIONS.

Liebknecht Leads Procession in Berlin—Krupp Employees Out of Work.

Special to The Examiner:

BERLIN, Via Berne, Dec. 7.—(Delayed.)—Demonstrations by the Spartacus group continues. Karl Liebknecht, in an automobile, armed with machine guns, leads processions of radicals through the streets.

The Spartacusians make numerous speeches in the public squares, demanding the arrest of the Hohenzollerns, von Hindenburg and Von Bethmann-Hollweg.

Fifty thousand former Krupp employees are reported to be out of work.

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

Rev. Canon Hedley Preached In St. John's Church, Lakefield

Will Likely be Appointed Rector of Lakefield Parish, Succeeding Rev. C. R. Spencer.

THE SUNDAY SERVICES

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 10. — Capt. (Canon) Charles Hedley took the services in St. John's Church on Sunday. Capt. Hedley went overseas in 1916 with the 94th Battalion. He was transferred to the 58th Battalion in France for a time, and was with the 3rd Canadian Division. For sixteen months he worked at the front.

Canon Hedley spoke of the war and its effects on the spiritual side of our national and individual life. He spoke of Kipling, in 1897, writing with almost a prophetic instinct his famous and immortal "Recessional." We had founded our national life on the Shifting Sands of Selfishness, and it took four years of war to bring us to our knees in earnest prayer to Almighty God. Warned by General Robertson not to put our trust in chariots and horsemen, and by Admiral Beatty to kneel in prayer to God to spare us, the nation sought God in an Empire-wide intercession, and God has given us the victory. Only the hand of God saved us in those early days in the autumn of 1914, when the countless German hordes advanced, and our thin khaki line was so thin that it was vulnerable at any point. At Mons, when all seemed lost, companies of angels appeared, and the Germans, thinking there were huge reserves, did not advance.

Now, as our men are coming home, are we going to greet them with the same old selfish excuse for civilization or are we going to reconstruct our social and national life in the principles given to us by our Lord Himself?

Canon Hedley closed by quoting those words of Col. McCrae:

"Take up our quarrel with the foe!
To you, from failing hand we throw
The torch. Be yours to lift it high!
If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
In Flanders' fields."

Sunday School.

In the afternoon Canon Hedley took charge of the Sunday School, and instead of a regular lesson, he gave a talk on the war, which was much appreciated both by teachers and pupils. Very few children in the Sunday School have not either a father or brother in the army, so a talk on the war was especially well suited to the occasion.

Evening Service.

In the evening Canon Hedley spoke of some experiences in a chaplain's life at the front. He spoke of the dark days last spring, when the Germans advanced with their enormously reinforced army which was brought from the Eastern front, and our line moved farther and still farther backward. Then when all seemed blue, the most cheerful were the wounded coming in to the base hospital at Boulogne where Canon Hedley was at that time. One day he walked through one of the hospital wards and stopped beside the bedside of a lad of about 18 years of age, and he said, "Well, my man, and how are you?" The answer was: "Oh, I'm all right, myself, sir." He looked at the card above the man's bed and read, "Left leg amputated below the knee, multiple wounds in both legs." He said that was an example of the spirit of our men.

For several months before the battle of Vimy Ridge his battalion was in the system of trenches known as the Labrynth. While there he held services in a large cave about fifty feet underground, and of such enormous size that two battalions were quartered there before the advance. In this case he held service and gave the Holy Communion on Easter Day, 1917. Next morning the men went over the top, and a great many never came back.

For some time while with the 3rd Division, Capt. Hedley was in close touch with Major Gordon ("Ralph Connor").

In speaking of the numbers of men who came forward as candidates for Baptism and Confirmation, he mentioned the fact that just before he left France, General Sir Arthur Currie offered himself for confirmation.

Capt. Hedley spoke of the men who had fallen, as among the blessed ones as they had in one leap gone into the better life, in the full flower of their youth and strength.

Capt. Hedley will probably be appointed Rector of this parish of St. John the Baptist, Lakefield.

Woodmen of the World Elect Officers for 1919

Resignations Were Accepted With Regret—The List of Officers.

At the regular meeting held in the Woodmen's Hall last evening the important task of selecting officers for the ensuing year was accomplished.

It was unfortunate that the members had to accept the resignations of two of their old officers in Manager Robert H. Carr and the Clerk, Fred Sutcliffe, both of which had done such splendid service during the past few years.

These resignations were accepted with deep regret and a hearty vote of thanks extended to them for the masterful way which they had carried out their respective duties to Sherwood Forest Camp.

Both officers replied and were glad of the appreciation from those present and promised to assist the new officers during the coming year.

The voting then took place and a strong group of officers was selected as follows:

P.C.C.—Ed. Lebar.
C.C.—A. Graham.
Adv. Lt.—A. G. Killingbeck.
Banker—R. Waram.
Clerk—Undecided.
Escort—R. H. Carr.
Watchman—W. J. Gower.
Sentry—F. Sutcliffe.
Physician—Dr. Morgan.
Managers.—H. Udy, W. H. Tedford, G. Lee.

The clerk's position was left open until the next session for consideration, particulars of which we will announce later.

Under the able leadership of the veteran A. Graham, as Consul Commander, assisted by Past Counsul Commander Edgar Lebar, the officers will make good progress during their term of 1919.

Sovs. R. H. Carr and F. Sutcliffe werepressed into accepting minor offices. The aggregation selected should certainly be a source of satisfaction to the general membership, whom we hope will attend regularly and give these officers the support which they so richly deserve and need, to carry out their heavy winter's programme which is before them.

The meeting closed at a late hour and everyone present was well satisfied with the election.

Troops Are Due in New York

Ten Thousand Men Will Arrive Home To-Day.

Special to the Examiner:

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—More than 10,000 troops are due in New York harbour to-day on transports and hospital ships. The Empress of Britain was the first big transport to arrive. There were 76 officers and 2,339 men aboard. The vessel left Liverpool November 30.

The British Government has allotted 40,000 tons of shipping to help bring American troops home during December.

An Attempt to Commit Suicide

Former Kaiser Said to be Very Much Depressed of Late.

Special to The Examiner:

COPENHAGEN, Dec. 10.—A desperate but unsuccessful attempt was made by the former Kaiser to commit suicide, it is declared by the Leipzig "Tageblatt."

The newspaper says it received its information from a German staff officer who was wounded in frustrating Wilhelm. The officer said the former Kaiser had been much depressed of late.

PREPARING DEFENCE.

Special to The Examiner:

LONDON, Dec. 10.—Two German experts on International law have conferred with the former Kaiser, who is dictating an autobiography, which will be submitted in his defence if he is brought to trial, according to the Amsterdam correspondent of the "Express."

Tragic Shooting Near Kingston

Little Girl Fatally Shot Through the Breast by Her Brother.

Canadian Press:

KINGSTON, Dec. 10. — Word has reached the city of a tragic shooting in the township of Miller near Denbigh, in the home of W. J. Thompson. A little boy six years old moved a chair to the wall and took down a small calibre rifle, pointed it toward his thirteen year old sister Martha, the bullet passing through the girl's breast. She fell down and expired.

Will Install a Fire Alarm Bell

NEW FIRE PROTECTION SERVICE FOR THE TURNER PLANT

At last night's meeting of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, Mr. J. J. Turner, representing J. J. Turner & Sons, requested permission to install an independent fire alarm bell in the central fire station to complete the new sprinkler and fire protection system installed in the Turner plant at a cost of between six and seven thousand dollars. The installation of the alarm bell will be carried out by the Company without cost to the city. The request was granted.

This is the first time that such a system has been installed in a local manufacturing plant and it is said to mark the epoch in the way of fire protection service. The system will operate without the necessity of having an alarm bell in the fire station, but it is considered advisable to have the firemen on hand to supervise its operation once a fire broke out. It is for this reason that the bell is being installed.

TIME FOR SURRENDER OF GERMAN LOCOMOTIVES HAS BEEN EXTENDED

HALIFAX, December 10. — The Olympic now on its way to this port, with more than 5,000 returning Canadian soldiers, has 52 officers and 1408 other ranks, who are bound to the Toronto Military District. The units represented are not as yet known.

The health and happiness of simple living is the lesson the war has taught Canada. This lesson must not be forgotten in the exaltation of victory. We have yet to make up for the enormous waste and expense of the war. Buy wisely. Keep on using food carefully, avoiding waste. We must still feed the soldiers who cannot be completely demobilized for many months. And 250,000,000 in Europe are short of food.

CELLO BOW A MAGIC WAND IN HANDS OF SENOR ANTONIO SALA

Large Attendance at First Concert of Redpath Lyceum Course at Conservatory of Music Last Night.

The first concert in the Redpath Lyceum course at the Conservatory Hall last night sent the large audience home with pleasant anticipations of the other engagements of this series which will be given during the winter months. If this was a foretaste of the Redpath quality, Peterboro is indeed fortunate to be included in its circuit, and its local patrons may look forward with confidence to the concerts and lecturers that comprise the season's course There were no disappointments in last night's programme of music presented by Senor Antonio Sala cellist, Miss Florence Hardeman violinist, Miss Lorean Donner soprano and Miss Edith Henry pianist. Their numbers were as follows:

Spanish trio—Arbos.
Senor Sala, Miss Hardeman and Miss Henry.
Spanish Symphony—Lalo.
Miss Hardeman.
The Nightingale—Ward Stephens.
The Year's at the Spring—Mrs. H. H. Beach.
Miss Donner
Sonata—Valentini.
Senor Sala
The Sailor's Wife—H. T. Burleigh.
The Wind's in the South—Scott.
Miss Donner
To A Wild Rose—MacDonald.
Gypsy Airs—Sarasate.
Souvenir—Dardla.
Miss Hardeman
The Swan—Saint Saens.
Vito—Popper.
Senor Sala
Spanish trio—Granados.
Senor Sala, Miss Hardeman and Miss Henry.

If the pre-eminence of Caruso lends colour to the assertion that tenors are indigenius to Italy, the fame of Pablo Casalo suggests that the Spanish atmosphere is most favorable to cellists. Furthermore if Constantino, De Lucia and other Italians give point to the first hypothesis, it might be argued that Antonio Sala strengthens the claim that might be made for Spain's specialty. Apart from this divergence the Senor whose press notices intimated that he was a favorite of King Alphonso astonished and charmed his audience at the Conservatory by the technique and tone displayed in his several numbers. Cellists are infrequent visitors to Peterboro, but the appeal of the instrument under the touch of an artist requires no rehearsals in appreciation. Senor Sala's musical concepts were in a sense self-registered by the expressive attentions with which he addressed his instrument. In an artist it is an evidence of temperament and personality but lesser musicians affect it to exaggeration, and have brought upon it the name "Jazz". Senor Sala alone was more than sufficient to commend the Redpath course to music lovers. His mastery of the strings was shown in brilliant passages of the Sonata and in his shading and tone colour—there was all the enchantment the cello weaves. At times it seemed as if a soft summer wind was playing on the strings; again they sparkled with liquid colour. The two Spanish trios indicated Senor Sala's preference. They were thoroughly enjoyed the Andalusian savor offering an exotic quality to the usual programme heard locally. The familiar tone poem by Saint Saens as doubly acceptable in the beauty of Senor Sala's presentation.

In bringing the Redpath course to Peterborough the Conservatory of Music particularly desired to give their students the benefits of hearing artists of Senor Sala's skill and talent, to inspire and encourage them in their struggles up Parnassus. One hundred children are to be admitted free to each concert under this arrangement, and it is intended that each student may attend three of the series. The educational objective is a very praiseworthy one, and it is gratifying to feel that, with Senor Sala as the criterion, the inspiration for the music students will not depreciate the entertainment of music lovers who are not quite so young.

Woman Killed By Subway Express Ties Up Traffic

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—A well dressed woman apparently fifty-five years old, supposed to be Mrs. L. J. Tow, of No. 20 Baker Street, Schenectady, N.Y., was killed instantly by falling from the platform of the Eighty-sixth Street Subway Station in front of an approaching northbound Lexington Avenue subway express train. All traffic on the line was delayed forty-five minutes because of the accident.

The platform was crowded with women shoppers returning home and considerable excitement prevailed when the woman was seen to sway suddenly and fall onto the tracks within twenty feet of the fast oncoming train. Many screamed, while others rushed to the street.

The express was in charge of Frank Kruger, the motorman, who applied the brakes with such force that passengers were thrown from their seats. The momentum of the train was too great, however, and the forward trucks passed over the woman's body.

Apparently the sole means of identification was a purchase slip from the store of Bloomingdale Brothers, Fifty-ninth Street and Third Avenue, on which was written the name of Mrs. L. J. Tow and her address. A wedding ring found on the body bore the inscription "L. J. T. to J. H., Jan. 5, 1882."

The woman was seen by Policeman James Craig, of the East Eighty-eighth Street Station, to walk to the edge of the platform, where she leaned out to glance up the track. Then, he said, she either lost her balance, or was seized with a sudden illness, for her body swayed and she fell to the track.

Dr. Schoolmaker, of the Reception Hospital, who was called, crawled beneath the train and found the woman dead. It was necessary to call a wrecking crew before the body could be released.

The dead woman was about five feet four inches in height, weight 140 pounds, blue eyes and gray hair. She wore a black coat and skirt, white shirtwaist, furpiece and black shoes of expensive make.

TRY SMALL COD.

This week is Codfish Week in Ontario, and through the special arrangements of the Canada Food Board dealers all over the Province are featuring this fish. Enormous quantities have been caught and shipped to different points ready for a big demand. The Food Board are requesting every woman to make a point of cookin- at least three meals of Cod Fish during the week. This will have a threefold result. It will serve to save immense amounts of meats which are still sorely needed, will provide funds to pay the fishermen for their dangerous work, and will introduce to many new users Canada's National Fish—Cod.

The smaller sized fish, pan-frozen, cleaned and beheaded, are selling in some stores at 10 cents a pound, thus affording the best value in flesh foods to be found in Canada.

Young man, there is one thing you cannot do. You cannot make a success in life unless you work. Older men than you have tried it and failed. You cannot loaf around the street corner, smoke, tell stories and sponge on someone else without making a failure of life. You must learn a trade or get into some honest business. If you don't you will become a chronic loafer, and there is no place in the world for loafers. The ripe fruit is at the top of the tree and you must climb if you get it or some smart man will pluck it from you. Do something, no matter how small or how low the wages, it will be a starter. Help yourself and others will help you. There is no royal road to success; will, grit and endurance are the qualities that lead to it.

The great American sin is profanity. The use of profane language is not confined to the street loafer, the thug and the sot; men who move in good society, business men of standing and reputation, young men and old men, and even boys of tender years, are addicted to this unexcusable habit and sin. There is nothing more disgusting than to hear a man punctuate his every utterance with lurid oaths.

Nominations for Aldermen to Be Held in the Evening

Special Meeting Was Held Last Evening and the Original Bylaw Rescinded—Proposal for Two Platoon System Laid Over.

CIVIC SKATING RINKS

The nominations for aldermen will be held at seven-thirty o'clock in the evening as a result of a by-law that was passed last evening by the City Council rescinding the by-law adopted a week ago. A letter from the Trades and Labour Council protesting against the action of the Council in voting down this measure, provided the spark that was needed to start the oratorical thunder. It was finally decided to rescind the original by-law and create a new one, fixing the hour for nominations in the evening instead of at noon, at which time the labour men say they are unable to be present.

Ald. A. A. McIntyre explained that when the original by-law was passed a week ago, he did not understand that it was necessary to include the time with the passage of the by-law. He thought that a resolution following the adoption of the by-law would be sufficient to take care of this.

Two Platoon System.

Fire Chief Grange chaperoned a deputation of firemen who urged the Council to put into effect the two platoon system. This would mean that the present force of sixteen men would have to be augmented to twenty so that ten men would be on duty at the fire hall for each twelve hour shift. The increase in salaries for the extra men would amount to five thousand dollars a year, and in addition a generator set would have to be installed to take care of the increased electrical load to operate the tap bells in the firemen's homes. With ten men in the station at all hours of the day and ten in their homes, the Chief would have at his disposal twenty men.

Chief Grange presented the merits of the case and was followed by the men present. Working and sleeping in the same atmosphere for twenty-four hours a day was not conducive to the health of the firemen, was one of the Chief's claims for the change. The whole matter has been before the Council for several months, but the Council declined to commit next year's Council to such a large expenditure. Each of the aldermen spoke in favour of the two platoon system and it was decided to recommend its adoption to the incoming Council.

The New Bridge.

Ald. Malcolm McIntyre inquired if everything had been done to expedite the construction of the overhead bridge on Hunter street once the tenders are all in. Mayor Duncan replied in the affirmative. "We don't want to lose any time as this work will be needed and will employ a lot of men once it is under way," said Ald. McIntyre.

Skating Rink.

On motion of Aldermen Edgar and Worth the Council decided to establish the same number of open air skating rinks in the city as last year.

No Action.

A proposal, said by Mayor Duncan to have emanated from Mr. Ryerson Ritchie, to have one of the streets in the north end of the city closed up during certain hours so as to enable the children to use the roadway for sleigh-riding, was not approved of and no action was taken. The question of liability arising out of accidents and other apparent difficulties incident to closing a public thoroughfare influenced the Council.

Dumping Ashes.

Ald. Malcolm McIntyre brought up the question of dumping ashes at a point on Water street known as the "goose pond," and asked to have the location of the dump changed so that the ashes will be deposited near the north wall of the Anderson property, where it would do the most good. The City Engineer will be asked to look into this and report back to the Council, also another dumping ground for ashes on Caddy street, East City.

Hunter Street Sidewalk.

City Engineer Parsons will also be asked to report on the condition of the sidewalk on the south side of Hunter street at the west approach to the present bridge.

The Christmas Treat.

Ald. A. A. McIntyre reminded the Council that the War Veterans were giving the children the usual Christmas treat and a grant from the Council would be very acceptable. On motion of Ald. Weir and Ald. A. McIntyre, the sum of fifty dollars was voted for this purpose.

Minister's Visit.

The Reception committee of the City Council will be authorized to secure the Grand Opera House and make other necessary arrangements for the reception in Peterborough on January 8th of the Hon. A. B. Carvell, Minister of Public Works, who is expected in the city on that date to enlighten the multitude on the issues of the day. The Minister may also bring with him plans and specifications for the proposed drydock, customs house and post office and back it up with the usual promise of consideration that is common to Government officials.

Consideration Promised.

A letter was received from Acting Premier White stating that the city's request for representation in the Senate would receive consideration.

Miss Harriet Hall, 375 Queen street, complained that a quantity of ashes were being dumped on private property at the rear of her premises, contrary to her wishes. The Sanitary Inspector will be asked to look into the matter and have it remedied.

No Action.

A petition signed by F. B. Patterson and other license holders, representing bowling alleys, poolrooms and similar lines of industry asked for the remission or a refund of a portion of the license fee covering the period that such places were closed down by the Board of Health owing to the epidemic of influenza. No action was taken.

"The churches might as well come to us and ask us to compensate them for the collections they lost as a result of being closed down," observed Ald. Dobbin.

British Peace Delegates Selected

Lloyd George, Bonar Law and Foreign Secretary Balfour Named.

Special to The Examiner:

LONDON, Dec. 10.—Premier Lloyd George, Foreign Secretary Balfour and Chancellor Bonar Law have been decided upon as British delegates to the peace conference.

The "Express" says it understands that the appointment of a labour representative will depend upon the outcome of the general elections.

PREMIER'S SPEECH.

Special to The Examiner:

LONDON, Dec. 10.—Premier Lloyd George, in a speech to women here late yesterday, declared that gigantic armies must not be permitted in the future, because they tempt nations to make war. He said he is a firm believer in the League of Nations.

Sir Eric Geddes, First Lord of the Admiralty, stated in a speech that it is inconceivable that the supremacy of the British navy should be surrendered.

Committee Will Look Into Supply of Coal in City

Coal Question Discussed by the Fire, Water and Light Committee.

At a meeting of the Fire, Water and Light Committee held last evening, Ald. Dobbin, chairman of the Committee was authorized to secure information concerning the actual amount of coal of all grades brought into the city since the first of April last. Ald. Weir was of the opinion that thirty-two thousand tons of coal would be sufficient to put the city in the safety column and would justify a slackening of the city's coal purchasing activities.

One car of coal reached the city within the past two or three days which was not according to the grade of coal ordered. The company will be notified of this condition, and the car will be accepted subject to a price consistent with the quality of the coal in question. The company will also be notified not to forward coal to the city unless ordered.

TRIP DEFERRED

Some of the alderman were of the opinion that it would be advisable to send Ald. Taylor over to Scranton to look into the coal question from the city's standpoint.

Ald. Malcolm McIntyre thought that this information could be secured by mail and travelling expenses of seventy dollars saved by the city.

It was decided to defer Ald. Taylor's trip to the Scranton coal centre and in the meantime the necessary information will be sought for through other channels.

WRECKAGE SEEMS TO BE FROM MINE-SWEEPERS.

But Capt. Leclerc is Loth to Believe Vessels Lost—Missing 14 Days.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Dec. 9.—Wreckage found off Grand Marais seems to have come from one of the two French mine-sweepers Cerisoles and Inkerman, lost in the storm of November 24. It is reported that a liteboat, unpainted, and small pieces of newly-matched lumber, probably parts of hatch covers, painted a lead colour, have been picked up by coast guard men cruising in that section.

Captain Leclerc, in charge of the sweepers, is loth to believe they are lost, and that the crews, comprising 76 men, found a watery grave in Lake Superior. The vessels have now been missing fourteen days.

LAUGH AND GROW FAT.

"Laugh and grow fat," is an old saying laden with value for nervous people in particular. Drop the worry habit and use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and you will soon get the nervous system restored to good condition. Digestion will improve, appetite will return, and you will find such symptoms as headache and sleeplessness fast disappearing.

Germans Building Aircraft to Fly Across Atlantic

Plane and Zeppelin Both Being Designed at the Staaken Factory.

LONDON, Dec. 9.—The Germans are building an airplane with which they intend trying a trip across the Atlantic and have a Zeppelin under construction with the same idea in view, according to the correspondent at Berlin of The Daily Express. The correspondent says he learned this when being shown over an air-craft factory at Staaken, a suburb of Berlin by Managing Director Raasch, a form er naval officer.

The Staaken works built during the waf, over hundreds of acres and employ 3,000 workers. The machines employed in the late raids on London and Paris wre built there. The machine being constructed there for the trans-Atlantic flight says the correspondent has a winged spread of 198 feet and engines of 3,000 horsepower.

Almost immediately after the armistice was signed the Staaken plant began converting the fighting planes on hand into commercial machines intended to link all European capitals with Berlin and dozens of planes built entirely of aluminum are being transformed for postal service. The correspondent says he has learned that the Zeppelin factory at Friedrichshafen is building an airship for a trans-Atlantic voyage, capable of carrying 100 passengers. It has nine engines and eight propellers

Its first flight will be in July next if the international situation clears by that time. The trip is expected to be made in forty hours.

The correspondent was told of the remarkable flight of a Zeppelin in November of 1917. The airship started from Bulgaria for East Africa with 22 tons of munitions and medicines and a crew of 22. It had arrived over Kartoum, in the Sudan, the correspondet's informant declared, when it was ordered by wireless to return because it was learned that the bulk of the forces of Gen. von Lettow-Vorbeck, the German commander in East Africa had surrendered. It returned to its staring point four days after it had left.

Director Raasch claimed that this airship could have gone from Berlin to New York and back without stopping.

Curling Club Held Meeting

The Bonspiel Committee of the Curling Club met the Committee of Management last evening and placed before them the proposition of a bonspiel on a bigger and better scale than has ever been held in the district before.

It was unanimously decided by the club to accept the proposition, and the committee was given full power to act.

The date was not definitely decided, but will be on or about January 28th.

Rinks for the coming season were selected.

A "Scrap of Paper"

These words were asked by the German Chancellor about 7.10 p.m. on the 4th of August, 1914 in the Berlin Foreign Office. The British Ambassador made terse reply,

"That Solemn Compact Simply Has to Be Kept."

GRAND OFFERS PATRIOTIC PLAY

What the Toronto "World" Says of "The Man They Left Behind." Here Next Saturday For Two Performances.

If there was ever a play bright and harmonious in colours, pure in its mysterious theme and true in tone to the last note of its text, it is the new secret service play, "The Man They Left Behind," written by Barton King, who has scored a number of successes heretofore. His latest achievement is regarded as the best of his career. "The Man They Left Behind" is the sort of play that appeals to every true Canadian It is first and always a mystery play, and of the type that is direct and convincing in effect. More than this, however, it is a play that holds a wealth of heart interest, brings the mirror of nature close to the heart of frail humanity to reflect alike its strong and weak traits, emotions and sentiments. Over and above all this, the author has conceived a plot that is entirely original and built therefrom a story that is of vital interest, a story that is decidedly patriotic, timely and novel. He has departed from the conventional, has created new characters, and has woven them into a play that awakens pronounced interest at the rise of the curtain and sees the virility sustained until the end.

THE BODIES WERE THROWN INTO RHINE

Stormy Scenes Follow First Flare of Revolution.

(Canadian Press.)

COLOGNE, December 10. — German Soldiers' and Workmen's Council of Cologne is cooperating quietly with the old city government after the stormy days of a month ago. The first flare of revolution in Cologne came on November 7th when 60 marines arrived here fresh from the mutiny in Kiel, and started trouble for the authorities. The way already had been well paved by the Russian Bolshevik. The coming of the revolutionist marines was heralded in advance, but although there were 40,000 German troops in the city, no efforts were made to prevent the delegation from carrying on its work.

The marines quickly secured followers and on the night of the day of their arrival raided the jail, liberating between 4,000 and 5,000 criminals. German troops holding the city were disarmed by the revolutionists and the officers were stripped off their epaulets without much resistance. That night was one of terror. The liberated criminals made the most of their freedom and a considerable number of people were killed. How many died will never be known because the bodies were then thrown into the Rhine.

At present the council is composed half of Moderates and half of Independents, who are close approach to anarchists. There is no trouble at present although the political situation is cloudy.

Woman's Arm is Torn Off

Radial Car in Hamilton Jumps Rails and Overturns—Several Persons Hurt.

HAMILTON, Dec. 9.—On Saturday afternoon a Brantford and Hamilton radial car, coming to his city, jumped the rails as it turned into Hess Street and crashed into a concrete pole and a large telegraph pole and overturned. The top and one side of the car were crushed in, and Mrs. Elizabeth Bryson, 102 Mary Street, was caught between a seat and a window and her arm was severed above the elbow. She was the only passenger on the car who was seriously injured, though a number had remarkable escapes and several were bruised and shaken up.

The car was in charge of Motorman McEwan and Conductor Beckerson. As it was coming down a heavy grade into the city the motorman noticed that the brakes and reverse failed to work. He stuck to his post, however, and tried to check the fast-moving car, but without success. As it turned into Hess Street it jumped the rails and sped nearly 70 feet along the street until it crashed into the two poles and turned on its side.

There were about 30 persons on board, and they were thrown in all directions. When Mrs. Bryson was found she was unconscious, and her severed arm was found later in the wreckage. She was removed to a nearby house and later to the City Hospital, where her injuries were attended to. Robert Hatch of Guelph and J. Day, Brantford, took her from the wreckage. Mr. Hatch himself suffered a crushed arm and a cut over his left eye.

BRYCE WOULD OUST TURKS.

LONDON, Nov. 18. (By mail). — In the opinion of Viscount James Bryce, former Ambassador to the United States, "it is extremely desirable that every effort should be made to send in a sufficient allied force to occupy what was Turkish Armenia and re-establish some sort of order there."

This view is expressed in a communication to The Manchester Guardian, coupled with a regret that the conditions of the Turkish armistice failed to provide for the immediate occupation by the Allies of the six Armenian vilayets and also of Cilicia (modern province of Adana on the Mediterranean). Lord Bryce says, however:

"I cannot think that this omission was due to any doubt as to the necessity, and indeed the solemn duty of delivering all the Armenian districts utterly and forever from any vestige of Turkish rule. The British Government has pledged itself so frequently and clearly to this deliverance, and, as we understand, both President Wilson and the French Government have expressed themselves so strongly in favour of such a policy, that we cannot doubt the honest purpose of the Government.

"It need hardly be said that to leave the Eastern Christians of Armenia and Syria under Turkish rule would excite the warmest indignation all over the country, and, if possible, still warmer indignation in the United States, where the interest in Armenia has been extremely great and has been evinced by the enormous contributions which have been made to the relief of the Armenian refugees.

"Can anybody in this country be found who thinks that after the three hideous massacres which the Turks have perpetrated in Armenia since 1895, culminating in the worst massacre of all in 1915, when 800,000 Christians perished, it would be possible for any Christian power, or indeed any power of human feeling, to leave the Turk free to begin oppressions afresh, or to fail to show by turning the Turk out of the country the anger and horror which his cruelties have excited I need hardly add that the presence of Turkish rule in these regions, with their great strategical importance, would be material to Germany, if ever she saw her chance, in realizing her schemes for pushing her influence toward Persia and Central Asia."

The funeral takes place from the family residence at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning to the Immaculate Conception Church and St. Peter's Cemetery.

IN MEMORIAM
In loving memory of my dear husband, Thomas Parsons who was killed in the Quaker Oats disaster on December 11th, 1916.

Gone, But Not Forgotten.
Short and sudden was the call
Of one so dearly loved by all;
The blow was great,
The shock severe,
We little thought his death was near,
And only those who love can tell
The pain at not saying the last fare well.

Death has robbed us of our loved one
And has left a vacant chair.
Ah! we miss his welcome footsteps,
And his face so bright and fair.
—From his Loving Wife and Children

Food Board Flashe

It pays these days to keep household accounts. In fact it has always paid. Order your supplies in each line on one bill if possible and a week in advance. This simplifies household bookkeeping, and gives the housekeeper better control of her expenditure. She can then work out a standard within her allowance and give her family meals a well balanced variety, such as health demands.

Why Can't I Get to Sleep?

Thousands of people all over the country ask this question but still continue to toss night after night on a sleepless bed and it is impossible for them to get a full night's refreshing sleep.

Some constitutional disturbance, worry or disease, has so debilitated and irritated the nervous system that it cannot be quietened except by the pernicious use of opiates or narcotics. Or again, you have heart palpitation, and sensation of sinking, a feeling you are going to die, or perhaps you wake up in your sleep feeling as though you were about to choke or smother, and the only way that you can get relief is to sit up in bed.

To all who suffer in this way, Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills offer an inestimable boon. They bring back the much needed night's rest by improving the tone of the nerves, strengthen the heart, enriching the blood and making the whole organization act in harmony—then you sleep as peaceful as a child.

Mrs. James Latimer, 39 Leinster St., St. John, N. B., writes: "At night I could not sleep. I had to sit up in bed, my heart beat so fast and when I walked up stairs I would get all out of breath. A friend recommended Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and after using two boxes I can sleep all night, and am not out of breath after walking."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

REV. DR. W. A. M'KENZIE APPOINTED MODERATOR

Peterboro Presbytery Met in Quarterly Session Yesterday.

Peterborough Presbytery met in regular session at St. Andrew's church yesterday and voted unanimously in favour of inviting the General Assembly to meet in this city in 1920. Commissioners to attend the meeting of the assembly next summer and press the invitation, will be appointed at the next session of the Presbytery in St. Paul's church on the second Tuesday in March next. Mr. R. Lees of this city reported yesterday morning that after investigation he was convinced that the citizens of Peterborough were in favour of entertaining the delegates to the big church event.

Officers Elected.

Officers for the next half year were elected as follows:

Rev. Dr. W. A. McKenzie, Colborne, moderator.

Rev. W. D. Lee, Millbrook, interim moderator.

Rev. D. A. Thomas, Hastings, clerk, a position which he has held continuously for nearly twenty years.

Rev. W. A. Bremmer, of Cobourg, presented the report of the Forward Movement, as agreed upon at the recent special session in St. Paul's church. This was unanimously adopted, and the Presbytery listened to an address on the subject by Rev. D. Laird, of Toronto.

The Peterborough Presbytery has been asked to contribute $25,000 next year for the general work of the church. This would mean $3.63 for every member in the Presbytery or about half that amount per capita if all the adherents of the church would help. The amounts allocated to this Presbytery last year was $23,000.

NOTHING CAN COMPARE WITH IT

Mr. Fred Adams, New Rose N.S., writes—"I have tried many medicines for coughs and colds but never found anything to compare to Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. We have had the greatest never fails to relieve a cough and looses satisfaction with this medicine for it is up."

GRAIN MARKET

Ontario oats are quoted 1c. lower, and buckwheat 2c. higher. Manitoba oats steady to 1-8c. lower. Trade continues dull. The tone of the option markets was firmer, but changes at the closes were only fractional.

Manitoba oats—No. 2, C.W., 79c., in store, Fort William; No. 3, 75 1-2c.; extra No. 1 feed, 75 1-2c.; No. 2 feed, 75c.

Manitoba wheat—In store, Fort William (not including 1 1-2c. tax), No. 1 northern, $2.24 1-2; No. 2 northern, $2.21 1-2; No. 3 northern, $2.17; No. 4 wheat, $2.11 1-2.

American corn, new crop—No. 2, yellow, $1.67; No. 3, $1.62; No. 4, $1.57; corn feed, $1.40 to $1.55, track, Toronto.

Ontario wheat—No. 1 winter, $2.14 to $2.22; No. 2 winter, $2.11 to $2.19; No. 3 winter, $2.07 to $2.15; No. 1 spring, $2.09 to $2.17; No. 2 spring, $2.08 to $2.14; No. 3 spring, $2.02 to $2.10, f.o.b., shipping points, according to freight.

Ontario oats—No. 2 white, new crop, 73c. to 76c.; No. 3, 72c. to 75c., according to freight outside.

Barley—New crop, 98c. to $1.03.

Peas—No. 2, $2.00, according to freights outside.

Buckwheat—$1.42.

Rye—No. 2, $1.58.

Ontario flour—War quality, $10.25; Toronto-Montreal, $10.25, new bags.

Manitoba flour—War quality, $11.35, Toronto.

Mill feed—Car lots, delivered, Montreal, shorts, $42.25; bran, $37.25; feed flour, not quoted; middlings, not quoted.

Hay—Baled, track, Toronto, car lots, No. 2, $22 to $24; No. 2, mixed, $20 to $21 per ton; straw, car lots, $10 to $10.50.

CATTLE MARKET

Union Stock Yards—Receipts, 85 cars, with 1,248 head of cattle, 66 calves, 1,863 hogs, and 592 sheep and lambs.

The market was steady yesterday for everything with quality in the butcher class. Common medium stuff slow and draggy, and fat cows and bulls not in demand at all. Packers are apparently pretty well loaded up with the latter class, and yesterday were not bidding for them. Among the choice steers and heifers for the Christmas beef trade the market is still quite strong and active, while the choice baby beef steers and heifers are fetching top prices up to $18 and $20.

Calf trade strong for choice veal.

Lambs strong to 25c. higher.

Hogs weaker, packers quoting 50c. lower, or $18.25 fed and watered, but the bulk selling at $18.50.

Latest quotations:

Choice heavy steers	$13.00 to	$15.00
do butcher	11.50	14.00
do medium	10.50	11.00
do common	9.50	10.00
Heifers, good to choice	10.50	11.50

The Aeolian-Vocalion

"The Vocalion produces the sort of music we want in our home"

"I was intensely interested by the very first record that was played for us by the Vocalion. The black disc which upon many a machine had sent its typical talking machine tone to my ears—the self-same disc under the sound box of the Vocalion filled the room with the wonderful throbbing tone of a 'cello.

"Ah! here was genius music. I fairly could see the sobbing of the bow, the strong, nimble fingers of the cellist leaping upon the strings.

"Before we heard any more we had determined that there was a place in our home for the Vocalion.

"It was not until later that we understood the full significance of the Vocalion expression device—the Graduola. How greatly the actual practice of musicianship adds to the pleasure of listening to music, experience alone can disclose."

Resolution Endorses Both a Club House and a Memorial

Ladies' Auxiliary of the Great War Veterans Met Last Evening—The Discussion.

A resolution endorsing the building of both a club house and a memorial will be sent to Mayor Duncan by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Great War Veterans as a result of a meeting held Monday night by the Auxiliary. The Mayor's immediate consideration will be asked. Various opinions were expressed by both the ladies and members of the G.W.V.A., all tending to the same idea—that a club house is needed for the living and a monument for the dead, and the principle for which the men fought.

General Opinion.

Mrs. Joseph Mills, who as president of the Auxiliary occupied the chair, said that as the meeting had been called for a general expression of opinion she would ask any one to give his views on what is needed.

Captain Morrison, president of the G.W.V.A., said that the Veterans feel that a hall with a suitably inscribed tablet would be of more service than a monument. On somewhat the plan of the Y.M.C.A., the hall could be used for recreation and as a place for the education of the soldiers' children. In the present quarters the Veterans are cramped.

Mrs. W. R. Morrison thought that as only 300 of the 2,000 Veterans have returned to the city it would be an unfair advantage to let the minority belittle the matter of a club house, and agreed with Mr. Whatley in his statement that the matter of a memorial was being handled a little prematurely. If, she said, the matter comes ultimately to a choice between a hall and memorial she would advocate remembering the living and have a hall.

Mrs. Mills thought there would be no trouble in getting both, and the best for both the memorial and club house.

Col. Johnston.

Hearty applause greeted Col. Johnston, the last speaker. He said the care of the living should come first, and endorsed a club house, but he had no objection to a suitable monument. With both he would be glad to assist.

THREATENS TO OVERTHROW THE GOVERNMENT

Special to The Examiner:

PARIS, Dec. 10.—"We refuse peace with the Entente, and intend to overthrow the present government within a fortnight," Karl Liebknecht, leader of the German Bolsheviki declared in a proclamation issued in Berlin, according to a Zurich despatch to L'Information to-day. Martial law has been proclaimed in Berlin, the despatch said. Two hundred and twenty persons have been killed and a thousand wounded in recent skirmishes in the German capital between Bolshevik forces and Government troops.

INVESTIGATE THE FISH INDUSTRY

Special to The Examiner:

TORONTO, Dec. 11.—The Recess committee of Massachusetts Legisalture, appointed to investigate the fish industry, visited the Parliament Buildings to-day to secure first hand information about the government fish policy. The American deputation, which was headed by Senator Sandford, was introduced to Hon. Finlay McDermid, Minister of Public works and discussed for some time the methods used by the government in its fish policy.

GOVERNMENT FARMER DROPPED DEAD

Special to The Examiner:

TORONTO, Dec. 11.—W. E. Stock, the government farmer at the Mimico Hospital for the Insane for the last ten years, dropped dead yesterday afternoon. The late Mr. Stock, who was 70 years of age, was one of the most popular members of the civil service and had been in good health up to the time of his death. The funeral will take place from his former home at Waterdown on Thursday afternoon.

MACHINES SAVE LABOR

Work of Efficient Gas Engine in House and Barn.

How Early Winter Pruning May Be Done Without Injury — Winter Rhubarb Is Delicious and May Be Grown by All.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

SAVING labor in stable and home, by the use of machinery, is one of the great economic problems engaging the attention of farmers to-day. Through the use of machinery they can produce even more, at less cost, than in years past, when labor was plentiful, and tolerably cheap.

Probably never before in the history of the farming world have so many farm problems been solved by a single piece of machinery as has now been accomplished by the gasoline engine. In the stable it can be employed to advantage in grinding feed for the stock. It can cut feed and ensilage. It can pump water for the house and stable whenever one pleases; a hydrant on the lawn, and in the stock yards to which a hose may be attached for washing the buggy, sprinkling the lawn, flushing pens and stable and for other purposes, is a source of much satisfaction, pleasure and comfort.

By means of a line shaft a gas engine may operate many labor-saving machines at the same time. It can run the grindstone, root pulper, fanning mill, cream separator, churn, sheep shearers, horse clippers, rotary curry-comb and the milking machine, with which it is possible to milk two cows in about six minues, including the time required for changing and setting. Further assistance may be had by attaching the power for refrigeration and for circulating milk over a cooling surface—a practical necessity.

No longer need the preparation of whitewash and its application with a brush be consigned to warmer regions, for the engine can pump the mixture from a tank or barrel through a hose attached to a spraying outfit. It is possible to pump it two hundred feet. When the job is done the hose should be cleaned out by having fresh water pumped through it.

The gasoline engine solves for the farmer the problems of comfort in the house, safety in the stables, and a great deal of drudgery generally.—Prof. John Evans, O. A. College, Guelph.

Light pruning in fall is permissible, but heavy pruning is dangerous and likely to result in serious damage from winter killing, especially if the succeeding winter is severe. The injury is caused by drying out of the cut area, and may be prevented by covering all wounds of any size with a good covering of paint made from pure lead and oil. Do not use prepared paints as these contain injurious benzine or turpentine dryers. To make an effective covering it will be necessary to give not less than two coats, because one coat will not prevent checking and drying of green wood. Coal tar makes an excellent wound covering and is easily applied.

This matter of covering wounds made in fall or early winter is frequently slighted by orchard men, but the writer has seen such serious damage result from neglect of this precaution that he feels justified in warning fruit growers with regard to the practice. In experimental trials in the college apple orchard, varieties so hardy as Duchess of Oldenburg, Wolf River, Snow and Scott's Winter have suffered very serious injury following November pruning with the cuts left unprotected. The wounds dry out around the edges and by spring the dead area is greatly enlarged, frequently extending down the trunk or branch for a foot or more. The dead bark comes away later, leaving a large dead area, detrimental to the parts above and certain also to decay later.—Prof. J. W. Crow, O. A. College, Guelph.

How Winter Rhubarb Is Produced.

The production of rhubarb in winter has become of considerable value among gardeners. It is easy to do if certain methods are followed. If one is making a permanent business of rhubarb forcing, it is necessary, each year to set out a new bed, as plants once forced are of no further value. In the spring large roots should be dug, split in one bud sections and replaced in rich moist ground. During the growing season they are kept cultivated and free from weeds. In the fall they are covered with manure. Next spring a second bed is planted as before. That fall a large part of the first bed is taken up, leaving sufficient to replant another bed the next spring. The roots are taken up the last thing in the fall before the hard freezing weather comes and are placed in piles in a shed where they can easily be got at during the winter but will remain frozen. Early in December take in a sufficient number of roots, place these bud side up on the floor of a warm cellar—about 68 degrees or 70 degrees — and cover with an inch of sand. Be sure to fill in all interspace. Keep this sand moist. About a week later the buds will begin to swell and in from four to six weeks, depending upon the heat of the room—the cooler and slower growth starts—you should have rhubarb ready. After these roots are exhausted throw them away and put in more. If a constant supply is required made a new bed every two or three weeks during the winter. Be sure to keep all the front dimmed. Put burlaps of brown paper over the windows to give the bright pink color so much desired.—J. H. MacLennan, B.S.A., Ontario Vegetable Specialist.

Happy Days Follow the Dinner in the Village.

CHAPTER LIX.

"You must tak me to some more of those quaint eating places, Brian," Ruth said on the way home. "They are very entertaining."

"I thought you would'nt like them, that they wouldn't be smart enough for you."

"Oh, But Brian! you must let me decide. Ask me when you want to go, and if I don't care to go along I'll tell you, but give me the chance to refuse."

They both knew she had his luncheon with Mollie King, of the day before, in mind, although it had not again been mentioned.

"All right, Ruth. I like meeting the people I know, like seeing them, talking to them. I just thought you didn't care for them."

So a sort of flag of truce was fixed up. Neither mentioned anything disagreeable again. Yet both were thinking of the same thing both wondering, in a way, how they were going to get along without constant friction.

Ruth had no intention of giving up her position. Brian had no intention of spending his time alone. He would cut out the lunches when Ruth was at home; that was only fair when she had been so decent. But when she left him, he would do as he pleased—and she had no kick coming. This was the way his cogitations ended.

"What's this?" he asked, picking up the rent receipt.

"I had to go by the office this noon, and as I had the money, I ran in and paid it. I thought it would save an extra trip," she answered as unconcernedly as she could.

Brian made no remark.

"Your clients so are slow in paying what they owe you, I will pay the house bills until you get your money in. What little they do give you, we need to sport with. I expect it is so with all professional men—that they have hard times collecting their bills. I know it is with the doctors," she was talking to gain time, to take his mind from her offer to pay the bills. "Old Doctor Graham used to say that 'people expected a doctor to eate promises, and so gave them nothing else.'"

"People are slow in paying professional men," Brian responded. "Yet I haven't so much out," he added honestly.

That was one thing Ruth loved in Brian. His truthfulness. She had never known him to lie to her about the slightest thing. He might keep still, not tell her things, but if she asked him she had the truth. It was a comfort too, especially since she had found out about Mollie King.

Ruth was very busy at the store the next few days, very tired at night. Brian saw that she looked exhausted, and said nothing about going out in the evening, for which Ruth was grateful.

Kenyon Roberts and his wife came in one evening to play cards, but aside from that they spent the time alone. Brian had quite recovered his good nature. Ruth was careful not to mention anything that might annoy him, and they had a quiet happy week together.

Ruth had gone to bed night after night with a lighter heart than she had known for many days. She smiled in the dark as she thought of Brian, his boyish sulks, his irresponsibility. At times she felt almost as if she might be his mother. "I'd spank him if I were," she said to herself. Her heart yearned over him. She loved him with every fibre of her being. She wanted to make him happy, to be hapy herself—and there were so many things she had to consider.

No man could be more charming than could Brian when he bestirred himself; few men more interesting. He had an unerring taste in the subject to choose for conversation, fitting it like a glove to his audience. Yet, with this unusual asset, he could be just exactly the opposite when either too indolent, or too upset because of some foolish happening, to make any effort.

Ruth had come to realize this trait and to try in every way to combat the indolence or grouch that made him so different from what he could be when he chose. She saw clearly that his ability to charm, to interest, would be a big factor in his success professionally if he did not so easily allow himself to be switched off by his feeling. She talked to him of this, not in a fault-finding way, but emphasizing the good points while speaking of the others simply as something he did unconsciously.

"Why, Brian," she said as they sat in the little living room after dinner, "I believe you could be one of the biggest lawyers in New York if you would learn to use only that part of your temperament that appeals so strongly to people. When you first meet people they are drawn to you very quickly. But you are such a boy! If they don't do just as you think they should, you show it so plainly. You must learn to hide it when you are not pleased."

"I'll get there some day, and without playing the hypocrite, too!"

"I don't want you to be hypocritical, dear; I only want you to show your best side. Keep the other under cover. It will pay."

To-morrow—Arthur Mandel Investigates Brian's Business Office.

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup

Easily and cheaply made at home, but it beats them all for quick results.

Thousands of housewives have found that they can save four-fifths of the money usually spent for cough preparations, by using this well-known old recipe for making cough syrup at home. It is simple and cheap but it really has no equal for prompt results. It takes right hold of a cough and gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth) from any druggist, pour it into a 16-oz bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make 16 ounces. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs—loosens and raises the phlegm, soothes and heals the membranes, and gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and dreaded cough disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, spasmodic croup, whooping cough or bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its healing effect on the membranes.

Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

Holding One Million Dollars at Your Service

An inventory taken at our factory stock-rooms, our branch warehouse, and of the stocks carried by our forty-six Agents, would show, at any time, about $1,000,000 worth of Dodge Power Transmission Equipment ready for immediate shipment.

It takes nerve to carry this stock at the present time, but we have carried an equivalent amount of stock for years past, and shall continue to carry it in the future. It's one of the things we pride ourselves upon when we talk about Dodge Service.

When you order a Pulley or a Ranger or a line of Shafting or some Sprocket and Chain from us, it is shipped at once from stock. Then a duplicate of your order is sent to the works, and that equipment is replaced into stock. Consequently our stocks are maintained at a high level. That explains why you can get most Dodge stock equipment shipped on the day you order it. We know the exact condition of our stock at any hour. That is why we can handle big contracts for stock lines so very quickly. That is why so many firms rely upon us for all of their Power Transmission Equipment.

We regard it as a kind of a trust never to let a customer down, and we take pride in maintaining this service standard.

TORTURING, ITCHING ECZEMA

Mrs. J. B. Horth, Paspebiac, Bonaventure Co., Que., writes:—"Thanks to Dr. Chase's Ointment I have been completely cured of that horrible disease eczema. I was held as if in prison from going among other people, for I was ashamed of the raw, flaming sores. Doctors could do nothing for me and I was almost desperate with suffering when I began to use Dr. Chase's Ointment. In one month I was completely cured and think that this was little short of a miracle."

The Old St. Lawrence

ONE of the interesting changes brought about by the war is the reversal of the St. Lawrence's role in history. Since its discovery by the French explorer-adventurers, the "river without end" has been a broad highway along which the French have sailed to establish themselves in the new world. At first timidly, then boldly, the explorers made their way as far as the Great Lakes, dropping a settlement here, a legend there, founding cities, building churches and establishing farms, and gradually dotting the whole course of the river with Breton and Norman names. The St. Lawrence thus, for many decades, was identified with French achievement, with deeds of French heroism, and with sacrifice endured by a brave race that never flinched before the task of pioneering the way along the watery wastes, and founding a new empire in an unknown part of the earth.

The tide of these striking human events always ran counter to the current of the great river. But now, for a time, a great change has been effected. The human tide is moving the other way. The descendants of the pioneers, and those who share with them the responsibility of empire, are moving with the stream in thousands to the sea and to the shores of the land which was the original starting point. No one of the Canadian soldiers proceeding to France from the heart of Canada can altogether avoid this former natural path of the explorer, the settler, the missionary, or the coureurs de bois. If he cross the lakes, he is upon the mighty pools which are the actual sources of the river, if he entrain from the west to journey by the trans-continental line, he must follow the course of a tributary, the Ottawa. No matter how he may travel, by ship, by train, or by road, he must, the moment he reaches the Great Lakes, proceed in the wake of the pioneers, of Cartier, Champlain, Frontenac, or La Salle, and traverse that Canada

Sprung of the saint and the chatalier.

In realizing what the St. Lawrence owes to its French associations, it is perhaps a bit startling to think that, had the pioneer in the Canadian primeval wilds been the Anglo-Saxon instead of the Frenchman of that romantic age of the Louis, the purely human associations of the river might have failed to capture men's imagination in the way they do now. One might, for instance, have had a highly plausible but prosaic account of seismic or other disturbances to account for the delightful island resorts which form an international playground at the very beginnings of the river. But instead, Gallic esprit and Breton tradition and legend have woven a story of naive beauty around the Thousand Isles, and, in the place of practical geological data, there is the picturesque, if unconvincing, legend of their formation from the flowers which fell upon this spot as the Garden of Eden was being transported through the air. And so it is everywhere along the giant river. No matter where one looks along its banks, one is always being invited to set aside prosaic facts and to employ the imagination to touch the river with its beauty.

To go back to the world war and the changes it has wrought, these new meanings and new values which have been imparted to everyday things will not be lost upon the Canadian soldiers who journey to France by the St. Lawrence. By a singular coincidence, the early course of the river's channel is indelibly associated with the founding of that Red Man's League of Nations known as the Five Nations. Was it not on the St. Lawrence that the two young men of the Onondagas saw the mysterious white canoe propelled swiftly and silently by him who pronounced that sacred word which proclaimed him Hiawatha, or Manitou, of all the fair realm of lakes and islets? And was it not Hiawatha who foretold the coming of war, and who counselled the union of nations in a common bond of protection? To-day the young men of the Canadian nation are going forth at the call of war. By a strange coincidence, too, they are helping to form another league of five related nations, to wit, in short, the bonds which shall indissolubly unite Canadians with Britons, Australians, New Zealanders, and Afrikanders.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

Peggy's Donation

By MILDRED WHITE

When the village lawyer looked up and saw Peggy standing in the doorway, his brow wrinkled perplexedly. Where had he seen that eager, smiling face before? The appealing glance of the dark eyes was also familiar.

"Come in," he said, and waited.

Peggy advanced into the room, before his desk she paused hesitatingly. "I came," she said, "to see if you would try me in Billie's place. Of course, I know that I could never do the work that Billie did, but if I could help out with your typing, and the phone, I would be satisfied with just a little salary."

The lawyer's face brightened. "Billy is your brother?" he questioned, "that accounts for the resemblance which puzzled me."

The girl nodded. "We are twins," she replied, "grandfather brought us up here in his home town. We don't remember our parents, but if Billie had not hurried away to war, everything was to have ended beautifully."

The lawyer considered; he was harassed by many troubled letters which must be answered. Impulsively he pointed to the typewriting machine. "Sit down and get busy," he invited, with a smile which banished his stern expression.

John Carter cleared his throat in embarrassment before beginning his oration. But the girl bent busily deached, over the typewriter, and her eyes were clear as a child's.

Each day the lawyer came to depend more upon her assistance, his mail was dispatched with regularity and ease, while he smiled often at the courteous innocence of Peggy's tone, as she placated an impatient client over the telephone.

The girl was even more satisfactory as a confidant; he liked to see her dark eyes widen in indignation over some recital of his own defeat, or turn to merriment at an opposing counsel's expense. And always when the sun came slanting through the office window before closing time, he liked to watch the masses of Peggy's hair turning in its light to burnished gold. Sometimes she would linger thoughtfully, adjusting the sport hat. And the night that Wilkins came in about a Red Cross donation, Peggy made no pretense of going at all.

Wrapt and unconscious of her own lingering she listened to his plea for the needs "out there." Then abruptly the lawyer arose.

"I have given the last cent I'll give for a while, Wilkins," he said.

When the man had departed, Peggy went also, but her cheeks were flaming. Regretting his own impatience, John Carter resolved to go that evening to the meeting of the Red Cross "drive." It was to be held in the church, the town's largest auditorium. He would see Wilkins and retract his decision.

Vaguely disappointed, he looked around the assembly. Peggy was not there. He had counted some way upon her interest, perhaps upon her approval. But after the conclusion of the first speaker's rather tiresome remarks, the girl herself came down the aisle. The lawyer's heart quickened joyously at the sight of the familiar little white frock, the plain linen hat. Then he was recalled to the second speaker. The man pointed eloquently to a service flag upon the wall.

—"Ten stars," he repeated, slowly. "Ten boys across the sea! Who will pay their part?" And in the centre of the building Peggy arose. "I will," she said, quickly.

There was silence for a moment; ten dollars had seemed to the men in these sects worth first considering. John Carter quickly followed in subscribing. "One hundred dollars," he announced, crisply.

Almost angrily he sought Peggy at the close of the meeting. "Why did you do that?" he demanded. "You who have so little should not so deprive yourself."

At her proud glance his tone changed. "Unless," he added, "you have other resources than the small payment you consider worthy of your services."

Peggy smiled. "I have no other resources than the payment which you give me," she repeated, "neither have I deprived myself. There was a certain sacrifice about it, I suppose," she conceded, "but, I made my donation."

The girl was much in John Carter's thoughts that night.

When she entered the office the following morning, she stood for a moment blushing and diffidently smiling. "I—I was going to ask you to turn your head while I remove my hat," said Peggy, "but better plunge, perhaps, and have it over."

Bewilderedly the lawyer stared at a small round head framed in short caught-up curls. "My hair," she explained, breathlessly, "that was the donation. I rode into the city last evening on the trolley and sold it for ten dollars. I can keep it turned up with combs until it grows," she added at his evident consternation. "I didn't realize about its making me look too undignified for an office. Oh," sighed Peggy, "won't you want me, any more!"

John Carter came and looked tenderly down on the close cropped head. "Want you," he murmured, "Oh! how I do want you, Peggy."

And into the girl's upraised face came suddenly a joyous answering light.

Messages of Socks.

A cleverly designed method of outwitting the Government officials and furnishing information to the enemy has been revealed by the arrest of a man in Paterson, N.J., by naval intelligence officers.

The man now held as an alleged spy in the Raymond street jail in Brooklyn, is said to have come from Holland and to have been employed in a silk dyeing establishment in Paterson. His unique method of sending messages to the Fatherland called for the use of silk hosiery of a peculiar dye. It is said that he had received a dozen pairs of these socks from German agents in Holland and that his method was to soak them in water and use the coloring matter which they gave forth as a writing fluid. As this dried it became invisible until brought out by a special process, which, however, the Federal agents are said to have worked out.

They, in turn, on learning the secret, opened these letters and changed the contents and forwarded the letters. The information thus received by the Germans proved of little use to them.

But for a long time, it is said there was not enough evidence on which to convict this man, until one day through carelessness, he left one of the socks where a naval intelligence agent found it. When confronted with this the man is said to have confessed to the entire project.

Won Victoria Cross.

The London Gazette announces the award of three new Victoria Crosses, the recipients being a Canadian corporal, Jos. Kaeble, M.M., late of a Quebec regiment, an Australian lieutenant and a sergeant of the Seaforth Highlanders. All are dead.

With all his comrades killed or wounded, Corpl. Kaeble, of the Quebec Regiment, remained on a trench parapet with his Lewis gun to meet a German attack. Holding the gun at his hip he emptied magazine after magazine into the advancing enemy. He managed to hold up the enemy, and finally fell backward into the trench mortally wounded. The Germans turned and retreated as Kaeble fired his last cartridges while lying on his back in the trench. The gallant Canadian, who has been decorated with the Victoria Cross, died from his wounds shortly afterwards.

The Victoria Cross also has been awarded to Lieut. Borella, of the Australian Imperial Force, and Sergt. Meikle, of the Seaforth Highlanders. Borella led his platoon in a gallant attack against German machine-gun posts, capturing an enemy trench and taking thirty prisoners. The Germans, outnumbering the British party ten to one, counter-attacked twice, but were repulsed.

Sergt. Meikle earned his decoration by storming single-handed an enemy machine gun. He next attacked the crew of two machine guns with his revolver, and when it was emptied he put the rest of the Germans out of action with a heavy stick. Later he again attacked another machine-gun crew while armed with a rifle and bayonet of a fallen comrade. He was killed as he reached the enemy position.

You needn't coax even cross, sick children to take these harmless candy "Cascarets." They never gripe—never injure. Cascarets never disappoint the worried mother. Each 10 cent box contains directions and dose for children aged one year old and upwards.

HE HATES CONVENTIONS.

"Foghorn" McDonald Wore Uniform While Not on Duty.

Major "Foghorn" Roderick McDonald appeared before Judge Leet in the Montreal Police Court recently charged with wearing a military uniform while not on duty. After a lengthy argument as to the status of an officer when placed on the reserve of officers, in which counsel for the military authorities contended it was equivalent to a discharge, the case was dropped. Major McDonald recently returned from the front on a furlough of three months. While enjoying this furlough he was placed on the reserve of officers.

"Foghorn."

Known from one end of the Canadian corps to the other is the stalwart Canadian who bears this nickname. Major Roderick Neil McDonald, former lumberman, miner, prospector, super-gang boss on railway construction and general handy man, born in Glengarry, Ont., is, outside the division commanders themselves, probably the best-known and one of the most popular men in the service.

When war broke out "Foghorn," so called from his terrific voice, was one of the first to offer his services. The mere fact of 54 was nothing. He looked and felt like a spry young chap of 40. The fact that he was passed in at a time when the recruiting authorities were refusing young men for the slightest disability is a commentary of the fitness of this tall, spare, muscular, sandy-haired Scots-Canadian. "Foghorn" refused the commission which his friend Sam Hughes (Foghorn's friends are legion) offered him and enlisted as a private, getting into the game with the Pats early in 1915. He distinguished himself as a fearless transport driver at Ypres, somehow managing to get his mules laden with supplies for the trenches up over the shell-plastered roads on the worst occasions. One could hear his loud shouts of exhortation to men and mules from one end of the salient to the other. "Foghorn" never failed the boys in the trenches, and both as a trench fighter and a transport boss covered himself with glory. Hadn't he bossed gangs of a thousand men on the National Transcontinental?

"Foghorn" held a unique position at first. While still a private he was treated as an officer, for his knowledge of transport and similar work was invaluable and he had frequently to be consulted. One day at this period Winston Churchill paid the Canadians a visit and met "Foghorn."

"And what do you think of British statesmen?" asked Winston, who warmed up to the outspoken lumberman.

"I think they are a lot of ——— fools," quoth "Foghorn," who swore he hadn't known who his interlocutor was. Churchill roared with laughter and insisted that "Foghorn" join the party of distinguished officers who were dining with him that night.

After long service at the front, "Foghorn" received an appointment in the Forestry Corps with command of the camp at Bagshot Park, the Duke of Connaught's estate where the Canuck lumberjacks were cutting the royal fir trees. The King, the old duke, and other members of the royal family were frequent visitors, dropping in informally to chat with the genial, outspoken commander, who has no foolish awe of royalty. "Foghorn" had had all his letters addressed care of the Duke of Connaught. One day the Governor-General of Canada walked into the headquarters of rough lumber, his pockets filled with letters and his arms laden with papers and packages.

"While I am very glad to have Major McDonald here, I do object to being made his postmaster," exclaimed the duke with a grin, laying "Foghorn's very voluminous Christmas mail on the table.

PUBLIC IS WARNED Against Taking Substitutes for Nuxated Iron

Physicians Below Say That Ordinary Metallic Iron Preparations Cannot Possibly Give The Same STRENGTH, POWER AND ENDURANCE As Organic Iron—Nuxated Iron

United States Judge Atkinson Gives Opinion

Careful investigation by physicians among druggists and patients has revealed the fact that there are thousands of people taking iron who do not distinguish between organic iron and metallic iron, and that such persons often fail to obtain the vital energy, strength and endurance which they seek, simply because they have taken the wrong form of iron.

Therefore, physicians mentioned below, advise those who feel the need of a strength and blood builder to go to their family doctors and obtain a prescription calling for organic iron—Nuxated Iron—and present this to their druggist so that there may be no question about obtaining the proper article. But if they do not wish to go to the trouble of getting a prescription for Nuxated Iron then be sure to look on the label and see that the words NUXATED IRON are printed thereon—not Nux and Iron nor any other form of iron, but Nuxated Iron.

Judge G. W. Atkinson

United States Judge G. W. Atkinson, of the Court of Claims, Washington, D.C., says: "It is without hesitation that I recommend Nuxated Iron to persons who in the stress of physical or mental labors have permitted the system to become debilitated, the body exhausted or the nerves run down. It has restored my appetite and my vitality. I feel that I have dropped off the burden of months of toil in the few weeks that I have been following the very simple directions for the use of Nuxated Iron."

The remarkable results produced by Nuxated Iron and its widespread sale (it being estimated that over three million people annually are to-day using it), has led to the offering of numerous substitutes, and these physicians say that health officials and doctors everywhere should caution the public against accepting substitutes in medicines and they especially warn against accepting substitutes for Nuxated Iron, which, instead of being organic iron may be nothing more than a metallic iron compound which may in some cases produce more harm than good. The widespread publication of the above information, has been suggested by Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept.) New York, and the Westchester County Hospital; Dr. Ferdinand King, New York Physician and Medical Author and others, so that the public may be informed on this subject and protected from the use of metallic iron under the delusion that it is Nuxated Iron or at least something as good as Nuxated Iron.

It is surprising how many people suffer from iron deficiency and do not know it. If you are not strong or well, you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of Nuxated Iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength and see how much you have gained.

Manufacturers' Note: Nuxated Iron, which is prescribed and recommended above by physicians is not a secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists. Unlike most patent medicines, it is said to make new blood cells, as it is absorbed into the system, make them block and vitalize the blood. The manufacturers have such confidence in Nuxated Iron that they are authorized to offer to every reader of this paper who is not entirely satisfied after using one bottle, their money back on return of the empty bottle. It is dispensed in this city by all good druggists.

USE MORE COD FISH.

The Canada Food Board have set apart this week to Canada's National Fish—the Cod. This is Codfish Week. All Ontario is being covered by this effort, and dealers everywhere will be ready to take care of the demands which the Food Board are creating. Vast quantities of Cod have already been shipped in to several points for distribution, and the outlook is that this week will far surpass the recent National Fish Day. Every woman is urged to use Codfish for her family for at least three meals during the week. The resulting good to Fishermen, and the industry generally will be worth while. Canada's Fishing Industry is growing to be a very important resource of this country, and should be encouraged wherever possible.

THE CITY OF NISH.

The Ancient Capital of Valiant Serbia —Has Had Varied History.

Among Serbian cities the little town of Nish, which has been recaptured by the Serbians is only surpassed in strategic importance by the capital of the country, Belgrade. It lies at a point where several of the great highroads of the Balkan peninsula converge, and it is at Nish that the line for Salonika branches off from the main railway between Belgrade and Constantinople. Before the war it was the custom of the King and his court to spend three months of the year at the little city on the banks of the Nishava, and it was to Nish that the Serbian Government retired when Belgrade had been finally occupied in the autumn of 1915.

Like so many other towns in the Balkans, Nish is a place of very great antiquity. It was mentioned as an important place by Ptolemy of Alexandria, and it was under the walls of Nish, the Naissus of the Romans, in the year A. D. 269, that the great battle was fought in which the Emperor Claudius destroyed the army of the Goths. Some two hundred years later came the invasion of the Huns, and in the centuries that followed Nish shared to the full in all the warfare which swept back and forth over the Balkans, until that final silence created by the Ottoman flood in the fifteenth century.

It was in 1375 that the Turks first captured Nish from the Serbians. In 1443 the allied armies of the Hungarians under Hunyady and the Serbians under George Brankovich retook it, but, twelve years later, it came under the Turkish dominion again and remained, for more than 300 years, one of the most important Turkish military stations on the road between Hungary and Constantinople.

Once a Turkish possession, Nish like the surrounding country, experienced the full brunt of the well-nigh perennial state of war which existed between Turkey and Austria. It changed hands twice, but the Austrians could never hold it for long; and when the Serbians at the beginning of the nineteenth century, having successfully risen against their Ottoman oppressors and swept them from the country, made strong effort to capture Nish, they were repulsed with great loss. It was not until the Russo-Turkish war in 1877 that the city finally came into the hands of the Serbians. By the Treaty of Berlin in 1878 Serbia was confirmed in its possession.

To what extent the little town has suffered by the Austrian occupation, it is impossible to say. In the early days of the war, before the Austrians actually captured the city, its accommodation was sadly overtaxed by the tremendous influx from Belgrade. No less than 30,000 people fled before the Austrian advance and settled in Nish or its neighborhood. Fifty visitors would have severely overtaxed the hotel accommodations of the Nish of those days and the effect of an invasion of 30,000 may be better imagined than described. Speaking of his visit to the city at this time one writer says: "Having obtained excellent sleeping accommodations — on the floor of a friend's house — the writer went in search of sustenance among the several eating houses of the city. The hubbub emanating therefrom beggars description, and the memory of the repast is one which will never be obliterated. Several Austrian officers in mufti were among the diners, and the whole arrangement seemed almost 'Gilbertian.' It rather reminded one in fact of that South American republic which had a notice on the doors of its jail—'All prisoners not in by six o'clock will be locked out'."

MY FIRST BOOTS.

How well do I recall the day
When I was but a lad,
How very proudly I surveyed
The first boots that I had!

But now I've grown to man's estate,
The truth I'm bound to tell:
There are some other boots that I
Remember quite as well

"Go, ask papa," the maiden said.
I did as I was bid;
I don't recall his very words—
I know just what he did.

I do rejoice with all my heart,
That sorry night is past;
My first boots I remember well—
I'll not forget the last.

IF KIDNEYS AND BLADDER BOTHER

Kidney and Bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the block and pass it on to the bladder, where it often remains to irritate and inflame causing a burning scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse again, there is difficulty in avoiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs which then act normally again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink, which quickly relieves bladder trouble.

"A nasty patch appeared on the right side of my face, caused by shaving with a dull razor. I drew blood with my fingers, the itching was so intense. The patch was red and irritated causing me to keep awake at night.

Cannibals In Canada.

The terrible conditions that exist along the eastern shores of the Hudson Bay, where hundreds of Eskimo have starved to death in recent years, were described in a moving speech delivered recently at the Anglican Synod by Rev. W. G. Walton, a missionary from that district in the Far North of Canada. The problem was due to a peculiar change in the food supply of that part of the Dominion. Years ago great herds of barren-waste cariboo lived in that part of Canada, and the Eskimo killed them for food. The cariboo travelled farther south at certain seasons, and about 35 years ago they ceased to return to the shores of Hudson Bay. Some men thought this was due to a number of big bush fires that drove them to the east, but the explanation could not be given with any certainty. When the cariboo failed to appear, the Eskimo were deprived of their great source of food. "Seals are scarce there," said Mr. Walton, "and I have travelled sometimes 200 miles along the coast without seeing one." The aborigines had no means of sustenance, and a result was a desperate situation. Mr. Walton told of one or two cases that illustrated how badly help was needed. In one instance, an Eskimo woman ate her two half-grown daughters, and then died of starvation herself.

ALMOST BLIND FROM HEADACHES.

It is hard to struggle along with a head that aches and pains all the time. Headache seems habitual with many people; indeed, some are seldom, if ever, free from it, suffering continually, and wondering why they can get no relief.

In nine cases out of ten, persistent headaches are due to poisoned blood, the blood being rendered impure through some derangement of the stomach, liver or bowels.

The reason Burdock Blood Bitters makes permanent cures of all cases of headache, is because it starts the organs of elimination acting freely, and the poisons and impurities are carried off from the system, purified blood circulates in the brain cells, and instead of pains and aches there is revived mentality and bodily vigor.

Mrs. Geo. Monck, Arden, Ont., writes: "I have been troubled a great deal with sick headaches, and at times would almost go blind, and have to go to bed. I tried different kinds of medicine without any benefit until I was advised to use Burdock Blood Bitters. After taking it, I have not been troubled since."

THE NAME STUCK.

How the Pittsburgh Ball Club Came to Be Called "Pirates."

The Pittsburgh ball team, commonly called the Pirates, got that name as the result of the kidnaping of Louis Bierbauer, a star second baseman, from the Athletics way back in 1888 or 1889. At that time there was a working agreement between the National league and the old American association, by which neither organization was permitted to reserve more than fifteen players at the close of the season.

The owners of the Athletics, in the American association, desired to keep sixteen of their men, but as only fifteen could be legally reserved, the only way open was to leave one name off the list and take a chance on no other club picking up the player. Accordingly the Athletic management failed to name Bierbauer in the reserve list, hoping the omission would be overlooked. But a friend of the Pittsburgh club noted that Bierbauer's name was missing, and as Louis was a much sought player the friend told Horace Phillips, manager of the Pittsburgh club. Phillips proceeded to Erie, Pa., where Louis passed the winter months at his home.

Bierbauer was willing to listen, a tempting offer was made, and when Phillips returned he brought with him the player's signed contract for the following season. The whole procedure was perfectly regular, under the rules, and Bierbauer played in Pittsburgh for many years, but the manner of his capture caused no end of talk in the baseball world, and one Philadelphia writer referred to the affair as an act of "piracy" on the baseball seas. The Pittsburgers were promptly named the "Pirates," and the title has stuck.—Kansas City Star.

DOCTOR COULD NOT HELP HER

But Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Saved Her from a Serious Operation.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—"I suffered something dreadful from a displacement and two very bad attacks of inflammation. My doctor said he could do nothing more for me and I would have to go to the hospital for an operation, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Sanative Wash have entirely cured me of my troubles and I am now in good health. I am willing you should use my testimonial and hope to benefit other suffering women by so doing."—Mrs. F. PLATT, 9 Woodbine St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Operations upon women in our hospitals are constantly on the increase, but before submitting to an operation for ailments peculiar to their sex every woman owes it to herself to give that famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a trial.

A Woman Poked Her Nose Into British Army Mess And Wonders Resulted

WARD MUIR recounts in "The Spectator" the following sprightly experience:

"'Any complaints?' Regularly at dinner time the orderly officer materializes for a fraction of a second in the men's mess and, having uttered this challenge, vanishes, wafted on his way by the unvarying 'No, sir!' of the senior corporal.

"Before I enlisted I had heard such harrowing stories about the roughness of life in khaki that the victualling was from the first a pleasant surprise; it would never have occurred to me to uplift my voice in 'any complaints.' There war always enough to eat. Beyond this point there seemed to be nothing more to be said.

"Nevertheless, looking back, I am conscious that our mess is better than it was in the spring of 1915, when I joined.

"Thereby hangs a tale. It is the tale of a woman who poked her nose in where she was not wanted—and on whose head a hundred and fifty men should shower blessings for her inquisitiveness.

"At the time of which I write the cookhouse staff in our mess were men—chosen on an ancient principle. The mess corporal, who at that era was chosen on grounds not unsimilar to those which governed the choice of the cook, dumped upon his counter at the end of the messroom the large tin receptable — resembling a baby's bath—which contained the stew (or the dishes bearing the roasts, as the case may be) and left it to the hungry rabble to help themselves as best they could. This you may be sure they did, and our spirit of fairness was such that I am certain no one was deprived of his share by another's selfishness. Still—it was a tussle.

"The stew was mobbed by persons armed with spoons and enamelled soup plates; the skirmish to dip into the appetizing mess was so confusing that you sometimes hardly knew what lucky morsel you had scooped until you had elbowed forth and could examine at leisure your plate's contents.

"The attack upon a joint was even more vigorous. The joint could not be said to be carved; it was rent asunder by several individuals' knives and forks hacking into it simultaneously — with awkward effects in the matter of juices.

"But these matters were beneath the notice of our corporal. He kept order in the mess. He produced the food from the background of the kitchen at the hours appointed. Having done so, he beamed at us from behind his counter, with the complacency of one who would be pained to learn that as far as his messroom was concerned all was not for the best in the best of all possible worlds.

"The scene I remember well. We orderlies were seated at our tables, munching herd, when I noticed that the usual babel of talk had died down. Looking up, I saw behind Corpl. Morgan's counter three figures —those of the corporal himself, the quartermaster, and—astonishing vision— Miss N——, the assistant matron. It was the first time that any one present had ever seen a woman in our mess hut. The sight struck us dumb. We gaped. Miss N——, with two spots of pink in her cheeks and a determined expression, was interrogating Corpl. Morgan; we saw her sniffing the stew, peering with a frown into the egg-box and gingerly lifting out specimens of its contents, the knives and forks and spoons. It was not difficult to guess that she was dissatisfied with her scrutiny.

"Presently Miss N—— withdrew through the kitchen, the quartermaster in her wake. The babel broke forth afresh, but with increased loudness and fury. I regret to say that the assemblage with almost complete unanimity expressed its vehement disapproval of the sacredness of the men's mess being invaded by a woman. Our corporal, haranguing us in language which reached an unsual floridity, demanded to know whether we were or were not a girls' school and whether the matron, the assistant matron or any other member of the female staff had a right to come and lord it over us.

"What exactly happened thereafter, behind the scenes, I do not know; nor do I know what influence had caused Miss N—— to examine into the men's mess. Suffice it to say that, mysteriously, phenomena began to supervene. Corpl. Morgan found himself transferred to another post. Women cooks appeared in the kitchen and a woman washer-up in the scullery. Stranger still, we suddenly beheld our bare wooden tables covered with American cloth; a new outfit of flawless enamel plates, in two sizes, one for meat and one for pudding, on the counter; likewise, a complete new act of cutlery. The anti-social method of the skirmish was superseded by a system whereby each table was allotted to a given number of men, and a plate of food, exactly calculated for that number and ready carved, was placed thereon only when the table was filled.

"And the 'grub' itself! — it was the same as before, yet how different! Steak pudding, shepherd's pie, 'greens,' fried onions, stewed fruit, blanc mange, salad, jam tart, roly-poly—why were these things, all quite unpretentious, never once seen as addenda to the stew, roast and duff of our men cooks, yet introduced as a matter of course into our menu as soon as women reigned in the kitchen?

"When the orderly officer calls out 'Any complaints?' it is Miss N—— whom he has to thank for the genuineness of the 'No, sir!' which lets him go straightway on his round."

The Serenaders.

A fiddler tried a serenade.
She didn't smile on him.
She scorned the music that he made,

FEW FOLKS HAVE GRAY HAIR NOW

Druggist Says Ladies Are Using Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Hair that loses its colour and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even colour, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture improved by the addition of other ingredients by asking at any drug store for a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small stand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite to impart colour and a youthful appearance to the hair. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

GAS IN THE STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Recommends the Daily Use of Magnesia To Overcome Trouble, Caused by Fermenting Food and Acid Indigestion.

Gas and wind in the stomach accompanied by that full bloated feeling after eating are almost certain evidences of the presence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach, creating so-called "acid indigestion."

Acid stomachs are dangerous because too much acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach often leading to gastritis accompanied by serious stomach ulcers. Food ferments and sours, creating the distressing gas which distends the stomach and hampers the normal functions of the vital internal organs, often affecting the heart.

It is the worst of folly to neglect such a serious condition or to treat with ordinary digestive aids which have no neutralizing effect on the stomach acids. Instead, get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after meals and you will enjoy your meals with no more fear of indigestion.

Vulcanizing With Light.

Messrs. Heilbronner and Bernstein, in France, have been experimenting with ultra violet rays as a means of expediting and simplifying the vulcanization of rubber. Vulcanization consists in impregnating rubber with sulphur. The experimenters mix solutions of sulphur and rubber at normal temperature and submit the mixture to the influence of ultra violet light for ten seconds. On evaporating the liquid a film of vulcanized rubber is left. A very small quantity of sulphur suffices—6 in 1,000.—New York World.

GIRLS! SHAVE A MASS OF BEAUTIFUL HAIR, IT SOFT, GLOSSY, WAVY

A SMALL BOTTLE DESTROYS DANDRUFF AND DOUBLES BEAUTY OF YOUR HAIR.

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you cannot find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance.

Get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter for a few cents and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all—you surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Danderine.

PETERBOROUGH, WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 11, 1918

Labour Meeting Endorses Candidates For Council and Utilities Commission

Mr. J. J. Hartley for the Commission and Messrs. Alex. Murray, M. H. Gainey and Robt. Morrison for the Council—Large Attendance Signified Deep Interest in the Municipal Elections.

UNITY OF WORKERS URGED

LABOUR'S MUNICIPAL CANDIDATES.

For Utilities Commission—J. J. Hartley.

For Aldermanic Board — Alex Murray, Harry Gainey, Robert Morrison.

The Labour Platform.

1. Municipal ownership of gas and electric light plants, telephones, and all street railways, all municipal franchises to be owned and operated by the municipality in the interest of the people.

2. Eight hour services for all municipal employees.

3. All municipal work to be performed directly by the municipality without the intervention of contractors.

4. Payment of wages weekly, equal pay for women for equal work performed with men.

5. Revision and simplification of municipal code.

6. Thorough revision and more just equalization of salaries of public officials.

7. The use of halls in all public buildings to be granted free of charge to the citizens for the discussion of public questions.

8. Abolition of property qualifications for municipal candidates.

9. Municipal loans to be supplied to workingmen for building purposes at lowest rates of interest.

10. Annual publication of assessment rolls.

11 Universal suffrage and the abolition of the ward system.

Enthusiasm and a large attendance were two of the outstanding features of the open meeting of the Trades and Labour Council last night, at which the above candidates for the municipal elections were unanimously endorsed after they had pledged their adherence to the general platform of Labour in municipal affairs, and promised, if elected, to devote themselves to the best interests of the city with particular consideration for the rights of workingmen. Veterans of the movement expressed their delight that so many of the ratepayers were present. It was not only a large, but also a representative gathering, they declared, and interpreted it as promise of success in the present effort to secure representation in the city's administration.

Will Be Constructive.

With the tone of confidence that ran through all the addresses there was special emphasis upon the need of co-operation. Every working man, it was urged, whether a member of a union or not, should vote and work for the election of the Labour candidates. Some of the speakers apparently anticipated opposition on certain points by asserting that the Labour representatives would follow a constructive course in the City Council, working for Peterborough's development on solid and secure grounds.

Opportunity Reaches Out.

Mr. J. J. Hartley, who presided, expressed his gratification at the response to the Trades and Labour Council's arrangements for a public meeting. "Don't think our men are not going to be elected," he counselled. "If the working men of Peterborough stand by our candidates there is no doubt of their election. Never in the history of Peterborough has the influence of the working men been felt as it is to-day, and it behooves every worker to keep up that influence. I hope you will be true to one another and to yourselves. All that we ask for is fair play in this world."

Mr. Hartley referred to the City Council's provision for the holding of the nominations for aldermen in the evening. It was only right, he said, that this change had been made, for the working men desired to attend the nominations. He hoped that they would take full advantage of the change. As a final advice he said, "It is not enough to give your vote for the candidates, but get out and work for them between now and election day."

Should Be Union Men.

Mr. Thos. H. Lane made a plea to workingmen to join the unions. "We are glad to have your help from the outside, but we would be tickled to death to get your help from the inside. The labour unions are working for all workingmen, but isn't it time that all the workingmen woke up and helped themselves." Mr. Lane attacked the law that made property the qualification for municipal service, ironically remarking that no demand was made of intelligence. The workingman's experience in the economy he had to practice would equip him to handle the city's business economically, at the same time looking to the development of the city.

An Effect of the War.

"I'm a clique-breaker, but not a speech-maker," said Alex. Murray, and immediately plunged into a speech that called for no apology. "If I am defeated it will not be me; it will be Labour, and it's for you to do your duty for yourselves. I believe the war has taught the working man a great lesson. The cities were careless and indifferent about the men they put in the City Council. Our men have defended their country, and now they feel that they are able to conduct its business."

Speaking of the movement to erect a memorial to the soldiers of this city who had given their lives in the war, he declared that the first duty was to the dependents of those soldiers. If the men who were lying in Flanders knew that the dependents the war had left in its trail were not being properly cared for, if they could, they would kick a memorial down to the ground.

Not a Bolshevik.

Mr. Murray enumerated the planks in the Labour Council's municipal platform, and said that most assuredly would he stand by that platform. Referring to the first plank of municipal ownership, he said: "I am not a Bolshevik, though I am in sympathy with him. He has an object but he tries to force it upon you. I would try to educate the people to see my object as I do. That is the only way. I don't wish to turn the City Council upside down so that nobody else could do anything with it.

Mr. Murray Already at Work.

Referring to the second clause, he said that the Council had been dilly-dallying with the fire hall problem. The double platoon system was under consideration.

"I called at the fire hall to see if the men were reasonable in their demands. I couldn't find any fault with anything they want. With a two platoon system there will be two shifts of twelve hours each. There are now sixteen men, and four more would be needed. Ten of them would work in one shift and the other ten would replace them. They work in pairs, and if one man became sick the Chief would call in that man's mate. When a fire broke out, the ten off duty would go to the assistance of the others. I asked whether the men working at night would go to bed or remain up. They said they would go to bed, and that they could get out and on to the trucks as quickly as if they were sitting close by. I told them I could scarcely believe that and would have to see it put to a test."

Mr. M. H. Gainey.

Mr. Gainey, endorsing the Labour platform, said he believed the firemen's hours were too long. Whoever were elected should see that the men were given shorter hours and better conditions. He had been informed that a number of big undertakings were looming up for next year. There was not only the Hunter street bridge, which he heartily approved, but also an outfall sewer and probably a school or two. The total expenditure had been estimated at $600,000. The patriotic grants would not be needed next year, but these expenditures would leave the total rate about the same as this year. "I don't want to see a higher rate than we have now," Mr. Gainey remarked. "In regard to the Veterans nothing is too good for them. As the men come home we should be as good to them as we can. If the Veterans can bring out men I am ready to step down and out. They fought and won the victory and they are the men who should rule. I elected I will endeavour to look after the interests of the city at large, but I will give Labour the preference. There are questions that will come up that we don't know of now, but in every case I will endeavour to use my best judgment."

Mr. Robert Morrison.

Mr. Robert Morrison, 599 Bolivar street, is an electrical worker in the C.G.E. shops. He thanked the Labour Council for the privilege of standing for Labour. "I was always in favour of Labour, and I hope to be able to say at the end of next year that I was worthy of your confidence. As far as I am able I will look to the interests of the masses of the people: I can't tell what questions will come up, but I hope I will see my way clearly and be able to decide upon them in the best way." Mr Morrison also said that he subscribed to the municipal platform of the Labour Council.

Mr. James Runnett.

Mr. Runnett, who had been proposed as an alternative in the Labour ticket, said he had no notion of running. "I am pleased to know that you had confidence in me to propose me for the Council Board. I'd like to fight for these three men. If you place too many in the field you are going to collapse. Many men will want to vote for these three men, but they will also have friends in the Council. I don't think the people have been educated to the point where they will stand solidly for a Labour ticket. One ratepayer will want to vote for our candidates and also for a friend on the Council now, another will do the same, but will prefer some other of the present aldermen. The result will be a solid vote for the three candidates, and the rest will all split up. "They can fizzle it out among themselves," Mr. Runnett remarked in his racy manner. "The representatives of Labour will work for the community at large, and will be fair, square and above board. They will not do one thing in committee and another in Council. I am not speaking of any particular man now, I class them all the same."

The working men should take a deeper interest in the Council's affairs and attend the meetings, Mr. Runnett suggested.

The Advice of Experience.

Ex-Ald. Joseph Crowe gave the candidates a slice of advice from his experience in the Council, in which he had stood for the rights of the workingmen, he said with a touch of pride. "There is a lot to be done for the whole community and we need a live Council in these next years."

Mr. Hartley's Acceptance.

The chairman was reminded that he had been chosen as a candidate for the Utilities Commission. Mr. Hartley acknowledged the honour thus conferred upon him. There was an opportunity for public service on the Utilities Commission. As a contractor he believed that he should be useful in dealing with the construction work the Commission carries on. "Everything will be open and above board. I believe the people are entitled to know all about the Commission's affairs, and I think you will agree that we haven't heard much about the Commission's business in the past."

Mr. T. Tooms.

Mr. Thomas Tooms gave an interesting and thoughtful address on the aims of Labour. The only way Labour could get what it wanted was through legislation. In the past its efforts had been futile, hence it remained for Labour to elect its own members to every board of public administration in the province "in sufficient numbers to sway the balance of power in the way we want them to go." There must be no standing still for the labour movement, he said. It must either advance or recede, so it must advance. Mr Tooms ridiculed the idea that capitalistic influence should control the people. There was plenty of brains and intelligence in the ranks of Labour, but it could not find outlet under the present system.

Endorsed the Candidates.

By a resolution moved by Mr. M. H. Campbell and seconded by Mr. Joseph Begley, the above mentioned candidates were unanimously endorsed by the meeting.

The Trades and Labour Council, Mr. Begley said, would not refuse to co-operate with other bodies, but they would refuse to form a ring for any purpose. "Our representatives will co-operate if they can get in the Council. They are going there to work for our interests, for the interests of the masses, and the interests of the masses are the interests of the country."

Mr. Begley shot a barb at the press, and touched upon the J. P. Booth incident. Mr. Booth, he related, had invited trouble with his employees. He had refused them a Board of Conciliation and also refused an interview with a representative of Labour. Mr. Booth made $30,000,000 out of special privileges granted by the people, and now denies that they have any right to say how he should conduct his business. The special privileges were the right to build a railway on land given to him, the right to cut timber off Crown lands, the right to carry on a great business in Ottawa, the right to have fire protection and police protection. When a Labour representative asks him how he proposes to use the blood and muscle of his employees, he curtly replied that he would not be dictated to on his relations with his employees.

"You hear it said that Labour will work against the retail merchants. There's not a word of truth in it. We are sending free men to the Council. All they have is their job! They are in a better position of freedom and independence than any representative of the merchants.

Refuses Surrender of Enver Pasha

ACTION OF BERLIN GOVERNMENT MAY INDICATE ITS POSITION WITH REGARD TO FORMER EMPEROR.

COPENHAGEN, Dec. 11.—Turkey has demanded the extradition of Talaat Pasha, former Grand Vizier, and Enver Pasha, the former War Minister, as well as other members of the former Turkish Government who fled to Germany.

The Wolff Bureau, the semi-official news agency at Berlin, says that Enver Pasha and Talaat Pasha will not be extradited, but that others charged with ordinary political crimes will be extradited.

Recent despatches reported that both Enver Pasha and Talaat Pasha have been arrested in Berlin at the request of the Turkish Government.

Letter Caused a Sensation

Labour Candidate Produced Interesting Letter Referring to Conscription.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, December 11. — J. H. Thomas, Labour M.P., for Derby, sprang a sensation to-day by producing a letter from a British general to a French general, intimating that Britain would establish an army of twenty divisions, based on conscription. The letter is quoted as saying that the "British Cabinet would not tackle the question till after the elections, and until this league of nations nonsense" had been discussed at the peace conference.

Candidates Cropping Up

Three New Names Appear in List of Prospective Candidates.

Mr. Vincent Eastwood, chairman of the Board of Education, Ex-Mayor J. J. Duffus and Mr. J. J. Hartley are said to be aspirants for election to the Utilities Commission. Mr. W. H. Moore, the present member of the Commission will also be a candidate for re-election to the office which he has held for so many years.

The Visit of Hon. Dr. Cody

It is expected that there will be a large attendance at the meeting of the Canadian Club at the Empress Hotel to-morrow evening, when Hon. Dr. Cody, Minister of Education, will address the club. Many citizens have signified their intention of hearing the well-known speaker. The dinner will commence at 6.30 o'clock and those who have not yet obtained their tickets may do so at the Empress to-morrow evening.

Playgrounds Association Held Meeting

Municipal Bathing Place for South End of City.

A general meeting of the Peterborough Playgrounds Association was held in the Public Library.

The convenor of the Supervision committee, Mrs. Morris, reported that it had been impossible to secure male supervisors this year, and that owing to this, it had been found difficult to hold the interest of the older boys. However, taking everything into consideration, the work of the playgrounds this year had proved very satisfactory.

The treasurer, Mr. J. H. Vanstone, reported that after paying all accounts which had been presented to the Association, there was a small balance standing to their credit.

An evidence of the growing interest of the public in the supervised playgrounds movement was the substantial increase in the number of contributors to the funds of the Association.

A resolution was passed requesting the aspirants to the municipal council ror 1919, to state their attitude in respect to the construction and maintenance of a municipal bathing place in the south end of the city.

Supreme Authority is Conceded to Prevert German Government

Workmen and Soldiers Councils Are Losing Popularity—Fearful Conditions Reported in Hamburg—Four Newspaper Offices Seized.

Special to The Examiner:

AMSTERDAM, Dec. 11.—The Workmen's and Soldiers' Executive committee has conceded supreme authority in Germany to Chancellor Ebert's government, it was reported in despatches received here to-day.

Ebert is believed to have been provided with sufficient strength to head down the Spartacus group, which is overpowering sentries and collecting arms. Workmen's and Soldiers' Councils are losing popularity everywhere, especially in Hamburg, where conditions are reported to be fearful. Many citizens there are armed. The only meat is horse sausage. A despatch from Munich to-day said that the troops have overthrown the Workmen's and Soldiers' Council there. The despatch also reported that the Spartacusians seized four newspaper offices.

A German American named Marten, who is known here as Gerard, led the attempt to arrest the Executive committee of Workmen's and Soldiers' Council, it was learned to-day.

Campaign is Getting Brisk

Lloyd George Has Promise of a Substantial Majority.

Canadian Press:

LONDON, Dec. 11.—With general elections day less than three hundred hours away, the campaign is livening up considerably, but there is no expectation that the last days of the government will affect the result of a substantial victory for Lloyd George.

Independent observers predict the government will take four hundred seats, of which one-fifth will be Liberal supporters. Labourites may get one hundred seats and Asquith eighty or ninety, while the Sinn Feiners are likely to carry a majority of the Irish seas.

Repay All Costs.

Canadian Press:

LONDON, Dec. 11.—The election is being fought out largely on issues arising from war and there is little tendency on any side to exploit opinions such as preference or tariff questions. All meetings indicate that public opinion is strong on making Germany pay to the Allies all their costs of war. The abolishment of conscription is also a live issue, but it is pointed out by the Westminster Gazette that if Britain expects to collect a big indemnity from Germany she must keep a large army of occupation on the continent for years to come and therefore probably needs conscription.

Hickey's Great Public Sale

There Are a Lot of Good Bargains Left.

THE ENTIRE STOCK IN THE HANDS OF THE CANADIAN SALES CO., OF TORONTO.

The most sensational sale of gents' furnishings and clothing ever attempted in this country. Prices wrecked in every line. Bear in mind there are many big bargains left which space will not permit us to list. What your eyes see, your ears surely must believe. Every item is important—every one a money saving opportunity. Read the list to-morrow night. No attention will be paid to what the goods actually cost, as we will cut and slash prices to sell stock Friday and Saturday. In some cases $1 will do the work of $2 elsewhere. By no means miss the last opportunity. It's an event that seldom comes. We will claim supremacy in value-giving for fifty miles around and leave the verdict with the people. "It will pay you to come to Hickey's," (opposite the Royal Theatre.)

"The best society for the oppression of pernicious literature is the family." The best ligislation that can be passed for the prevention of the sale of vile literature can be passed by the father and mother. Daily teaching to love and study good useful things will bring the boys and girls to detest the opposite.

Rev. Mitchell at St. Andrew's

Gave a Very Interesting Address on Thankfulness.

Rev. T. H. Mitchell, formerly pastor of St. Andrews' Church, gave a very interesting address on 'Thankfulness' at the annual thank offering meeting of the Young Ladies' Mission Society of St. Andrews' Church last evening.

Practically all the congregation of St. Andrews and a large number of friends attended the meeting and renewed acquaintances with Rev. Mr. Mitchell.

Rev. Mr Rowand as chairman, opened the meeting Two sacred solos by Mr. Farr and Miss Greta Giles were much appreciated.

TREBILCOCK'S OPEN EVENINGS

As usual at this time of the year the store of Trebilcock Bros. looks like an immense Santa Claus storehouse of pretty and useful gifts. To give those who are unable to shop in daytime a chance to look over the stock the store will remain open evenings from now till Christmas.

PETERBORO SOLDIER HAS BEEN RELEASED FROM PRISON CAMP

Mrs. Harry Laing, 196 Rubidge street has received a cablegram from her husband, Pte. Harry Laing, who went overseas with the 31st Edmonton battalion and was taken prisoner at the battle of the Somme in September 1916, stating that he has arrived in England. Pte. Laing was imprisoner in Friderichfeld Camp, Germany.

MORMON LEAVES $70,000.

Joseph E. Smith's Estate Divided Among Forty-Seven Heirs.

Salt Lake City, December 11.—Although he controlled millions of dollars, while president of the Mormon church, Joseph F. Smith left an estate of less than $70,000, it became known when the petition for letters testamentary was filed. The will was not filed with the petition, but the executors are named, all sons of the deceased. Forty seven heirs are mentioned in the will.

DISTINGUISHED MINISTER COMING TO KNOX CHURCH

BLANKETS, SHEETS AND OTHER ARTICLES DISAPPEARED FROM THE EMERGENCY HOSPITAL

Even the Wheelbarrow is Numbered Among the Missing—Annual Meeting of the Board of Health—Tags on Mattresses.

The annual meeting of the Board of Health was held last evening, and the yearly report of the Medical Officer of Health and the Sanitary Inspector were read and approved. Present were His Worship the Mayor, Ex-Ald. Harry Morgan, Mr. James Murdie, Dr. Amys, M.O.H., and Chairman William Buller.

Miss H. Read, Acting Superintendent of the Isolation Hospital, who gave her services during the 'influenza epidemic and who was lady superintendent of the Emergency Hospital, was unanimously granted a bonus of $50 by the Board.

It was ordered to be put on file for the benefit of next year's Board of Health, that the Board was in favour of making it compulsory that manufacturers of mattresses would put tags on their mattresses stating what the mattress was composed of.

A small quantity of steam coal in the cellar of the Emergency hospital was given to the Board of Works.

Reference was made to the thieving of bed sheets, blankets and other articles from the Emergency hospital. Somebody even took a fancy to the wheelbarrow, which has vanished.

The annual reports of Dr. C. H. Amys, M.O.H. and Sanitary Inspector Stapleton will appear to-morrow.

HIRED MAN SEEKS $2,000

George Hartwick Fell Down Hay Chute in Archie Wilson's Barn in Harvey Township.

HIS HEALTH IMPAIRED

The injuries sustained by George Hartwick when he fell through a hay chute in Mr. Archie Wilson's barn, about two miles from Lakehurst, in Harvey township, on August 3rd, formed the basis of his action for $2,000 in the County Court before a jury, with Judge Huycke on the bench. The hearing consumed the first period of the session yesterday afternoon, dragged its tedious evidence before the jury this morning and was well advanced with the defence this afternoon. Hartwick had worked in the Henry Hope factory last winter, but in the summer he heard the call of the land. He hired with Mr. Wilson when the hay was ripe and sweet and ready for storage in the barn. On his third day he was tramping down the hay and dropped into the chute leading to the ground floor. In his evidence he stated that the opening of the chute was covered with hay, that the mow was but dimly lighted and that he had not been warned to avoid the chute nor told of its existence. The examination and cross-examination went into all the conditions in the barn, but Judge Huycke remarked to Mr. Kerr this afternoon that there had been much chaff and very little wheat from the sifting process.

Dr. J. C. Smith of Lakefield, testified that Hartwick had suffered serious internal injuries from which he had not fully recovered, and which might affect him for years. The hip bone in one leg he believed had been split and bruises had brought on an attack of sciatica. Dr. Smith said that Hartwick had to wear an abdominal support that gave him considerable relief and enabled him to perform some light work.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

WEDNESDAY, DEC. 11TH, 1918.

WHAT PETERBORO NEEDS

The coming election of aldermen gives Peterboro an unprecedented opportunity to put big ideas and big men into action The question that the rate-payers of the city should ask themselves now is shall we select the fitter and more public-spirited men from among our citizens—men who will have the management of the shaping and the making of the future Peterboro, who are really concerned about the city's welfare?

At this time of the year there is usually a lot of talk about" conferring municipal honours." Such talk is nonsense when it is considered that the office of mayor or alderman carries only the honour that can be won by intelligent, active, sincere service to the people. Peterboro at this time of all others does not want men who are only seeking "municipal honours." She wants men who will honour the city by devotion to its welfare. In the choosing of our city managers for the difficult problems that are facing us, we want men who are big enough to work—not for themselves alone, but for Peterboro.

It has been well for Peterboro in the past that we have had such men among our mayors and aldermen. We need men of the same calibre now, for the thinking citizens must admit that the more conscientious, more public-spirited, more useful men of the community, have not always, especially in late years, controlled our civic business. Factious interests, prejudices and self-seeking influences have had too much to say. If Peterboro is to grow and levelop, if it is to be made a better city for its people to live in, if we are to build up a really great and distinctive community, the managers that are soon to be put in office must be fair to everyone. Their policy must be concived in equity and developed in justice and must not favour any class or interest at the expense of another.

We can take a lesson from the British Empire itself. The component parts of the Empire are varied but the whole Empire stood as a unit for a principle expressed in a "little scrap of paper." So it can be in Peterboro. The business management of the city in the responsibility of each one of us.

If we are to choose the proper managers for the big job of making a bigger Peterboro we have less than two weeks to think and act.

CHECKING THE DRIFTER.

A Canadian newspaper man, who has returned after being with the Canadian army at the front, has written some very interesting impressions on the problem of the returned soldier. While all his findings may not find favour in the public mind or in the estimates of returned soldiers as a whole, there is no doubt that in his frank diagnosis of the situation he has covered an element which the Great War Veterans and other associations made up of men who offered themselves when war's call came, will have to take into consideration.

Says the writer:

Some how or other the generals and colonels whom I interviewed overseas do not view the returning soldier with the same alarm as agitated editors and scheming politicians at home.

What they would say to me was substantially this: "Before the war was absorbed normally four hundred thousand immigrants a year who had no jobs and didn't know where to go. We did it with comparatively little indigestion. Why then should we feel disturbed about reabsorbing say three hundred thousand of our own citizens who are familiar with the country and know just where they t int."

As a matter of fact the statistics are a shade better han this estimate of three hundred thousand. The official figures show that there are 236,000 Canadian soldiers to be repatriated, of whom 105,000 are willing to go on the land, 50,000 know where jobs, old or new, are waiting for them, and 131,000 are uncertain as to their future. Subtracting the 56,000 dead from the figures in hand and the known fact that we sent 418,000 men overseas, we arrive at the conclusion that we reabsorbed some 76,000 during the course of the war, and these, of course, are not to be considered as a new complication of the labour problem.

This 706,000 consists of wounded who have already been provided with pensions according to their disability and jobs according to their ability, and unfits—"crocks" as they call them—who did not get any further than England because a medical board over theer refused to let them go to the war, although a medical board over here had no objection to letting them go on the pay roll. As one might expect, most of the grouching has come from the crocks, who value their services to Canada in inverse proportion to the blood they were not allowed to shed. They have been reabsorbed in one way or another. In many cases jobs have been made for them. If some of them have no jobs now it has not been for lack of work offering. We can write that account off with the reflection that the returned soldier who didn't fit in while the war was on won't fit in any better now that the war is over. There will always be a certain number who won't want to work at all on the principle that they did their bit once, or went through the gestures, and that Canada owes them a soft living ever afterwards. Considering the half-million men whom Canada had in arms these slackers of peace are a very small percentage indeed.

The immediate problem is the 131,000 jobless soldiers, real pukka, fighting men who, will be coming back to Canada in the next twelve months. Many of them will be strong and well and will want strong men's jobs. Some of them—the partially disabled— will be only forty, fifty, sixty, eighty per cent. efficient, and will want jobs to suit. Strong and wuk they have, as willing heroes, the first claim on such suitable jobs as the renewed activities of peace may provide. A small percentage of them, born drifters, will not want to lift anything heavier than a pay envelope for the remainder of their natural lives. If we could not digest these fellows before the war, we cannot do it now. There will be honest pay for honest work for everybody who wants it.

While not agreeing with this article in its entirety there is no doubt that the writer has touched upon a factor that enters into the problem of absorbing the returning soldier. The drifted, the man who was not fond of work before he went away, the man who goes from job to job, who makes no effort to give any return for his wages, has already prejudiced the chances of the returned man who is onl ylooking for "honest pay for honest work." The great body of returned and returning soldiers, of course, should not be judged by these exceptions, but unless they are taken in hand by their fellows, these drifters, will undoubtedly injure the prospects of every man who has served overseas.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Dr. Creelman says that "chilled meat" is Canada's chance. But Germany has a corner in cold turkey.

With the British flag floating over Cologne, the German people should begin to realize that the war is indeed lost.

Ottawa has changed its mind again about the treatment of defaulters and the military police are to be once more placed on the rail of the men who disappeared when their country called.

Mrs. Field Clashes with Bernard Ridder Over German Dolls

NEW YORK, December 7. — Mrs. Oliver Cromwell Field, president of the American Relief Society, of No. 512 Fifth Avenue, summoned several reporters, and volunteered the information that the New Yorker Staats Zeitung, at William and Spruce streets, was selling German made toys, and that she was to be accompanied by five American soldiers from the headquarters of the Quartermaster's office, No. 27 West Forty-third street, to investigate. The men were in command of Acting Sergeant Louis Schilkerman.

With the military and reportorial escort Mrs. Field entered the offices of the newspaper and seizing a blonde doll from the counter, made a quick examination of it. Not being satisfied she asked one of the men behind the counter if the dolls were made in Germany.

The case was referred immediately to Bernard H. Ridder. He appeared soon and was visibly surprised. He informed Mrs. Field that if he had known that she was Mrs. Field he would never have consented to see her.

That put more vigor into the speech of Mrs. Field, whereupon Mr. Ridder after lifting a piece of printed paper that Mrs. Field had accidentally had dropped, and courteously but nervously handed the sheet to her, requested that Mrs. Field leave his office. This Mrs. Field refused to do. Consequently a policeman was summoned.

While the policeman was on his way up Mr. Ridder told the soldiers that in deference to their uniform, which he fully respected, he was willing to give the soldiers any answer to any question that they might wish to ask him, but that he would not have anything to do with Mrs. Field in any circumstances.

The soldiers were informed by Mr. Ridder that he did not know whether the dolls were made in Germany, Belgium, France or England, and that if they were made in Germany, he had no prejudice against handling such goods for sale, nor was there a law prohibiting such a sale even if they were made in Germany.

The soldiers were requested by Mr. Ridder to examine the original boxes as he did not know whether the dolls were made in Germany or New York, and that for years even prior to the war, it had been customary for the newspaper to sell toys at Christmas as an advertising and circulation aid to his paper.

When the policeman arrived his opinion was asked whether the dolls were made in Germany, but he could not say, as he was not an expert. He agreed though, and so communicated to the soldiers, that there was no law in the United States forbidding the sale of German made toys at present, whereupon the entire party with Mrs. Field included, followed the lead of the policeman to the street.

BUILDING MATERIAL WILL BE IN DEMAND

Big Opening for Canadian Trade Overseas.

LONDON, December 11. — The largest immediate opening for Canadian trade and industry is in the reconstruction of devasted areas in France, Belgium and Serbia, and Canada's interests in this regard are in the hands of Canada's representative on the International War Purchasing Committee, headed by Lloyd Harris.

Garments, household furniture, ready-made houses and building materials will be chiefly in demand.

It is ascertained that it will be necessary for the Canadian government to advance credits to cover probably fifty per cent. of the cost of these purchases. Ultimately this debt will be liquidated from Germany's payment of indemnity for the destruction caused by her armies.

Are You a Milk Bottle Hoarder?

Do you realize that every milk bottle you keep, when empty, helps boost the price of milk?

Glass, and particularly bottle glass, has increased in price by bounds, and is still rising.

Every breakage, every bottle you use for convenience around the house—in fact, every bottle you do not return promptly—means added expense to the dairy.

Get the milk bottles you have carelessly put aside and help keep down the price of milk.

It doesn't matter which dairy they belong to—they will be returned to the proper owner. But put them out to-morrow morning.

Ennobled Character Will Be Evidence of Benefit of the War

Judge Huycke in Address to the Grand Jury Dwelt Upon the Happy Termination of the War —Hopes for Close Union of English Speaking Peoples.

BRITISH-AMERICAN HENCEFORTH?

"There is only one criminal case before you," Judge Huycke informed the Grand Jury summoned for the December sittings of the County Court yesterday. "That is a very good showing indeed for the county. His Honour gave the usual instructions to the jury as to their responsibility as representatives of the ratepayers. As such they should inspect the public institutions and make any recommendations they believed desirable. There were only five persons in the jail. One of them, Judge Huycke said, was an old man of 80 years, confined as a vagrant. "Vagrancy may mean a great many things, but to-day it usually means that the person has no one to take care of him. Another is 76 years and another 68 years. It might be worth while to inquire about these old men and find out if a better place can be provided for them."

Referring to the restoration of the Court House, Judge Huycke said: "I think you will agree with me that the court room is very comfortable and beautiful. I want to show my appreciation of the action of the Warden and Chairman of the Building committee."

His Honour expressed his pleasure at the effect of the combination of flags draped above the bench. They were recently hung by Mr. Reg. Turner, and are a handsome Union Jack and Canadian ensign. At the rear of the court the county's Victory Loan flag fills a space that had been bare and unattractive.

"It was given to the county by the Governor-General because Peterborough had not only advanced as much money as was expected, but a great deal more, to see the country through the final stages of the war. It will be an object lesson to all who come to this court room that the county of Peterborough has done its duty in the Victory Loan."

Judge Huycke spoke of the satisfactory condition to which the war had been brought after four years and four months of unprecedented strain and almost unprecedented valour. "It has meant a great deal to most of us, more than we can express in public. It was sometimes spoken of as a war of autocracy against democracy. That was true, but it was more than that. The merits or demerits of an autocracy depend upon the autocracy."

Judge Huycke mentioned the possibility of good government being administered by one man who was wise and just, but the German autocracy was not of that kind. Had the foe won the accumulated civilization of all the centuries would have been put back 1,000 years, and we should have lost all the privileges secured for us by our forefathers. By the valour of our sons and fathers that chance is all over. Many hearts had been broken and homes made sad, but the blessings that had been won made the sacrifice worth while. We had a great pride in knowing that the British Empire had done more than any one factor. The British navy had made victory possible, and the army was second only to that of France. One result of the war would be the closer welding of the units of the Empire. The Motherland would understand and love the colonies better than before, and the peoples overseas would have a deeper love for the Mother country. Judge Huycke paid a tribute to the United States. Although they didn't win the war, they made victory possible. They would have won if the war had run much longer. "We can't disguise the fact that it wouldn't have been over yet, and although we were confident of the end God alone knows when it would have been won."

His Honour referred to the exchange of felicities exemplified by London's celebration of a special American day and Saturday's great demonstration of appreciation shown by the United States of America. One American paper alluded to the expression, Anglo-Saxon, as inclusive of all English-speaking people, and expressed the hope that hereafter these people of the same race and speaking the same tongue would be known not as Anglo-Saxons but British Americans. The former title, His Honour pointed out, did not comprehend the great Celtic branch of the English race, the Scotch, Welsh and Irish. The term British-American would cover the whole great family.

What does the war mean for ourselves? Will it add to our national character, will it give us strength and capacity for undertaking and doing things. Will it give us true and good women and brave men, will it make our boys and girls better, purer nobler. If it does that it will make a better and a greater Canada. If not it may be worse."

Referring to the unrest in the world, Judge Huycke said that German propaganda had been at work in Canada, as in the United States and other countries. It had not been a success in Canada, and "I hope we will conduct ourselves as sensible, kindly, loyal Canadians, that we will keep order, preserving good will among ourselves, for the Motherland and for our cousins across the border, that we may promote the best and highest in civilization and Christianity."

Combine Christmas Giving with Home Making!

The Pathephone

unites the Whole World of Music with a Most Artistic piece of Furniture. It makes a splendid Christmas Gift and extends its message over the years to come, not as a Memory, but as a Real and Living Presence.

What A Pathephone Would Mean To Your Home

Here's long hours shortened—here's dull evenings made bright and pleasant—here's Music for those that would dance—here's songs old and new, and Grand Operas, and single instruments, and bands and orchestras for those whose tastes are so inclined—here's entertainment for those who call—here's familiarity with the talent of the greatest artists—here's knowledge of ALL that's BEST in music—ALL brought into your Home through the Pathephone.

What Pathe' Records Offer You

In Pathe' Records which are played with a permanent Sapphire Ball instead of steel needles—you find a new and unexplored mine of Music waiting you. Thousands of Records to play and enjoy! Besides, Pathephones are so equipped that they play not only Pathe' Records, but ANY record made by any Phonograph company. Thus, with a Pathephone in your Home, you may enjoy as much of the great musical literature of all ages as you desire.

Pathe' Cabinets Are Artistic Furniture

Beautiful? Yes—but only as the Cabinets are made fitting for the jewels which they contain. Exquisite perfection of line and finish are but a symbol of the beautiful spirit imprisoned within! Instead of "varnished boxes"—handsome cabinets in historic Period as well as Modern design, as shown in the illustrations. French-designed and Canadian-made, they unite French artistry with Canadian economy of manufacture.

Pathe' Prices and Terms

While the Pathephone comes in all styles and at all prices, there IS an instrument to fit every taste and every purse. In fact we believe a comparison with other standard makes will show a decided price advantage for the Pathephone. A small cash payment —probably less than you expected to pay—will take a Pathephone to your home any time you may direct.

Bert Belisle Was Discharged

Cockburn Will be Tried in Millbrook.

Bert Belisle was, this morning, in Police Court discharged on a charge of aiding, comforting and assisting one, R. R. Cockburn, who is charged with the theft of eighteen hundred dollars worth of diamonds from Mrs. Rountree, of Toronto, Manvers, in July of this summer.

Belisle was arrested in Toronto on a warrant from Toronto sworn by a member of the Thiel Detective Agency in which Belisle was charged with theft of eighteen hundred dollars worth of diamond rings

Mr. J. O'Brien who had been retained by telegraph from Toronto on Belisle's arrest appeared for Belisle throughout. The case came up for hearing on Tuesday morning and the charge of theft was changed to one of aiding, comforting and assisting Cockburn, with a view to enabling him to escape and charging the said Belisle with knowing the said Cockburn to have been guilty of theft.

EVIDENCE ADDUCED

The evidence adduced by the Crown was concluded yesterday afternoon and Mr O'Brien for the defence offered evidence. The evidence for the prosecution, mainly directed, proving that Belisle and Cockburn had been to games of poker together, at different places, including Havelock, used the money derived from the sale of some of the rings. In reply to a question by Mr. O'Brien in his argument, at the end of the Crown's case pointed out that the essential feature of the charge was that Belisle should aid, comfort or assist Cockburn with a view to escape, this the evidence did in no way point to and the Magistrate accordingly discharged Belisle this morning.

Cockburn will likely come up for trial in Millbrook some time this week.

Fix a Ratio For All Navies

Pres. Wilson Proposes a Method to Decrease Navy Construction.

Special to The Examiner:

LONDON, Dec. 11. — The Express says it understands that President Wilson's "Freedom of the Seas" proposals do not contain suggestions that Great Britain should abandon the contraband law, the right of search or enforcement of blockade. On the contrary, the newspaper says, he suggests that Great Britain fix a definite ratio for naval construction, which would be enforced by the British and American navies.

SWIMMING PLACES WILL HAVE SUPPORT OF LABOUR CANDIDATES

A letter from W. G. Henderson, secretary of the Playgrounds Association, was read at the Labour meeting last night, inviting the opinion of the Labour candidates for the council on the question of providig a bathing place in the south end next summer. The three candidates affirmed their approval of swimming places in terms that left no doubt of their attitude. Mr. Murray remarked that it was a disgrace that these facilities had not been secured for the people long ago. Mr. Gainey said he would support any move for bathing places not only in the south end, but alos on the east side of the river, either in the southern section of Ashburnham or in the north end. Mr. Morrison declared that he was in favor of the Playgrounds Association's proposal.

A Statement by Former Kaiser

Does Not Wish to Implicate Former Members of His Government.

Special to The Examiner:

LONDON, Dec. 11.—"If there is a possibility of my becoming a deefndant, I prefer to defer saying anything until then," the former Kaiser stated through Count Von Bentinck, in response to a query by the Express correspondent at Amerongen as to his part in the war.

"Secondly, I have no desire to compromise in any way any member of the German government existing at the outbreak of the war."

Gift Calendar For War Work

PROCEEDS OF ITS SALE WILL BE DEVOTED TO WAR WORK

Mrs. C. Balmer McAllister formerly of Peterboro, tells most interesting stories of the splendid work of the women of the North. During the two years Mrs. McAllister lived in the Peace River district she organized thirteen chapters of the Daughters of the Empire, and she speaks of the sacrifices made and work done by these women so very far away from the centre of things as most praiseworthy. The newest chapter is 45 miles from steel, 295 miles from Edmunton. The first call for assistance sent by Mrs. McAllister was for the Canadian nurses' home. In two days they sent in $25. No call has gone unanswered—the Red Cross, the Patriotic Fund, Prisoners of War, Canadian Nurses Home, Halifax relief and Y. M. C. A.; and the many hundreds of men who went from their homesteads are written to and remembered by boxes of cake, jam, towels, chocolate, tobacco, and socks. To further this work, Mrs. McAllister is getting out for Christmas a very artistic calendar desk pad. The cover is khaki, carrying a beautiful etching of the wonderful Peace River. One half of each page has a week's calendar with spaces for engagements; on the other side of a perforation is the photograph of a Canadian woman war-worker and sketch of her work. These will not only be a most useful Christmas remembrance but a much-prized war momento. Senator M. J. O'Brien sent in his order for one hundred before leaving town on Monday. I. E. Pedlow, M P, is also sending in a large order.

The calendar in a strong envelope ready for mailing, is $1. Mrs McAllister will much appreciate the support of her home friends. Leave your orders early.

The Roy Studio, Peterboro and Kents Drug Store has these Callendars for sale.

The J. C. TURNBULL Company, Limited

of our entire fighting land forces in the first few months of the war. In the great retreat one division went into action 12,000 strong and 2,000 came out. Out of 500 officers in one engagement, 50 returned. You talk about the Somme fight; do you know what it cost us 25,000 officers, half a million men.'

"Keep the home fires burning, but remember it is only possible for you to do so in the shelter and the sacrifice of your lads in the line—Pitiful little fires in the trenches. Half a bucket with wood or charcoal . . . . I looked again and said: 'No they are the grandest fires in the world, because they are the advance guard of the fires of freedom the wide world over.

Early War Struggles.

"But, or, how much has it cost France, that line of 400 miles long?"

It is difficult to refrain from quoting at length. He tells stories of Zeppelin raids and what they meant to his own family. Of France and her sufferings and sacrifices; 100,000 French unburied near Souchez in the summer of 1916—all buried now. Of the lack of shells in the early days, and what the women have done in England. Of French billeting at 5c. per man per night, straw included, as contrasted with profiteering here, and all in simple language—the language of the eye-witness who is telling facts in a plain sort of way, but which really constitute a great prose epic. In the winter of 1915-16 he took 250 men into the line and came out with 60 staggering cripples.

One final extract which speaks for itself: "I know a man can make profits you make to-day, and this is he can at any period of the world's history. But there is one strange and sad quality attached to all the profits you make to-day, and this is it. All your profits made to-day are blood-bought. That is the message that I leave with you from the line—all your profits are blood-bought. They are bought with the blood of lives. Is it right that one man should give his son to die that another man should selfishly grow rich in the shelter of the first man's sacrifice? Is it right, America? . . . Put your patriotism before your profits, play the game."

THE BIGGEST BRITISH ARMY UNDER THE SOD

Vivid War Picture Drawn by English Officer Before American Audience —A Graphic Story of Britain's Part in the War.

One of the finest speeches on the war was delivered at the convention of the Minnesota Bankers' Association in Minneapolis recently by Captain Frank Edwards, of the Royal Fusiliers.

In the course of his speech he alluded to the effect that the entry of the United States had on public opinion and expressed his fear not of the pessimist, but of the optimist, who thought it was all over but the shouting. "There are many days of great slaughter before the day of great shouting, and tens of thousands of gallant men must go down, down to the Valley of the Shadow ere the day of victory dawns. It is a blood-red pathway that leads to the final triumph," declared Capt. Edwards.

He exclaimed also against the man who said it did not matter how long this war lasted.

"Oh, men and women, it does matter how long this war lasts, and it is the bounden duty of every man here to do his utmost as a patriot, not only to gain the ultimate victory, which, I believe, to-day is inevitable, but to gain victory at the earliest possible hour.

How They Long For Peace

"I am not here to glorify war. God forbid; no man in this room longs for peace as I do. I have had four years of this war and that means I have been away from home for four years, and cut off from the life of my home and my little children for four years in the happiest and loveliest years of their lives. I have a little boy at home, four years old, and that little chap has never known peace; he has never known peace in his mother's heart, has never seen peace in his mother's face. He said the other day 'Mother, what is peace?' A child question, what is peace? His mother tried to tell him in baby language. 'Mother,' he said, 'does peace mean that daddy will come home?' 'Yes, dear,' she said. 'Then, mother,' he said, 'why can't we have peace now?' I tell you there are tens of thousands, hundreds of thousands, millions of men in the line who long for peace now just as that little lad did; but as I long for peace, there is a price I cannot pay for it. Much as I long for peace, I cannot purchase it, nor consent to purchase it, by the betrayal of all that I hold true and right and sacred and good.

"I know that there still is, especially among your young people, something for you about war, something of glamour, something of halo, something of romance, and of adventure. Ah, but in England for us that has passed, never to return; we have drunk of the cup of bitterness to the dregs.

"During the Cambrai fight I came to England three times in ten days and once I had to take back 2,000 men to stop the breach. I marched those 2,000 men through one of our southern ports on a Sunday morning The people were standing along the streets, there were thousands there, but I marched silent men through silent streets, the street was as silent as you are this morning. There were 2,000 men going over, but they knew they were going to die. . . . Men marching in silence through spectators in silence, men going to die—we drank the cup of bitterness to the dregs. There is no glamor, no halo, no romance about war for England to-day.

"You know I never sit down to a meal in your country—this is literally true—I never sit down to a meal, in your country without a feeling of sadness. Oh, the plenty of the boards pains me when I remember England. I have found on my plate on several occasions more meat for one meal than my wife and three little children at hime in England can possibly hope to eat in a whole week. You don't know war yet, America.

"A man asked me the other day, where there were a number of bankers gathered together 'Have you ever seen so many bankers together before in one room . . . gentlemen, I have seen many more bankers than this, assembled together. British bankers. Where? I will tell you—in the fields of France marching into action. . . . I have seen a battalion of a thousand men marching into action to fight and to die, and every man a banker.

"You don't know what it has cost us in man power. A man said to me the other day in America: 'You know since we have come into this war we are going to show the world what we can do, and this American nation is going to startle the world in this war! If needs be, we are going to put into the fields of France five millions of men.' Five millions men! You know I could not help looking him in the eyes and asking him if he had forgotten what a colossal campaign this is, and whether it was too late to expect to stagger the world by putting five million men in the field to-day. I said: 'Look here, my friend, you know that in the first two years of war England by voluntary enlistment without conscription of any kind, had brought five million men to the colors, and at the end of 1917 we had placed in the field in France—in the field—an army of six million men.' And I said 'you understand what that means to England? Six million men out of a population of forty-two millions, that is, one man in seven of the whole of our population, old people, women and children.'

Biggest Army Under the Sod.

"A man said the other day: 'What is your biggest army, where is the biggest British army?' I said: 'Don't you know?' He said, 'No, I do not.' I said, 'The biggest British army is under the sod. That is where the biggest British army is. In the first few months of the war—these figures are quite authentic, I verified them—in the first few months of the war we lost 550,000 men. We lost 78 per cent.

Auditors—Mr. H. B. Cowan, and Mr. C. H. Pennefather.

The Executive Committee consists of The Warden of the County, the President of the Ministerial Association, a representative from the G.W.V.A. Messrs. C. H. Pennefather, R. H. Parsons, J. Edgar, H. B. Cowan, Major S. T. Medd, Chief Thompson, Dr. Middleton, Dr. C. King, and Adjutant Buntin. Mesdames R. Gibbs, H. Evans, J. Knox, W. Stocker, Hopwood, J. Kimberley, J. Brayley, W. Turner, and Miss L. Hurley.

The Secretary was instructed to write to the newly appointed members of the Board and ascertain if they are willing to act.

Caring for the Children

Mrs. Gibbs told briefly of the activities of the ladies who have undertaken to sew for the children in the Shelter every other Thursday during the past year. She invited any ladies who were interested to help in the work during the coming years Mr. G. W. Powell commended the ladies' work saying that very often the children come in extremely destitute condition not only on their first entry but when returned to the home. For such cases, due to the efforts of the ladies, Mrs. Read is always able to find some garments ready.

Ask Increase

The matter of asking an increased grant from the county was discussed The present grant ($400) does not compare with the city grant of $600 This, it was decided is not fair as a great number of the children of the Shelter come from the county The matter will be dealt with more thoroughly at a later meeting

Many Children Placed

Following a resolution acknowledging the assistance the press has been to the Children's Aid in placing the children in homes, Mr. Cowan said that it is astonishing how many homes about the country are asking for children through the Farm and Dairy, six homes have been cleared of all their inmates.

Tag Day

A resolution of thanks to Mrs. J. J. Knox and her assistants for their work on Tag Day was passed Mr. Powell spoke of the ladies devotion to the cause in keeping up the work rain or shine.

Occupy Platform

Mr. Powel reported in connection to the coming reception to Mr. Kelso, the committee asked to sit on the platform at the evening meeting in the Library were Messrs. E. A. Peck, T. F. Matthews, J. E. L. Goodwill, J. H. Burnham, M.P., J. J. McBain, Geo. Cochrane, Mrs. J. Knox, Mrs. Gibbs, Mrs. Birdsall, Mrs. Read, Rev. C. J. Phelan, Rev. J. A. MacKenzie, Mayor Duncan and Warden Anderson.

Agent's Report.

Another year has passed into history in connection with our society's work, and for some reasons it has been a very hard year, filled with hard problems to solve, but with the wise counsel of our President and secretary, we were enabled to overcome the most difficult. We started out early in the year to try and better the condition of a large number of our wards. Twenty or thirty wards were out under no agreement. Nearly all of these cases have been arranged satisfactorily, and we trust good results will follow. In some five or six cases we have had to remove wards, and place them in new, and, we trust, better homes. In one case only was a charge laid against a foster parent for abuse, and that was settled out of court by a payment for the boy's benefit and the costs of the court. The number of children in the Shelter at any time has not been over sixteen in any one month, and for some weeks there was not a single ward in the Shelter.

A Net Gain.

We now have 138 wards on our roll, fifteen new and six removed, a gain of 9 wards. Our aim has been to make parents, as far as possible, to take care of their own children, instead of making them wards, but we have investigated all cases as they have been reported to us. We have been greatly helped in our work by both the President and Secretary, and in addition, the Chief of Police and different members of the Board. We are glad to be able to report that we now have 12 separate trust funds in the Union and Montreal Banks for the benefit of different families and wards under our control. These funds are open to inspection by any interested parties who may wish to do so. These funds amount now to the sum of $1,469.42. Our general funds are in good shape, as will be seen by referring to the Treasurer's report. Some of our wards, both boys and girls, bought Victory Bonds with their savings, in one case as high as $200, showing both loyalty and the saving habit.

Tag Day.

The friends of our society, both churches and societies, have been kind to us this summer in taking us out to different excursions, which was greatly enjoyed by the children.

Our tag day was better than at first reported, amounting to $1,235.35.

During the year we have made considerable improvements at the Shelter, including stationary wash tubs and considerable improvements in the plumbing. The City Commissioners of the Town Trust were very generous, and paid the most of the cost.

In the early part of the year our Superintendent at the Shelter was taken ill, but after a month or two of rest she took up her work again, and we are very pleased to report everything is going on fine now.

All of our Board meetings have been very harmonious this year, but we are looking forward to better meetings in the year to come.

The north fence at the Shelter should be completed and some money spent in clearing up the grounds, and possibly the garden could be worked at better advantage on shares; at least this matter could be considered.

Our Ladies' Auxiliary should be called together as soon as possible, and, as far as can be done, all the churches should be linked up with the Children's Aid Society. Your Agent wishes to thank all who have helped him in any way to make the year a success. Especially are we thankful for the support we have received from our city papers, the Examiner and Review.

HOME

One of our subscribers who enjoys the Home Circle column hands us the following beautiful thoughts on the appreiation of the home, which we gladly give place in our Home Circle Department, and wish that more of our lady readers might become contributers to this olumn, for we do feel it an opportunity granted us to make the world feel a little bit better and brighter for our having lived in it:

"When the chilly blasts of winter chick across the frozen earth and the pittiless snow hides from our sight the last vestage of what remains of summer, when the frozen streams and leafless trees look barren and desolate, and even the beasts of the field cling loser to their protecting shelter, how dreadful is the thought that perhaps some poor homeless wanderer is out in the storm. It is then that we turn to our own fireside and smile at the dear faces of our loved ones; it is then that we fully appreciate the priceless gift God has given us—home, where we can find rest and comfort unmolested; home, where we can breathe our sorrows to sympathetic ears; home where our joys are the happiness of others; home, where true hearts beat in unison with one another and happiness is found in its fullest meaning. So should we strive in our own way to make our homelife better and brighter. A kindly word at parting, a pleasant smile in greeting, an approving glance, an encouraging word, or a helping hand, each in their place, and we never know their power for good. So let us, to whom God has given these blessings, make them what they should be, a paradise on earth, where weary hearts can find rest and peace after the toil of the day is over.

"PLANT DOCTORS" ARE TO SAVE FOOD.

GUELPH, Dec. 10.—As the result of a conference held at the Ontario Agricultural College, a Society of Canadian Plant Doctors has been organized. The organization has for its objects the gathering of all information concerning the enormous losses of food due to plan diseases, and to send out information to farmers and consumers that will reduce the cost of living to the consumer, and increase the profits of the farmer by reducing the great losses.

Funeral of Late Pte. F. S. Childs

THE REMAINS WERE BROUGHT TO PETERBORO YESTERDAY

The remains of the late Frederick S. Chiles of Havelock who died in the Kingston military hospital from pneumonia on December 6th were laid at rest in the Little Lake cemetery yesterday morning at 10.30, Rev. A. J. Mackenzie officiating. Military service was held in Kingston before the remains were brought to Peterboro.

A sad feature of the death of Pte. Chiles lies in the fact that his discharge papers came the day he contracted pneumonia.

SECOND STRIKE IN CUBA.

Result of Failure of Government Commission to Settle Conflict Between Railway and Employees.

HAVANA, Dec. 11.—Street car traffic ceased on all lines in this city shortly after midnight Monday as a result of the failure of the Government Arbitration Commission to settle the conflict between the Cuban Railway Company and its employees. The strike movement began by the transportation employees, being followed at 6 o'clock yesterday morning by all other union men.

Apparently the second general strike in Cuba within a month is begun. The union of Linotypists has voted to join in the general tie-up, and it is possible that Havana will again be without newspapers.

WORKS FOR FIRST TIME IN TWO YEARS

Tanlac Restores Health After Everything Else Had Failed.

"Yes, sir, I'm willing to go before a Notary and take an oath that Tanlac was the only thing that relieved my troubles after I had tried all kinds of medicines and treatments without success," said C. G. Sprague, who is well known for his interest in entomology, being an authority on the subject and having made one of the largest collection of butterflies from this and foreign countries ever exhibited in the United States.

"My trouble started seven years ago with acute indigestion," continued Mr. Sprague, "and by stomach was in such a terrible condition that everything I would eat fermented and bloated me up with gas till I felt like I was going to choke and I was in misery most all the time. Then I suffered agonies from a pain in my back right across my kidneys, and my back became so weak, and hurt me so much that I could hardy stand on my feet or even walk, and just had to quit working. For two whole years I was unable to do a lick of work, then after being idle so long I just had to get at something, and at the time I started, on Tanlac I would put in a week or two then I would give out and have to lay off for a while. Everybody I consulted about my trouble disagreed as to the cause, some saying one thing and some another, and although I spent over $300.00 on medicines and treatments, trying everything I could hear of, nothing did me a bit of good, and I was as far from well as ever.

"One day I read in the papers where a party had been helped out of troubles like mine by taking Tanlac, so I decided to take one more chance, and positively, I hadn't finished my second bottle before I noticed a decided improvement. I felt so encouraged that I kept it up till I had taken six bottles and I now feel as good as I ever did. I have a splendid appetite and my stomach never gives me the least bit of trouble, that awful misery is gone from my back and I never have an ache or pain of any kind, I never miss a day from my work now on account of sickness and I can get out in the woods and fields following my hobby collecting butterflies once more. I am so enthusiastic about the way Tanlac has fixed me up that I am constantly boosting it to all my friends.

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd., in Havelock by A. C. Denike, in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd., in Fowlers Corners by W. A. Hunter, in Gelert by A. J. Scott, in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

The Peterboro County Potato Growers Make High Records

Results of Experiments Testing Potato Seed From Old Ontario, New Ontario and New Brunswick Stock.

Experiments conducted at the Ontario Agricultural College, showed that seed potatoes brought from New Ontario and planted side by side with seed from Old Ontario and New Brunswick gave a decidedly higher yield. The reasons given by the College men for this increase in the case of Northern grown seed are, first: The climate of the north is better suited to the normal development of the potato, thus engendering superior vitality. Second, the seed is immature, hence better for seeding purposes. Third, serious hereditary diseases which have become prevalent in Old Ontario are, because of climatic conditions, hardly established at all.

The Results.

The results secured by scientific experiment have been corroborated by practical growers in certain parts of Ontario. In order to demonstrate whether or not the Northern grown seed would give similar results all over Ontario, the Ontario Department of Agriculture arranged through their agricultural representatives to conduct experiments in every county in the province during 1918. The plan of this experiment was as follows: Uniform seed of the Irish Cobbler and Green Mountain was secured from Old Ontario, New Ontario and New Brunswick. A bushel in each case was planted, or six bushels to each experiment. This work was to be conducted on two farms, one being heavy soil, and the other light soil. In the County of Peterborough, the men chosen for this work were, Thomson Bros., R.R. No. 3, Indian River, and J. H. Williams, R. R. No. 5, Peterborough.

Highest Yield.

In each experiment the plots received exactly the same cultivation and treatment as to soil conditions, etc., and the results which we have obtained are the same as those of the scientific experimentors and practical growers in other stations in the Province. On both farms and with both Irish Cobblers and Green Mountain varieties, seed from New Ontario gave the highest yield. On Mr. Thompson's farm the seed from Old Ontario produced a slightly higher yield than that of New Brunswick. The reverse was the case on Mr. Williams' farm.

It is the intention of the Department to conduct similar experiments another year and we hope to be in a position to give further information on this subject in the future. The results of the work for this year are as follows:

Thompson Bros., R. R. No. 3, Indian River.

Why Has No Other Instrument Been Subjected to the Tone Test?

There are many devices for the reproduction of sound—more than ninety makes it is said. Many are widely advertised. Why has but one been subjected to the Tone Test? The reason is clear. There is but one which can meet the Tone Test and that is

The
NEW EDISON
"THE PHONOGRAPH WITH A SOUL"

The Tone Test is the supreme and searching test of an instrument's quality. In a Tone Test, the artist stands beside the instrument and plays in direct comparison with the New Edison's RE-CREATION of his violin. Occasionally the artist ceases while the instrument continues alone. Can you tell when the break occurs? That is the question. Can you distinguish the living tone from the RE-CREATED? More than two million people have sought to do so. Not one has succeeded. More than 1500 Public Tone Tests have been conducted. Always the New Edison has emerged successfully.

Come into our Store and satisfy yourself about the New Edison. We will gladly demonstrate it.

MAMMA, DON'T YOU SEE YOUR CHILD IS SICK, CONSTIPATED

LOOK AT TONGUE! MOVE POISONS FROM LIVER AND BOWELS AT ONCE.

Mother! Your child isn't naturally cross and peevish. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels, need a cleansing at once.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, does not eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach ache, diarrhoea, remember a gentle liver and bowel cleansing should always be the first treatment given.

Nothing equals "California Syrup of Figs" for children's ills; give a teaspoonful, and in a few hours all the foul waste, sour bile and fermenting food which is clogged in the bowels passes out of the system, and you have a well and playful child again. All the children love this harmless, delicious "fruit laxative," and it never fails to effect a good "inside" cleansing. Directions for babies, children of all ages, and grown-ups are plainly on the bottle.

Keep it handy in your home. A little given to-day saves a sick child to-morrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then look and see if it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

THE WIFE

BY JANE PHELPS

Arthur Mandel Investigates Brian's Business Office.

CHAPTER LX.

Arthur Mandel had not been oblivious thatt ever since Ruth's return from the West, something had been worrying her. While her work had been well done, every time she was unoccupied for a moment— and he had watched her closely—he had been aware of some inward disturbance.

"She's not happy with him," he said to himself, "him" of course meaning Brian. "Fool not to know the value of such a woman." And in consequence he had made things as easy as possible for Ruth.

Her salary was small to him, when considered as a living for a woman brought up as she had been. He had by bits wormed the story of her whole easy, luxurious life from her; the life she had lived at her aunt's before she met and married Brian Hackett. While she had never given him any idea that Brian could not take decent care of her, he recalled that as soon as he had raised her salary she had moved. Moved to a better address. That looked as if before they could afford nothing better than the place they had lived. He had the street and number, for when Ruth came to them, she had given it as her home address. So one day he walked past. His fastidious taste was shocked at the locality. Curious, he had asked to see an apartment. He had been shown the one "formerly occupied by Mr. Hackett, a young lawyer," as the voluble superintendant told him. He was then still more shocked. The small, dingy, inartistic rooms must have been a constant torture to Ruth. He shuddered as he thought of her in such surroundings.

"No wonder she would rather work for me," he muttered when he reached the street. Then straightway he wondered if he were paying her enough; if she could gratify her simple desires with what he gave her.

Brian, he eliminated entirely. What he earned must, at the best, be a negligable quantity, else he would not have taken his bride to such a poor home. Especially a bride who had been accustomed to luxurious surroundings. Then he smiled grimly as another thought came to his mind.

"The beggar can't have too much for her when he takes that girl of his to the smartest places in New York to dine," he said aloud as he walked along. Arthur Mandel knew his New York. He knew what the simplest repast cost in certain places he had seen Brian, and he also knew a young lawyer could not afford to patronize them unless he had an independent income—which he was sure Brian Hackett had not.

"I wonder what kind of an office he has? I'll drop in sometime when he's out to lunch—if I can find out what time he goes out," he said so loudly a woman turned and, laughingly, said to her companion:

"Did you hear that fine-looking man talking to himself? He must be in love."

Arthur Mandel heard and the rest of his walk he kept his thoughts to himself. But they were all for Ruth, and of Brian's inability to give her what he, Arthur Mandel, thought she should have.

The next morning he deftly brought the conversation around to her lunching place, then point blank put the question:

"Why don't you go down and lunch with your husband occasionally? There are some very interesting and very good restaurants in his locality. Or doesn't he lunch at the same hour?"

"Yes, between one and two, and I have often thought I would go down and lunch with him. We were talking about it only the other day." Ruth was pleased at her employer's interest. So pleased she told Brian of the little episode as soon as he came home that night.

It had not been really only idle curiosity that actuated Arthur Mandel when he hunted up Brian's office at half past one the day he had questioned Ruth. If he found him nicely situated, looking prosperous—his surroundings what they should be, etc—he would wait a while before advancing her salary. But if, as he suspected, he was scraping along on thin ice, spending what he earned on girls instead of on his wife, he would raise it immediately. Ruth must not want for anything she needed because she was tied to a man who did not care for her.

He found Brian out. Asked for his office, and was told he was occupying only desk room in the large office whose number was given in the telephone book opposite his name.

"So he an only afford desk room. Worse than I thought!" Mr. Mandel said as he hurried back up-town. He had left no name nor any message, he had simply said he would call again.

He looked at Ruth that afternoon with a different feeling than he had yet acknowledged to himself. A feeling of pride in her, her bravery in going to work to help out that fellow down there who could only afford desk room in some other man's office. That was the way he thought of Brian. "That fellow."

"She's a game little thing," he said admiringly as he watched her. "Too good, by far, for such a fellow."

(To Be Continued.)

HER FIVE CHILDREN

Had Whooping Cough At the Same Time

Whooping cough is one of the most dangerous diseases of children, especially to those under five years of age. It first starts with a fever and cough, sneezing, watering of the eyes and an irritation of the throat. Later the coughing increases, the child becomes livid in the face, the eyes appear as if they would burst from their sockets and suffocations seems imminent till relief is brought by the "whoop."

On the first sign of whooping cough we would advise the use of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. This famous remedy will clear the bronchial tubes of the collected mucous and phlegm, and in this way ease the racking cough and in a short time make it disappear entirely.

Mrs. Walter McGaughey, North Battleford, Sask., writes:—"I have five children, the eldest thirteen and the baby two years old. They all had the whooping cough at the same time. I tried two or three cough remedies, but none gave the same satisfaction as Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. A home where there are young children should never be without it. I will highly recommend it to those who want a quick cure."

There are many imitations of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, so be sure you get the genuine by insisting that the package is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25c, and 50c. and manufactured by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

THIN PEOPLE SHOULD TAKE PHOSPHATE

Nothing Like Plain Bitro-Phosphate to Put on Firm, Healthy Flesh and to Increase Strength, Vigour and Nerve Force.

Judging from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing arms, neck and bust, and replacing ugly hollows and angles by the soft curved lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness.

Thinness and weakness are usually due to starved nerves. Our bodies need more phosphate than is contained in modern foods. Physicians claim there is nothing that will supply this deficiency so well as the organic phosphate known among druggists as bitro-phosphate, which is inexpensive and sold by McDermid and Jury and by most druggists under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphoric food elements, bitro-phosphate quickly produces a welcome transformation in the appearance; the increase in weight frequently being astonishing.

This increase in weight also carries with it a general improvement in the health. Nervousness, sleeplessness and lack of energy, which nearly always accompany excessive thinness, soon disappear, dull eyes become bright, and pale cheeks glow with the bloom of perfect health.

CAUTION:—Although bitro-phosphate is unsurpassed for relieving nervousness, sleeplessness and general weakness, it should not, owing to its remarkable flesh-growing properties, be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.

Only the man who understands women admits that he doesn't.

Heed the teachings of adversity if you would avoid a second lesson.

AWAY back in 1851, E. B. EDDY began the manufacture of matches in Hull. It may seem that there is no connection between matches and the other products listed here, but there is a real, logical and economical connection.

Good matches require soft, smooth-fibred pine. But the match factory receives many grades of pine, together with wood of other sorts. It will not make good matches, but it is quite satisfactory for other products which are derived from wood pulp. So we make matches only from the wood which is suited for that purpose, and the remainder, instead of being wasted or made into poor matches, is used for other things which you need.

EDDY PRODUCTS

are used every day in thousands of Canadian homes. Eddy's Matches, Eddy's Indurated Fibreware, and Eddy's Paper Specialties are known everywhere. They not only are efficient time and labor savers, but they help to eliminate the waste of an important national resource.

Rolls Up From Head—Has Low Crown That Does Not Interfere With Lines of Brim.

There is a strong tendency in France to simplify street hats to the point of bare severity, and there is a strong effort here to trim all hats with a choice of buckles, ribbon, flowers, plumes, cords or embroidery.

The sailor, with its straight brim, has given place to a pinafore sailor that was launched here early last spring. It is now made in felt and black velvet and is sponsored by the good milliners. It rolls up from the head and has a low, crushed crown that does not interfere in any way with the lines of the brim. This hat is untrimmed, except for a crown-band of satin ribbon and a flat bow at the side, or rather, this is the style in which it is advocated for street wear and worn by well-dressed women; but certain milliners provide its crown with a large wreath of colored roses or ragged chrysanthemums, and the effect is quite good. It is then appropriate for an afternoon hat. If a woman likes the shape, she can indulge in both kinds and choose separate colors.

By the way, duplication is a strong point in the modern selection of clothes. The woman who thinks she must have every gown in her wardrobe different from the other, would be aghast at the knowledge that certain fashionable women are leading the way to having five gowns made for an entire season exactly alike, and five hats to go with them, exactly alike.

The dressmakers have become accustomed to this innovation during the last six months and they are now quite used to it in the preparation of an autumn wardrobe. A woman comes in, selects an entire costume with care and attention to every detail, then orders as many as she needs for the season in different materials, weights and colors. One woman even ordered her four evening gowns made exactly alike, merely changing the color.

This is the essence of economy of time. The fashion was evolved out of that necessity.

Pinafore sailor, taken from the picturesque headgear of an older age, is kept in fashion and is shown here in black velvet with a band of grosgrain ribbon around the crown. The corselet blouse of white, which is worn over a black satin skirt, is embroidered in flowers of black jet and fastened with white crochet buttons.

THE EXAMINER PATTERN SERVICE

LADY'S SURPLICE WAIST.

The surplice waist is being worn a great deal this season, and it is a dressy style which looks equally well as part of a dress or as a separate waist to wear with a skirt. Contrary to the usual way, this waist has the left side crossing over the right. The sash ends may be tied at the side or back. If preferred a girdle may be used instead of the sash ends. The shoulder edges of the back extend over to the front in yoke effect. A very attractive pointed collar follows the shape of the surplice closing. A straight shield fills the opening. Long or short sleeves.

The lady's surplice waist No. 8900 is cut in five sizes, 36 to 44 inches bust measure. As on the figure the 36 inch size requires 2⅛ yards 36 inch, or 1⅛ yards 40 inch, with ⅝ yard 36 inch contrasting material.

The Patterns Are Guaranteed to Give Excellent Satisfaction
This Pattern Can Be Obtained From the Examiner Office on Payment of 15 Cents

TORONTO OF OLD.

The Plays That Entertained City In Its Young Days.

The death in London, Ont., of Mr. A. D. Holman, is a reminder to old-time Toronto folk of the "palmy days" of the Holman Opera Co. One of these old-timers has been speaking to the Toronto News of the plays and the artists that brightened the grey life of Toronto from 1867 to 1871. It was the father of the late Mr. "Allie" D. Holman who directed the fortunes of the Royal Lyceum Theatre, which was situated in the rear of Mr. Lyonde's photograph gallery, on King street. Mr. George Holman was counted a genius in stage management and in the details of "production."

His brother, Mr. Alfred, was the treasurer, but George supervised everything outside the box office. Among the members of the company were Mr. W. H. Crane, so favorably known in the modern theatre, and Signor Perugini, the famous tenor, who in those days warbled under the less imposing name of Jack Chatterton. The soubrette and the prima donna were respectively Julia and Sally Holman, daughters of the director. Mr. Crane said on a recent visit to Toronto that he had never known a more versatile young woman than Sallie. She was winsome and distinctive, appearing to advantage in grand opera, in comic opera, in tragedy, comedy and in farce.

When Mme. Tosti and her company gave "La Grande Duchesse" (Offenbach) in the old Music Hall, now the Public Library Branch on Church street, Mr. Holman closed his house and took the whole company to see the new opera. Two weeks afterwards he gave a production of the work in English, which was most creditable, perhaps more creditable than Tosti's. The reminiscences touch upon the infatuation of the gilded youth of that period for Sally and Julia. "Do you remember Fred——?" Mr. Crane was asked recently. "Remember him?" responded "Billy." "I wanted to kill him. I liked the girl myself." Another distinguished citizen of to-day telegraphed his father from the confines of Upper Canada College that if he could not marry Julia, he would die. The answer was laconic: "Die!" The young man thought better of it and became a lawyer. Sallie, like most players, married in the profession and howls of protest must have arisen from a flock of collegians.

It is said that Mr. A. D. Holman was the last survivor of this distinguished and artistic family.

AN IMPERIAL LEADER

NEWFOUNDLAND OWES MUCH TO HENRY DUFF REID.

One of the Last of the Railroad Presidents on the North American Continent Exerts Great Influence In Economic Life of Small British Overseas Dominion.

RAILWAY presidents on the North American continent are getting scarce. The war is changing many things. Lord Shaughnessy still heads the C.P.R. Other transportation giants have passed in Canada. But in Newfoundland, the oldest colony and newest dominion in the British Empire, the old order persists.

Ontario has produced many American railway presidents, from J. J. Hill to Sir William Mackenzie. It produced Henry Duff Reid, president of the Reid Newfoundland Railway. He was born in Sydney, Australia, but educated at Galt and Guelph, Ontario, half a century ago, and is remembered as the pitcher of the Guelph scrub baseball nine by the old boys of that day, among whom is Arthur Cutten, the wheat king of Chicago. He was a schoolboy in Galt under Dr. Carscaddeh, whose name is revered as a schoolmaster of the old school.

Recently President Reid succeeded his elder brother, Sir William Reid, as chief executive of the Reid Newfoundland Railway, who retired after ten years of arduous work. Under his father, the late Sir Robert Reid, the new president had charge of construction, and knows railroading from the roadbed upwards. His ambition is to develop the railway and make it fit the vision possessed by his father at its inception, to consolidate colonial national interests and add an effective link to Imperial communication. A frequent visitor to London, England, he has never lost the world-view of affairs, while his business connections in Montreal have balanced his British predilections and accentuated the strategic and commercial importance of the Dominion served by his railway.

President Reid is of the newer order of railway presidents. He would pass as the general manager of a bank in quiet deportment and unostentatious appearance. He is a man of few words, but an admirable listener. He has a genius for hospitality, and makes friends everywhere. He has travelled widely, and, being a keen observer, has something interesting to contribute to any discussion. But what he is and what he knows are all concentrated on definite plans for the upbuilding and extension of his railway and other interests in Newfoundland. He believes in Newfoundland and his belief is founded on the developed and undeveloped resources of the colony in fish, timber, minerals and agriculture.

A few months ago he established a natural resources department within his railway organization, and placed at its head an engineer of ability and repute. He has large areas of land left him from his father's estate, and he wants to know what he must do to develop them profitably and produce business for his railway. Already his engineer has discovered a coal mine, and other finds are imminent. Quietly he is leading Newfoundland to find herself. When her potential resources are inventoried and they are found to be large, as they undoubtedly are, it will be easy to find the capital in the colony or elsewhere to develop them.

Similarly he has built one of the largest, most modern and best equipped cold storage plants for fish in America at St. John's, and proposes to ship halibut, salmon, codfish, haddock, turbot, mackerel, wolf-fish, herring and capelin to Great Britain, which is only 1,800 miles away. The prosperity, and even the history of Newfoundland is founded on codfish, dried codfish, dried as they dried it 400 years ago, out in the open in the sun. Frozen codfish is a novelty in Newfoundland. Other varieties of sea fish, the equal of any caught anywhere, until the past few months were unknown as food to men who have been engaged in codfishing all their lives in the colony. The preservation and distribution of fish as an industry is in its infancy there.

St. John's as a centre for the refrigeration of fish and the development of an extensive fish industry, catering to the markets of the world, is superior to either Prince Rupert, B.C., or Halifax, N.S., because it is nearest the insatiable markets of the United States and Europe, and closer to the sources of supply. The fish frozen is unexcelled in freshness. I have seen many fish landed at the cold storage wharf still full of life, and put into the sharp freezer quivering with nervous twitchings. They were caught an hour's run outside of St. John's harbor. Besides that, the people of Newfoundland are fishermen and have been fishermen for generations. Everything is present for the rapid extension of the deep sea fishing industry in all its ramifications. It is to the credit of President Reid that he has grasped the situation and had the courage to become a pioneer in the refrigeration of fish. While Newfoundland codfish is a staple in the markets of Great Britain, France, Italy, Portugal, Spain and South America, yet the supply does not equal the demand. Few experiments have been made with artificial drying, yet it would appear that progress by this development, proven successful in Europe, is more than problematic and worthy of consideration.

President Reid expressed a desire to the writer that he might visit Canada and see the great west again, where he spent a few years ranching; but he has filled his book with Newfoundland for the next five years without a break. He compares Newfoundland with Vancouver Island, and in many respects they are similar, though the Labradorean current is not as salubrious as the Japanese.

In facial expression Mr. Reid reminds one of Sir John A. Macdonald. He has the same mobile, expressive, adventurous nose. It is the veritable nose of Sir Walter Raleigh, whose half-brother, Sir Humphrey Gilbert, made Newfoundland a British colony. It is the nose of courage and high endeavor. J. Pierpont Morgan made it modern and famous.

His chief exercise is found in motoring. He drives a Rolls-Royce, built with a chassis, low-lying, of his own design. He is the most daring driver in Newfoundland, where the roads are good, but highly precipitous. Wherever he goes in the colony or outside of it, the motor goes with him.

His hobby is growing begonias. For seven years he has been rearing these fragile, flowering plants from bulbs sent out from England each year. He now has two thousand of them under glass, always in bloom, and flashing the variegated colors of many rainbows. He names new ones coming on for those who visit his conservatory and appreciate these delicate masterpieces of nature. In the flower world among those who know, he is said to have the best show of begonias in the world. He husbands them like a father does his children.

With youth and knowledge on his side, a railway of 500 miles branching into as many more, an area bigger than Ireland to develop and industrial vision, President Reid is a dynamic force worth watching by all students of the British Empire.

Aviator Fell Into Bathtub.

An aviator while demonstrating a new forestry hydroplane at Vancouver recently, fell from 1,000 feet altitude on the residence of Dr. J. C. Farish. The impact dislodged the engine, which crashed through the roof, the pilot following and bringing up, virtually uninjured, in the doctor's bathtub.

A SLUGGISH LIVER CAUSED SEVERE HEADACHES

The duty of the liver is to prepare and secrete bile and serve as a filter to the blood, cleansing it of all impurities and poisons.

Healthy bile in sufficient quantity is Nature's provision to secure regular action of the bowels, and when the liver is sluggish it is not working properly, and does not manufacture enough bile to thoroughly act on the bowels and carry off the waste products from the system, hence the bowels become clogged up, the bile gets into the blood, constipation sets in, followed by sick and bilious headaches, coated tongue, bad breath, heartburn, water brash, bad taste in the mouth in the morning, jaundice, floating specks before the eyes, etc.

Miss Dian Clark, Myer's Cave, Ont., writes:—"I take pleasure in writing you concerning the good I have received by using Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills for a sluggish liver. When my liver got bad I would have severe headaches, but I got better after I had used a couple of vials of your pills."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills gently unlock the secretion, clear away all waste and effete matter by acting directly on the liver, and make the bile pass through the bowels instead of allowing it to get into the blood.

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

The Canadian Navy In 1777.

It may be interesting to the people to learn that there was once a navy in the early history of Canada. Gen. Amherst saw he must have ships to transfer his troops across the lakes. He built ships and took his seamen from the British regiments and colonials, and, having no officers for his navy, he selected officers from the army who had been midshipmen on British warships. He appointed Lieut. Alex. Grant as First Commodore of the Upper Lakes, with headquarters at Detroit (Detroit then belonged to the British in 1777, where he paid his captains and sailors. He also had quarters at Fort Amherstburg. This gallant officer was one of the conquerors of Canada from the French. Commodore Alex. Grant was the second son of the eighth Laird of Glenmorriston, Inverness, Scotland, and came to Canada in a Highland regiment (Glengarry Fencibles) raised for Canadian service in 1759. In Lady Simcoe's diary, 1793, she says: "Commodore Grant has arrived at Fort Eric in his largest ship, the Chippawa. I drove with Governor Simcoe (from the town of Niagara) to Fort Erie, and went on board with Capt. Hamilton." Commodore Grant was 50 years in command of the lakes. He was one of the first members of Parliament in Governor Simcoe's term. The commodore was of a commanding presence, a good officer, and very hospitable. Tecumseh and other noted men were often his guests. He died May, 1813, aged 80, and was buried in St. John's Church grounds, Sandwich, Ont. The ships of the fleet he commanded were: Gen. Gage, brig, John Burnet, captain, built Detroit 1772; Lord Dunmore, schooner, James Graham, captain, built Detroit 1772; Hope, schooner, Harry Ford captain, built Detroit 1771; Angelica, sloop, James Underston captain, built Detroit 1771; Felicity, sloop, Norman McKay captain, built Detroit 1774; Faith, schooner, Geo. Andrews captain, built Detroit 1774; Wyandotte, sloop, William Gibson captain, built Detroit 1779; Adventure, sloop, James Cunning captain, built Detroit 1796; gunboat, Joseph Williams captain; Chippawa, Captain Hamilton; Welcome, sloop; and others.

DON'T BE DYSPEPTIC.

The dyspeptic has thought only of the stomach when the real source of trouble is the Liver, Kidneys and Bowels. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills thoroughly cleanse and purify the digestive and excretory system and in this way put the organs of digestion into splendid working condition. A little patient urging on of the organs when sluggish will restore the habit of healthful digestion.

A Famous Wheat Grower

THAT Western Canada can produce the best wheat of this continent is once more demonstrated by the fact that at the International Soil Products Exposition at Kansas City the other day, the sweepstakes prize for the best half bushel of hard spring wheat—a $500.00 silver cup—was awarded to a Western Canadian farmer, Seager Wheeler, of Rosthern, Saskatchewan. This is the third time that Mr. Wheeler has won the premier prize, one of the most coveted amongst wheatgrowers the whole continent over, at this exposition. He was awarded the sweepstakes prize for wheat at the exposition at Witchita, Kansas, in 1914, and again at Denver, Colorado, in 1916. Wheat from his stock won the same prize for another man at Lethbridge, Alberta, in 1913. Mr. Wheeler is a famous winner of wheat prizes. In addition to the foregoing and to a large number of ribbons, cups and gold prizes at minor events, it was he, who in 1911 won the thousand dollar gold prize donated by Lord Shaughnessy, President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, at New York Land Show, for the best bushel of milling wheat grown anywhere in the two Americas. In every case Mr. Wheeler has exhibited Marquis wheat, a variety that produces in very heavy yield, and matures somewhat earlier than other varieties. It was perfected a few years ago by Professor S. A. Bedford, of Brandon Experimental Farm, and Dr. William Saunders, of Ottawa, after several years of experimentalization to obtain the best variety suited to Western Canada. The provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta contain 460,000,000 acres of land of which 200,000,000 at least are high-class farming land. Only about 30,000,000 were actually under cultivation in 1918, the enormous tracts which remain unsettled and uncultivated constituting the real "last best west" of the continent.

Degas.

What would Degas have thought of the sale of his pictures? Such a crowd, such prices! And Degas hated crowds and publicity. Degas could have signed himself de Gas, if he had chosen, but he did not care sufficiently for the world's point of view. Some one writes to Le Temps recalling how he hated being called "master," and, worse still, "dear master." He lived aloof and simply. When in want of a particularly large sum of money to pay for an Ingres or a Delacroix, he would take one or two of his own pictures, and the price he asked was always given. The story is told of how, sitting behind the auctioneer's desk at the Rouard sale, he witnessed one of his own pastels come under the hammer and the price lead up to 300,000 francs, 400,000 francs, and finally 500,000, and Degas all the while was making himself as small as he could, muttering "They are mad, they are mad, the idiots!" When asked, next day, by a friend, how he had felt during the sale, Degas answered, "How do you suppose a horse feels when he has just won the Grand Prix?"

How Liebknecht Fought Autocracy

We owe to the painstaking industry of Mr. Sidney Zimand the possession in English of all the important speeches of Liebknecht since the beginning of the war. The book is just now published.

In all the voluminous literature of this war there is a passage which stands out as a bright ray of light illuminating our pathway toward the future society of nations. In "Under Fire" the French common soldier, Bertranad, says: "There is one figure that has risen above the war and will blaze with the beauty and strength of his courage." The author, Barbusse, how the elected chief of the great society of French war veterans, goes on to say: "I listened, leaning on a stick toward him, drinking in the voice that came in the twilight silence from the lips that so rarely spoke. He cried in a clear voice, 'Liebknecht'."

In 1870 Wilhelm Liebknecht, the father of Karl, together with Bebel and three other Socialist members of the Reichstag, voted against the war credits. They were insulted and even beaten by the war-mad members of the Reichstag. If it was natural for the son to follow in the footsteps of the father, so it was also natural for the whole Socialist party in Germany to continue the policies of the founders of the party. In the universal disgust with which the world viewed the treason to truth and all sound principle which marked the conduct of the Socialist party at the beginning of the war, the one mitigating fact is, as Barbusse so eloquently indicates, Liebknecht.

In his great speech against the second war budget he declared "as a protest against the war, against those who are responsible for it and have caused it—against the violation of the neutrality of Belgium and Luxemburg, against unlimited rule of martial law—I vote against the war credits demanded."

The excuse for the weakness of the whole German people and the treason of the Socialists, on the part of weak-kneed pacifists and Socialists in other countries, has always been that the German people were all misinformed about the war. This excuse is invalid. Liebknecht knew the truth about the war because he wished to know it. The masses of the German people, Socialists and non-Socialists alike, believed falsehoods because they wished to believe them. The frightful horror of German war methods was perfectly well known inside of Germany. A number of questions which Liebknecht asked of the Government in the Reichstag session in December, 1915, indicates clearly what sort of knowledge was in the possession of those who wished to know the truth. When Liebknecht inquired as to whether the Government was prepared to begin peace negotiations, von Jagow answered, amid loud laughter, that he refused to answer. On this occasion Liebknecht asked about a score of searching questions which threw light upon the whole policy and purpose of the Government.

Later, in January, Liebknecht again interrogated the Government. He exposed the Armenian massacres and the fact that the German Government was responsible. He asked for "data concerning the situation in the territory occupied by Germany," and "concerning measures taken for the protection of the people in the occupied territory, concerning the means of living, concerning their health conditions, their rights, their numbers." He inquired as to the "kind and reason of the punishments decreed and reprisal measures taken against the people in these territories by the German authorities, the number of people executed, military requisitions of property," and so forth. "On Jan. 13, 1916, by a vote of sixty to twenty-five, the Socialist Central Committee expelled Liebknecht from membership in the Socialist party for continuous "gross infractions of party discipline."

But Liebknecht's fight did not end with his expulsion from the party. Month after month he stood alone and fought his good fight. Germany was winning the war. The insolence of her Junkerdom and the official class was something beyond describing. This was the very least of his opposition. His sometime Socialist comrades, meeting him on the street, insulted him most viciously. On March 22, 1916, he attempted, in a session of the Reichstag, to attack the submarine policy of the Government, but was prevented.

The final weighing in the balance of this man's soul came on May Day, 1916. In the presence of a crowd of working people assembled in Berlin in the open air, he "cried out," as it were, "with a loud voice." Under all ordinary circumstances this speech meant death in front of the firing squad. He knew that it could not mean revolution at that time. He was a common soldier in the army, and had not the slightest notion that he would escape punishment according to law. I feel that the fact that he was imprisoned instead of executed was due entirely to the desire of the German Government to escape criticism in enemy countries. This speech will live as the utterance of a great and heroic figure in the midst of one of the most terrible crises that has come upon the human race. "By a lie," he cried out, "the German workingman was forced into the war, and by lies they expect to induce him to go on with the war."

Here, again, was John Huss before the Council and Martin Luther at Worms. In the universal failure, in the unutterable collapse of all that was true and right among the German leadership and the German people, this one voice was heard—loud and clear. If poor in its practical results, this voice, "crying in the wilderness," was mighty in its prophecy of the better time to come for the world.

THE VANISHING HALO.

Unexpected Discoveries In the Life of the Colossus of Finance.

The executors of the colossus of finance were digging into the papers of the dead master of money—the shrewdest and wisest of all the world's kings of business. One of the executors looked up, with a ghastly face.

"I have just found evidence that our dead friend once backed a search for buried pirate treasure," he said.

"And I," said another, "have found papers indicating that he grubstaked a prospector in a twenty-year search for a lost gold mine."

"And here," said a third, "is indisputable evidence that on several occasions he bought stock in concerns that were organized to manufacture perpetual motion devices."

"We must keep silent about these things," agreed the three executors, "or the public will realize that this genius was but human, after all."—Puck.

An Amateur Teacher.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

Myra's Afternoon

By AGNES BROGAN

As the banging of the front door announced the departure of her husband, Myra turned flushed of cheek to her sister.

"There he goes," she said, "angry for the fourth time this week."

"But why," asked Helen, "do you delight in provoking him? You have been in the wrong upon each occasion."

Instead of resenting this accusation, the younger and married sister arose smiling. "Really, Nell," she replied, "I don't know what possesses me. I believe I'm suffering from stagnation in this routine and welcome any diversion. Perhaps—" her voice trailed off musingly. "It's my way of getting back at him, for taking me from a life of romance, into one of stupid responsibility."

"Myra!" her sister exclaimed, "that sounds as if you had found disappointment." She sighed, "and I hoped that marriage would quell your adventurous spirit."

The girl laughed. "Mercy knows; you had trouble with me in those same innocently adventurous days! Is that what you are trying to say, Nell? Well, I'll tell you what I am going to do. I am going to cast care to the winds, and have one free, perfectly joyous, irresponsible afternoon."

The quarrel this particular afternoon had begun when her husband, hastily leaving the luncheon table, remarked that he was going out in the launch to fish. He had promised Brownson, he said, to meet him at the island. And Myra, anticipating a tiresome afternoon in the home environment, immediately felt herself aggrieved. When balmy air and sunny skies were calling, why had not Jim instead desired her company? So Jim had stormily made his exit. Myra knew how to be provoking. Now, all in softest pink, with a pink parasol casting a glow over her pretty face, she entered the suburban park and looked about for a vacated bench.

The one she selected was near the water's edge, and Myra seated herself to plan out the rest of the afternoon. Should she call up one of her old-time friends and invite her to a lake trip with tea on the opposite beach?

Myra realized that a man was advancing, and was looking down upon her.

"I beg your pardon," he said as she raised her eyes, "I did not know that anyone was here."

"I am going presently," she answered. "Do not let me drive you away."

The man was handsome in his faultless white flannels, for a moment he allowed his gaze to dwell upon the girl in admiration, then with a brief "Thank you," he dropped down on the roomy bench at her side.

Myra, continuing her study of the waters, dropped the pink parasol a little lower as a screen. The man remained immovable for a lengthy period, she was constrained to peep under the parasol's edge to see if he had fallen asleep, and in the act of peeping Myra's eyes met his steadfastly.

"Why not put back the parasol," he suggested easily, "and be a bit friendly?"

Myra hesitated, then impulsively obeyed. "I told you a story about not expecting to find anyone here," he confessed, "I saw you come and deliberately followed."

The girl raised her eyebrows, "You are in the habit of following people that way?" she questioned.

The man shook his head decidedly. "Pardon me if I bore you," he said, "it was your pink dress and pink parasol which drew me, like a magnet. Years ago I had a sweetheart who used to wear just that delicate shade, you reminded me forcibly."

"Indeed!" Myra murmured, "and you lost her?"

The man's eyes grew grave. "Yes," he answered slowly, "I lost her."

Myra broke in at last upon his ruminative silence. "Was she pretty, this sweetheart?" she asked.

The man smiled. "Not as pretty as you are," he said boldly.

Myra arose with a nervous laugh. "After that," she said, "I must go."

"See here," he entreated, "I'm lonely. For the sake of a memory, won't you let me row you down the lake? You could make me very happy if you would stop for tea on the other side, returning in the moonlight. Unless they are expecting you at home?" Eagerly he awaited her answer.

"No," said Myra, "I told my sister that I would not be there." She closed the pink parasol with a snap of decision and followed him down to the shore, and placed her hand in his as he helped her into the boat, then from the cushions she smiled at him, as his brown arms bent to the oars.

"After all," murmured Myra, "what is one afternoon?"

"An afternoon," the man replied, "may change the tenor of one's life."

Helen was waiting, as her sister came in the moonlight up the garden path. "My dear," she admonished, "I have been anxious about you. If Jim had been here, I should have sent him to look for you."

There was a new softness in Myra's voice.

"I met," her eyes shone, "my husband in the park this afternoon," she explained. "We rowed over to the Cliff house together and had tea."

Shaw's Criticism.

Gilbert K. Chesterton, the 300 pound English journalist, lately wrote a farce. "Magic," which had a short run in London, and then died quietly. One of the features of the London theatrical season was a play called "Punny's First Play."

G. Bernard Shaw was prevailed on to attend one of the performances of "Magic" and at the end of the show left the house murmuring quizzically "'Patty's First Play.'"

She Loved That Tortoise.

Miss Ellen Biddell of Violet Lodge Parkroad, Ipswich, who died March inst, aged eighty-five, and left £14 6s stated in her will that she desired the residuary legatees to be kind to and to find the best home they can for the tortoise, which she had had since June, 1845.—London Standard.

His Only Complaint.

A young draftee summoned for medical examination at Brandon recently confidently produced the certificate he had obtained from his family physician. It said: "I believe the bearer to be suffering from timor belli!"

Horses for Food Purposes.

The Alberta Horse Breeders' Association has presented proposals to the Dominion Government looking to the sending of large shipments of light horses overseas, the horses to be slaughtered for meat for those armies favoring such diet.

Jumped and Saved His Life.

Oscar Gorsalitz, of Wingham, was industriously firing his locomotive when he heard the driver shout "Jump for your life." He did so—and lives thereby. The engine an instant later crashed into a car loaded with dynamite!

LONGEST-LIVED INSECT.

The Cicada, or Tree Cricket, Has an Interesting History.

The longest-lived of American insects and the most persistent of our musicmakers; is the "tree cricket," usually incorrectly called "the locust." The Latin name is "cicada," meaning "tree cricket," and the insect has an interesting history.

It is the longest-lived of our insects for the reason that it requires seventeen years to attain its growth. If they appeared every year or two in the same locality in great numbers, as do our locusts, also misnamed grasshoppers, fruit and forest trees would suffer from their attacks.

There are several distinct broods of these tree crickets in different parts of the United States, and these appear at different times. Three of these colonies in the Southern States are credited by naturalists with having periods of thirteen years in which to come to maturity instead of the full period of seventeen years.

The cicada has a broad head with short antennae. But look at its eyes. Not only has it a large convex eye on each side of the head, but it has three simple eyes on the crown. It has three joints in the feet and wings, with wing coverts in both sexes. The body is black, banded with red on the abdomen. The veins of the wings are red and orange. The eyes are red.

The males are the musicians. That loud, shrill, piercing sound which carries to a great distance, is made by a kind of bass fiddle, an apparatus at the lower part of the abdomen across which they drag their wings, and there it is, the fiddle and the bow.

The cicada or tree cricket has short legs and is devoid of the power to leap like the grasshopper or the locust. It lives only a few weeks after arriving at perfection. It then performs the work of reproduction and dies. The eggs are laid by the female in slits cut in the bark of live twigs and not by feeding on the twigs and leaves that injury is caused to the trees.

The young which are hatched in about six weeks, do not feed on the leaves, but drop to the ground. There they bore down to the root juices. When about to become adult, the insect crawls out of the ground, molts for the last time and flies to the tree top.

The eggs of the cicada are eaten by ants and other insects. There larvae is a choice morsel for woodpeckers and other birds as well as for toads, frogs and snakes. The common cicada of Europe was sung by the poets of antiquity, especially by Virgil and Anacreon. The Romans called it "cicada" and it is the "cigale" of the modern France and the "cicala" of the Italians. The women of old Athens wore golden cicadas as ornaments in their hair. They were also when in the nymph or pupa state, esteemed by the Greeks as food.

The American tree cricket announces his arrival in July. It is a current saying when the cicadean fiddler gives his overture that it is "just six weeks until frost." Fortunately the prediction usually fails.

Making Stage Scenery.

Stratford has recently gained a new and important industry the making of stage scenery. Thompson Bros. are the pioneers in the trade and work on an entirely new principle, the scenery being painted in water colors in fitting sheets which can be folded in trunks and thus comply with new railway requirements.

Soldiers of the Soil.

Approximately twelve thousand Canadian boys were enrolled this year as soldiers of the soil, the quotas by provinces being: British Columbia, 669; Alberta, 616; Saskatchewan, 1,405; Manitoba, 1,006; Ontario, 4,612; Quebec, 670; New Brunswick, 677; Nova Scotia, 1,788; and Prince Edward Island, 500.

PUT CREAM IN NOSE AND STOP CATARRH

Tells How To Open Clogged Nostrils and End Head-Colds.

You feel fine in a few moments. Your cold in head or catarrh will be gone. Your clogged nostrils will open. The air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more dullness, headache; no hawking, snuffling, mucous discharges or dryness; no struggling for breath at night.

Tell your druggist you want a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic cream in your nostrils, let it penetrate through every air passage of the head; soothe and heal the swollen, inflamed mucous membrane, and relief comes instantly.

It is just what every cold and catarrh sufferer needs. Don't stay stuffed-up and miserable.

MATTERS MUSICAL

MUSIC IN THE HOME—THURS INTERPRETING THE CLASSICS

Consider for a moment the different composers for the piano, how they vary in style and requirement in technique and thought. How can a person interpret Bach, for instance, satisfactorily, who has not control over a good legato touch and a theoretical knowledge of the composition. From a mere technical standpoint it is necessary to be able to execute a good trill, even scales to do justice to Mozart and Hayden; and in Beethoven one has to add to this a thorough drill in chords, of being able to bring out in that chord any tone with a stronger pressure when that tone is carrying the melody. Then Chopin who is much sinned against, what a sensitive touch is required to picture all the infinite subtle shadings of which that poet among the composers is heir! Think of Brahms who requires a weighty, heavy touch to bring out the many contrasts and orchestral effects in his compositions, and of Lizst whose Concertos and transcriptions from operas demand brilliant octaves and nearly everything in the line of finger dexterity.

Only a superficial glance at these requirements will already convince you that the pianist really has the hardest road to travel to the desired goal of perfection and of enthusing an audience. A good pianist has to have four things: talent intelligence, emotion and technique.

APPLAUSE AND THE ARTIST

The kind of applause an artist receives is often a reflex of his own performance, being a kind of imitation—a survival of a primitive instinct in mankind. For example, if a pianist plays a piece involving rapid passage work that calls for great finger dexterity, his playing is likely to elicit a rapid clapping of hands on the part of the audience; if a prima donna opens her mouth very wide and sings a top note fortissimo, she is likely to be greeted with shouts—a response in kind.

But as audiences become more discriminating in their musical tastes they are less moved by a display of physical force and by mere technical accomplishment on the part of the artist, and they respond rather in proportion to the art value of what they hear, both as respects the content of the music and the manner of presenting it

PLAYING SQUARE WITH FATHER AND MOTHER

It must be said to the credit of the boys and girls of this country that they are loyally responding to the Government's appeal for economy and connservation. Through the schools and in various ways they have accomplished much. In music they can also effect the same economy by honest practising. A boy who practises in a slipshod way or skips hand in his daddy's pocket "hooking" quarters. A girl who fails to get up her lesson properly so that her teacher has to give her the same part of the piece, the same scales and exercises over again is asking her mother to pay twice for the same thing. No little girl would like to go to the store for mother to buy a loaf of bread and then go back the next day and pay over for the same loaf. Yet that is what some are asking their parents to do for their music lessons

But perhaps someone says practising is so hard, so monotonous. Well, did you ever hear of the Chinese legend which tells that Confusius, when a boy, got tired of the tasks his parents set him to do. They were too monotonous so he decided to run away from home. After he thad gone a long distance he came across an old woman sitting at the roadside employed in the strange task of rubbing a great steel bar on a large rock. Confusius enquired what she was doing and received this reply, "I wish a needle but have no money to buy one; but I do have this bar and am rubbing it down to make a needle. This impressed Confusius, and when he thought of his own light tasks at home in contrast to the slow process of grinding down a huge bar to make a needle, he decided to return home and face his duties. This is the day of doing hard things, and the boys and girls will not ignore the challenge.

CYRIL SCOTT'S MUSIC

The music of Cyril Scott is known and loved to-day the world over, and English speaking races are proud to claim him as their own, whether as an instrumental or vocal composer. Of all the band of composers of the younger British school, none is more interesting than he; he expresses himself feelingly and always with originality, and a rare and delicate imagnery, yet he is vigorous and virile. Among his piano compositions are many on dance rythms, for dance forms have always attracted him, and in every measure and character he paints them with truth and sympathy. His songs are equally admirable, whether grave or gay, and are composed of the keenest imagination. One of his more recent songs, 'Requiem,' a setting of verse by R. L. Steveneon, well upholds his reputation for dignity and simple beauty.

MUSIC WON ELECTION

A mayor in one of the largest cities in the United States told the other day how music won an election for him. He said, "When my first election took place our city was very equally divided between the different parties, and at the first election I was almost—not elected. There were so few votes that we didn't know for some time—and I am not quite certain yet. But the next time I came along, and in an equally divided town, I carried the town by eighteen thousand majority. And I think no little was done in that majority by the people who loved music and heard our symphonies and attended our band concerts and our open air concerts, and our community sings, because that was what was being done for their entertainment, instruction and uplift."

And so virtue is not only its own reward, but we got some practical benefit from the co-operation of the music-lover in the recognition of the work that has been done for them by the municipalities.

MUSICIANS ARE SMALL IN STATURE.

Professor Gowin of the New York University has recorded some interesting statistics in an article in which he inquires into the stature of various classes of persons — reformers, railway presidents, bishops, chiefs of police, musicians—all of whom come under the professors investigating eye. He finds the reformer at the top of the class so far as height goes, and the musicians at the bottom.

While he discovers notable exceptions such as Liszt, Paganini, Verdi and Rachmaninoff, the average musician he finds is not tall. He instances, in figures or by contemporary estimates, for example—Beethoven, five feet six; Mozart, five feet five—Haydn, Mendelssohn and Wagner all "middle height;" Brahms, "rather short;" Schubert, "short and stumpy;" Chopin "a little fragile looking man." Of Bach's height his report is "nothing definite known."

THE PRIVATE TEACHERS' POSITION.

Musicians should take notice that the big question to-day is the relation of the work done in the studio of the private teacher to the educational system as exemplified in the public schools. If there is any menace to the private teacher in the greater attention being given to music in the schools—and some think that there is—this menace will not be lessened by the attitude of some, which is to go on in the same old way. No! Improve the quality of your teaching, show this improvement in your pupils and no teaching even of piano playing in the schools (don't forget that it is usually class teaching(can even approximate the quality of your work. Make a definite propaganda for scheel credit for outside music study. Enlist the support of the parents of your pupils and of such organizations as music clubs, mothers's clubs, and parents' associations.

Sir Thomas Myles,of Medical Mission. Belongs to Famous Family.

Lieut.-Col. Sir Thomas Myles, M.D. —better known as Sir Tom Myles—who has just arrived in the United States on a British medical mission is one of the most picturesque figures in Irish life. As medical students in Trinity College, Dublin, the three Myles brothers were famous for their encounters with the members of the "heavyweight" division of the Metropolitan Police, whose station house is just around the corner from the front gate of the university, on College Green. It use to be said of the Myles brothers, that if they found it necessary to beat up the Dublin "Finest" at night, they were equally assiduous in patching them up in the morning. So there were no hard feeling on either side.

Sir Thomas was knighted in 1902 when he was president of the college of Surgeons in Ireland. It was as house surgeon in Steven's Hospital that he made the first examination of the bodies of Burke and Cavendish, the victims of the famous Phoenix Park murders. The strange thing was that, at the moment, neither Sir Thomas nor the police knew that one of the bodies was that of the Chief Secretary, and the other that of the Under Secretary for Ireland.

It is a habit of the Myles family to be over six feet in height, and with shoulders and fists in proportion. In the Zulu war one of the chiefs was run to earth in his kraal by the British, who wished to capture him alive. Volunteers were asked for and Sir Thomas' brother, John, undertook the task. He crawled through the long covered entrance and came out ten minutes later, dragging the kicking potentate behind him by the scruff of the neck.

Sir Thomas has been consulting surgeon to the British forces since the outbreak of the war.

The Ideal Christmas Gift

A GREENE PIANO will give your family more real pleasure than almost anything you can think of.

A Piano is admittedly the ideal factor in home-making. It brings a sense of pleasure even before it is played, and its entertaining and educating influence is one of the strongest that can be introduced into the family circle

No child can be said to be thoroughly educated who has not studied and learned to love music.

Our policy has always been to sell only such lines as we could absolutely guarantee to our customers. In keeping with this policy, we decided to place our name on a piano of proved merit as an assurance to you that it is backed by a firm of the highest standing.

In any of the several finishes

THE GREENE PIANO

has pleasing outlines, but, most important of all, it has a rich, full tone which immediately endears it to the hearts of all lovers of music.

Hear the Greene Piano—its melody will convince you that it is a piano of unusual merit.

PETERBOROUGH, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 12, 1918

Germany Faces Revision of the Armistice Terms

Enemy Will Have to Work for the Allies a Long Time in Order to Pay Her War Debt.

"ELECTION THUNDER"

(United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Germany will not be asked to pay the full Allied war debt, as Lloyd George is advocating, provided President Wilson's principles obtain in the peace conference.

Officials here privately declare that much of the British talk of making Germany pay this enormous debt — Lloyd George estimates it at $120,000,000,000—is election talk. The American government believes Germany will be about "cleaned" financially when she is done with paying merely the restorative indemnities to be asked of her for Belgium, Northern France and elsewhere.

Germany will be working for the Allies a long time ahead, and will pay in the sweat of her brow, in lowered living conditions and in taxes on all, for her brutality and the suffering her autocracy imposed upon the rest of the world.

Stern Justice.

President Wilson believes in a stern justice for Germany. Neither he nor any other American official believes Germany should escape such punishment as will go with territorial readjustment and restorative indemnities. But President Wilson has declared against "punitive indemnities."

Lloyd George will have hearty support from the President in seeking to abolish conscription. Concrete evidence of this support is seen here in the fact that the War Department has privately let Congressmen know that at present there is no plan for universal military training in this country.

Germany is soon to face a revision of the armistice terms. The limit expired yesterday.

The revised version will probably vary only slightly from the one previously in effect.

Only Criminal Case Was Withdrawn

The only criminal case before the General Sessions of the Peace was a charge against Mr. Alex. Primrose of Havelock of having misappropriated $165 belonging to Sherlock & Manning Co., of London, Ont., whom he represented as agent. Crown Attorney Hatton explained to the jury that restitution had been made for the full amount, and he decided not to submit any evidence against the accused. Mr. G. N. Gordon, counsel for Mr. Primrose, said that it was a question of keeping accounts. The charge was accordingly withdrawn.

The case of Patrick Tovan not (Logan) as appeared a few days ago, of Belleville, versus J. H. Faux in which the former claimed damages to the amount of $3,000 on behalf of his daughter has been settled out of court.

Gordon, Widdifield and O'Brien appeared for the plaintiff, and Porter, Butler and Payne of Belleville, for the defendant.

IMPORTANCE OF DAIRY INDUSTRY IMPRESSES FARMERS

Mr. G. G. Publow's Address at County Dairymen's Meeting in Lakefield Yesterday—Mr. G. A. Gillespie Appointed Director of Eastern Ontario Association.

MR. R. W. WARD'S REPORT

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 12. — The meeting of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association of this district was held in the Lakefield Town Hall last evening. The attendance was very small, which was unfortunate, as the meeting was very interesting. The meeting nominated Mr. G. A. Gillespie, M.P.P., to represent this locality on the Board of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association.

Mr. Gillespie occupied the chair.

Mr. Ward's Report.

Mr. R. W. Ward, dairy instructor for Peterborough and Lindsay sections, presented the season's report. In company with Mr. Mayhew, boiler inspector, Mr. Ward visited 36 cheese factories last spring, and found most of them in poor condition. He said they should be put in proper repair. The season for making cheese usually begins in May, but some factories started in April. Mr. Ward made 387 visits during the season, which was an unusual one, but in the main was very good from the standpoint of production. There were seventeen days last July which showed poor results. The cheese was mostly of good quality, but there was need for better care of the milk. This season the scarcity and high price of labour made it much harder for cheese makers to keep things in repair. In Mr. Ward's district 16 of the factories skimmed whey, 12 made butter, and 3 shipped cream.

A Few Pointers.

Mr. Ward gave some rules for the proper management of cheese factories which must be enforced if the quality of the cheese is to be kept up—

1—All boilers, fixtures and machinery should all be overhauled and made sanitary and in perfect repair at the beginning of the season and kept so.

2—Flies must be kept out.

3—Pure water and proper sanitation as cheese is for human food.

4—Early delivery of milk.

District is Ahead.

Mr. Ward went on to say that while Peterborough section was ahead in some respects, they were behind in others. For one thing, the milk is not delivered at the factory early enough in the morning. Early delivery makes better cheese per 100 pounds of milk, so it is to the advantage of the farmer to have an early delivery. Dairy industries need all the care possible as they are most important.

Mr. Ward closed his report and asked for questions.

Mr. Duff asked whether the milk was paid by test or by the pooling system. Mr. Ward says that in the 36 factories in his district, that one-third pay by test, which is the fairest and best, as it is more productive of results and eliminates adulteration.

Mr. Gillespie Nominated.

The next item on the programme was the nomination of a director. Mr. Gillespie, who has been a director for a number of years, assured those present that the position was not a life-long job, and that he would be glad if they would nominate some one else for a change. He assured them that the work was pleasant, as the board of directors was a very fine, intelligent body of men. He asked Mr. G. G. Publow to take the chair for the nomination.

Two-fold Object.

Mr. Publow said that the meeting had a two-fold object—1 To give the farmers a chance of nominating their director and also to hear the in-

THE GEORGE WASHINGTON REPORTED SIX HUNDRED MILES OUT FROM BREST

By Fred S. Ferguson.
(United Press.)

BREST, France, Dec. 12.—The George Washington, bearing President Wilson and his party, was six hundred miles out from Brest when she last reported by wireless, at midnight. The big steamer was making only fifteen knots an hour owing to the heavy seas, but was expected to arrive on schedule Friday afternoon as the result of her shortened course. There was a heavy fog and a drizzling rain off shore.

Employment For Soldiers

Soldiers' Aid Commission Met the the Employers of Labour Last Evening.

The Soldiers' Aid Commission met the employers of labour last evening in the Patriotic Rooms for a round table discussion of ways and means of reinstating returned soldiers in positions. Realizing that the only way to deal with the matter was to obtain the co-operation of the manufacturers of the city, the Commission will ask two things of them, that they promise to reinstate returned men in their old positions as far as the men are able to fill them, and where there is an opening or an opening can be made to give the preference to returned men.

Passed Resolution.

The following motion was moved by Alderman Edgar: "That the heads of the manufacturing interests be asked if they are willing to re-employ returned men who have seen service overseas, and as far as possible, give employment to returned soldiers who are capable of filling positions, and that a committee from the employers meet with one from the soldiers and Commission to form a joint committee to look after the interests of returned men in obtaining employment."

Honest Effort.

While the meeting was not as large or as representative as was expected, the matter of making an honest effort to do all possible for returned men was given a substantial start.

Officers Elected.

The officers elected for the coming year were:

Chairman—A. H. Stratton.
Vice-Chairman—E. F. Mason.
Sec.-Treas.—F. H. Dobbin.

Waiting for the President

Paris Press Cannot Foresee Any Friction Between the Powers.

(United Press.)
(By William Philip Simms.)

PARIS, Dec. 12.—The peace machinery is at a standstill pending the arrival of President Wilson. Even informal conferences have been abandoned until the American executive can be heard personally. Little is being published at present regarding the peace congress itself.

The "Temps" declares it cannot foresee any friction between Washington, London, Rome and Paris. It says the accord which has existed since America's entry into the war will continue until peace is assured. This unanimity, it holds, will expedite the work of the inter-Allied conferences. There is some rivalry among the various political factions as to which will take the lead in welcoming Wilson. Posters have been circulated by the Labourites and Socialists, appealing to people to welcome him as an advocate of their particular brand of principles. The "Temps" objects to this attitude, on the ground that Wilson is the guest of all France. "He is the guest of no party, no faction, no man," the newspaper states.

THE SWORD OF VICTORY

Rev. T. T. Shields in St. Paul's Church Monday, 16th December.

St. Paul's Choir has been exceedingly fortunate in securing the Rev. T. T. Shields of Jarvis Street Baptist Church, Toronto, to give his lecture entitled "The Sword of Victory." The title is a good one, and the subject when dealt with by a man possessing the great eloquence and power of Mr. Shields, who has had such unique opportunities of witnessing so many historical events and great scenes in England, France and Belgium during the last four years, should certainly make it one of the most intensely interesting lectures ever given in Peterborough.

Mr. Shields occupied the pulpit of Spurgeon's Tabernacle in London, during July and August, 1915, in August, 1917, and in August and September in 1918, and is thoroughly conversant with the latest trend of politics, and industrial questions, both in Britain and in the European countries. On each of Mr. Shield's visits he spent much of his time visiting Canadian camps and hospitals in all parts of the kingdom. This year, for almost three months Mr. Shields was the guest of the British Government in tours of observation, which took him all over, including Ireland. There he conferred with the leaders of both the Sinn Feiners and Nationalists, also with Sir Edward Carson and the Irish Bishops.

He visited the wonderful shipbuilding yards and shops, the munition factories, viewed the food production and conservation, and the general organization of the whole nation for war.

Mr. Shields also visited and was the guest of the Grand Fleet, seeing it in all its glory and majesty.

Under Government auspices he visited France, and was conducted to all the principal battlefields of the Western Front. Mr. Shields re-visited France quite recently, as the guest of the Canadian Overseas Ministry and saw the Canadians re-take Mons on the last day of the war, and their triumphal march towards Germany. He was in London when the armistice was signed, and when the official announcement was made saw the usually self-contained Londoners go wild with joy. In Paris for the wonderful celebration over the release of Alsace-Lorraine, and on the 22nd November saw the triumphal entry of King Albert of Belgium and his Queen into Brussels after more than four years of exile. Mr. Shields returned to New York on the first peace transport, the "Acquitania" and witnessed the wonderful reception New York gave the returned soldiers, he, himself returning to Toronto on Thursday, the 5th December. Mr. Shields says "the message I bring to you is a recent one, and will be delivered for the first time in Canada to a Peterborough audience."

The committee in charge of the arrangements has the utmost confidence in urging the citizens generally not to miss the opportunity thus presented to them of hearing Mr. Shields' lecture on "The Sword of Victory" in St. Paul's Church on Monday, 16th December, they are assured of a great treat. Tickets 25 cents.

MILNER QUITS GOVERNMENT.

Canadian Press:

LONDON, Dec. 12.—The Daily Express this morning says that Viscount Milner, Secretary for War, is about to quit the government.

A SOLUTION TO PROBLEM

"Freedom of Seas" Needs a Clearer Definition, Declared Viscount Grey.

NECESSARY WEAPON

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

DEWSBURY, Eng., Dec. 12. — A League of Nations is the solution to the question of "freedom of the seas," and great Britain and the United States can reach a complete agreement on that question by joining such a league, declared Viscount Grey, former Foreign Secretary, in a speech here to-night. The seas, the Viscount said, were free in times of peace, and Great Britain had placed no restrictions upon them. During the war the American navy had aided the British navy in maintaining the blockade, and Lord Grey thought that the United States would use the same weapon if the necessity for it arose in the future. Without the blockade, he added, Germany might have won. The term "freedom of seas," he continued, was American in origin, and had been adopted by the Germans for their own purposes. He believed President Wilson meant freedom of seas to all who joined the League of Nations, but the phrase needed clearer definition.

Police Strike in Montreal

Waterworks Employees Are Also Affected.

(Canadian Press.)

MONTREAL, December 12. — A majority of the police and employees of the water works department of this city went on strike to-day for higher pay. The fire department did not strike as was expected.

This morning the heads of the police, firemen and waterworks unions met Sir Lomer Gouin and after a conference the policemen and the waterworks employees decided to strike, while the firemen remained on duty.

The officials announced that adequate special policemen have been engaged to patrol the city streets, while it was also announced that enough members of the waterworks department have remained at work to man the pumping plant. On the other hand union heads announced that the men of the waterworks will only be able to maintain the supply for ten hours.

Yesterday a final effort was made to bring the dispute before a conciliation board, but the union heads refused to arbitrate, even though Archbishop Bruchesi, upon whom they waited for advice, offered his services as an arbitrator.

Masquerade Party Was a Success

CHARLIE CHAPLIN AND A HOST OF OTHER CELEBRITIES REPRESENTED.

Many of the citizens last evening wondered where the "big show" was being held when they saw painted clowns, daughters of Ireland, pseudo policemen, Charlie Chaplins, and a host of other "make ups" invade the west end street cars for parts unknown. The Sunday school of All Saints' Anglican church, was prepared for their reception and nearly two hundred young people thoroughly enjoyed themselves, especially when supper entirely devoid of war restrictions, was announced. Anything suggesting the Quaker was entirely absent from the assembly. It was one variegated hue of colour, and everybody, including the ministerial head of the church, voted the evening an entire success.

Hon. Dr. Cody Entertained At Luncheon

The Hon. Dr. Cody was entertained at luncheon to-day, by the chairman of the Board of Education, and the chairmen of the Committees of the Board, at the Empress Hotel.

Among those present to meet Dr. Cody, were His Worship, Mayor Duncan, Mr. Vincent Eastwood, chairman of the Board of Education, Col. Walker, Mr. Kenner, Mr. Mowat, G. N. Gordon, Dr. Neal, E. A. Peck, Father Phalen, G. H. Thompson, Dr. Amys, G. A. Gillespie, M.P.P., and John Lynch, representative of the Separate School Board.

Mr. H. R. H. Kenner and Col. D. Walker, were under-graduates of the Toronto University at the same time as the Hon. Dr. Cody was a student.

To-night Dr. Cody speaks at the Canadian Club, and a large number of tickets have already been sold.

Thousands of Women Are Facing Starvation

ALLIES DO NOT INTEND TO ENTER GERMAN CAPITAL

Entry Into Berlin Would be Dangerous Unless Backed Up By a Large Force.

(Special to The Examiner.)

PARIS, Dec. 12.—Allied occupation of Berlin is not contemplated at present the United Press was informed to-day by a high officer who is very close to French headquarters. The reports from Berlin that the Allies may occupy the city are the result of an attempt to lead the Allies into revealing their intentions regarding the possible extension of their march into Germany, the official declared. But entry into Berlin would be dangerous unless it were undertaken by a hundred thousand men. No such action will be taken without the utmost deliberation.

Poultrymen Held Meeting Last Evening

A big meeting of the Peterborough Poultry Association was held last evening to complete arrangements for the Poultry Show to be held on the 7th, 8th and 9th of January in the Armouries. In the meantime a bean contest will be started in which two pens of birds will be given to the two nearest guessers. A trio of Silver Compines and a trio of White Rocks will be the feathered inhabitants of these pens.

Show Features.

At the Poultry Show big demonstrations will be held daily by Miss Yeates of the Department of Agriculture. An egg-candling exhibition will also be a feature. An expert from the Dominion Experimental Farm at Ottawa will handle this feature. Owners of all kinds of poultry are asked to participate in the show and exhibit their birds. It promises to be the biggest poultry exhibition ever held between Toronto and Ottawa. Twenty-seven silver cups figure in the prize list which will be handed to the winners by the Mayor or some other civic official on the last night of the Exhibition.

Lack of Employment in Germany Creates a New Condition—Government Gaining Power.

200,000 CHILDREN

Special to The Examiner:

BERLIN, Dec. 12. — Thousands of women, facing starvation through loss of their war jobs, are adding to the perils of Bolshevism in Germany. The women munition workers who are rapidly being demobilized, are unable to find employment, as practically all factories are idle through lack of raw materials. Added to their ranks are other thousands who have been engaged in similar occupations. Some have obtained employment on farms, but the great majority face a serious situation. The Spartacus group has seized the opportunity to augment their ranks with these women, hoping not only to obtain their political support but to influence other men through them. Twenty-one million women are said to be eligible to vote for representatives in the National Assembly. It was estimated to-day that there are more than 200,000 illegitimate children in Germany as a result of war conditions.

Gaining in Strength.

Canadian Press:

LONDON, Dec. 12.—In consequence of the support he is receiving from the Prussian Guards, newly arrived in Berlin, Premier Ebert is taking a stiffer attitude toward the Spartacus group, special correspondents in Copenhagen of London newspapers are advised.

"The proletariat must be prepared for the worst," the 'Red Flag,' the organ of the Spartacus faction, is reported as saying.

A despatch to the Daily Mail from Copenhagen says the Ebert government, feeling that its position is becoming stronger, evidently has decided upon sharp measures against the Spartacans. Offices of the Spartan organization underwent an examination on Tuesday by government forces, the Mail's advices add, and arrests are expected.

Anticipate the Allies' Refusal

Present Government is Viewed With Disfavour by the Allies—Reichstag Will Meet Next Week.

Canadian Press:

BERLIN, Dec. 12. — The German Cabinet is anticipating the refusal by the Allies to deal with the present government and the Soldiers' and Workmen's Council, according to the "Tageblatt" of Berlin. It is considering convoking the Reichstag to give the government a parliamentary basis. The Reichstag session may be expected to begin next week.

BERLIN'S MERCHANTS MEET.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

THURSDAY, DEC. 12TH, 1918.

A LAST APPEAL.

For the past three weeks the Examiner has been appealing to the people of Peterborough to assist in making the Christmas treat to be given to the children of Peterborough's soldiers by the Great War Veterans' Association one worth of this splendid occasion, the first peace Christmas after four and a half years of war. A number of organizations and individuals have nobly responded to the call and the fund has now grown to very respectable proportions. However it should be understood that the total so far subscribed is not sufficient to complete the plans of the Veterans, as the large number of children to be entertained and the high cost of toys, candies and other necessities for an occasion of this kind makes it imperative that a goodly sum should be available. The treat will be held a week from Saturday in the armouries, but it is necessary that the subscription lists be closed well in advance of that date in order that the Veterans' committee may know exactly how much money they can count on in preparing for the big event. There are doubtless many citizens who have been intending to subscribe to this splendid movement but have been under the impression that they had still plenty of time in which to make their donations. This announcement, it is hoped, will cause these friends of the soldiers' children who have not yet subscribed to send in their gifts at once. Donations will be received at the Examiner office on behalf of the Veterans or may be sent directly to G.W.V.A. headquarters, George street.

As a testimony of gratitude to the men who have helped to bring about a victorious peace, the people of Peterborough should assist the War Veterans in making the Christmas celebration of 1018 an occasion of good cheer and rejoicing for the children of our gallant soldiers. The G.W.V.A. deserve the thanks of the community for making this occasion possible. Not only has the local organization had to arrange the details and do all the work in connection with the entertainment, but out of their by no means too full treasury have voted $50 towards the expenses, and in addition, as a glance at the subscription list will show, different members of the G. W.V.A. have made individual subscriptions.

If the citizens generally will play up to the lead of the Veterans, Saturday, December 21st will be a date that the children of Peterborough's soldiers will not soon forget.

A BETTER PETERBORO

The aim of the ratepayers of Peterboro, in the coming municipal elections, should be to secure a council that will be one hundred per cent. efficient. The best men that are available should be placed in the field, and elected, and business ability, honesty, common sense and energy should be the qualifications insisted upon from all candidates for office. Money or social position should not have any effect upon the result, for it is brain-power and ability that are needed now, and these attributes are by no means ensured by position in society or by the size of a man's bank account.

The associations of business men, of manufacturers, of mechanics and workers, of professional men, of war veterans and of social workers, are all equally interested in the prosperity and good management of Peterboro. None of them has any favor to ask of the city council that is not in keeping with the common interests of the city. Then in the face of the unusually serious nature of the problems that are before us, and with a view to developing Peterboro on bigger and better lines, why not merge all these local activities into one great active body for organized action? Every man or woman, young or old, can do something for the betterment of Peterboro, and intelligent organization will define the work and place each worker. The question is not who should represent the interests of any one organization in the council but rather who shall honestly and capably represent and do business for all the organizations—that is for the whole people of Peterboro.

The war has revealed to us of what stuff the people of this city are made. The men at the front, and workers at home have all done their share in bringing the war to a successful termination. Now, we should realize that we can do no better thing than to commemorate the victory and to honour those who helped win it, by making Peterboro worthy of her heroic soldiers, and of ourselves, as a whole people. Our gallant men should be brought back to a better city, to a Peterboro where there is work, at good pay, for every one who wants to work; where there are good homes for workmen; where there are recreation places and bathing facilities for the people; where the civic government is carried on intelligently and honestly for the best interests of the whole city.

The first step towards realizing such an ideal should be to place fit men into the council at the coming elections—the best men that can be found in the city selected wherever they can be located, whether they represent the manufacturers, business men, war veterans or labour organizations.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

All the Labour candidates for the Council have announced themselves in favour of providing bathing facilities for Peterborough. The citizens will not forget that fact when it comes time for marking the ballots.

To the various war funds Peterborough has contributed over half a million dollars, $549,061.45 to be exact, which figures out at the rate of about $27.50 for every man, woman and child in the community.

The Canadian artillerymen in Russia have earned the warm praise of the general officer commanding the allied forces at Archangel. They may not know just why they are fighting there, but that does not seem to make any difference in their scrapping ability.

Peterborough men who have just returned from overseas complain bitterly of the conditions on the transports. "We could not have been used worse if we had been cattle," one returned man remarked to the Examiner. After four years and a half of war, surely the Canadian people have a right to expect that invalided men would be given some degree of comfort on their homeward journey.

The views of all municipal candidates on what Peterborough as a city should do for its returned soldiers would be of general interest at this time.

The Great War Veterans should see that all aspirants for office are given an opportunity to state their position in regard to returned men.

If, as General Mewburn has intimated, the post discharge pay for Canadian soldiers is to be extended from three months' pay to six months, the measure should in all justice be made retroactive. The men who were the first to respond when recruits were wanted should be placed on the same footing as their comrades who went later. The names are all available, and if there is an extension of this allowance all members of the C. E. F. should receive the same treatment.

Wonder if Hon. Geo. E. Foster is wearing one of those three year old suits he used to talk about over in dear old London just now?

Dr. C. H. Amys, M.O.H., Submits Report of the Year's Work in Public Health Department

There Were 355 Deaths and 449 Births in City During the Past Twelve Months.

THE SCHOOL NURSE

At Tuesday night's meeting of the Board of Health Dr. C. H. Amys, Medical Officer of Health, submitted the following report dealing with the year's work ending November 30, in his department. Dr. Amys reports that the school nurse has visited the homes of more than thirty children who have been inoculated with diphtheria anti-toxin.

The report contains the following:

There were 355 deaths and 449 births during the past twelve months.

We had 49 deaths from the following communicable diseases:

Influenza, with its complications	31
Scarlet Fever	1
Diphtheria	0
Measles	0
Mumps	0
Whooping Cough	0
Typhoid Fever	2
Tuberculosis	15

The following communicable diseases were reported:

Diphtheria	5
(2 negative)
Scarlet Fever	27
Mumps	9
Measles	38
Whooping Cough	6
Chicken Pox	3
Tuberculosis	1
Typhoid Fever	7

Influenza Epidemic.

We have just past through a very trying time. A "plague" that has swept over the whole world and the most fatal on record, has seen with us. It has been our good fortune to have escaped, so far, its terrors with very few deaths as compared with other centres.

The credit for the above I take not to myself, but I beg leave at this opportune time to give thanks, thanks not only for our escape, but also for the general public co-operation in and appreciation of my efforts.

I am enabled, through the efforts of the School Nurse, Miss Jory, who has visited the homes of more than thirty children who have received within the past twelve or thirteen months, diphtheria anti-toxin, to state that of all these only five (including one adult) have had the Influenza. In two families a girl in each case had scarlet fever and diphtheria anti-toxin and were with their brothers and sisters who had the Influenza—both escaped. In one family a boy who had scarlet fever and anti-toxin thirteen months ago, has now the Influenza but so far it is mildest case in a house of four.

I think this information important because it will enable the Provincial Authorities to further investigate the same.

I do not consider it necessary for me to speak of the sanitary conditions of our City; our Sanitary Inspector, Mr. Stapleton, will no doubt tell you of his excellent work in the past and you all know the results. A nice, clean city and all his branches working in harmony.

The Garbage Area.

Along these lines I would like to see the garbage area extended, a new arrangement made whereby the market square and the rears of the different offices and stores that back on same, could be kept in a more sanitary condition. It is covered at all times with straw, dust and dirt and all sorts of truck. The dirt and dust is blown in and out of every nook and corner of the square until eventually somebody carries it away in their food or on their person.

It is customary to end up these reports with a few recommendations for improvements that are in the interests of the public health; with these I will not occupy your time but just briefly mention those that appeared in my report of last year, trusting you or your successors will give them due attention and, now that the war is over, they will be acted upon.

Second-Hand Books.

1. No second-hand books for the children in our schools;

2. A passable approach at all times of the year to the Isolation Hospital;

3. A free isolation hospital, i.e. as I said last year, a hospital that is a boon and benefit to every citizen, sick or well, should be free, and with a free hospital would go better co-operation, fewer communicable diseases and all the benefits that the inhabitants of a municipality can derive from same.

In conclusion Dr. Amys thanked the members of the Board for their able support and congratulated them on the harmonious and business-like attitude of the members of the Board during the past year.

Annual Meeting Ladies' Auxiliary

Officers Elected for the Year—Financial Statement.

The first annual meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the G. W. V. was held on November 25. Reports were read by the secretary and treasurer. During the past year, by the efforts of the ladies, the Veterans' Club-Rooms have been comfortably furnished, due to the generosity of the citizens of Peterborough, who contributed both furnishings and money. The club-rooms were formally opened on May 6th, 1918, by the Duke and Duchess of Devonshire, and in the evening were thrown open to the public.

Hon. Pres.—Mrs. Morris.
Pres.—Mrs. Mills.
1st Vice-Pres.—Mrs. Staunton.
2nd Vice-Pres.—Mrs. W. Sharpe.
Treasurer—Mrs. Devey.
Secretary—Mrs. Massey-Cooke.

Mrs. W. R. Morris and Mrs. Cottrell were appointed to audit the books.

On Monday a general meeting was called to discuss a memorial for the fallen soldiers. The meeting was held in the club-rooms of the G.W.V., and a large number were present. Remarks were made by Captain Morrison, Mr. Whatley and Colonel Johnson; also by the President of the Ladies' Auxiliary, Mrs. Mills, and the Hon. President, Mrs. Morris. A resolution was passed that both a monument and club-house be erected in the near future.

Other matters of importance were also discussed, and a number of new members joined the Auxiliary.

Financial Statement.

Income, including bank interest, $12.31	$1946 71
Expenditure	1832 16
Balance in bank	$114 55

The above is the financial statement for the year. An itemized account has been presented monthly.

Total Expenditure.

Of the total expenditure of $1832.16, the following amounts have been spent other than in furnishing:

Printing	$45 93
Stationery	6 05
Insurance for one year	19 65
Flowers	9 20
Affiliation fee to the Local Council of Women	1 00
Total	$81 83

The cost of preparing and furnishing these club-rooms amounted to $1750.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Do Not Risk Disappointment When You Have Choice of Fine Smart COATS $25.50

Why wait? You've pictured in your mind exactly what kind of coat you want. You've seen many of them and have been able to show a preference. It will be a comparatively simple matter to make selection from our collection of coats at $25.50. These—fashioned of silvertone, velour, duvet de laine and broadcloth—usually find a finishing touch in the use of large novel collars or else without fur trimming but some other equally distinguishing feature. Many of the coats cannot possibly be duplicated to-day; many only one or two of a kind.

The Ideal Christmas Gift—One of Our Georgette Crepe Blouses at $5.00 each

There is no need for describing these blouses at $5.00 because practically every woman in town has worn or heard of them and wanted one. The georgette crepe used is of an exceptionally superior quality and new styles are seen here week in and week out. For an ideal gift, we advise one of these georgette crepe blouses which we shall be pleased to wrap up in crepe paper and place in a Christmas box.

Sugar Restrictions Hastened the End of the "Sugar Bowl" Stores

Mr. E. W. Middleton Had Displayed Business Vision in His Summer Enterprise, But Sugar Shortage and Other Difficulties Harassed Him.

SUIT AGAINST A. FAIRBAIRN

The story of Mr. Ernest W. Middleton's business venture last summer in the "Sugar Bowl" ice cream and candy stores on George and Hunter streets, was told in the County Court this morning in his action for $44 damages against Andrew Fairbairn, the owner of the property at 458 George street, and Charles Beatty, bailiff, for wrongful seizure.

The evidence showed that Mr. Middleton had planned his enterprise with great expecations, but his wife told the jury and Judge Huycke that the plans had been carried out rather extravagantly. She believed that had she been managing the business the expected success would have been realized. The profits that flowed into the George street Bowl were wiped out by the deficit in its companion store on Hunter street.

While conducting this business, the plaintiff was working for the Peterborough Creamery, paying off a debt to Mr. Gillespie. He worked by the hour, and spent a part of each day at the Creamery. Difficulties began to multiply as the summer wore on. The Hunter street "Bowl" was eating up the earnings of the George street store, and in August, the owner of the Hunter street property, Mr. James Bell, seized what Mr. Middleton might have called "The Sieve." The world shortage of sugar and the Government's restrictions increased his worries, and Mr. Middleton was unable to secure a sugar license. The family had moved into the room over the paying "Bowl," but the Medical Officer of Health declared the premises unfit for habitation, and placed a notice on the front door publicly announcing that condition. This action and a newspaper report of the Medical Officer's notice did not help business. Then Mr. Fairbairn, it was stated, seized the George street store on September 11th for $56 rent of which $30 represented arrears, and $25 the advance rental for September. Mr. Beatty had nailed up the store door with a "two by four" scantling, and certain goods were seized and eventually sold at public auction to recover the $56.

Mr. Jackson, a candy maker, testified that he had to close up his business early in September because he couldn't get a sugar license. He has not re-opened it yet. He estimated the value of Mr. Middleton's business at considerably more than $700.

Mr. J. G. Guise-Bagley is counsel for the plaintiff and Mr. A. E. Dixon, assisted by Mr. F. D. Kerr, is representing the defendants.

Matter Before the Government

Circumstances of Famous "Night Raid" at Guelph.

Canadian Press:

OTTAWA, Dec. 12.—A large deputation representing the Orange Lodge and the Guelph Ministerial Association, waited on Sir Thos. White, Acting Premier, and members of the government to-day and asked for a full investigation into the circumstances of the famous raid of the military police on the Guelph Jesuit Novitiate some months ago. Lieut.-Gen. Sir Sam Hughes, M.P., was one of the delegation. The press was excluded from the morning interview.

The Guelph Novitiate controversy commenced early last summer. It was represented to the militia authorities here that the institution was a harbourage for men desiring to escape the draft who were being trained for Jesuit orders. The military authorities sent word to the London district to have the matter cleaned up and through a misunderstanding of the order a "night raid" was instituted by the military authorities there. For the manner in which the search was made, General Mewburn afterwards apologized. An inquiry was instituted and it was announced by the military service authorities that none of the inmates of the institution were eligible under the Act. Among the inmates was the son of the Hon. C. J. Doherty, who was at that time Acting Prime Minister.

The finding of the military authorities did not, however, satisfy, and Rev. Kennedy Palmer continued to press for an impartial inquiry. To-day he brought the matter formally before the government.

To Lieut. P. J. Moloney,
Ennismore, Ont.:

Dear Pete: We, your friends, are assembled here this evening to give you a cordial welcome on your return home from the far-off fighting front. Not only do we wish to welcome you as becomes all, who truly love their country, but we are also desirous of telling you how we esteem the honour you have brought to your native Ennismore, by the gallant part you have played in the great struggle that has just been brought to so successful a close. For three years you were in distant France, fighting for principles that were true and just, and during that time, it is needless to tell you, your friends here were with you in spirit, confident that you were giving the best in you, in your country's cause. And now we rejoice that Providence has seen fit to preserve you mid the many dangers that you have encountered, and bring you safe back home.

"EYES OF THE ARMY."

Your patriotism in the hour of your country's danger was not of the stamp that contents itself with words, but it inspired you to lay aside the duties of the teaching profession, and to offer your all in the cause of right against injustice and oppression. You chose that department of the service for which you felt you would be the best suited, and although the aviator's life is one that is fraught with immeasurable danger you plunged into the training, and in a short time you made out of yourself a commissioned and efficient "birdsman." The aviator is properly called the "eyes of the army," soaring, as he does far up into dizzy heights, and then straight into the heart of the enemy's territory, either to attack or to glean information that will be invaluable to those depending on him. A stout heart, cool nerve, presence of mind, and intrepid courage, are absolutely essential for success in this hazardous branch of the service. One false move, a chance shot, over confidence, or carelessness during flight, and the aviator's life is over. That you were possessed of the stuff that a real soldier is made of, that you gave your country sterling service, is amply verified by her gratitude to you in the form of the Military Cross — a token that plainly tells of faithful and courageous work. In winning it you have done honour to your country, but in a particular manner have you brought honor to Ennismore, to your relatives and to those who are here this evening to welcome you back and tender you their sincere congratulations.

A LASTING PEACE.

You have known what it is to ascend against odds, to repel an attack, to be surrounded by enemy planes, manoeuvring to cover you with their guns, you have experienced the tug that the "birdsman" feels, when he sees plainly he is far outnumbered; and you know what it is to vanquish an adversary fairly, although you paid for your victory with wounds. It is work of this calibre especially that has made possible a quick and lasting peace.

And hence it is that we are assembled here to-night to let you know that we appreciate the faithful service that you have rendered your country; to show those little marks of esteem that are due one who has faced dangers time and again in a noble cause; and finally we wish you throughout life's battles a success similar to that which you achieved "over there" in France, where abandoned trenches and shell-torn fields tell of a struggle for right that we hope and pray may never occur again.

As a slight token of our esteem we ask you to accept this purse and we trust that you will long remember those who here to-night wish you from their hearts a happy and successful future.

Signed on behalf of the Parish and Township of Ennismore, Daniel Holland, (Reeve), Daniel Crough.

PETERBORO TO HAVE NEW OPTICAL PARLOUR

Mr. M. J. Roche, formerly of Toronto, Ont., and a full-fledged Optometrist and Optician, has decided to locate in Peterborough and install a complete Optical Plant. Mr. Roche has completed the most advanced course in Optometry it is possible to take in Canada. He has successfully passed the examinations of the Canadian Ophthalmic College, Toronto, under the tutelage of Mr. W. G. Maybee, an instructor of international reputation.

Although Optical plants such as Mr. Roche has installed are not usually found outside the larger cities, Mr. Roche believes local conditions to be such that Peterborough and vicinity will support an Optical plant, with his plant, new glasses or repairs may in most cases be made in a few hours.

It is only in recent years that the business of Optics has developed scientifically to any great extent, but it is now making such rapid strides that men who have been prescribing glasses for years find constant study necessary to keep pace with its advancement, and with the public demand for more scientific service in the correction of their eyes. The old-time method of trying lenses in a trial frame until the patient thinks he sees better, will no longer do. Scientific and exact examinations and tests are demanded and modern knowledge and equipment are necessary in the use of the new methods.

Mr. Roche has had a special test room built within his store and has equipped it with instruments of the latest and most approved designs. With this equipment and knowledge, in addition to his own lens grinding and mounting plant, he is in a position to give the citizens of Peterborough and vicinity an optical service unsurpassed in Canada, even in the larger cities.

PROF. PETER GILLESPIE COMING TO PETERBORO

"Present Day's Methods of Sewage Treatment."

Professor Peter Gillespie, of Toronto University will address the Engineers' Club at their meeting in the Public Library Hall next Tuesday evening. His subject will be "Present Day Methods of Sewage Treatment," and he will show a number of slides to illustrate his lecture. The public generally will be welcome, and as this question promises to be a live issue in Peterborough in the near future a good attendance of the citizens is expected.

Formerly Resided Here.

Professor Gillespie is an old Peterborough boy, at one time being Principal of the West Ward School, and at present is Professor of Applied Mechanics at Toronto University in the Faculty of Applied Science and Engineering. He has made an especial study of Sewage Treatment, and is Chairman of the Committee of the Engineering Institute of Canada, on that subject.

The Sanitary Inspector Reports Improvement in Garbage Collection

Fifty Per Cent. Less Garbage Complaints During the Year—Inspector Stapleton's Second Annual Report.

Sanitary Inspector Charles Stapleton presented the following report at last night's meeting of the Board of Health, which included a reference to the work of the garbage collectors this year. The number of complaints for 1918 were reduced by half over 1917.

The report in part reads as follows:

I am pleased to report a decided improvement re scavenger and garbage complaints—33 per cent. of scavenger complaints and 50 per cent. less garbage complaints this year than last. I find in my visits people generally are willing to comply with the by-laws of the city. Of course, there are a few who give me a great deal of trouble.

I find some citizens do not provide proper receptacles for garbage. Old boxes which a number of people use, without covers, are a great nuisance. Dogs and hens get in boxes and pull them over, so that garbage is strewed around on the ground, which the garbage men refuse to pick up.

List of Complaints.

Scavenger complaints—437.

Peterboro Boy Sends Home an Historic Poster

Fifty-one Months of Bondage for City.

Dr. W. D. Scott, of this city, has received from his son, Captain Ray Scott of the Canadian Army Medical Corps, a copy of the declaration issued by the College of Burgomasters, announcing the recovery of Mons by the Allies. Capt. Scott was fortunate enough to be in Mons on the afternoon that a reception was tendered to General Currie, of the Canadian forces.

The Poster.

Following is a translation of the poster that was sent home by Capt. Scott:

To the People of Mons:

After fifty-one months of suffering, caused by the iniquitous, pitiless and insolent occupation of the German army, the town of Mons has been finally delivered by the heroism of the British army, which at the hour of the armistice terminates the series of its victories in the same spot where, on the 23rd of August, 1914, it first came into contact with the enemy.

The 3rd Canadian Division, at the cost of heavy sacrifices, entered the town at 3 o'clock this morning, thus avenging by a brilliant success the retreat of 1914. Glory and gratitude to them.

The armistice is signed, the German army has capitulated, brutal force is wiped out, justice and right triumph. Belgium emerges greater and strengthened by the terrible shock she has experienced.

Th people have borne with confidence and courage the suffering of occupation. We are convinced that in the joy of triumph they will observe the dignity and restraint they have always shown.

We count on the good will of all to observe order. We also urge the people, as soon as possible to return to work. The havoc inflicted by the war is great and the co-operation of all the good will and energy of the people is necessary to rapidly repair the injuries which it has caused.

In this solemn hour, our infinite gratitude goes to the allied armies and amongst them from the bottom our hearts to the valiant Belgian army and to the King, its heroic leader.

Long live the King, long live Belgium.

In three years France paid off the crushing war indemnity demanded by Germany after the Franco-Prussian War of 1870. This was accomplished by the indomitable spirit of thrift and industry inherent in the French people. Canada's great natural resources will enable us to pay our war debt with less strain and sacrifice, but the voluntary spirit of housewifely thrift is essential.

Mr. E. A. Peck's Report Dealing With Children's Aid Society

Details of the work done during the past year are dealt with in the following report of Mr. E. A. Peck, president of the Children's Aid Society, and submitted at the annual meeting on Tuesday. The report follows:

It is gratifying to note the interest the citizens have manifested in the society's efforts justified by the substantial amount of funds provided for the work.

It must be borne in mind that it will probably be necessary to increase our annual expenditure.

In my view the present allowance to the Agent is too small and should be increased, and some provision should be made to relieve the Matron of the Shelter from some of the responsible duties now imposed upon her.

I desire again to commend the labours of the Agent and Matron, both of whom have so earnestly devoted themselves to the task of helping our neglected children. I should be wanting in my duty if I failed to acknowledge the valuable services rendered by Mr. Wearing, who, as Honorary Secretary and Solicitor, has been called upon to give a great deal of time and thought to the work of this society without remuneration.

The responsible work of attending weekly at the Shelter and doing the necessary sewing, etc., for the children has fallen upon a few ladies, who have given to the work a most devoted service. The assistance of other ladies in this work would be much appreciated.

I should be glad to see some revision of our by-laws which would enable us to have as honorary members of our board former presidents and secretaries of our local society. Their experience would be helpful in many instances.

While the society has authority to deal with all cases of children who are "neglected," within the meaning of the Children's Protection Act, but has no power to deal with the many causes which may lead up to the neglect of a child.

These causes must be dealt with before the labours of the society can be lessened.

Inadequate housing accommodation, want of proper sanitary provisions, neglect of education, failure in proper supervision of the amusements of the children are some of these causes, which are well within the powers of the State to remedy.

I am glad to notice in this connection the progress of the Social Service Movement in this city, and urge upon our citizens the support of the branch society recently established here.

E. A. Peck, President.

Dated the 10th of December, 1918.

People of the World as Classified by Mr. J. H. Burnham

The people of the world fall into three divisions:

1. The capable and well-intentioned.
2. The weak.
3. The wicked.

Class I has to act as trustees for 2, and as policeman for 3. Let us consider one division at a time.

No. 1 division is composed of people whose motto is "Live and let live." They say to themselves, we desire homes, wives and children. We desire communities. We desire nations. Hence such nations as the British and the American; such communities as Lancashire and Yorkshire; New York State and Ohio; such cities as London, New York and Philadelphia; such men as your ideal Britisher and American, healthy in body and mind, and desirous of his own and of everybody else's welfare. (Any variation from the foregoing goes into division 3 or division 2.)

When people in division 1 are doing well they are not concerned about themselves, but sometimes they are not doing as well as they might and it is that fact itself and the cause of it which will occupy my attention for a few paragraphs.

Division 1 has two sub-divisions—the employer and the employed. The employer has capital and the employed has not. The employer can therefore undertake on a vast scale or can rest for a long time. When he loses all he ceases to be an employer with capital and falls into the sub-division of the employed. The case of the employer is really one of arithmetic. The case of the employed is that of life and health and happiness itself. The more nearly the case of the employed becomes like to that of the employer, the less strain upon the employed, and when it becomes identified exactly with that of the employer it becomes not a matter of bread and butter, and the very necessaries of life, but of the extension of production and exchange or trade. The employed, therefore seek for that condition in which they will have capital, and in which their life becomes not one of worry over the means of existence but of anxiety and care concerning production and trade. When it becomes merely a matter of production and trade it may be left to itself but when it falls below that line and becomes a matter of worry over the means of existence and of life itself, unrest follows, and there arises a natural or legitimate state of worry and unrest. In the last analysis, therefore it is a matter (in Division No. 1) of solving the difficulty of providing the necessaries of life and health, and when these are provided always and never lacking, the problem may be said to be solved, since time, intelligence and the power of the people will have to do the rest, and will have plenty of leisure to do it in. But time and life will not wait for a man without capital, and without employment. If he has constant employment it is the same to him as if he had capital. With a fair and never-failing wage, that is, with one that should provide him and his family with the minimum of comfort and education, he will have nothing to complain of. A wage is another name for failure or slavery if it will not enable the wage earner to do what we all agree he should be able to do. Now, when governments provide laws and regulations, and of late have provided national insurance, and workmen's compensation, and state care of the weak and restraint of the wicked. Why, you ask, does it not provide steady employployment for division 1? The employer cannot do it, or guarantee it. Can the state? Yes; when a state is self-contained and not dependent on other states in any way. It is this fact which has produced "Iternationalism," or the desire to prevent the check put upon one state by another. It is an attempt to create world-wide co-operation. Is this necessary, for it is a very large order? It is not. One simple example will show. Take Canada. If there was no other country in the world, Canada and the Canadians could raise everything they need. There are only a few things of all that we import which we cannot produce, and they are not by any means necessaries. Therefore, if all Canadians in Division No. 1 had a system of fair exchange of the products of work based upon an ascertained or agreed-upon minimum and steady employment, there would be no ups and downs, no un-settlement, no unrest. We could tell to a fraction just how everything was going to come out, just exactly as in any other well-ordered business. But if Canada has foreign entanglements upon which Canadians are more or less dependent, such a solution of the difficulty can never be attained. Canada contains all that a population of two hundred millions need for a happy life. Then what is the matter with us with our eight millions? The answer is "Bad business methods" in the carrying on of the people's business. Get the people's business into some sort of shape and this Division No. 1 will be strong and content and will be able to carry out its trust in taking care of Nos. 2 and 3. There can never be justice and contentment while we are steeped in confusion. Make the affairs of human life as a whole balance and then the industrial or economic difficulty will be dissolved, and not till then. But it must be remembered that a fair exchange means no profit. When I outlined this fact at length in Parliament I was howled at by profiteers on both sides who had not one good word to say of me from that time on, but they could not refute my statement, or rebut my argument. Profit must first of all disappear, and then it is easy to arrange the rest.

When profit (something for which the full equivalent is not given) is taken from A by B it must on some other occasion be taken by B from A, or else B will go down and out, or nearly so, and A will go up. Hence profit it not really what it appears to be. It is not a real advantage in the long run. But it does just as much harm as if it were. Profit-sharing may be to the advantage of the employees of one concern, but those profits to be real must be lost by the employees of another concern. If a man sells a plow costing ten units (of labor, etc.) for a pig costing twelve units, he has made a profit of two units. Let that sort of thing happen in a multitude of transactions, and what have we? It is in the taking of profit that the weak will be robbed by the strong, and that is just what happens. Profit is at the bottom of all the trouble. It is the custom, but a most harmful one, especially when it develops into greed or monopoly.

J. H. Burnham.

A League Game at the George Street Bowling Alleys

Great War Veterans Will Play the Hellenics.

The Hellenics annexed two of the three games from the G.W.V.A. at the George Street Alleys last night in a league game amid great enthusiasm.

The Hellenics having the best of the play throughout the game, as the G.W.V.A. were slightly handicapped by the absence of two of their best players, but will give the Hellenics a better argument next game. L. Yeotes for the Hellenics came high with a score of 561. H. Yates for the G.W.V.A. with a score of 520. The following are the scores of the players:

Hellenics—
L. Yeotes ... 561

Lindsay May Enter a Team in Intermediate Series

Some Good Players in Prospect—Port Hope May Also Enter Intermediate Ranks.

Lindsay is considering a proposal to enter a team in the intermediate series, O.H.A., this year. It is some time since Lindsay had a team in the Intermediate series but players are said to be plentiful. There is some talk of "Moose" Carew, Lindsay's crack hockey player, returning from overseas as well as O'Laughlin, the crack goaler of the old Midgets. Lipsett, Mercer, Wettlaufer, Richman, and others, might get into the line, and round into shape a speedy Lindsay six.

Port Hope may be persuaded to enter the Intermediate O.H.A. series, and in that case there would be a small district group.

Grocers Challenged By Peter Gettas

Pete Gettas challenged the Grocers' strong five to a bowling match this evening, after the league game, the losers to put up a chicken supper. There promises to be great excitement as each team is confident of winning. The game will be played on the Water street alleys.

BOWLING PRIZE.

A beautiful electric reading lamp, now on view in Warne Bros.' window will be given in the Blind score at the Water street alleys and which will be finished on Saturday, December 14th. This prize is well worth trying for and great excitement prevails as the game progresses.

Big Night For the C.G.E. Men

Nearly Every Department of Plant Will be Represented.

There will be a busy time at the Y. M. C. A. to-night when the men from the Canadian General Electric Company will practically take over the building for the night. Tournaments in baseball, bowling, Tug-of-war and billiards will be run off as well as exhibition games of basketball and volley ball, a musical programme is also being arranged.

Practically every department of the big plant will be represented in at least one form of activity, and the bowlers and ball players in the various departments are sure that their crowd is going to beat all the other fellows. A committee of C.G.E. men have had the planning of events in hand and have done good work, and they are relying on the men who have agreed to play on the teams to turn out and to be on hand at the proper place in the building at scheduled time The following schedule will help every team member to know when his particular event is to be held. It will be necessary to run games on time:

Billiards.
8 p.m.—Progressive Tournament.
All teams—Brass 2 teams; Account 2 teams; Drafting 2 teams; Test, Tool Room; Armature and Punch Press; Transformer; Engineers.

Bowling.
8:00 p.m.—Accounting Department vs. Drafting Department.
8:45 p.m.—Engineering Department vs. Transformer Department.
Other teams may enter.

Baseball.
8:00 p.m.—Engineering Department vs. Transformer Department.
8:45 p.m.—Drafting Department vs. Test Department.
Other teams may enter.

Tug-of-War.
9:30 p.m.—All the following teams:
Preliminary Round—Machine Shop vs. Punch Press.
Tool Room vs. Brass Department.
Transformer vs. Test.
Engineering vs. Drafting.
10 p.m.—Volley Ball Exhibition game.
10 p.m.—Musical programme in lobby.
10:20 p.m.—Basketball, C.G.E. Business Men vs. Y.M.C.A.
2 teams; Drafting 2 teams.

Importance of Dairy Industry

structor's report. The dairy industry is an important branch of agriculture, as in Ontario alone last year there was $26,000,000 worth of cheese manufactured and $11,000,000 worth of butter. A step forward in this line has been the formation of a National Dairy Council. At meetings like the present one, only the nomination of the director can take place, as, according to the by-laws and constitution of the Dairymen's association, only members have the power to elect directors.

It was moved by Mr. Gavin Graham and seconded by Mr. Robert Duff, that Mr. G. A. Gillespie be the nominee for director. There were no other nominations.

Mr. Gillespie returned to the chair and thanked the gentlemen for their confidence, and assured them of his intention to keep up the interest. Now that the war is over, it would be better if communities' interests were renewed in the dairy industry.

Mr. Gillespie feels a pride in Peterborough district, as the factories and their surroundings compare favourably with any others.

Banner Board.

The Peterborough Cheese Board is the banner board of Ontario. Latterly there have been fewer cheese boarded, which means few buyers and less competition. The Peterborough market is good, and he would strongly advise the boarding of the cheese. In this district there is no factory inspection, which is unfortunate, as inspection is good for the factory and makes for better standards. Mr. Gillespie said that next year the price will be regulated by competition instead of a fixed figure.

Mr. Gillespie urged the early delivery of milk, and gave an instance that occurred last summer. Mr. Abbott, of the Missing Link Factory, was unable to carry on owing to the illness of his wife, and the impossibility of procuring help, so, at the request of the patrons, Mr. Gillespie took it over on condition that they would deliver the milk to him sweet. They cooled it as soon as milked and delivered it to him by 12 o'clock noon. He cooled it again, and it was shipped to Toronto by the 3.26 p.m. train and delivered next morning in perfect condition. This was done all through last August.

Moving Pictures.

Next followed a moving picture demonstration of dairy work in three branches—

1—The making of cheese from the minute the cans land at the factory till the cheese is boxed for shipment. The pictures were taken at the Selwyn Factory.

2—The creamery butter industry in all its branches. The factory shown was the model one at New Liskeard, erected by the Government.

3—The judging of a Holstein cow by points.

Mr. Publow's Address.

After the pictures, which explained themselves, Mr. G. G. Publow, dairy instructor for Eastern Ontario, gave an interesting address. The pictures, showing every-day conditions in factories, were intended to form part of an educational system. Cheese, which has received less advertising than any other staple manufactured article, has a food value which is of the greatest importance. A pound of cheese is equal to 1½ pounds meat and 1½ dozen eggs. It is a concentrated food, and the consuming of more cheese and less meat means cheaper and better living. The American cheese, which is no better if as good as ours, sells from 10c to 12c higher in the States that Canadian cheese does here. Why? Because the American's know the food value of cheese better than we do, and there is more demand for it in the home market. The Canadian public is not yet educated in the use of cheese, and often the inferior cheese appears on the home market. Cheese should be as attractively displayed as possible. The indifference of the farmers is another point that has to be overcome. In order to get the best results one must love the work. Are we satisfied to go on for ever manufacturing cheese and butter at a price fixed by a few people, regardless of their food value, what other manufacturing business is carried on so loosely? To improve prices, up-to-date methods are needed. Farmers should devote themselves to improving their herd. Farmers should strive to retain a larger output. Satisfied dairymen are those who have herds yielding 6, 8, and 10 thousand pounds of milk per cow. Specializing along these lines show that 50 per cent. of cows are capable of having a better record.

Should Be Well Fed.

Cows should be fed well. This should be studied during the summer, when the grass is poor. Having cows travelling all day over the field to get food is not a good milker. Give the cows a fair chance.

While the war has made better prices, the farmer still is the poorest paid manufacturer, principally for the reason that they find it impossible to estimate the actual cost of production.

Dairy Census.

A dairy census was proposed by the department, and owing to the great expense involved, only a partial census was taken. Three factories in each township were taken, one of the best one average, and one poor. A visit was made to each farmer in that district. The report was not published, as the conditions surrounding production and manufactures of dairy products were not such as to encourage the consumer.

Improving Herds.

Intelligence in improving the herds counted a great deal The raw material must be in the best condition. The farmers fear lower prices since peace, but dairying is one of the safest forms of agriculture, as there is great demand all over the world for dairy products. They have a variety to choose from, the city trade, the condensory, creamery and cheese factory.

The scarcity of milk supply in cities means that each year they reach further into the country. While the press condemns the high price of milk, it is still the cheapest food on the market. Dairy farmers for city markets have had the courage to demand price for their milk. The average consumer is willing to pay a fair price if proof can be given of the cost of production. One must, to obtain fair prices, give a guarantee to the consumer of the sanitary conditions surrounding the manufacturing of dairy products. The farmers are too slack, and the country is dotted over with unsuitable factories.

Poorly Constructed.

The factories are not as a rule constructed so as to allow the cheese to be kept to properly ripen before it is put on the market. In England and Scotland they see that it reaches the market in proper condition, and a movement is on foot to promote better things in this line in Canada, for it is an industry that is well worth while, but proper equipment is necessary. Pasteurization is a necessity for milk for the city trade, though it adds materially to the cost.

The by-products of the cheese factory includes whey which is good for pigs, and when sweet, also for calves. The milk for the city market gives no by-product, therefore, the price is higher.

There should be an official grader at the factory.

Tuberculosis among cattle must be guarded against as it has far-reaching and disastrous results.

Nearly all the butter made in Eastern Ontario is consumed on the home market.

Good Men Needed.

There was a deplorable lack of good men who are taking up the making of cheese. This year if the institutions had refused certificates to the poorly qualified cheese makers 25 per cent of the factories would not have operated. Why are the best cheese makers quitting? It seems a desirable and attractive occupation, but the conditions surrounding the factories are seldom those that would induce a man to settle his family there. The farmers have brought these conditions on themselves. There should be inspection and grading at the factories instead of by the buyers.

Canadian farmers will be in a better position to command wider market if they insist on these conditions.

CANADA SELLS FLOUR TO ALLIES

WINNIPEG, Dec. 10—An understanding has been reached between the board of grain supervisors for Canada and thegovernment in connection with the work of the board for the balance of the present crop year, that is to say, until Aug. 31 next.

The fixed prices on wheat will be maintained and also the arrangements in regard to the carrying charges.

The divisions of the wheat between Canada and the allies will also be maintained. The Dominion needs 80,000,000 bushels of wheat for home consumption. Further, the allied governments have offered to buy 600,000 tons (20,000,000 bushels) of flour in Canada, and this offer has been accepted by order-in-council not as a maximum, but as a minimum

HARRY RODDY.

The death occurred recently at Stratford, Ont., of Harry Roddy, who was stricken with influenza. The late Mr. Roddy lived in Peterboro fifteen years ago, and was employed as an electrician at the Canadian General. He was a clever baseball pitcher and it was largely through his work on the rubber that the Charlotte street Church baseball team won the championship of the Guild League in 1904-5-6.

GLADYS A. DAVIDSON.

The death took place in Campbellford on Tuesday, December 10th, of Gladys A. Davidson, beloved wife of Mr. Robert W. Pearse, of the Examiner newsroom, Peterborough. Mrs. Pearse was taken ill with influenza about ten days ago. Besides her sorrowing husband she leaves one little child about four months old.

The funeral took place this afternoon from the residence of her father, Mr. Charles H. Davidson, Campbellford, to the Mount Pleasant cemetery.

ROBERT NUGENT.

A citizen held in the highest respect by the entire community, a member esteemed and admired by a number of fraternal societies and a husband and father cherished and revered, passed away on Sunday afternoon at his home in Lindsay, in the person of the late Robert Nugent.

The late Robert Nugent was born 64 years ago near the Village of Omemee and when quite a young man removed to Lindsay. For a year or so he was engaged in business at Little Britain, entering into partnership with Mr. John W. Anderson under the firm name of Anderson & Nugent, furniture dealers and undertakers ,at Lindsay, in the year 1885, Sept. 4th.

He is survived by his beloved wife, who has been ill for over a year past, by four daughters and one son, namely: Mrs. N. McGill, of Janetville; Mrs. L. Wicket, Miss Alla and Miss Vivian of Lindsay, and Gunner Cecil Nugent. Messers. John Nugent of Peterborough, and Theodore Nugent, of Winnipeg, are brothers. Mrs. Smith, of India, and Mrs. McNevin, of Reaboro, are sisters of the deceased.

Mobs Run Riot in Montreal and the Damage May Run Up to Half a Million

Anarchy Prevailed From the Time Darkness Fell—One Result of the Police Strike.

STORES ROBBED

Special to The Examiner:

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 13.—Damage estimated at from a quarter to half a million was done by rioters while Montreal was in the hands of the mob last night. Twenty-one arrests were made despite the absence of the police, eight of them being undertaken by courageous private citizens. Absolute anarchy prevailed from the time darkness fell. Fires broke out and were allowed to burn, the mob in many cases absolutely prohibiting the amateur firemen from responding to alarms, over ninety of which, mostly false, were turned in. Outlying and badly lighted districts naturally suffered the most. In the east end the haunt of the underworld, thieves were busy looting, and one store alone was robbed of $35,000 worth of goods.

Firemen Attacked.

In St. Henri, the amateur fire brigade turning out to a fire, was attacked by sympathizers of the strikers and badly beaten, being forced to seek shelter in the station. The fire captain, one of the professional firemen, was so seriously injured that he had to be removed to the Western hospital.

Chaboilley Square fire station, which is in a badly lighted district near the Grand Trunk railway station, was attacked about nine o'clock by a mob of young hooligans, who battered the doors open, broke the glass, pitched stones and ice at the sub-chief's automobile, and finally growing bolder, swarmed in and gave reign to the lust for destruction. Seizing the firemen's axes they smashed into the expensive apparatus right and left, cut open the tires and damaged everything breakable. Then, forcing their way upstairs, they smashed the windows and threw into the street the furniture, firemen's beds and bedding and such non-descript articles as they could manage to throw out the windows.

Were Powerless.

A crowd of five or six hundred peacably disposed citizens who looked on were powerless to interfere and many seemed afraid even to express their indignation, each man fearing his neighbour might be a striker. Nevertheless when the horses in the darkened station squealed, a spontaneous cry of "Leave the horses alone or we'll smash you" came from the crowd and had the desired effect.

In Chenneville street station, which was fire headquarters, the amateur firemen were badly beaten up by pickets of firemen and were thrown out on the street, leaving no one in the station but the Director of Public Safety Lembay and one or two men on the top floor. No glass was broken and little damage done in this station so far as could be seen from outside, but bloodstains in the snow this morning mark the struggle.

Fires Raged.

Several fires raged throughout the night, but were not of very great consequence. The City Box Lunch Co., which was uninaured, is a complete wreck. At this fire the lawless element who attempted to prevent well disposed citizens fighting the flames, were driven off, and one of the three striking firemen who watched it could stand the inaction no longer and throwing off his coat plunged in to save what he could, remarking that he would be less than a man if he did not help. His comrades did not follow his example. The city ice warehouses in the north-east were burning for hours despite the efforts of employees, who annexed the apparatus from a deserted station after midnight. The forty-nine fire stations of the city were without a man to protect them, and Chief Tremblay telephoned to General Wilson, who had steadfastly refused to send soldiers to guard the streets unless requested by the Mayor. Informing the General of the situation, the latter consented in the small hours of the morning to send one hundred military police to guard the central fire stations and be ready to proceed in automobiles wherever there might be trouble. That, however, was locking the stable door after the horses had been stolen. Pieces of fire apparatus are littered around the streets this morning where they were deserted by amateur crews chased by hostile mobs.

Reports of fires and robberies keep pouring in this morning and many were the work of bands of pickpickets and thugs.

Residents of Notre Dame De Grace West and suburbs prepared to give the rioters a warm reception, citizens patrolling the streets all night armed with revolvers and rifles. Fifteen volunteers replaced the firemen. The Trades and Labour Council offered mediation at a meeting called last night and this morning John T. Foster, president, left for the city to confer with the administration.

CITY STILL WITHOUT POLICE PROTECTION

THE AMERICANS ARE ENCAMPED ALONG THE HISTORIC RHINE

(By Webb Miller—United Press Staff Correspondent.)

WITH THE AMERICANS ON THE RHINE, Dec. 13.—The Americans are encamped along the historic Rhine, on a front of nearly six miles. Their patrols are guarding the left bank. The second division won the race of, the main forces to reach the river. The thirty-second, first and third divisions finished in the order named. American troops are guarding Stolzenfels Castle, which was a summer home of the former Kaiser.

They are also occupying a score of picturesque towns in the valley. The advance guards marched into the village with their bands playing "Over There." Hundreds of doughboys went on a pilgrimage to the river bank immediately they had broken ranks. Some cheered at their first sight of the river. The four divisions are expected to cross to-day when they will formally occupy Coblenz, Ehrenbreitstein and Asterstein.

Looking for The Allies

German Government Will Ask the Allied Armies to Occupy Berlin.

Special to The Examiner:

AMSTERDAM, Dec. 13.—The German government will ask the Allied armies to occupy Berlin, in case the Bolshevik movement continues to grow, Philip Scheidemann declared in a speech at the capital, according to Berlin despatches received to-day.

Scheidemann predicted that Allied troops would soon arrive in Berlin, upon which his audience cheered.

Crown Attorney Hatton Awarded Judgment Against the County

County Council Must Supply Mr. Hatton With a Proper Office.

AWARDED $530.66

Special to The Examiner:

TORONTO, Dec. 13.—Crown Attorney Hatton, of Peterborough, to-day before a trial judge, was awarded $530.66 against the County of Peterborough for lack in supplying conveniences which, by his office, the Judge holds he was entitled to. The court also granted an order that the County Council supply Mr. Hatton with a proper office. The order does not direct that fuel and light be provided, but if these are not provided the Crown Attorney has legal redress.

President Wilson Stepped Ashore This Afternoon

Party Was Officially Greeted by the Mayor of Brest—Guard of Honour.

BIG DEMONSTRATION

By Fred S. Ferguson.
(United Press.)

BREST, Dec. 13.—President Wilson stepped ashore on French soil at 3.22 o'clock this afternoon.

Mrs. Wilson proceeded the President, carrying a small flag.

BREST, France, Dec. 31.—The President's ship moved into the harbour through lines formed by battleships of France—and American and British navies. She dropped anchor about a mile off shore in a tumultuous demonstration. Special trains bearing guards of honour of French and American soldiers, with prominent French and American diplomats and soldiers arrived at Brest early in the morning to welcome the President. President Wilson was officially greeted on the landing by M. Goude, Mayor of Brest.

BRITAIN'S GLORIOUS PART IN THE WORLD CONFLICT

Hon. Dr. Cody Thrills Canadian Club With Eloquent Address on Part Taken by England—"The Canadian Corps is Superb," He Tells His Hearers—Minister of Education Visits Schools in Afternoon.

"I never was prouder of being a Canadian than I am to-day," was one of the striking remarks in the splendid address of Hon. Dr. Cody, Minister of Education in the Ontario Government, to the Canadian Club of Peterborough at a very largely attended dinner in the Empress Hotel last night. The eloquent speaker may rest assured that as a result of his glowing tribute to the work at the front of the Canadian Army Corps, every man of the one hundred and twenty representative citizens who heard the address, went away with a glow in his heart and a renewed pride in the fact that he was a Canadian.

It was the first meeting of the Canadian Club for the season and marked the revival of that splendid organization after a number of years' suspended activity on account of the war. In securing Hon. Dr. Cody as its first speaker, the Club was most fortunate, and the opening address of the series has set a standard for the season that should insure a most profitable programme.

Hon. Dr. Cody is a facile, eloquent speaker. Blessed with a splendid voice and a wonderful power of description, his "bird's eye view" as he termed of the part played by Canada and the British Empire as a whole in the war, was full of interest and thrill. A newspaper report of his remarks, however comprehensive, would fail to do justice to his treatment of his fascinating subject.

Mr. Duncan Walker, president of the Canadian Club, made an ideal chairman. At the head table, in addition to the guest of the evening, were Mr. G. A. Gillespie, M.P.P. for West Peterborough, Mr. Jas. Thompson, M.P.P. for East Peterborough, and Dr. G. S. Cameron, past president of the Canadian Club.

On being introduced by Mr. Walker, Hon. Dr. Cody remarked that his pleasure at being given an opportunity to address the Canadian Club of Peterborough was increased by the fact that the chairman of the evening was an old school mate of his.

Before giving his impression of what he had seen in his trip overseas, Dr. Cody urged upon his hearers the importance of education in connection with the problems of reconstruction. At first when people talked of reconstruction they used to plan to restore things to their old footing as they

RAILWAY BUILDING

Between 40,000 and 50,000 Men Will be Employed on Government Roads.

LINES INSPECTED

Special to the Examiner:

OTTAWA, Dec. 13.—Following the tour of inspection of the directors of the Government of Railways over the eastern lines, the programme of betterments, etc., mapped out for the coming season, will be placed in the hands of the Government for approval next week. The programme by which it is expected to give employment to from 40,000 to 50,000 men, and by which it is proposed the Government system will be brought up to a proper standard of efficiency and service, includes increased equipment, betterments, branch lines and terminals.

The proposals will be classed under three heads:

1—Those necessary to be carried out.

2—Those considered desirable, if financial conditions permit.

3—Those not of immediate necessity, but which may be gone ahead with if the Government considers it necessary to provide labour.

German Censorship is Mere Name Now; No Curb on Press

Correspondents Handed Censor's Stamp to Use in His Absence

Berlin, Dec. 13.—(By The Associated Press)—The German censorship of telegrams exists now only as a formality. The messages of the Associated Press correspondent are being passed for tranmission without having been read by the censor and on one occasion the censor's stamp was even handed to the correspondent for him to use if the censor happened to be absent when the correspondent finished the message upon which he was working.

Copies of the Associated Press messages as received in Copenhagen in transit and later available for comparison, show no alteration even in messages the tenor of which was not pleasing to the Government.

There is no press censorship whatever, unless the spordic assaults upon newspapers in Hamburg, Cologne and a few other places can be considered such.

The Berlin conservative press writes in the same vitriolic style as during the war. The censorship of outgoing letters is confined to seeing that they did not contain bank not that they did not contain bank notes or securities the exportation of which is forbidden.

Cost $32 Per Drafted Man

Canada Paid $4,000,000 in Connection With the Compulsory Service Measure—Includes Exempted Men.

OTTAWA, Dec. 13.—Compulsory military service cost Canada in the neighbourhood of $4,000,000. This is an estimate at about $32 per man drafted into the army, or about $20 per man of reinforcements actually made available under the Military Service Act. The latter figure is computed on the basis of registration. It comprises, in addition to men actually drafted, men who had been granted exemption for a period of time and would have been eventually available for service.

It is not expected, however, that full and detailed returns as to the operation of the Military Service Act will be available before the middle of January. District registrars are now compiling their returns, and not before these have been received will it be possible to state exactly how far the various calls under the Act were complied with in the different military districts and provinces. It is estimated, however, that the returns will show a total of something like 25,000 men guilty of offences under the Act, including offences both serious and minor. Intimation has already been made of the intention of the Government to prosecute defaulters. It is possible that there may be legislation proposed next session to provide for their disfranchisement for a period of years.

Only such staff as is necessary to wind up the business of administration is now being retained by the Military Service branch. It is proposed not to disband this until after the close of session, in view of the likelihood of questions in the House.

PREPARED FOR CONFLICT

Enemy Propaganda Was Started in July, 1914—Party Landed in States.

THE PAYMASTER

Canadian Press:

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—The German government, on July 10, 1914, informed about 130 German civilian employees at a conference in Berlin that the world war would be started soon, Capt. G. B. Lester, of the Army Intelligence Service, testified to-day before the Senate committee investigating the German and brewers' propaganda. These employees then were despatched to all parts of the world, thirty-one coming to the United States to stimulate pan-German propaganda, Capt. Lester declared. He said his information came from an unnamed informant who was interned in this country. German propagandists landed in the United States in 1914 on the same boat with Dr. H. P. Albert, known as paymaster of the enemy propaganda system in this country and formed the nucleus for German propaganda.

PRESIDENT WILSON AND HIS PARTY ARRIVE IN FRANCE

A Convoy of American War Ships Accompanying the "George Washington."

By Fred Ferguson
(United Press.)

BREST France, Dec. 13. — (12.40 p.m.)—The George Washington, with President Wilson and his official party aboard, arrived off Brest shortly after noon to-day.

The convoy of American war ships was entering the harbour as this was cabled.

At 1.10, the George Washington entered the harbour and steamed slowly toward her anchorage.

Six Million Women Will Vote in Britain To-morrow

One of the Most Momentous Elections in Britain's History Will be Decided To-morrow.

EMPIRE'S FUTURE

By Lowell Mellett.
(United Press.)

LONDON, Dec. 13.—Approximately six million women will vote to-morrow at the general elections throughout the United Kingdom. Never before were women eligible to vote for members of parliament, although they have participated in elections on local questions for many years. To-morrow they will help elect 707 members of the new House of Commons. This house will be responsible for the personnel and conduct of Great Britain's peace table plenipotentiaries, will frame the Empire's reconstruction programme and will control England's foreign policy for the next five years. The newly enfranchised women comprise nearly one-third of the total electorate of 20,000,000 of the United Kingdom. To this extent they are expected to influence the Kingdom's domestic future and the Empire's relation to world events. Thus, for the first time in history, the women of one of the great powers are given opportunity of participating in world affairs directly. All women of thirty and over in England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales will share this privilege. This and other circumstances together with internal political situation, cause many observers to regard the election as the most momentous in Britain's history.

11TH HOUR MEETING.

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 13.—Eleventh hour meetings are being held all over the Kingdom to-day in anticipation of balloting to-morrow in the general elections. Owing to the delay in waiting for the soldiers' vote, which must be counted in each constituency with the home vote, it is not expected that the results will be known till the end of the month. There seems to be no doubt about the Lloyd George government returning with a heavy majority.

An Interesting Case in Apsley

School Said to Have Been Opened Contrary to Orders of Board of Health.

The School Trustees of School Section No. 6 in Chandos Township are coming before County Police Magistrate A. O. GRAND JURY FOUND PUBLIC INSTITUTIONS WELL CONDUCTED

The Grand Jury's Presentment to Judge Huycke yesterday was as follows:

To His Honor Judge Huycke, County Judge, Peterboro,

May it please your honor, we the Grand Jury empanelled the 10th day of December, 1918, wish to report as follows:

In pursuance with your instructions we visited the various Public Institutions in the City and County, first visiting the County Jail, in which are confined among others one very old men whom we conversed with and found contented, happy and quite satisfied with the care and attention given them. On inquiry from the City Police Officers we ascertained two of these men requested His Worship Magistrate, Semble to send them back to the County Jail at the termination of their detention period as they were happy and more comfortable there than if they were in any of the other Institutions which furnished a home for the old and feeble. Such being the case we would not recommend their removal at the present time.

We next visited the House of Providence, but ascertained from the Superintendent there were 26 or 27 cases of colds, and the Jury did not deem it wise to go further for fear of carrying away any infection.

St. Joseph's Hospital is also nursing a large number of cases with colds, in conjuncitons with the Nicholls Hospital, with the result we did not deem it wise to examine these institutions.

We next visited St. Vincent's Orphanage, and found everything in good order; fire drill maintained at regular intervals, and proper exits and fire escapes. The Sisters in charge of this work are to be commended for their excellent management and attention to every detail.

The Protestant Home came in for a great deal of favorable comment from the Jurors, on account of the splendid location, the substantial and well built exterior and interior, proper ventilation, proper fire escapes, and general substantial equipment contained therein. Miss Lancaster, Superintendent, we feel sure is a most faithful, efficient officer as evidenced, by the neatness and order found everywhere. The City is to be congratulated on having such a splendid up-to-date building, so efficiently maintained, and so fortunate in having secured Miss Lancaster to preside over the work. The Government grant to the Protestant Home is 7c per head per day, and it seems to the Jurors in view of the increased cost of all commodities this grant might be increased considerably. At the present time there are 30 occupants in the building, 19 males and 18 females.

We next visited the Children's Aid Society Shelter and feel sure this work is being carried on efficiently and economically by the Superintendent in charge, Mrs. Reid. It was learned from conversation with Mrs. Reid that a large quantity of vegetables was raised on ground adjacent to Shelter which could only be obtained through hard, industrious work, supervised by Mrs. Reid, and assisted by the youngsters as far as they were able. Those of the children old enough to attend school are sent to the Queen Alexandria School while on Sunday they attend Grace Sunday School, which is beside the Public day School. Altogether the impression was obtained by the Grand Jury that Mrs. Reid was a careful, efficient Superintendent, and the Society are to be congratulated on having her on their staff of officers.

The County House of Refuge at Lakefield was next visited, and generally speaking everything was found in good order. This was the first visit of many of the Grand Jurors to County House of Refuge, and they were delighted with the location of the building, and the care bestowed on the inmates. Some minor things require attention, as follows: The plaster is off the walls in some places and needs replacing. The water pipe running through the building requires cleaning and brightening up with paint or enamel. Doors need a coat of paint. The range in the kitchen appears to be worn out or burnt out, and we recommend the purchase of a new one.

We congratulate the County on the splendid renovated Court House which has arisen from the destructive fire of 1916. The various committees in charge of the work have carried out their duties efficiently with the result the County has a renovated, modern building, which will be quite up-to-date for the next quarter of a century, and large enough to do the work for which it was intended.

We congratulate the County and City on the small number of cases set to appear before your Honor which speaks well for the County, showing the people to be law-abiding good citizens. The main auditorium in the building appears to be well suited and properly furnished for the work done, and we believe the audience will have no difficulty in hearing in the most remote parts of the room. The draping of flags is most appropriate and a proper setting for your Lordship, upholding the dignity of His Majesty King George and Justice of the British Empire.

In your address to the Grand Jury you spoke of the glorious termination of the war, participated in by all branches of the service, the Infantry, Cavalry, Artillery, and last, but not least, the glorious Navy. We thank you for your splendid address and assure you we precirocate your thoughts, being deeply impressed by the sacrifices made to achieve a triumphant end. The war has cost much money, which can be replaced by industry and thrift, but lives which have been lost can never be replaced and sad to say those gone were among the brightest and best of the nation's manhood.

We trust the assembling together of the nations of the earth to draft peace terms will be successful in forming a league of nations which will result in the abolition of war for thousands of years, and the future of the nations and their people will be bright, happy and prosperous.

We desire to extend to your Worship at this time the season's greetings, and wish every good gift may be showered on your family and yourself.

Signed on behalf of the Grand Jury,
J. J. Turner,
Foreman.

The Jury was as follows
J. A. Buck, Asphodel; M. T. Crowley, Otonabee; W. H. Crough, Enniomore; R. W. Casson, Otonabee; Geo. A. Elliott, Asphodel; John A. Lambert, Galway, Patrick Leahy, 511 Sherbrooke street; Jos. L. Picard, 479 Park street; W. G. Read, 561 King street; C. J. Seawright, Norwood; Joseph Hunter; S. Thorne and J. J. Turner, Foreman.

Mobs Run Riot in Montreal

slip, while it is said the city is crowded with pickpockets.

The clothing store of Mendel Molick, opposite No. 13 fire station, was wrecked and its whole stock carried away. A few hours after the west front of the Laurier moving picture palace was likewise wrecked. The windows of a passing tram car were broken, the car itself was damaged and the wreckage blocked the traffic from nine o'clock until midnight. The disturbance was such that word was telephoned to Mayor Martin, who in turn telephoned to Capt. Carle, head of the Policemen's Union, and this officer, in order to demonstrate that the policemen and firemen had no sympathy with the raiders, called upon of the men and together they made a descent upon Malick's store, which was then overrun by about one hundred people. The ex-policemen first scattered the crowd by firing cartridges from their revolvers and then they arrested thirteen individuals, who were sent to the police headquarters and there locked up.

Confined to Barracks.

Mr. Malick estimates his loss at thirty-five thousand dollars. It became known that men belonging to local military forces were confined to barracks yesterday. There is no doubt that in case of a big conflagration or undue disturbances troops will be ready if called upon. A fire at the stables of the Montreal Light, Heat & Power Co. this morning was put out by soldiers, with the assistance of civilians. In the Notre Dame De Grace Ward citizens took full charge of policing and fire arrangements. The Montreal Trades and Labour Council has offered to act as mediator between the strikers and the city administration. The unions affected considered this offer at a meeting held this morning.

It was intimated this afternoon that the strike of policemen and firemen would spread to the tramways employees. The damage, estimated as $400,000, has been done by rioters and thieves. The Fire Department is now fairly fell staffed, many returned soldiers manning the machines.

CONSTABLES AT POLLING BOOTHS UNNECESSARY

In Times past constables have been appointed to attend polling booths on Municipal Election Day, although the by-law does not call for such procedure.

With a view to stopping small drains on the treasury, and the councillars thought constables are unnecessary, Ald. Baker at last night's Council Meeting, moved that no appointments be made this year, which action was approved.

"THE SUGAR BOWL" WAS CLOSED UP BY SEIZURE FOR $55 RENT

Evidence in County Court Case Yesterday Suggests Possible Truth in the Expression That the "Law is a D'ass," Sometimes at Least.

RENT CLAIMED ON CLOSED STORE

How the legal process of seizure may operate bluntly, blindly and fatally upon its victims was indicated in the County Court action yesterday, in which Ernest W. Middleton claimed $442 damages from Andrew Fairbairn and Charles Beatty for alleged wrongful seizure and trespass. Mr. Middleton launched an ice cream and candy venture last summer under the registered name of "The Sugar Bowl" in the premises at 458 and 460 George Street, which he leased for three years from Mr. Fairbairn. When, in September, his rent had fallen in arrears, the landlord instructed the bailiff, Mr. Beatty, to seize goods in the store that would yield $55. According to the lease, Mr. Middleton had to pay his rent in advance, but he fell behind in August, and on September 1st he owed $55.

In the progress of the hearing, Mr. James G. Guise-Bagley, solicitor for Middleton, sought to show that by the seizure the plaintiff had been unnecessarily deprived of his entire business by the defendants having locked up the store, and thereby having turned him out.

Cross-examining Mr. Beatty, Mr. Bagley asked—Didn't you tell Middleton that you had come to close him up?

Mr. Beatty—No.

Didn't you ask for the keys?

I did. He said he couldn't pay that day, and I told him I wouldn't make a seizure if he gave me the keys.

What was your object in getting the keys?

I'd be in possession of the goods under seizure.

What was the use of giving you the keys?

He couldn't sell the goods. Mr. Middleton said he might as well quit. He went away, and I didn't get the keys, so I seized.

Mr. Bagley—On September 11th you seized for the rent up to the end of September, you took the rent for the balance of the month, and also took possession so that he couldn't use the store?

Mr. Beatty—How could I protect the goods if I hadn't?

Why couldn't you have seized enough goods for the $55 and your expenses and set them aside in a part of the store so that he could have used the premises?

Mr. Beatty replied that he thought Middleton had closed up. "I called there several times in the previous week, but the place was locked."

In regard to this point, Mr. and Mrs. Middleton and their fifteen-year-old son Jack had previously testified that "The Sugar Bowl" had never been closed for an entire day. Sometimes it was not opened, they averred, until noon, but it was always open in the afternoon and evening.

Mr. Bagley—Why didn't you remove the goods you seized to some safe place?

Mr. Beatty replied that he might have done so, in the light of after facts.

You knew that a tenant was entitled to possession, yet you took possession of the goods and property?

I took possession of the place.

Middleton says you told him you had come to close him up?

I said I came to collect the rent.

And you did close him up?

Yes, sir.

Another Rent Comes Round.

Mr. Beatty explained that he locked the store because a soda fountain that was under seizure was still there.

Judge Huycke—Why didn't you take it away?

Mr. Bagley—You locked the store from September 11th until October 4th, and then said another month's rent was due.

The evidence, pieced together, showed that a gramophone in the store belonged to Mrs. Middleton. After she had asked for it, Mr. Beatty consulted with Mr. A. E. Dixon, Mr. Fairbairn's solicitor. On October 3rd a warrant was made out for a second seizure. In the meantime, Mr. Middleton had taken the gramophone home. He had entered the store by removing the screws from a clasp on the rear door.

Mr. Bagley—Did you ask for the rent before making the second seizure?

Mr. Beatty—No.

Didn't you know you should ask?

There was nobody there.

Because you had him locked out.

Mr. Beatty and Detective Newhall went to Middleton's home and, under a threat of arrest, it was stated, got the machine.

Mr. Bagley—That was a good bluff, and it worked, didn't it? Didn't you know you would have been liable for false arrest?

Mr. Bagley—Then Mr. Fairbairn told Middleton he would not arrest him if he gave up the keys?

I don't know whether he said it or not.

At all events the keys were given up?

Mr. Middleton got two keys from Mr. Redner.

And there was nothing more said about prosecution?

Mr. Beatty—No.

Other evidence elicited the fact that Mr. Middleton had met Mr. Fairbairn after the gramophone incident, and expressed his regret for the trouble. He then went across George Street to Redner's, the locksmith, and got several keys that replaced those he had lost.

First Time a Defendant.

Mr. Fairbairn was next called by Mr. E. D. Kerr, who was assisting Mr. A. E. Dixon for the defence. "I was born in Smith 75 years ago," the witness said, "and this is my first time in court as a defendant."

Part of the store was leased to Middleton on Jan. 15th, and on May 4th he took over the larger section. He used part of the premises as a dwelling.

"It hadn't been occupied as a dwelling for twenty-five years, and was unfit for habitation."

Mr. Fairbairn said he had let the August rent lapse at the request of Mr. Middleton. Then in September he went to Mr. A. E. Dixon, after failing to locate either Mr. or Mrs. Middleton, and reported the circumstances.

"At the store I couldn't see any stock. It compared very unfavourably with what it appeared when first opened."

In what respect?

In its untidiness and uncleanliness.

Defendant said he turned the matter over to Mr. Beatty, the bailiff.

Did you know of the second seizure?—No.

When did you first learn?—Two or three days after it took place, when I came into town and the bailiff told me.

Gave Him a Chance.

Referring to the first seizure, Mr. Bagley asked—"Didn't you tell Mrs. Middleton that you had told the bailiff not to close up the store on Saturday, but to wait until Monday. What was your purpose?

Mr. Fairbairn—To give Mr. Middleton another chance to pay the rent.

And then, if he failed, to close him up?

Yes.

And he did close him up. You got the rent to the end of September?

Yes.

Mr. Bagley—By taking it and then taking possession of the premises?

The bailiff did.

You knew he was going to?

I did not.

You told Beatty not to close Middleton up on Saturday?

Yes.

On September 26th you wanted the keys to fix up the place? Although there were still four days remaining. When you found that Middleton had removed goods you thought were under seizure you took an active part in getting after him?

Mr. Fairbairn—No.

You went to Chief Thompson?

Yes.

What for?

To get advice as to how to get the keys of the store.

Didn't you want to get the gramophone?

No, I didn't want it.

You knew there was talk of arresting Middleton for taking the gramophone?

No.

Mr. Fairbairn said he didn't know it was seized until he came into the city when Mr. Beatty told him. "I didn't want the gramophone; I just wanted the keys."

Mr. Bagley—You gave instructions to Mr. Dixon to protect your interests?

Yes.

Mr. Fairbairn said that he might have told Middleton, after the second seizure, that Middleton had left himself liable by taking the gramophone from the store.

Asked as to whether he accepted responsibility for Mr. Beatty's actions, Mr. Fairbairn replied that he had taken the responsibility for the first seizure, and he hadn't objected to the second.

Replying to another question, he said, "I treated Mr. Middleton like a gentleman from beginning to end. We parted as friends."

About a week later, Mr. Fairbairn was served with a writ. That was the first whiff of the brewing trouble.

$82 From the Sale.

The goods that were seized first realized $82.98 at public auction. This sum provided for the $55 rent, and the rest went for expenses of seizing and selling. Mr. W. J. Hancock, the auctioneer, said that the sale had been quite successful. His fee was ten per cent. Mr. James Middleton collected the money at the sale, and was paid $2 for his services, and Mr. Beatty acted as clerk. All three were called by the defence.

"There was enough of you" was Judge Huycke's comment.

Mr. Chas. H. Coleman said he had been called to 'The Sugar Bowl' to appraise certain goods. The manufactured articles, gum, candies, etc., were worth from $15 to $20, and the raw materials from $40 to $50. He considered that Mr. Hancock had sold the articles at sums close to their value. Mr. Coleman had bid on some of the utensils at the sale, but the offers went higher than he felt they were worth.

Mr. Bagley pointed out that Mr. Coleman's minimum estimates of the manufactured and unmanufactured goods totalled $55, the amount of the rent bill.

A Counter Claim for $59.

Mr. Fairbairn presented an itemized counter claim for $59, which he said he had made up after receiving the writ. He had spent $350 in repairing the old building for its metamorphosis to "The Sugar Bowl." The plumbing alone had cost $168. He had spent $23 for linoleum, which he said was now beyond use. For the damage to the linoleum and new wallpaper he asked $20. The other items of disrepair were all enumerated.

Mr Fairbairn declared that he and Mr Middleton had parted as friends. He admitted that he didn't think of the counter claim until he got the writ for $400.

"I would never have thought of it," he confided, revealing the generous spirit in which he had parted business spirit in which he had parted business relations with the plaintiff.

Crazy Plans of the Kaiser

The Millions In Money and Art Treasures to be Enacted From Entente.

Little by little we are finding out just what magnificent plans were flitting through the war-crazed brain of the self-intoxicated Kaiser when he launched his great campaign for the subjugation of Europe, the Christian Guardian observes. It is known that he aimed at crippling France permanently, and now Mr. Morgenthau, who was United States ambassador at Constantinople tells us that Baron von Wangenheim, the German Ambassador to the Sublime Porte, assured him that it has already been settled in the German councils that France, defeated was to pay German an indemnity of $20,000,000,000 and to surrender all her art treasures, and Great Britain and Russia were to pay in like proportion. And the fact that already no less than $500,000,000,000 has been wrung from Belgium's devoted cities shows us what mercy might have been expected if the Kaiser had had his way. Belgium youd have made a German state, and Holland would have been little better, while Britain would have been free only so long as her navy could guard her shores. And of the British navy had once been beaten, the United States would have had to fight for its very existence, and an indemnity of $100,000,000,000 would have been none too heavy for a victorious Kaiser to levy upon this continent.

Such was the wicked dream of a man who feared not God and regarded not man. Thank God the hell-begotten dream is shattered and "Der Tag" of the Kaiser has come, a day of judgment and of justice. One thing is sure. The Allies will never plot to ruin German yas she did to ruin France; but when the terms of peace are being settled we cannot afford to forget just what it was that Germany meant to do, and she must be rendered forever incapable of repeating her world wrecking performance. That she has repented anything of her plans, or would not yet carry them through to the last item if she were able, we have no evidence whatever.

But Germany's punishment has already begun. One of the terms of the armistice was that Germany should immediately return to Belgium and Russia the gold which she had stolen from them. It is not known at present just how much these stealings amounted to, but Belgium's State bank gold reserves were about $200,000,000 and Russia's reserves were about $600,000,000. The probability is that Germany took about $300,000,000 from these two countries, and out of her scanty reserves of about $800,000,000 she will have to repay Belgium and Russia. This is hard, but it is just.

Influenza Epidemic in St. Catharines

Will Permit Theatres and Billiard Room to Remain Open.

Special to The Examiner:

ST. CATHARINES, Dec. 13. — The Board of Health last night met again to discuss the influenza situation. Ministers, theatre managers and billiard room proprietors were present to request that the town be not closed up again and the Board heeded their request. It was decided, however, that only a sufficient number to fill the seats shall be allowed in all theatres, churches, schools, street cars, etc.

Voice of The People

Peterborough, Dec. 12, 1918.

To the Editor of Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I would like to call the attention of the Mayor and City Fathers to the condition of our sidewalks and ask them to consider the safety of our citizens and consider if a little sand would not improve the sidewalks and perhaps avoid a number of claims for accidents.

Yours truly,
A TRAVELLER.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Sir,—The world war has ceased, consequently our soldiers are arriving, and will continue to arrive, in Canada for many months to come. Something must be done for those heroes who defeated the Kaiser and his hordes and saved the world from the heal of German militarism and autocracy. These heroes have got to be looked after. Those who are so fortunate as to be able to work must be found employment.

Canada is to-day face to face with serious problems—problems that demand immediate action. The members of Parliament to whom this work is entrusted must get busy and see that these heroes are looked after as they deserve to be looked after. What is needed is "less talk and more action."

Serious responsibility rests on the members of Parliament at Ottawa. Their minds should be concentrated on Canada and, above all, on the interests of Canada's soldiers. Let us not forget them; they done their part and done it well; let us do our part and do it well. "Less talk and more action" seems apropos. If you for space, Mr. Editor. — Yours, etc., should be Canada's slogan. Thank
J. Rice.

COD IS CHEAPEST FOOD.

Why is it that such countries as Spain, Greece, Brazil and the United States are so anxious to buy our exports of Cod Fish? It is because they know and appreciate this valuable fish. Just think of the enormous production of Cod right at our front doors, as one writer puts it, which so far as Canadians are concerned is sadly neglected. Of course we do use a portion of our catch, but the bulk of it is exported. The Canadian people ought to wake up and take advantage of this prolific source of food supply.

This is Codfish Week, and every housekeeper is urged to cook a meal of Cod Fish so that everyone may have a chance to taste Canada's National Fish. Codfish for its food value is the cheapest flesh food at the present time.

MR. ELKIN ADDED TO THE DIRECTORATE OF THE UNION BANK

It has been the policy of the Union Bank to have representative men on the Board of Directors who shall truly represent the different provinces in which the bank does business.

In carrying out this policy it is announced that Mr. Stanley Lward Elkin, of St. John, N.B., has been added to the directorate. Mr. Elkin is one of the outstanding figures in the business life of the Maritime Provinces. He is President of the Maritime Company, Limited, President of Motor Car and Equipment Company, Limited, and connected with many other enterprises in New Brunswick.

He is also a member of Parliament from St. John in the Union Government.

Mr. Elkin represents the extreme East, just as the appointment of Mr. W. H. Malkin, of British Columbia represents the extreme West on the Board of the Union Bank, and enables this growing institution to give a still more thorough service to its clients through its branches which now total more than 100 in the East and 200 in the West.

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

Work of the Children's Aid Society Discussed by Mr. Kelso Superintendent for Ontario

Local Society Celebrates 25th Anniversary—Report of the First Meeting Held in Peterboro 25 Years Ago.

THE SPEAKERS

On the occasion of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the Children's Aid Society in Peterboro, Mr. J. J. Kelso, of Toronto, who has been the General Superintendent for Ontario of the Society since its inception, last evening in the Public Library, gave a retrospective address and predicted great future for the Society.

Mr. E. A. Peck, president of the local society, presided. On the platform were active members of the executive, Mrs. J. Knox, Mrs. R. Gibbs, Mrs. Birdsall, Miss Read, the matron of the Children's Aid Shelter, Rev. C. J. Phelan, Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., His Worship Mayor George Duncan, Mr. G. W. Powell, Local Agent, and the principal speaker of the evening, Mr. J. J. Kelso.

A Resume.

A brief history of the local Society was given by Mr. E. A. Peck.

In 1892, the Ontario Legislature passed the Children's Protection Act under which the Children's Aid Society of Ontario was formed. Almost immediately after a society was started in Peterboro. Its object is to prevent cruelty, and properly feed, clothe and bring up neglected or ill-treated children. The local society is managed by an executive elected yearly, an Agent, who is also assistant secretary, and the Matron of the Shelter. The funds necessary are voted by the City and County Councils and the public in general.

Mr. J. H. Burnham, M. P., told how the Society was formed. A Baptist clergyman was the inceptor of such a society, and Mr. Burnham (this was in the early nineties) wrote to this clergyman and asked affiliation with the Society. Shortly after this the Children's Protection Act was passed by the government. Magistrate D. W. Dumble made many good suggestions and did everything to assist. Rev. Father Rudkins, predecessor to Father Phelan, was also a prime mover in the work. There was a good deal of criticism at first but the members went resolutely forward. The secretaries of the Society have in their time been delegated almost unlimited power. Since the inception of the society only four secretaries have held office—Mr. J. H. Burnham, now a Member of Parliament; Mr. R. B. Dennistoun, now a member of the Appelate Division of the Superior Court of Manitoba, and at present overseas, as Deputy Judge Advocate General of the Canadian F rces; Mr. J. E. L. Goodwill, a leading lawyer of the city, and at present Mr. Joseph Wearing. For 25 years every secretary has been a lawyer.

Rev. Father Phalen.

Rev Father C. J. Phalen, the vice-president of the Society, spoke briefly.

"During the years that we have worked together it has been our aim to help the child, and especially the poor, and make them a credit to the community."

"There is no finer work on earth than helping children," said Mr. Kelso in his opening remarks. "I am very optimistic of the future."

Mr. Kelso said that after a limited education he went into newspaper work. He had seen boys sell newspapers until midnight, then return home to some garret and turn their meagre earnings over to drink-besotten parents. Mr. Kelso made a big agitation for reform, and finally won the attention of the powers-that-be at the Queen's Park, with the result that the Children's Protection Act was passed in 1892. Since that time he had seen children of convicts graduate from ladies' colleges, and boys who were nameless, friendless, and homeless, graduate in the Applied Sciences ,Medicine and other courses—all through the efforts of the Children's Aid Society.

Municipal Ownership.

Mr. Kelso advocated municipal ownership of amusements for children, skating rinks, playgrounds, and other outdoor activities.

Mayor Duncan said that in former years three rinks had been provided by the city council for the children but this year five rinks will be provided. His Worship moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Kelso for his instructive and very enlightening address.

Mr. Geo. W. Powell, the local Agent, seconded it, and it was unanimously endorsed by those present

In the front seats at the meeting were some of the wards of the Society, who listened attentively to the various addresses, and who took a great deal of interest in the lantern slides which were thrown on the wall showing the squalor and immoral surroundings from which children have been rescued by the Children's Aid Society.

The Inaugural Meeting.

The following report from the Examiner of November 3, 1893, was read by Mr. J. J. Kelso, Superintendent of the Children's Aid Society of Ontario, at the 25th anniversary meeting held in the Public Library Hall, last evening. It deals with the first meeting of the society, in which the officers were elected.

(From Peterboro Examiner, Nov. 3rd, 1893.)

A public meeting was held in the office of Sheriff Hall on the afternoon of November 2nd, 1893, to organize under the Children's Protection Act of Ontario.

Mr. Burnham, secretary of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, which is practically merged into the new society, occupied the chair, and explained that he had communicated with Mr. Kelso in reference to a case of cruelty to a child in Otonabee township, which was almost literally starved by its uncle with whom it lived. The neighbors made an application to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, but there were difficulties in the way of taking action. For this and other reasons the Society felt that its position would be very much strengthened and its capacity for usefulness very much enlarged if it were backed by the government, which would be the case if it were merged into a Children's Aid Society and placed under government patronage and protection. This explained the presence of Mr. Kelso, the superintendent.

Mr. Kelso said that he came more as a friend of helpless, ill-treated and dependent children than as a government official. He was anxious to aid the Society in its efforts on behalf of the class of children mentioned. The object of the government was to remove all obstacles in the way of effectively looking after children, who could not protect themselves, and who were in no way to blame for the position or condition in which they found themselves. The responsibility for the care of neglected and otherwise unfortunate children rested largely upon the Christian community in which they were to be found. The government had furnished the means in the shape of legislation by which the matter could be systematically and authoritively attended to.

There were children in every town who, owing to the immorality and improvidence of parents, were on the road to ruin, the boys promising candidates for crime and the girls on the way to lives of shame. In many of these cases evil surroundings and examples and bad training were more responsible than inherent tedencies to evil on the part of children. The Christian community had the responsibility and under the law passed and the regulations provided, the government assisted it in discharging this responsibility.

Under the Children's Protection Act the parents' legal custody of the child ceased with his failure to properly discharge the duty of a parent towards a child. The law permitted of the appointment of a local officer with the powers of a constable and provide for a proper place of shelter where children coming into the custody of the local Children's Aid Society may be temporarily cared for till they are placed,—till suitable family homes can be provided. These Shelters must be available for the reception of children at any time of the day or night as circumstances may require. The city or town in which the Society exists must provide this shelter as soon as the Society comes under government organization, which is equivalent in legal force to the incorporation of a company.

The law also provides for the establishment of a children's court, and to make the matter easy the term, "Judge" is very liberally construed—meaning a County Judge, a retired judge, a police judge, or two justices of the peace. In this court cases involving charges of improper treatment of children are heard, and if the fact is established that a child is being neglected or so trained as to be likely to become a criminal, the right of the parents in such child is declared to be null and void, and the child is placed in the charge of the Children's Aid Society. This Mr. Kelso remarked, might be called severe legislation, but a child as a member of the community and a candidate for the rights and the responsibilities of citizenship, has a right to such training as will fit it for the duties of such a position. Such children, after coming into the custody of the Children's Aid Society, and after being placed in the temporary Shelters as long as circumstances may require, are to be placed in family homes.

The law provides for the consideration of the religious faith of the children. No Catholic child can be placed in a Protestant family, and no Protestant child in a Roman Catholic family. Thus provision was made for the actiev co-operation of both classes of citizens mentioned. Then there is a central office at which complaints can be made.

The speaker concluded by pointing out that our first duty lay toward the children of Canada. There are new seven Old Country institutions sending children to this country, and these were provided with homes without much difficulty, and therefore the system of placing neglected Canadian children should work well, and our energies could be directed to saving children from becoming criminals in the community, and saving them from the cruelty of parental neglect and abuse. The law was very comprehensive, more so than any other of a similar character.

The Society Organized.

Rev J. C. Davidson said that in his pastoral work, the need of such a Society had been impressed upon him, and he moved ,seconded by Mr. Dumble, that a Children's Aid Society be organized for the County of Peterboro.

The motion carried and the following officers were elected:

President—Sheriff Hall.
Vice-President—W. Dunlop.
2nd Vice-Pres.—Mrs. Roger.
Secretary—J. H. Burnham.
Asst. Secretary—J. W. Bennet.
Agents of the Society—
Chief of Police Roszel.
County Constable Cochrane.
Solicitor, E. B. Edwards, K.C.

A comittee of the following ladies and gentlemen were appointed:

Ladies — Mrs. T. Kelley, Mrs. Vernon, Mrs. J. Burnham, Mrs. O'Sullivan, Mrs. J. Kendrey, Mrs. Walsh, Mrs. R. W. Bell, Miss Chamberlain, Miss Nicholls.

Gentlemen—Dr. Brennan, T. Cahill, Edg. Pearse, E. Phalen, Rev. J. C. Davidson, Rev. H. Symonds, Rev. E. Torrance, Rev. Father Scollard and T. A. S. Hay.

It was decided to notify these ladies and gentlemen of their appointment. There will be a meeting of the Society in the Mechanics Institute.

Steam Plant Used This Week

Frazile Ice Tied Up the Waterwheels in Early Part of the Week.

The wisdom of the Waterworks Commission is shown when they purchased an auxiliary steam pumping unit instead of an electric apparatus or a gasoline engine. A Toronto paper reports that Stratford's electrical pumping unit has proved a dismal failure. The test made by the inspector resulted in a failure, due to the falling down of the electric fire pump motor. When the test was being made the motor refused to work, and the entire burden was thrown on the auxiliary gasoline engines, which proved unequal to the task.

Peterborough decided, three years ago, to put in a steam pumping unit, although they were urged to install the electrical apparatus. Only this week it was necessary to operate the steam plant, when the presence of fragile ice in the water rendered the waterwheels incapable of operation.

GERMAN FOREIGN MINISTER RESIGNS.

Canadian Press:

BERLIN, Dec. 13.—The resignation of Dr. S. Solf, Minister of Foreign Affairs, has been accepted by the Ebert Government.

Leonard Leahy Returning Home

Commanding Officer's Tribute to Peterboro County Soldier.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Leahy, of Indian River, have received the following letter concerning their son, Leonard Leahy:

7th Recruit Squadron,
Fort Wayne, Michigan,
December 3rd, 1918.

To Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Leahy,
Indian River, Canada.

My dear Mr. Leahy,—In a few days your soldier will receive his honourable discharge, and start for home.

He is bringing back many fine qualities of body and mind which he has acquired or developed on the military service. The army has done everything it could do to make him a strong, fine, self-reliant, yet self-controlled. It returns him to you a better man.

You have been an important member of that great army of encouragement and enthusiasm, which helped to make him and us all better soldiers. You can now be a great help to keep alive the good qualities he is bringing back from the army, in making him as good a citizen as he has been a good soldier.

His fare and necessary expenses to his home will be paid by the Government. He will receive all pay due him. He may, if he wishes, wear his uniform for three months from the date of his discharge. The Government will also allow him to keep up, for the benefit of his family, his insurance at the low rate he is now paying.

His return to civil life will bring new problems for you both to solve. The qualities he brings back will help you now, as your encouragement helped him while he was away, and in your hands and his, rests the future of our country.

As his Commanding Officer, I am proud of him. He has done his duty well. I, and his comrades, will bid him good-bye with deep regret, and wish him every success after he returns home—that spot in every man's heart no other place can fill. — Sincerely yours,

H. S. Cutler,
1st Lt. A.S.S.C.

BRITAIN'S GLORIOUS PART IN GREAT WORLD CONFLICT

were in the days before the war. As the conflict developed, however, it began to be apparent that after all the sacrifices and suffering of the war, there must be something better than things as they existed in pre-war times. It was necessary to plan for the building up of a fairer and better Canada, and in this connection Dr. Cody emphatically declared that education would be found to be the key to the problem of the future. There was no better investment that Canada could make than to provide the best possible education for her young people. The speaker expressed his firm confidence in Canada's ability to handle the problems of reconstruction. After the difficulties that Canada had overcome during the war, nothing ought to stagger the country now.

The Canadians' Share.

Dr. Cody then passed on to describe in eloquent language the part taken by the Canadian Army Corps the British army and the British navy in the war. His references to the Canadian corps thrilled the heart of every hearer. "The Canadian corps is superb," declared the speaker with a conviction that was unmistakable and the audience applauded as he told of the confidence which the men had in General Currie and of the admiration which the Canadian commanding officer had for his men. The never-to-be-forgotten stand of the Canadians in the second battle of Ypres, when by all the rules of war they should have been beaten, their stick-to-it defence of the bloody salient, and their gallantry in the battle of the Somme were vividly described by Dr. Cody who passed on to tell of the capture of Vimy Ridge and of the effect the holding of that bastion during the dark days of last spring had on the operations of the year. The speaker told of his visit to the scene of this famous Canadian victory and of his wonder that any troops could take such a formidable position. The glorious feats performed by the Canadians in the battle of Amiens and Arras, in the smashing of the Dro-court-Quean switch, the crossing of the Canal du Nord, the taking of Cambrai, Douai, Denain, Valenciennes, and finally Mons, were all touched upon. The capture of Mons, the famous town where the old contemptibles of the British army first came into contact with the enemy, was described by Dr. Cody as one of the most dramatic episodes of the war.

What Briain Has Done

From the exploits of the Canadian Army Corps at the front Dr. Cory went on to pay an eloquent tribute to the manner in which Great Britain had borne the enormous burden of the war. German propaganda he said had tried to spread impressioon especially in the United States that the United Kingdom had sacrificed the troops from the overseas dominions to save her own. In ringing words the speaker showed the utter fallacy of such statements. If the whole forces of the Empire the United Kingdom had raised seventy-five per cent. and if the native troops of India were excluded and only the white soldiers taken into consideration the United Kingdom's quota represented 85 per cent. of the total and 86 per cent. of the casualties. The overseas Dominions share of the casualties was 14 per cent.

The speaker passed on to describe a visit to the British grand fleet and nothing in his address was finer than the word picture he drew of the wonderful fleet which had played such a remarkable part in the winning of the war.

So vividly did Dr. Cody describe the appearance of Beatty's armada that his audience could almost visualize the spectacle for themselves. As he looked at the fleet Dr. Cody said that his thoughts went back to the other occasions in history when British Sea power had saved the world from the schemes of tyrants. The spirit of those days still lived in the British fleet of to-day.

In an eloquent peroration in which he quoted part of Lieut. Col. McCrae's poem, "In Flander's Field," Dr. Cody urged his hearers to measure up to the challenge of Canada's fighting men to be worthy of the sacrifices the Canadians had made at the front.

Col. Walker expressed the thanks of the Canadian Club to the speaker for his inspiring address.

In the Afternoon.

Yesterday afternoon Dr. Cody, in company with Mayor Duncan, Col. Duncan Walker, R. Denne, G. O. Cameron, Rev. C. J. Phelan, Mr. Mendell Green, Dr. F. C. Neal, Mr. A. A. Fowler and Mr. Vincent Eastwood, chairman of the Board of Education, visited various educational institutions in the city, including St. Mary's Convent, St, Peter's Continuation School, Central School, Collegiate Institute and the Normal School.

In a brief address to the pupils of the Collegiate Institute, Dr. Cody compared the Canadian Corps in France to the great corps of peace in Canada.

"The leaders of the Dominion must come from your ranks," said the Minister, in his opening remarks. "You boys will have to work much harder to make up for those boys who have fallen in battle. We are living in very great days; days of expectations as well as difficulty. It fell to my lot to visit the troops in France, and went up and down the lines from the Ypres salient, through the fine British armies and down the French line to Rheims. Of all the forces the Canadians as shock forces and in fact every respect have the greatest reputation.

At Cambrai.

"I was at Cambrai when the three Canadian divisions in the front line and one in support defeated twelve crack German divisions. The Canadians are the best fighters on the whole Western front, and this is the German tribute to Canadian fighting capacity.

Here are the striking characteristics of the Canadian corps. Are they not characteristics of real national life:

(1) The men trusted their leaders.
(2) Team play—co-ordination of all arms of the service.
(3) Mastery of technique—perfection to the highest degree in all branches of the service.
(4) Iron discipline, to which the Canadians have voluntarily submitted.

These characteristics, which, if applied to your educational life and indeed all of your life, spell success.

(1) Trust your teachers and employers.
(2) Work together for the good of all.
(3) Be perfected in all branches of study and do not despise diligence at school.
(4) Discipline, which is one of the greatest elements of success in school, is the esprit de corps.

MUNICIPAL POLITICS AROUND HAVELOCK

The municipal pot in Havelock and Belmont has not even commenced to simmer, according to information secured by the Havelock Standard. The electors of both municipalities are apparently satisfied with the present officials and unless developments occur between now and nomination day, Dec. 30th, it is altogether probable that they will go back by acclamation.

Pension Should Not Prejudice Wages

OTTAWA, Dec. 13.—Reports from certain parts of the Dominion indicate that in some cases when returned soldiers drawing pensions from the Government apply for employment, it is suggested that because of their pensions they can afford to take less remuneration than others. This is unfair to those men, and is causing some ill-feeling, for those to whom the suggestion is being discriminated against.

Returned men, says an official memorandum issued to-day, naturally demand the right to be treated on the same ground as others. When they went away to war they were generally assured that, in the matter of employment, they would be well looked after when they returned. It was never suggested that, because of their pension, they should work for less than others. It is hoped that employers of labor may bear this in mind, when dealing with applicants and readily co-operate to help these men back into their former habits of life. The returned soldier is the last person who should be subjected to hair-splitting.

THE WORLD OF SPORT

The C.G.E. Night Was a Big Success

About Two Hundred Men Were Present.

Last night the Y.M.C.A. Building was opened to all C.G.E. employees, and they crowded its bowling alleys, billiard-rooms, reading-rooms, gymnasium and shower baths from 7.30 o'clock until nearly midnight.

Mr. Stansfield directed the competition in the bowling alleys and Mr. English conducted tournaments in pool and billiards. At the same time Roy Cherrett and Mr. A. B. Gates crowded the gymnasium with baseball, basketball and volley ball enthusiasts.

In the main lobby checkers and chess tournaments were quietly played.

At 10.30 o'clock coffee and cake were served in the reading-room.

The exciting event of the evening was the basketball game between the C.G.E. business men's gymnasium class and the Y. M. C. A. seniors. Walter Jackson starred on the C.G.E. team as a result of an attempt to introduce a mixture of Rugby football, basketball and horseshoes.

About 200 men attended, and everybody enjoyed the evening.

LINDSAY HAS TWO TEAMS

Will be Represented in Junior and Intermediate O.H.A. Series.

Lindsay will be represented in the O.H.A. with two hockey teams this season. At a gathering of enthusiasts and players held at Lindsay it was almost unanimously decided to place a team in the intermediate series, under the same management as the junior team.

Among those present at the meeting were the following: F. A. Martin, R. Butler, M. J. Dedman, Ford Moynes, L. R. Richman, C. Carew, W. McMahon, R. Dennis, R. McElroy, W. Garnet, R. Rogers, N. Wettlaufer, A. Gamble, P. Houzer and others.

Players were anxious to get started, and to get into a district comprising Peterborough and Port Hope.
